HEARST AVERS F.D.R. CAN LOSE

"Genuine Jeffersonian Democrat" Declared Need of Party By Publisher

New York, Oct. 1.—In an article copyrighted by Paul Mallon and the North American Newspaper Alliance, William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, declares "I think that Mr. Roosevelt can be defeated . . . and I am confident that Govenor Landon, of Kansas, could be elected on the Republican ticket."

Hearst's statement in part follows:

"How can he be defeated?

"It is not difficult.

"He can be defeated either by a Republican with a convincing record of actual achievement or by a genuine Jeffersonian Democrat, known to and trusted by the people . . .

Hoover Not Favored

"I do not think the people are going to vote for Mr. Hoover, for instance, who made as many promises as Mr. Roosevelt, and broke them as completely, as carelessly and as cavalierly . . .

"I am confident that Governor Landon of Kansas, could be elected on the Republican ticket in spite of the four billion eight hundred million dollar Democratic campaign rund, and in spite of Mr. Farley's plans to Tammanyize the nation.

"Another way to beat Mr. Roosevelt and to oust his socialist satellites would be to nominate a notable regular Democrat on a constitutional Democratic ticket. . .

"Could a third party win in this coming campaign?

"Nominate Franklin D. Roosevelt on a socialist platform, Herbert Hoover on a meddle-in-foreign affairs Republican platform; nominate a genuine Jeffersonian Democrat of ability and notability on a third ticket, and the third party would be sure to win.

"Smith could do the trick; Ritchie could do it; Ely, Talmadge, Tydings could do it. But will they?

No, I guess we will have to depend on the Republican party to rescue the country from experimental socialism and restore it to sound and stable Americanism."

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Thorsby Institute News

The first meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society was held last Saturday night. As this October commemorates the 408th anniversary of the translation of the Bible into English, it was fitting that members of the Bible classes taught by Miss Klingelhoefer, should take part in the program which had the Bible for its theme—centering especially around the Aposte Paul. Aside from a talk by Dora Holt on the missionary journeys of Paul, a dramatic reading "Paul Before Festus" was given by the following students: U. L. Mims, Thomas Hayes, Gladys Martin, Lance Franklin, Norwood Johnson, as characters; Mary Maud Knight as reader. This was followed by a piece entitled "The Writing of an Epistle." The closing feature of the evening was a short play, "The Test." The following students took part: Frederick Dunlap, Inez Jackson, Bernard Adams, Bernice Robinson, Edward Roy. The banner for attendance went to the Pushmataha Club.

A week from Saturday night, at 7:30 in Thorsby Institute Auditorium, those who enjoy music will have an opportunity to hear Miss Katheryn Foss, music teacher at Thorsby Institute, who will give her graduating recital in voice. This recital was given at Piedmont College last spring. Miss Foss will be accompanied by Miss Jane Roberts of Clanton. No admission will be charged.

On the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of October the first term examinations will take place.

On November second the second open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society will be held. Every one is invited.

November twenty-third will be the date for the annual stunt night at Thorsby Institute. This is always one of the best programs of the year. It is hoped that many will be interested in attending.

Predicts Modified Capitalism

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — Economic developments in the United States in the next decade will include "a continuation of the capitalistic or private profits system with many modifications," was the opinion expressed here by W. M. Kiplinger, business writer of Washington, D. C., in an address before the Graduate School of Banking, conducted jointly by the American Institute of Banking Section of the American Bankers Association and Rutgers University as an advanced course of study for bank officers.

"Capitalism, communism, or fascism?" Mr. Kiplinger said. "I think we may look for a continuation of the capitalistic or private profits system, with many modifications. The modifications relate mainly to government control, government supervision, government direction of the broad policies of private industry. Profits are bound to be limited in one way or another by governmental action. Not eliminated, but limited, partly by more and more government regulation, partly by heavy taxation."

For over a half century the college of agriculture, the agricultural experiment stations and the United States Department of Agriculture have been blazing the trail for agricultural advancement and improvement. Notwithstanding these efforts, the damage from soil erosion has very largely, if not entirely, off-set the benefits from this research. The time is ripe for additional effort, declares a farm authority.

Game and Fish News

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 9.—Reports having reached the state conservation department of some confusion among hunters as a result of new legislation reducing the cost of the fur-catcher's license, Commissioner I. T. Quinn said today that no change has been made in the cost of hunting licenses for the coming year.

"Any person who hunts outside of the county in which he maintains his permanent residence must procure a state hunting license and pay therefor a fee of $3," said the commissioner, "and any person who hunts within the county in which he maintains his permanent residence may hunt in said county by procuring a county license and paying therefor a fee of $1.00.

"All persons who take or catch fur-bearing animals for the purpose of selling the furs, skins or pelts therefrom must first procure a fur-catcher's license for which a fee of $2.50 is required. This license replaces the old $15 trapper's license. In addition to the fur-catcher's license, every fur sold or offered for sale or shipped within or without the state must bear a tag which may be procured at the office of the judge of probate."

Hunting licenses went on sale in this state October 1.

INCREASE IN DIRECT TAX COLLECTIONS

An increase of well over two million dollars in direct tax collections by the State Tax Commission for the fiscal year which ended September 30, 1935, showed the effect of the effect of the more vigorous tax enforcement policy of the Graves regime. When he was a candidate for a second term, Governor Graves told audiences all over Alabama that he would employ enough men in the Tax Department to secure a full and impartial enforcement of the State's revenue laws. Since he took office, the State Tax Commission, under the leadership of Henry S. Long, who is serving his second term as Chairman, has been getting results and bringing in more money by rounding up the tax dodgers. The field force of the Tax Commission has been strengthened and its work is rounding up escapes is a big factor in the boost in revenue.

Total tax collections for the fiscal year 1934-1936 were $15,598,840.03, as compared with $13,231,423.06 for the year 1933-1934, an increase of $2,367,416.97. The fiscal year 1934-1935 which ended September 30, 1935, embraced the last three and one-half months of the Miller regime and the first eight and one-half months of the Graves administration, while 1933-1934 was the last complete year of Governor Miller's term. The increase achieved by the Graves forces came largely through the more thorough enforcement of the existing revenue laws, as the general revenue act of 1935 did not take effect until October 1st. The above figures do not, of course, include ad valorem and privilege license taxes, and automobile tags, which are collected by the Tax Collectors and Probate Judges of the various counties and not direct by the State Tax Commission.

The biggset single item of increase was in gasoline tax, which advanced from $8,859,517.88 in 1933-1934 to $9,994,793.16 in 1934-35, an increase of $1,135,277.28. Several other classes of taxes showed a greater per cent of increase, however. For example, income tax collections more than doubled—from $373,169, to $867,548. Another notable item of increase, due to more effective enforcement was in the store license tax, which brought in $86,259 in 1933-1934 and $104,802 in 1934-1935. The tobacco tax showed a substantial gain, amounting to more than $400,000 from $1,636,109 in 1933-1934, to $2,049,054 in 1934-1935. One of the most significant features of the alties levied on violators of the tobacco tax penalties, which amounted to $4,499 in 1933-1934, and $37,692 in 1934-1935, an increase of close to 900 per cent. This big advance in penalties levied on violators of the Tobacco tax law has gone far to break up the bootlegging of cigarettes and helped bring about the heavy increase in tobacco tax collections.

Plain Cotton Talk for Cotton Farmers

BY ONE OF THEIR LARGEST CUSTOMERS

To an engineer, a tire is a machine for leveling out the bumps and unevenness of roads and highways. To a farmer, though, a tire is largely the product of the soil. Cotton and rubber, two principal materials of which tires are made, are grown by Nature.

Firestone buys the finest quality cotton and in the Firestone Factories, the most efficient in the world, they produce the highest quality tires at the lowest prices, so that you may use these tires to operate your farm more profitably. To the fine quality Southern-grown cotton, Firestone adds an extra process that makes the cotton cords stronger, more flexible, and gives tires greater blowout protection and longer life.

This process is Gum-Dipping and is patented. In this process the cotton cords are soaked in liquid rubber. Eight extra pounds of rubber are absorbed by every hundred pounds of cotton cord. This extra rubber binds the tiny fibres together, gives the cords a tacky base to insure more perfect union of cords to rubber, prevents friction and heat by giving each fibre a protective heat-resisting rubber jacket.

All of this adds extra cost to making a tire, but not to you. In fact, it makes your tires cost you less "per mile."

MAKE THESE TESTS YOURSELF

Rubber will not stick to ordinary Cords, regardless of pressure applied.

Note how bundle of ordinary cords fray out when rubbed in palm of hand.

Rubber sticks to the tacky base of Cords that are Gum-Dipped.

Gum-Dipped cords operate as a unit eliminating friction and heat.

You can get a better tire for your needs at no higher price when you buy a Firestone Tire with the Firestone name and guarantee!

The devil told Eve in the garden of Eden to be her own god. You don't need anybody to tell you what to do. Live your own life. That is the substance of what he said when he was tempting the first woman. Adam and Eve decided to be free, but instead of finding freedom, they found slavery and they enslaved the race. The godless, superficial, worldly crowd who imagine they are free are the biggest slaves on earth. They are slaves to appetite and passion. They wear the devil's chains. The freest people on earth are Christian people. Every real Christian lives as he pleases to serve God.

As everyone connected with an educational institution knows, during the first few days of school there are a few students who go back home. You can not gather several hundred young people from all sections of the United States and from across the seas in an educational institution and have all of them strong enough to face life away from home. As I am dictating this article I see a young man leaving. He is the second student who has left. One student left because he said he could not give up cigarettes and we do not allow our students to use tobacco in any form. The one who is now leaving came to my office for a conference. He asked for my advice. I gave it to him, but he did not want advice—he wanted me to endorse his decision to go home. .I tell young people everywhere "Get your advice from people who know". If I wish to learn about "'possum hunting", I would not go to Broadway, New York and ask someone who had never been out of the city to give me advice. I would find some good old country man who had a cur dog and had been "'possum hunting". If you wish to know how to preach, ask some man who has preached to great crowds—not musty, cold, dead seminary preacher, who has never preached to a large audience in his life. If you wish Christian advice, do not ask some worldly, godless person. Find some man or woman, deeply spiritual and orthodox and sensible, and ask for advice. You young people who have life's road mation from some Christian man or ahead of you better get some inforwoman who has travelled the road. The writer has made many mistakes, but he always did have enough sense in every crisis to get advice from someone who knew what to tell him. If I had not sought advice from the proper party a few times in my life, my life would have been wrecked for time and possibly for eternity.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Oct. 9.—The question "Resolved: .That each state shall apply addequate medical service to all of its people at public expense" has been adopted by the National Debating League for high school debates this year, it was announced by Dr. W. C. Blasingame of the Extension Division of the University of Alabama, in charge of the high school debates in Alabama.

Debates for the state championship will be held at the University of Alabama the first week in March, he added. As before, there will be two divisions, one of high schools in cities of more than 5,000 population, and the other of rural high schools in other towns.

The need for a woman member on the board of trustees of a progressive coeducational university was pointed out by Mrs. J. D. Grigsby, international president of Delta Delta Delta fraternity for women, visiting at the University of Alabama.

"Many matters regarding women students should rightfully be treated from the woman's point of view, which a woman understands best," Mrs. Grigsby said. She mentioned such matters as administration of girl's dormitories, sororities, and others.

Dr. John H. Musser of the Tulane School of Medicine spoke here in commemoration of the eighty-first birthday anniversary of Dr. W. C. Gorgas. Dr. Musser pointed out the efforts of Sir William Osler in securing for General Gorgas his opportunity to work in Panama.

About three hundred and fifty pledges to fraternities on the campus were announced this week. Many of the fraternities have pledged additional men not yet announced.

Richard Mansfield Jones, Tuscaloosa, was elected President of the freshman Y. M. C. A. cabinet. Vice-president and secretary-treasurer were Jimmy Webb, Hangerstown, Md., and Charles O'Neil, Butte, Mont. The entire freshman cabinet was announced.

The Crimson Tide will meet another formidable foe in Mississippi State this week end on the campus. Coach Thomas is still worrynig about several of the injured regulars.

Thirty-seven new members were initiated into Blackfriars, dramatic organization at the University of Alabama.

At the first woman's convocation last week, Elizabeth Jolley, Downs, introduced the presidnets of the women's extra-curricular organizations at the University of Alabama.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK HELPS THE FORESTRY

Mnotgomery. — That National Fire Prevention Week, from October 6 to October 12, is designed to aid in reducing the number of forest fires as well as structure fires is pointed out by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. Uncontrolled fires often destroy values of more than one kind. While originally sponsored by agencies concerned with structural insurance matters, Fire Prevention Week, by the very nature of the sentiment and action that it is designed to arouse, may be observed with reference to all values that can be injured by burning.

Fire Prevention Week, as proclaimed by the President, falls at a particularly appropriate time for Alabama. October, on the average, is the driest month of the year in this state. Surface vegetation begins to wither during this month and affords a ready medium for the spread of fire over the fields and through the woods. There are also likely to be brisk winds during October which add very materially to the fire hazard. Alertness on the part of landowners, their tenants and employees is the chief insurance against severe losses during this time of the year.

TWO ALABAMA STUDENTS ARE PLEDGED TO COLLEGE CLUBS

Blue Mountain, Miss Oct. 7.—Miss Martha Elizabeth Browning of Bridgeport, Ala., and Miss Dorothy Waite of Clanton, Ala., were pledged to the social clubs of Blue Mountain College last week. Miss Browning and Miss Waite were taken into the Modenians. Like Vassar, Smith Bryn Mawr, Mt. Holyoke and Wellesly Colleges, Blue Mountain never has had sororities. Instead, the Modenians, Eunomians, and Euzelians, mutually exclusive groups, are the mediums of extra-curricular expression at Blue Mountain.

Miss Browning is a junior at Blue Mountain College and is working toward her Bachelor of Arts Degree. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Browning, and graduated from the Central High School in Chattanooga, Tennessee, and attended the University of Chattanooga for two years. Miss Waite, a member of the freshman class, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Waite, and graduated from the Chilton County High school in Clanton in 1935.

Alabama Power Co. Aids Schools

Power Company Pays Over $300,000 Into School Fund of Alabama

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 11.—Thomas W. Martin, President, Alabama Power Company, today delivered to H. S. Long, President, State Tax Commission, check of Alabama Power Company for $330,514.65, to cover the hydro-electric kilowat hour taxes assessed for the special educational trust fund of the State, these taxes being approximately $40,000 more than in 1934. Upon delivery of this check, President Martin stated that the company was very glad indeed to know that these taxes would be used for education, especially at this time when the schools are in need of all available funds for current expenses.

The entire amount of this check will be devoted to educational purposes. From previous years, distributions of the Education Trust Fund, it appears that from this payment of the Power Company today, counties will receive for elementary and high schools, $200,000, and State institutions, $130,000. Among the larger beneficiaries appear: Alabama College at Montevallo, $16,000; Alabama Polytechnic Institute, $38,000; University of Alabama, $30; the seven Teachers' Colleges, $23; Jefferson County, $14,000; Mobile County, $4,200; Walker County, $7,600; Cullman County, $7,200; Marshall County, $6,000; Lauderdale County, $5,000; Crenshaw County, $5,700.

Mr. Martin further stated that the Company's total taxes for 1935 would approximate $2,250,000, the largest amount in its history and that the company continued to be the State's largest taxpayer.

BOOKS NEEDED AT CCC CAMP

Textbooks in various subjects are needed at the CCC camp. Especially needed are texts in English, spelling, arithmetic and citizenship. Texts in almost any subject can be used.

Since the school texts for the state have been changed, the books used last year by the children no longer have any commercial value. Since this is the case, the camp authorities wish to ask the people of Clanton to give these books for the use of the CCC classes.

Books may be brought to the school by the children and turned over to the principals, and the company truck will be sent to pick up the books. Or if anyone with books to give will call 132, the company truck will be sent direct to the house to get the books.

All who give books for this purpose may be assured of the very great appreciation of the CCC boys, practically none of whom are able to buy books for the courses that they wish to study.

GROCERY STORES OF CITY ADOPT STRICT WORK HOURS

The grocery stores and markets of Clanton have entered an agreement regarding a uniform opening and closing time during week days and Saturdays. It appears that this is a worthy move and merits the strict observance of all the stores of this kind in the city.

Below we publish the agreement and the signatures which have been attached to it:

"Clanton, Ala., Oct. 15, 1935.

"We, the undersigned managers and owners of meat markets and grocery stores in the City of Clanton, Alabama, do hereby agree to open our stores for business each week day at 6:30 a.m., and close our stores each week day, except Saturdays, at 6:30, p.m. On Saturdays we agree to open at 6:30 a.m., and close at 9:00 p.m. This agreement to be strictly adhered to and to begin on October 21st, 1935.

MOTHER SEES SON SLAY HIS BROTHER

Maplesville, Ala., Oct. 13.—Mrs. Laura Moates looked on today while her son, Claude, 44, shot his brother John Wesley Moates, 35, to death at the front door of her home, she told Coroner J. Mell Martin, of Chilton County.

Coroner Martin quoted Mrs. Moates as saying that she was seated on the porch of the home she shares with her son, Claude, when her son approached with a man named Lum Roseberry.

John and Claude began quarreling over an old family disagreement, their mother told the coroner. Presently John was said to have pulled back his coat and said to Claude, "Go ahead and shoot me." Thereupon Claude shot him once with a .22 rifle, Coroner Martin said the mother told him.

Then, Mr. Moates was quoted as saying, Roseberry shot at Claude Moates with a shotgun but missed. The latter who had reloaded the rifle, Mrs. Moates told the coroner, shot Roseberry through the right arm.

Claud Moates came to Maplesville and surrendered to Deputy Charles Smith and swore out a warrant for Roseberry, who was arrested.

Baptist Convent'n For Constitution

Montgomery Baptist Body Is On Record Against New Deal

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 12.—Baptists of the Montgomery Association, at the closing session of their annual meeting Friday at Prattville, adopted a resolution challenging the right of anybody, high or low, to change or set aside the U. S. Constitution, except as it may be interpreted by the Supreme Court, or amended and modified by the sovereign will of the people themselves.

In the resolution the churchmen said: "We believe it to be obligatory on the President and all other officers according to their sacred oath, to observe and support the Constitution, and to exert themselves to the utmost to see that others do the same."

The Baptists looked "with apprehension on the enormous and ever-increasing public debt of the country, and the failure of the administration to balance the budget." The resolution also condemned the proposed Federal child labor amendment which the Legislature of Alabama spurned at its summer session. While standing uncompromisingly for the proper protection and conservation of child life, through laws regulating the age and hours of child labor, the Baptists, on the other hand, said they "deplore and will resist every socialistic tendency which either seeks or makes possible the taking of children from under the direction, supervision and control of their homes and parents, such as is couched in the proposed child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution.

The Bapists pointed out that "our forefathers fought and won the revolutionary war for the right of self-government and the right to hold and administer private property, and against the laying of taxes on the people contrary to their own will."

BANNER 1 YEAR $1

For a limited time The Union-Banner will be sold one whole year for $1. This exceptional offer will not last long; and when it closes, the paper will go back to the regular price. If you want the paper for one dollar, better take advantage of it now. We will appreciate your business.

THE UNION-BANNER.

Yea Brother!

A CHALLENGE—PUT UP OR SHUT UP!

The Union-Banner will name a representative to accompany a like representative of The Chilton County News, these two to canvass the farmers of CHILTON COUNTY (not Bullock County), going to their homes, one by one, big farmers and little ones alike, asking them these two simple questions:

(1) Are you satisfied with the present system of cotton control, including allotments, and all things pertaining to your own personal farming problem? ..(2) Are you in favor of a continuance of the present cotton program?

No explanations, no discussions, but these two plain, easily understood questions, with the answer to be "yes" or "no". When the county canvass is finished, if more farmers favor the cotton plan than are against it, The Union-Banner will then believe that the farmers, themselves, are in favor of the cotton program, and will help The News in pulling for its continuance, with no politics entering the question.

On the other hand, if results prove that the majority of farmers are against the cotton program, The News will promise to help us in our fight against the AAA and the cotton program.

That's a fair proposition, open and above-board. Let's not try to cite Bullock County. Let's see the truth about CHILTON COUNTY—That's the one we are interested in. Let's turn the light on this question, once and for all, and find out who is right, and then all pull together to get the farmers that which they want.

WE CHALLENGE THE CHILTON COUNTY NEWS —PUT UP OR SHUT UP!

YEA, BROTHER — WE SHALL!

(By The Man in the Moon)

Last week The Chilton County News carried a front page editorial, which we suppose purported to be a scathing denouncement of The Union-Banner. The title of this harrangue was: "Shall We Destroy The AAA?" ..To which we answer: "Yea, Brother—We Shall".

We will take this editorial and read right down it from head to foot. To begin with, The News says The Union-Banner believes that if there had never been any AAA program, cotton would be selling for 15 cents a pound, and farmers could raise all they please. We agree! We firmly believe this, and offer the following well-known fact for evidence: On the very day that the Bankhead Act went into force, cotton was selling in Clanton for nearly 14 cents a pound and going up every day, but on that very day on which the price was pegged at 12 cents the price began to slip back until it reached the 12-cent level and STAYED THERE, until the recent new peg of 10 cents, when it slipped again to the 10-cent level and THERE IT REMAINS TODAY. If you don't believe it, try to sell a bale, please.

The News says that if we have some plan in mind by which this high price could be brought about, we are unpatriotic not to give the farmers the benefit of the idea. All right, Mr. News Editor, we DO have a plan, and here it is:

In the past, in the wheat and corn belt of the mid-west, statistics have always been kept by which could be known the "normal" crop of each and every individual farmer. Besides this, there is kept an all-time price level, the average all-time price of these commodities. If, for some reason, the crop was short, each farmer received a subsidy from the government to make up for that shortage; if the current price was below the all-time average, a like subsidy was granted to pull the price up to this level. Why not use this plan with cotton? Here it is:

Give every farmer a "normal crop rating" on cotton—this amount to be the average amount raised before the AAA tampering—if a farmer raised a few pounds above or under his normal crop, no one would be hurt much. Likewise let the all-time cotton price level of 10 cents remain—men acquainted with the cotton business tell us that 10 cents is the all-time average price of cotton. Then if a farmer raised a bale of cotton more than his normal crop, no one would be hurt. If he raised a bale less than his normal crop, and the prevailing price should be, say, 8 cents, then let the government subsidize that man for another 2 cents a pound on that bale, thus providing a normal crop and a normal price for EVERY FARMER, not just a favored few who happened to be on the inside of the racket. And the present system is a racket—nothing more nor less. With some farmers still making as much cotton as they ever did, and being allowed to sell it tax-free, while others have their quota cut all out of proportion—there is something queer about this, to say the least.

And as for the slur about sharing information with Mr. Hoover, we would like for The News editor to tell us what good it would have done, with a bone-head Democratic congress up there blocking every move that Mr. Hoover made. He tried plenty plans to stall off the depression, as The News editor very well knows, but there was no getting them by the Democratic congress.

The News editor says "The Union-Banner would have its readers 'BELIEVE' strong opposition is developing against the AAA". We would be glad to believe The News editor is innocent enough to believe that no one is against it, but we cannot believe that. In walking on the streets of Clanton, one hears condemnation for the set-up on every hand, this coming from the farmers, themselves. And that is here in Chilton County, too, and not in Bullock County.

The News editor names as another objector "certain New England manufacturers who object to payment of the processing tax". Why wouldn't they object? Through the processing tax they see their market slipping away from them. Without a market they cannot sell their goods, and unless they can sell their goods, they would have no use for our Southern cotton. Another thing, the present cotton plan is encouraging to foreign cotton raisers, and thus the Southern cotton farmer is FOREVER losing his foreign market, his mainstay in the commercial world.

Third, The News editor names W. C. Irby as an objector. We know nothing of Mr. Irby's reasons for being against the AAA, and The News editor knows very well that The Union-Banner and Mr. Irby hold nothing in common. His ideas are far too radical for The Union-Banner. Why is it that The News cannot come out in the open?

The News charges The Union-Banner with driving the wedge of discontent, offering no help to the farmer, but condemning the plan that has brought thousands of dollars to Chilton County. In answer to that—The Union-Banner needs not to

CHERRY BLOOMS

Mr. Horsley White comes out with another freak of the seasons. He has a cherry tree in his yard with blooms and little cherries. The tree has already made one crop his year.

Maybe this freak cherry business has something to do with the fact that Mr. White is the distributor for Chero, the new Nehi Drink. But he has them —that is an evident fact.

JOE GORE ATTACKED AND BEATEN SUNDAY NIGHT

Joe Gore, who lives out a mile from town on Lay Dam Road, was attacked and severely beaten last Sunday night, on Second Avenue, between the courthouse and the cemetery.

It appears that a pistol was used to frail Mr. Gore. He sustained several ugly bruises on the head and one arm was said to have been broken. It is reported that three men attacked him because Mr. Gore would not turn his truck over to them. Two were arrested and placed in jail; the other has not been apprehended yet.

Late reports say that Mr. Gore is in a very critical condition at his home. Fear is held for his condition, it is said.

Peoples Savings Bank's Holiday

Hundreds of Visitors Inspect Clanton's New Bank Building

Last Thursday was visiting day at the Peoples Savings Bank, in honor of the beautiful new building into which they have just moved.

Mr. Frank Callen, in speaking of the visiting day stated: "We had a wonderful time, and were indeed glad to have so many of our friends call around to go through our bank."

The place was all diked up with flowers and trimmings of all kinds, presenting a most beautiful appearance. In viewing the place as a whole one was impressed with the arrangement of furntiture, fixtures, etc. Everything is situated in the handiest place possible, and not a bit of the space is wasted. The lay-out is indeed along the lines of the best possibility of utilization of the floor space.

Mr. Callen estimated the number of visitors during the day and night at about two thousand. Six hundred drinks were given away. There were some tourists, two from Tennessee and two from Kentucky, who happened to be attracted by the appearance of the building as they stopped in Clanton. They visited the bank and were very favorably impressed with it. One of the visitors happened to be a lady who works in a bank in Kentucky. She was especially interested.

The Peoples Savings Bank justly has every right to feel proud of its new home. It is one of the greatest assets to our city and we are proud of it.

ACTIVITIES OF SHERIFF'S FORCE

A total of eighteen were turned over to the Sheriff to be held in jail from the Circuit Court's sentences last week.

Mrs. J. W. Hayes and Miss Margaret Floyd were called to Clayton Friday on account of the illness of their father, Dr. Floyd.

REGISTER DURING NOVEMBER-DECEMBER

The Board of Registrars of Chilton county will meet at different Places over the county during November and December for the purpose of registering young voters and those having recently moved into the county. They will be at the courthouse part of the time, when anyone in the county can register, who is subject, otherwise registering will have to be done at the time the Board is in a voter's particular Beat.

Republicans of Chilton county, let us look after the registering of our young voters. There will be important elections in the not far distant future, and we want to be prepared. The complete schedule of rounds is published elsewhere in The Union-Banner. Look it up and have those about you who are subject to register attend to this important matter at the proper time.

NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1936

Ford V-8 cars for 1936 were shown for the first time Tuesday to Ford dealers at group meetings in the 34 Ford branch cities in the United States and seven in Canada. The new cars will be publicly shown for the first time next Saturday by dealers.

Body lines which strike a new note in conservative streamlining, a new treatment of the interior and three important refinements in chassis engineering summarize the principal improvements. There are no radical changes. The 85-horse-power V-8 engine, of which more than 2,000,000 are now in operation, is unaltered.

Of the three principal chassis improvements, one—improved steering—is aimed at greater ease and safety of operation. Two others tend to greater comfort. One is the use of new steel wheels which lessen the unsprung weight and thus provide greater riding comfort. The other is an improved transmission using quiet helical gears—formerly used only in second and high speeds—in all forward speeds and reverses.

A new front-end treatment gives added distinction to the body lines The hood is longer, extending gracefully over the attractive new radiator grille. With its vertical slots and more accentuated "Vee", as well as its smoothly rounded lower edge which blends with the streamlined curve of the inner portion of the fenders, the grille contributes a new note of smartness.

Fenders are streamlined, a wide inward flare giving them an imposing appearance. Louvres are of new design. Horns are now recessed in the fender aprons back of small round grilles beneath the streamlined headlamps.

The prophet stood in the gate of the temple in order that the multitudes might hear him. The occasion was the coming together of the people from all over the country to attend a feast. From this place of prominence Jeremiah called the people to obedience.

I. What God Requires (vv. 1-7).

1. Amend your ways (v. 3). This means that their course of living should be reformed by exchanging bad deeds for good ones. On the basis of this change God would permit them to remain in their city and country. Failure to comply with this demand would eventuate in their expulsion.

2. Personal experience (v. 4). The people regarded the temple as a charm against evil, irrespective of the condition of their hearts. Without a heart experience, the most sacred institution and ordinances are valueless. Trusting in religious forms while lacking a vital experience is the height of folly.

3. Social justice (v. 5). The proof of their having reformed was the execution of justice between man and his neighbor. The evidence of one's being in touch with God is his fair dealing with his fellow men.

4. Not to oppress the helpless (v. 6). The stranger would likely be ignorant of the laws of the land. The widows and orphans would usually be imposed upon. Protection and defense of the weak is a sure sign of godliness.

5. Not walk after other gods (v. 6). The worship of idols and conformity to heathen customs go hand in hand. True morality is determined by the individual's attitude toward God.

II. Some Solemn Warnings (vv. 8-15).

1. The teachings of false prophets (vv. 8-11). These false prophets taught the people that attention to ceremony and observance of religious form exempted them from strict attention to morals. Those who heeded the words of the lying prophets did not hesitate to steal, murder, commit adultery, swear falsely, and practice idolatry. They would even come into the Lord's house and claim freedom to practice such abominations. The sacred temple itself, filled with such worshippers, would be a den of robbers.

2. By the destruction of Shiloh (vv. 12-15). God caused his tabernacle to be set up in Shiloh, but in Eli's time he gave it into the hands of the Philistines because of the idolatry of the people (Ps. 78:56-60). The prophet declared that God would do even so with the temple, the city and the whole country. This he had already done with Israel and the northern kingdom.

III. The Hopeless Condition of the People (vv. 16-20).

Their propensity to do evil was so strong that all efforts at reclamation were futile.

1. Pray not for them (v. 16). There is such a thing as sinning unto death, in which case prayer is useless (v. 16; cf. I John 5:16).

2. Entire families devoted their energies to that which provoked God's anger (vv. 17-19). This was done by young and old, men and women. They did it with the definite purpose to provoke God's anger. The prophet assured them that the outcome of such conduct would be their utter confusion.

IV. Judgment Sure to Fall (v. 20).

Because the people poured out their offerings to idols, the furious anger and wrath of God would be poured out upon men, beasts, trees and the fruit of the ground. How this has been fulfilled the history of the Jews makes clear.

V. Obedience to God Better than Sacrifice (vv. 21-26).

The prophet appealed to history to show that God requires heart service rather than the observance of religious forms. Blessings came to Israel through obedience, while cursings followed disobedience. On condition of obedience to his requirements God promised to own them as his people and to bless them.

The Seventh Wave

The man who waits for some seventh wave to toss him on dry land, will find that the seventh wave is a long time coming. You can commit no greater folly than to sit by the road side until someone comes along and invites you to ride with him to wealth or influence.—J. B. Gough.

Conciliation

The essence of all fine breeding is in the gift of conciliation. A man who possesses every other title to our respect, except that of courtesy, is in danger of forfeiting them all. A rude manner renders its owner always liable to affront. He is never without dignity who avoids wounding the dignity of others.—Lytton.

Duty

He who in questions of right, virtue or duty sets himself above all ridicule is truly great.—La ater.

THE BIRMINGHAM POST CONTINUES RAPID GROWTH

The Birmingham Post continues in the establishment of a most enviable record among southern newspapers. The Post is a Scripps-Howard newspaper, established fourteen years ago, yet it now enjoys the second largest circulation in the State of Alabama, is steadily growing, and is known as "The most thouroughly read daily newspaper in the field.

Many newspapers, much older than The POST, envy this youngster's record which can be said to be due to ... the oustanding clarity of its presentation of the news . . . the quality and national prominence of its features, and last but far from least . . the vigor fearlessness and independence of its editorial policies.

Many of the thousands of Post readers are not always in unanimous agreement with the paper's editorial policy . . . but, all aplaud the independent thought, and action, that constitute the keystone of The Post's editorial policies.

There are no outside influences . . . The Post is financially independent. It has no axes to grind, no special interests to serve, today, or in the future. Its editorial independence is the foundation of The Post's remarkable success, and rapid growth.

With the addition, during the year, of many strong features, presented exclusively by The Post, and greatly expanded Woman's Section, it is now a greater newspaper than ever before.

Christian Endeavor News

The executive committee of the Christian Endeavor Society met Sunday afternoon for the purpose of appointing the various members who will serve on the different committees during the year. A complete list of all the officers and assistants of the society which were appointed are as follows:

AIR SURVEY OF FIRES MADE BY STATE FORESTER

Montgomery, Ala., — Investigating the reports of unnsual forest fire conditions in the mineral section of Alabama, Col. Page S. Bunker, State Forester, made an airplane survey Friday of the territory in that region. From the air every fire, large and small could be plainly seen, as could every acre of burned-over land.

Most reports sentered the fires in Cullman, Winston and Walker Counties. However, the air reconnaissance showed that Jefferson County had sustained the greatest amount of burning, followd in order by Shelby, western Blount, Cullman, Walker and Winston.

In general the damage was found to be considerably less than estimated in the prelimenary reports. Many fires and recent burnings were found widely scattered over the entire mineral section. These ranged in extent from a fraction of an acre to several hundred acres. Damage, in most cases, was confined to surface litter and rubbish, although in some instances, young reproduction and even trees were badly injured.

The worst fires were those which examinations showed were set in numerous places evidently by incendiaries. Others seemed to have escaped from clearing fires set by farmers. Additional fires were set by railroads and some apparently by road crews burning rubbish in ditches. The approximate proportionate area of forest land burned over in each of the localities referred to was Jefferson county 2½ percent, Shelby 2 percent, western Blount 1½ percent, Cullman and Walker about 1 percent. These figures are stated to refer only to the fires occurring within the past three weeks.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

THERE have been frosts quite generally in the northern half of the country and even below the Mason and Dixon Line. That means fewer fresh vegetables in market and higher prices. Cool weather usually improves appetites, so making a stronger demand for food products which creates higher prices. Cabbage, white and sweet potatoes, onions and green peppers are the least expensive vegetables available.

Apples are cheap and plentiful as well as at their best at this season. Grapes, grapefruit, pears, melons and oranges are fairly plentiful and moderate in price. Small sized oranges are an excellent value.

Meats, fish, eggs and butter are all high or higher.

Here are three dinner menus planned to fit the low, the moderate and the liberal budget.

Low Cost Dinner

Lamb Fricassee with Dumplings
Boiled Potatoes
Diced Buttered Turnips

ADMISSION 10c and 25c

UNCLE MIKE HANKS HOOKS UP WITH AAA

Honorable AAA
Washington, D. C.

I and my wife had some Bad News yesterday. My Uncle come in from his farm to spend a couple of weekends with us, and also the days that go in between.

He was as happy as a skylark, and he says, "Well, here I am, and I don't have anything to do till next spring, because I have finished Not Doing Nothing for the Government."

"How did harvest come along?" I asked him.

"It came along great," says my Uncle. I didn't thrast a big crop of wheat, my sows didn't forget they was a lady, my wife didn't pickle no preserves for the winter, and the Government owes me $1746 for not doing all these things."

I asked my Uncle what he had in his head til next spring, and he says, "I got a big Not Doing Program to make some Winter Money out of the AAA. I figure to make plenty of cash off of Not Playing Checkers this winter, Not fixing up None of the Harness, Not Speaking a kind word to my wife, and Not listening to Mr. Roosevelt on the Radio."

"How much money will that come to?" I says.

"That comes to $563.48," says my Uncle, "and they better pay me, or I won't stuff no ballot box for Roosevelt next year."

"What else are you doing besides Nothing for a liveing?" I says.

"Well," says my Uncle, "I have took up Song Writeing on the side, and I have wrote a Patriotic song for the U. S. Farmers."

I and Mabel says that we wanted to learn his new song, so he told us to hum the old tune to America. We unlimbered our jaws and begun to hum the tune, and my Uncle busted out with the new words that he had wrote for it, as follows:

AMERICA

My country, 'tis for me
Land of Lost Liberty:
"F. D. I sing.
Land where my pigs have died
Land where Professors tried
To take me for a New Deal ride,
Lest Freedom ring.

Yourn truly,
(Uncle) Mike Hanks.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Why do young people go off from my church to college and when they return they never come back to church?" a minister inquired of the writer recently. Such questions are being asked all over America. There is a reason. Much of modern education leads away from God and Christianity. The behavioristic philosophy which has permeated the educational world and sometimes is called "self expression", has robbed many young people of their religious impulses. The early school teachers in America, while some of them may not have been Christians, taught the philosophy of Jesus— which is a philosophy of self denial and self restraint. Modern educational leaders have accepted the philosophy of Satan which says in substance "Live your own life. You are the center. You need no big boss. Do as you please." That explains why young people often come home from college and do not go to church.

"My pastor never preaches the gospel. Must I support him financially?" a lady inquired one time. "Does he preach anything contrary to the gospel?" the writer asked. "Yes, he preaches against the blood of Christ, the virgin birth and every fundamental of the Christian faith," the woman answered. "If you pay a preacher to preach against the virgin birth of Christ and the atoning merits of His death and the other fundamentals of the Christian faith, then you had just as well do the same kind of preaching yourself", I told the woman. In the second Epistle of John we read where the inspired writer says in substance, "If a man comes around preaching false doctrines and you receive him into your home and bid him God speed, you are just as guilty as the false preacher". Christians have no right to sacrifice this Christian principle on the altar of a false church loyalty. It is cowardice to support something you do not believe in. Personally, the writer has long ago given up the plan of giving his money to any organization which is a party to any machinery which propagates a false gospel. An ecclesiastical machine which sends out a Unitarian and Trinitarian with the same authority has been repudiated by Almighty God.

ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM FOR SUGAR CANE SYRUP PRODUCERS

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration has developed an adjustment program for commercial sugar cane syrup producers.

A farmer who produced in 1934 200 gallons of sugar cane syrup or more for the market and has sold, or has on hand for sale, this amount may be able to participate in this program; provided he will harvest for syrup in 1935 no more acreage of sugar cane than he harvested in 1934. If he has more acreage in 1935 than in 1934, he may feed the excess cane to his livestock and still participate in the program.

Proof of sale—It will be necessary for each farmer who signs a contract to furnish a receipt of sales signed by the buyer as proof that he sold the syrup.

The payments will be as follows: 1934 payments—Ten cents for each gallon in excess of 100 gallons of syrup sold from the sugar cane crop grown in 1934 on the land covered by a contract, provided the sales exceed 200 gallons of sugar cane syrup. rup.

1935 payments—An amount, which, when added to the average sales price of sugar cane syrup, as asccertained by the seccretary, shall result in a parity price per gallon of syrup as determined by the Secretary for each gallon of syrup sold from the sugar cane crop grown in 1935 on the land covered by the contract, which number of gallons shall be determined as folows:

(a) If the number of gallons sold in 1935 equal 88 percent and does not exceed 100 percent of the number sold in 1934, he shall be paid on said 88 percent.

(b) If the number of gallons sold is less than 88 percent, he shall be paid on number sold.

This payment will be made as soon as practicable after proof satisfactory to the secretary of compliance with the terms and conditions of the contract has been submitted to the Secretary or his authorized agent.

Farmers who are interested in this program and can qualify under the above regulations should see the County Agent as soon as possible.

BANKERS URGE FARMERS PLANT WINTER LEGUMES

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers are being urged by the Agricultural Committee of the State Bankers Asociation to plant legumes for improving their soils.

"Our plea to the bankers at this time is to encourage the farmers to plant winter legumes," says H. J. Whitfield, chairman of the bankers committee on agriculture in a letter to all bankers of the state. "Loans for this purpose should bring good results. Your cooperation will be appreciated."

Miss Alice Brooks and Mr. Jack Hayes were among those from Clanton to attend the Alabama-Mississippi football game in Tuscaloosa Saturday.

CORN-HOG FARMERS WILL VOTE OCT. 26th

Auburn, Ala.—Do corn-hog farmers of the nation want the AAA corn-hog adjustment program to continue another year?

That question will be answered on October 26 when farmers of Alabama and other states go to the polls and vote. "It rests with farmers themselves whether or not there is enough interest in and demand for a corn-hog adjustment program to justify the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in offering such a program in 1936," state AAA officials.

Every corn and hog farmer in the state, whether or not he signed a 1934 or 1935 contract, will have a chance to vote on the corn-hog adjustment program.

CHILTON LOST TO WETUMPKA 7-0

The Chilton High Tigers lost a hard fought football battle to the Wetumpka Aggies on the local field last Friday afternoon, 7 to 0.

The battle was about even so far as team play was concerned, breaks playing a great part in the outcome. The Chilton team put on several sustained drives, but were unable to summon the final punch to put over a touchdown.

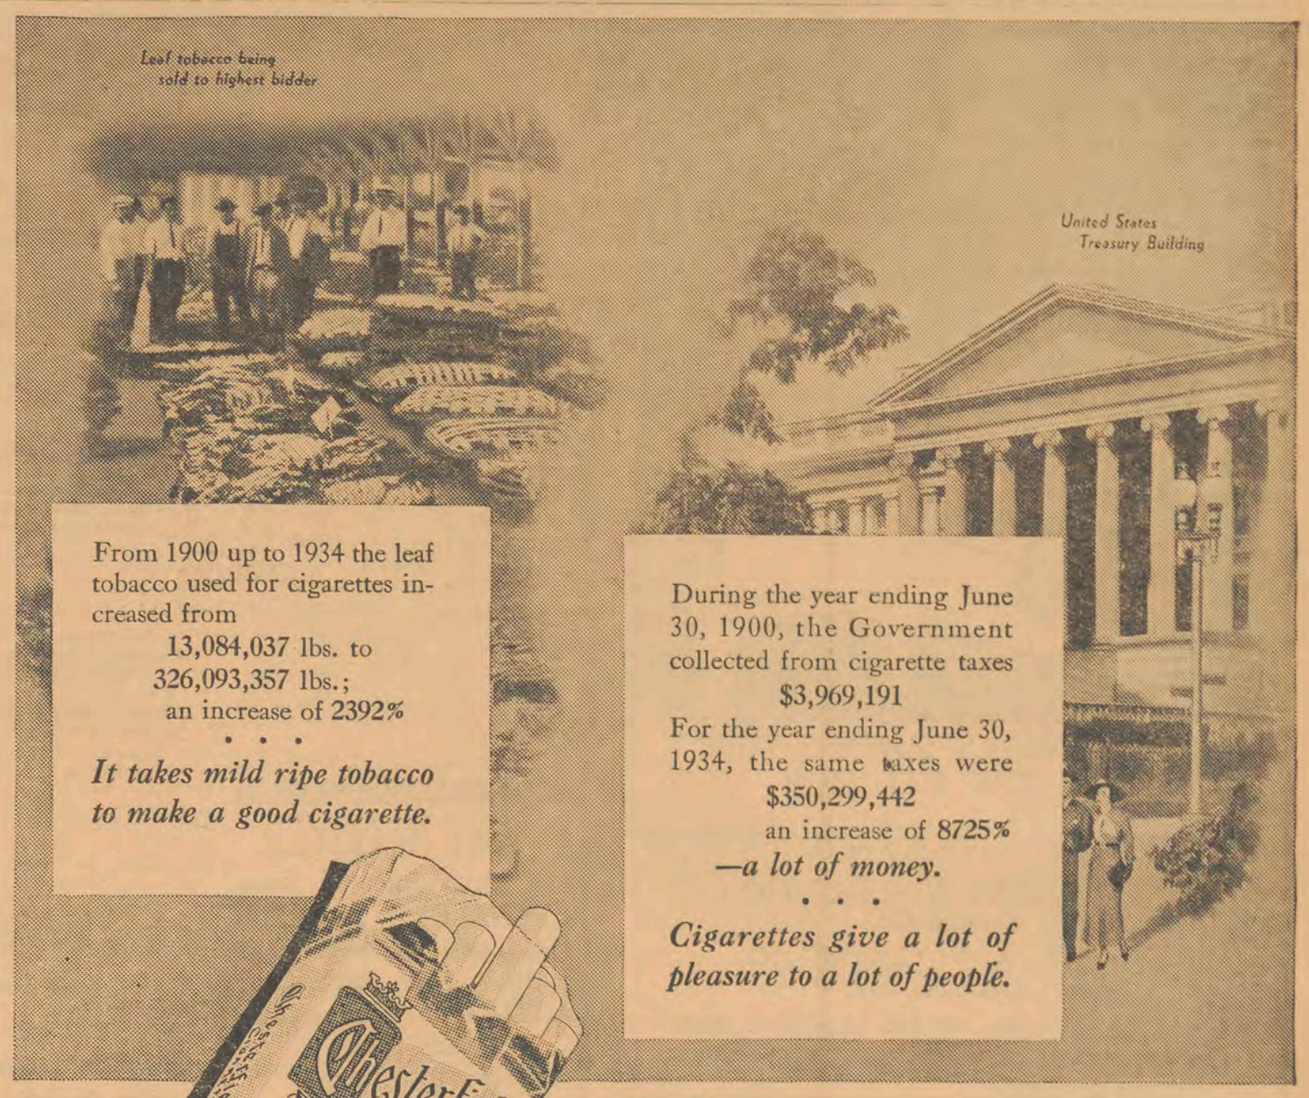
The first half was a nip and tuck affair, with neither team having much the better of it. Early in the third quarter, however, the Aggies blocked Williamson's punt deep in Chilton territory, and took the ball about the 20-yard line, from where a series of line plunges carried the oval over for a touchdown.

The Chilton team fought a great defensive game, staving off one touchdown on their 2-yard line, and another inside the 10-yard stripe. Ermon Johnson and Williamson stood out for Chilton on offense, while Robinson, Captain Hogan and the Reynolds boys showed up well on defense.

The turnout of spectators at this game was much lighter than usual. The Tigers go to Tallassee next Friday, and reports from the lair of the Tigers are that they are out to bring back the bacon.

CHICKEN SUPPER

There will be a chicken supper at Cedar Grove church, three miles south of Thorsby, next Saturday night, Oct. 19. Every body has an invitation to come and enjoy the good eats. Proceeds will go for the benefit of the church.



More cigarettes are smoked today because more people know about them—they are better advertised.

But the main reason for the increase is that they are made better—made of better tobaccos; then again the tobaccos are blended—a blend of Domestic and Turkish tobaccos.

Chesterfield is made of mild, ripe tobaccos. Everything that science knows about is used in making it a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

We believe you will enjoy them.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FERTILIZER MAKES LEGUMES BETTER NITROGEN FACTORIES

Legumes are natural nitrogen factories—but their production may be increased with the use of phosphorus and potash.

Many farmers grow legumes as green manure crops because they collect nitrogen from the air and put it into the soil. Applications of phosphorus and potash to legumes stimulate their growth, enabling them to produce more nitrogen than if they did not receive this fertilizer materials. These are not wasted, as they are available for the next crop, as corn or cotton, when the legumes are plowed under and decay.

By this method the farmer gains the use of three fertilizer materials for other crops although he applied only two.

Phosphorus and potash applied to legumes when grown as a green manure crop help to produce heavier yields of corn and other crops than if the same fertilizer is applied directly to the crops, tests of the United States Department of Agriculture show. In the South, fertilizer mixtures of 0-10-4 and 0-8-4 applied at the rate of 400 pounds an acre are generally satisfactory for increasing the growth of the Austrian winter pea and other legumes grown as a green manure crop preceding corn and cotton.

DON'T BLAME HEN IF EGG FLAVOR DOES NOT SUIT YOU

Good eggs, when properly cooked, please the taste. When their flavor is unpleasant—don't blame the hen.

The flavor of an egg depends largely upon what the laying hen is fed and care given eggs, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Poultrymen intent upon producing high-quality eggs prevent their flocks having access to strongly flavored vegetables such as turnips, onions, garlic, and leek. These feeds are likely to give eggs an unpleasant flavor and taste.

In retaining the good qualities of eggs and to keep them fresh, poultrymen store them shortly after they are laid, in a clean, cool place, free from undesirable odors.

MT. CARMEL CLOSED REVIVAL

Mt. Carmel Baptist church has just closed its first revival since it was organized in September. It is generally believed that it was the greatest revival that most of us have ever attended. Bro. M. Lockhart did the preaching, which was not only sound and well received, but inspiring and convincing.

With a charter membership of 19 members the church baptized 12 and received three by letter. We were also strongly supported by several good singers from neighboring churches. We fell that our community has been greatly blessed.—M. W. Mims, Pastor.

WOOD EXPERTS DRIVE HOME POINTS ABOUT USING NAILS

Valuable "tips" on the art of nailing woods together come from experts of the Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis., according to the United States Forest Service, which maintains the labratory in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin. Good nailing, they say, consists largely in selecting the right kind, size, and number of nails and then using them properly.

Some points in the technique of good nailing are: Strength of a naled joint depends on the fractional contact of the nail with the wood fibers. Nailed joints must resist two types of pressure. The first is direct, tending to withdraw the nails; the other lateral, or sidewise. A nail's resistance to the latter presure is greater, and depends upon the diameter of the nail and the kind of wood used. Tables have been made showing the exact increase of resistance to lateral pressure provied by nails of various diameters.

A nail is long enough if about two-thirds of it goes into the board receiving the point. Splitting can be avoided by using a thin, blunt nail, or by plunting the end of a sharp nail and by boring a lead hole into the wood. The strength of nailed woods increases directly with the number of nails used. Good joints cannot be made with green woods that later dry out. Nails are more efficient when driven into the side grain of dry wood, than when driven into the end grain.

Tests show that the resistance of nails to withdrawal depends approximately on the area of contact with the wood. Resistance against withdrawal, pont out the wood experts, depends on the surface conditions of the nail. For temporary service, cement-coated nails give about 25 to 100 per cent more holding power, but this effectiveness falls off in time. More permanent is the grip of those nails which have a pitted or etched surface.

FARM BOYS OFFERED PRODUCTION LOANS

Auburn, Ala.—A new program for farm boys in 4-H clubs, FFA chapters and other organized agricultural student groups to finance crop and livestock projects of their own is announced by the Farm Credit Administration.

The plan makes it possible for organized groups of farm boys to grow crops or raise livestock under the direction of a vocational teacher, county agent, or other responsible leader.

ETOWAH FARM WOMEN MAKING MATTRESSES

Auburn, Ala.—Etowah county farm women have made 42 pairs of gloves since the glove-making demonstration were started in the county a few weeks ago, reports Mrs. Diana B. Williams, county home agent, to Miss Helen Johnston, state home demonstration agent.

BLOUNT FARM WOMEN MAKING MATTRESSES

Auburn, Ala.—Farm women of Blount county are going to have better beds to sleep upon "because they have learned to make their mattresser out of the material they have on hand," says Pauline Holland, home agent, in commenting upon the interest of the rural women are taking in mattress-making demonstrations.

L. B. ADAMS PAYS OUT WITH GOV'T BULLS

Mr. J. Dudley Collins, who has charge of the government's bull projects in this county, reports that one farmer under his supervision has made a fine record. This farmer is L. B. Adams, of near Providence in Beat 16.

On May 20, 1934 Mr. Adams engaged two steers from the government and made a crop that year. Again this year he did likewise, but got an earlier start. Both years Mr. Adams paid out, and this year has a quantity of syrup, peas, beans and potatoes left. Mr. Adams was the first one of the bull farmers to pay out, according to Mr. Collins.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

CHANGE IN VOCATIONAL BLDG. PLANS AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

A last minute change has been made in the specifications of plans for the Vocational building under construction at the Chilton County High School.

The original plans called for a frame building to cost $3,800.00, this amount to be paid out of State funds. However, an additional $500.00 has been made up, by which the plans can be changed to call for a brick veneer building, and this is the type building which will be built.

This extra $500.00 was subscribed by the Commissioners Court of Chilton County, the City of Clanton, the Pittman Tractor Co., and the Adams Road Grader Co. Construction of the building is going forward at a rapid pace, and it is hoped it will be ready for occupancy by November 1st.

Beware The Cough

From a common cold

That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

AN APPEAL TO MY FARMER FRIENDS AND OTHERS

Who is fooling me? or, are they?

The authorities who have the figures at hand tell us that the farmers of Chilton county and of the entire state of Alabama received nearly twice as much for their crop two years ago as the year before. Then they say that they received about twice that amount last year. In other words, nearly doubling every year for the last three years. Are they?

Now, I have collected very little the past three years, and so far, this year seems worse. Nine out of ten farmers who have mentioned paying me have claimed they could not pay because their "allowance" had been cut so short that when they paid for their rent, fertilizer and tax that they had little or nothing left to buy shoes and school books for their children. So it seems that I am the forgotten man again.

Now my accounts are honest, just and past due, and I tried hard to give the very best of service, wholeheartedly, and with little consideration for myself, and with patients' welfare above all. I need my money and if you can pay me I want you to come on now and do it, for I need it to meet my own obligations.

If your account is more than nine years old and you have done your best, here is a special offer: Come and let us agree on some plan of settlement. Although I have worked hard many times under adverse circumctances to earn this, if you can not pay the full amount, maybe I can scale it down and make you able to pay. At least come around and tell me who is fooling. Are you growing richer year by year and not paying your bills? Or what is the answer.—V. J. Gragg.

OBITUARIES — IN MEMORY

It becomes necessary for us again to call attention to the fact that we make a charge of one cent per word for all obituaries over 150 words published in The Union-Banner. So, if you want an obituary, or in memory article, published about a departed friend or relative, it must be confined to not over 150 words, or else money order for the remainder should be included if sent by mail, as outlined above.

If obituaries are sent in containing over 150 words and no money accompanies same, it will be either omitted entirely or, if possible, condensed to come within the requirement, and published.

WILDCAT VETERANS PLAN REUNION AT BIRMINGHAM

The national reunion of the 81st or Wildcat Division will be held at Birmingham, Nov. 10, 11 and 12, with Maj. Gen. Charles J. Bailey, of New York City, commander, presiding. Between 7,000 and 8,000 veterans who served in the division during the World War, are expected to attend the conclave.

Birmingham, according to reports here yesterday, is making great preparations for the convention. Officers look for a much larger attendance than the 5,500 or 6,000 veterans who went to North Carolina last year for the meeting.

The convention will be in the municipal auditorium. A large delegation from Montgomery and adjoining counties will attend. The Wildcat Division trained at Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C., and went overseas in the Summer of 1918, arriving in time to particiate in several battles before the Armistice ended hostilities the following November 11.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

We have heard quite a little in song and story, to say nothing of the witty newspaper paragraphs, about the little red school house. Most of our modernistic pooh-poohers regard it as something hopelesly antiquated. Perhaps it is, but there are still some people in position to know, who beleive that this little edifice was and is not devoid of virtues. It is, for example, good to know that its praises were sung not so long ago in an educational address by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University. Recalling the fact that it seems to be fashionable in certain circles to sneer at the little red school house, Dr. Butler reminded his hearers "but if that little red school house was presided over by a teacher of warm personality with a genius for impressing himself upon the group of pupils of various ages and stages of development which surround him it was an almost ideal educational instrumentality."

Hearing the old-fashioned system termed, under certain conditions, an "almost ideal educational instrumentality" by a man so distinguished in educational circles as Dr. Butler, will no doubt come as a distinct shock to the sophisticated modernists, or perhaps it would be better to say: those who think they are sophisticated. For times have changed. The little red school house is fast disappearing. For most communities it has almost entirely gone. It is being succeeded by fine modern buildings with the latest equipment into which are poured children gathered here and there by buses and other means of transportation, so that educated youngsters may become mass products. No longer does the bright child secure education ahead of his class by listening to the children in higher classes recite just across the aisle. No longer in too many instances does he come in such close personal contact with his teacher that he is influenced by the fine character and ideals of a patient and heroic instructor. But modern conveniences have supposedly made up for all of this, and these must be good because they are so expensive.

We like to hear the ministers and other orators refer to our fathers and mothers, and the generation back of them, as a fine set of people who builded a great nation. We talk about their religion, their love of home, their humane and patriotic ideals. We like to speak also of their spirit of independence, the sense of thrift and providence which impelled them to face the winter with a cellar full of fire wood and provisions. No wonder the country grew so great, the orators say. And yet it is a notable fact that most of these sturdy fathers and sainted mothers of ours were the product of a little red school house, presided over by a tetacher who may have lacked steam heat, electrical lighting fixtures and labratory apparatus, but who had personal courage and character in addition to their teaching ability. This is not to infer that teachers today do not possess ability, courage and character. Millions of them do. But somehow or other, things do seem to be different, even if the modern school house is bigger and better lighted. Unfortunately, along with bigger and better schools have come extravagance, sophistification, internationalism, paternalism, socialism and many other things that were comparatively unknown in the days of the little red school house. Perhaps that little school, like the horse and buggy, has gone completely out of date in these days when leaning on the government has become the king of outdoor sports. But it is yet to be proved that its teaching of fundamentals was not better than much of the complex "institutions" of today.

This may sound unduly pessimistic. Have we at last come to the edge of the precipice so far as national progress is concerned? By no means. All over this country there are millions of people who still believe in thrift, in industry, in individualism and in a government for the people but not nurse maid for the entire populace. These millions do not make much noise because they are too busy making a living and raising money to pay taxes to keep those who do spend their time making noise. Some of these days they will reassert themselves and things will be different. The little red school house may be dead but, thank Providence, its soul goes marching on. No sort of regimentation or state guardianship can stop this. If it does stop, things will be just too bad for Uncle Sam.

DO FARMERS WANT RELIEF?

The farmers of Chilton County are going to have a chance to register their greifs, if they have any, against the workings of the AAA. A meeting has been called at the courthouse in Clanton next Wednesday, October 23rd, at 10 o'clock. This meeting is called and sponsored by farmers who believe that the workings of the AAA are unfair and detrimental to the farming industry in general. It will be meetings of this kind that will get the farmers relief from the oppression of excessive governmental regimentation, and unless they let their voices of protest be heard through this medium, likely it will be taken for granted that they want a continuation of what they are getting with a strong possibility of it being made tighter next year and in future years.

The Union-Banner firmly believes that the farmers' best interest lies in their registering vigorous opposition to the farm program. This, we believe, is to their interest from a monetary standpoint, but much more so from the standpoint of perpetuating the ideals of Americanism instead of communism, fascism and bureaucracy, into which we are undisputedly drifting at the behest of the Democratic administration at Washington. This means infinitely more to us than money in any amount. We should protest it at every opportunity, and we believe the people of Chilton County will protest it. The question is bigger than politics, and means infinitely more to us in the future than Democrat or Republican, or both.

As stated above the people of Chilton County are going to have a chance to voice their opposition to these tactics, and The Union-Banner hopes that they will avail themselves of the opportunity. To rid ourselves is not going to be an easy matter. There is money behind the scheme. There is power behind it. All the forces of the agricultural experiment station at Auburn is backing the program, and the public school system of Alabama is a well-wisher if not an advocate; so you can readily see that we have no small battle to wage. They are going to steam-roller us out of existence if they can, and they will stop at no odds to gain their ends.

Let the people of Chilton County begin now by attending this meeting next Wednesday, and register our opposition to the farm regimentation program.

PREMATURE PRAISE

Before leaving Washington, President Roosevelt ordered the Federal Trade Commission to conduct a nation-wide inquiry into rising food prices. But when he reached the heart of the farm belt he delivered a eulogy to the AAA for raising the prices of agricultural commodities. In spite of the divergent viewpoints thus suggested, the President did not in either case come to grips with the basic problems raised by the crop control program.

The address at Fremont was especially significant for what was omitted. Mr. Roosevelt paid tribute to "the pioneering spirit" but did not make plain how that spirit functions under a system of paternalistic regimentation. "We have begun to understand that we must harness Nature in accordanee with Nature's laws, instead of despoiling Nature in violation of her laws," he said. But there was not a word about the destruction of crops to raise prices.

Likewise the President outlined "the true function of government under our Constitution—to promote the general welfare, not by interferring unduly with the individual liberties, but by bringing to the aid of the individual those powers of government which are essential to assure the continuance of the inalienable rights which the Constitution is intended to guarantee." No one is likely to challenge that objective. The essential question is: How can the President keep his mind focused on such generalities when confronted by the compulsory limitations that have been imposed upon cotton, tobacco and potato growers as adjuncts to the AAA program?—Washington, D. C. Post.

AN EXCELLENT MOVE

Optimism was radiated at the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Republican National Committee at Washington, D. C., recently, acording to newspaper accounts. This optimism was not all put on "for the record." A great deal of it is justified by the change in pulic opinion during the past few months. The Republicans have a long, hard fight ahead of them next year. But the situation no longer looks hopeless as it did a few months ago. Unbiased observers who have done a great deal of traveling over the country recently report a decided change in public expression concerning policies of the national administration.

As an evidence of the fact that they are beginning to take the next campaign seriously, the Republicans have arranged for headquarters at Chicago, the Middlewestern metropolis of the country. This is sound strategy. The Western territory promises to be important in the campaign next year, and there ought to be Republican activity and organization close in touch with that section of the country if we are to have a real contest next year.

The choice of Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa attorney and politician, as director of the Chicago headquarters is an especially happy one. Mr. Spangler has had years of experience in politics. By temperament and personality he is well fitted for the task of directing Republican activities from the Chicago district. He is a man of sound judgment and a good strategist. The Republicans have made a good start in their Western enterprise. The time seems auspicious. Things are gradually getting set for the 1936 campaign.

It is said that Japan may protest against our lending any money to China. And if they will only find a way to prevent our lending any money to Europe they will earn our real gratitude.

LET US HOPE

President Roosevelt was undoubtedly in a cheerful mood when he asured the nation the other day that no additional tax levies will be needed to take care of the increased national debt and the mounting cost of government. In spite of the fact htat the debt has grown from nineteen billions to thirty billions, with a greater sum in prospect and despite further the fact that annual deficits for running the government are now more than three billions, we are assured that all is well and no new taxes will become necessary. This indeed will be cheerful news to American business, and also to the American consumer who pays the bill in the long run.

After presenting a picture of reduced expenditures the President is quoted as stating: "Thus it is clear to me that the federal government, under provisions of present tax schedules will not need new taxes or increased rates in existing taxes to meet the expenses of its necesary annual operations and to retire the public debt."

All of which is entirely reassuring. But it would be even more re-assuring did we not know that the President has been mistaken before about what ought and would have to be done. For example, in a speech at Pittsburgh, October 19, 1932, attacking the fiscal management of President Hoover, Mr. Roosevelt is quoted as saying:

"The other bad effect of this mismanagement is not at all technical. It is the burden of high cost on the backs of all our people.

"I can state the condition best by quoting one paragraph from a document published a week ago and signed by both Alfred E. Smith and Calvin Coolidge:

"'All the costs of local, state and national governments must be reduced without fear and without favor. Unles the people, through unified action, arise and take charge of their government, they will find that their government will take charge of them. Independence and liberty will be gone and the general public will find itself in a condition of servitude to an aggregation of organized and selfish minorities.'

"Every word of that warning is true, and the first and most important and necessitious step in balancing our federal budget is to reduce expense * * *"

It is to be hoped that Mr. Roosevelt will be less mistaken about what yill be done next year than he was when this 1932 speech was made. It would be a real disappointment were he to be so mistaken about the future again.

And in passing it might be just as well to quote again from a statement credited to the Chief Executive on March 10, 1933:

"I ask that this legislation (authorizing increased revenues) go into effect at once without even waiting for the beginning of the next fiscal year. I give you asurance that if this is done there is reasonable prospect that within a year the income of the government will be sufficient to cover the expenditures of the government."

Needless to say, the income of the government within a year was considerably short of covering governmental expenditure, billions short, it might even be said.

DO THE UNEMPLOYED AGREE?

President Roosevelt declared the "emergency peak" is past, in his order placing the last seven recovery agencies not so included under the director of the budget.

It is nice to be optimistic, but there are certainly qualifications to this optimism.

Ten million men still are without work. There has been no gain in employment during the last year.

The prices farmers receive still are well below the prices they pay. Balance is lacking.

Income has gone down, but many heavy charges are still at the 1929 level, among them mortgage costs, transportation charges, insurance, interest rates to the individual and taxes.

These emergencies all exist; and not only the hardest and most difficult kind of work will overcome them. The United States has the hardest job of the depression still to face in providing jobs for all of its men and women without resorting to inflation.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

WE STAND FOR ANYTHING

"Emergency" confronts the country. In the metropolis, New York (richest city on earth), it is dreadful. Hundreds of thousands of human beings are miserable. They are hungry. They are objects of charity. They cannot pay their house rent. The government succors them. It is building houses for them, so that they can enjoy the "American standard of living." It is not for you boys in Barnwell and Allendale, Dorchester and Chesterfield. The hungry, miserable people in New York, tens of thousands of them, are on strike. They have quit the government work. It is not paying them enough, they say. It is paying them for the same kind of work twice as much and more as it pays unemployed, from PWA funds, in South Carolina. The strikers include stenographers, time-keepers, bookkeepers, white collar men and women. They are starving, and they strike. It is a frightful "emergency." We backwoodsmen, we yokels, we rubes, we boobs here in the sticks of South Carolina, are helping to support these strikers, yes, white collar strikers included. We stand for it. We stand for anything. Our Congressmen stand for it.—Charleston News and Courier.

We don't believe there would be so much kicking if the AAA would let hogs, and wheat and potatoes alone and concentrate on reducing the production of spinach.

One of the frequent answers of New Dealers to criticisms concerning the operation of new federal boards is "well, anyhow the country is better off than it was three years ago." This is of course a question open to debate. The country is now ten billion dollars more in debt than it was three years ago. This, of course, must be charged against the future.

If Uncle Sam, by some serious diplomatic lapse should be dragged into war with Italy we suppose the restaurants would have to rename spaghetti, Yankee noodles.

Who knows? Maybe in another year the G-men will be out after potato highjackers.

Of course the early bird is entitled to the worm but the fellow who sleeps late and depends on a government relief check wouldn't be satisfied with worms anyhow.

When a government starts going into private business it usually isn't long until private business finds itself inside the government.

Rex Tugwell, the resettlement expert, is going to help 350,000 farm families, furnishing them with livestock, seed, etc., so they can start making a living by raising more produce. At the same time the AAA is paying farmers not to raise so much stuff. Looks like Tugwell and Wallace were playing ball in different leagues.

FARLEY'S DREAMS

The Democratic National Chairman, Mr. Farley, had the hardihood to mention, at the Endicott love feast, the Democratic platform of 1932, and he added:

"At the famous 100-day session of Congress practically every plank of the platform was written into legislation. Never had a party so faithfully fulfilled its promises."

What a chairman! What a dreamer. The rest of the world, including other Democrats, has been under a delusion. Only Jim knows where, how and when the Democratic party carried out its pledges to save 25 per cent of the cost of the federal government by destroying bureaucracy and eliminating extravagance; to balance the budget; to end the follies of the Farm Board, "which made the government a speculator in farm products."

They are all out of step but Jim. He knows what's what, even if it never happened.—New York Sun.

AN EXPENSIVE CONGRESS

The $10,250,000,000 appropriated by Congress in its recent session was equivalent to over 20 per cent of the total annual income of $49,440,000,000 received by all the people of the United States in 1934, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. It is apparent that this appropriation represents another long step toward a serious financial crisis for which any benefits afforded by the laws enacted will provide poor compensation.

This means, of course, that out of every five dollars earned in America this year, another dollar will be taken from the American people inevitably, in the way of taxes, to pay for the spending orgy of the Congress recently closed. For it is not to be forgotten that when the government spends a dollar, the dollar has to come from the pockets of the people who go to make up the nation. The only other course is repudiation by inflation which is even more disastrous, especially to the wage earner.

Of course there is one compensation. If the AAA through legislation by this same Congress is able to elevate the homely potato to the rank and station of a bootleg product, then perhaps all may be forgiven. But there are some evidences, since the storm of protest arose from potato users, that no funds can be found for putting to effect this legislation conferring a new degree of honor on the humble spud.

GETTING USED TO IT?

It is a common and much used expression that the human being can adjust himself to almost any condition—in other words, that folks can get used to anything after a time. This is again evidenced in an address by Lewis Douglas, former director of the Budget in the Roosevelt administration, made recently to the American Mining Congress in Chicago.

Declaring that the policy of the present administration is a spending policy, similar to that in Russia after the fall of Kerensky, Mr. Douglas added: "I am amazed at the extent to which the human mind loses its sense of proportion. In 1931 we experienced a deficit of $900,000,000 and considerable apprehension was shown in Congress. We are now told blithely that in 1936 the deficit will exceed $4,500,000,000. In five years there has been an accumulated deficit of $14,000,000,000 and in six years it will be $20,000,000,000."

So it would seem that after two or three years of a spree of spending money we are getting used to it, and deficits no longer alarm us. But the pay-off is coming and sooner or later the American people are going to have to struggle to pay the debt that is now beping accumulated.

Although Mr. Douglas, who formerly represented Arizona in Congress, was at first regarded as one of the pillars of the present administration he is now one of its severest critics so far as financial policies are concerned. For example, in his speech to the Mining Congress, Mr. Douglas said:

"The deficit is rising despite the semblance of recovery. We have had something of a recovery, yet relief and public work expenditures keep increasing.

"There are 20,000,000 on relief, 8,000,000 of these in the agricultural and rural sections. Four million of these are negroes.

"No other conclusion is possible than that the administration at Washington is an irresponsible, spending government, its spending conducted by those who have no knowledge of how wealth is produced, and perhaps care less. No living man knows the contingent liabilities of the federal government.

"There is a real fear as to the security of our government and our people. Whenever a government has continued to spend more than it has taken in, it has destroyed in whole or in art its currency. This brings pain and poverty and the great middle class is crucified.

the commercial banks to take government obligations. This is credit inflation. At 15 per cent depreciation in government obligations would make almost 80 per cent of these banks bankrupt."

"Our present spending device is to compel

It would be difficult for an old hard-shelled Republican to say anything harsher than that, or to do more "viewing with alarm."

One of our friends who has a picture of a fight painted by one of those artists who are on public relief says that it would be all right if you could tell which was the horse and which was the bull. Of course the horse is the animal which the man is riding but you can't tell which is the man.

If all the people in Russia are now equal how do they distinguish between a top sergeant and a buck private ?

DEMOCRATIC CONSISTENCY

Under the present regime at Washington, to sell whiskey to the boys and girls of the United States and make them retrogrades upon society and vagabonds upon the people of the nation is o. k. This can be done without conflict with the law of the land.

But to sell or buy a bushel of potatoes without the government tax tag brings a year's imprisonment and a thousand dollar fine.

Now we would like for somebody to show us the consistency of such legislation as this. If this country has got to the pass that we can't elect men to public office who have more balanced reason than to pass such legislation as the above, we are headed for a bad state of affairs.

Dear friends, this is an example of Democratic efficiency. This shows what judgment they have about public and official matters and the way they administer them upon their constituents.

IS MR. ROOSEVELT SLIPPING?

Several months ago The Union-Banner, in a front page editorial, asked the above question, to which we received both negative and positive answers. The Union-Banner at that time took the positive side of the question. At that time it was almost suicidal to take issue against the New Deal, but The Union-Banner dared to stand for what it deemed right, although it almost stood alone. Sometimes it requires courage for one to come out in the front of the battle when the opposite side looms lik a solid phalanx in front of him; but sometimes undaunted courage wins the day—in fact it always comes out on top eventually when it is founded on right and justice.

Again The Union-Banner asks the question, is Mr. Roosevelt slipping? We will let people from every conceivable walk of life—farmers, filling station proprietors, hitch-hikers, maufacturers, merchants, bankers, wage-earners (male and female), relief clients, politicians, housewives, college professors, young democrats, young republicans, camps of transients, CCC boys, veterans, editors, clergymen—in short, every category of American citizen — give their views.

After interviewing people from all these different strata of life all over the country, Redbook magazine, in its issue of November, 1935, sums it up as follows: "Among business men and professional men the president is more than slipping. He is sliding and tobagganing. He has few converts among them, and he has hosts of deserters, not only in the North but even in the South. We doubt if any other Democratic President has ever lost so many of the Democratic business men and of the Democratic professional men of the Democratic South.

"There is an overwhelming majority against him today in the business and professional classes north of the Mason Dixon line, and a decisive majority against him south of it. Then we come to the farmers and wage-earners, and there the story begins to be different. Among farmers and wage-earners he has indeed in a sense slipped . . . Today he is off the pedestel and on the ground . . . . Today a critic of him can say his say and get away without having to fight . . . . . The inevitable demotion of the President from superman to man is virtually complete."

In the same issue of Redbook a Virginia farmer is quoted as saying that if Roosevelt is nominated he will not vote at all in 1936. "The AAA has helped the big farmers; it has not helped us little ones."

"A Birmingham, Alabama banker had great faith in Roosevelt; now thinks four more years of him would put the country on the rocks. 'Business men of Alabama would jump off the Roosevelt band-wagon in droves if the other side had somebody to offer.' A Birmingham insurance man says there would be a big bolt from Roosevelt among business men of Alabama if it would do any good. A high official of an Alabama manufacturing company says: 'Hundreds of Democrats who traditionally would vote for any Democratic yellow dog are eager today to stump the State against Roosevent'."

Many Republicans in Chilton County voted for Mr. Roosevelt in 1932, but now such expressions as this are very comon: "I thought maybe he was different; but I have got enough of dear old Democracy. I ought to have known that they were all alike. I do now. If they don't get us one way they will another. This time they have gotten us in the worst shape they ever have. Let us have just anything else."

A local eighth grader was asked what the most wonderful thing ever made by man was. Her answer is a classic: "A living for his family."—Western Advocate.

W. L. SANDERS MAKES SURVEY ON AAA IN HIS COMMUNITY

Since the AAA is the leading topic of the day, it seems that the farmers are beginning to realize that this question needs some serious thinking.

The injustice imbedded in this act is becoming more visible every day, in spite of the evidence produced by its supporters. The farmers are beginning to learn that black is not white, and that statistics are not money, therefore the job holders and political leaders are finding it difficult to convince the farmer that he is in good financial condition, when he is unable to meet his obligations, much less buy the necissities of life. The farmers have realized the fact that they have surrendered their rights and liberties to a bunch of bureaucrats at Washington, and if we continue to support these policies, "independence" will soon be a thing of the past.

The tornado that sprang up at Washington swept the nation and destroyed one-third of our cotton, one-fourth of our wheat, one-fifth of our corn and two-fifths of our pigs, is going to mean destruction to our nation if it continues to rage. Fifty-million people are reported improperly fed, caused from this vast destruction. Two and one-half million people have been added to the unemployment rolls since the reduction program has been in effect. Our Legislators and great farm leaders, who know nothing about farming except on paper, are trying to bring prosperity by destroying the very things that millions of people stand in need of Such policies are contrary to common sense, anr it is time the farmers, who know their problems, are standing together against such issues.

If we were really raising too much produce, and stood in need of a reduction program, it seems that one could be offered with more discrimination than the triple A. I do not believe that it is right for one man to sacrafice the necessitis of life in order for another to build up a bank account.

In a survey of 18 farms which is given below, I believe that you will readily see that some are given an allotment that will enable them to meet their obligations and have some money left. While others are not given enough to bear the expenses of making the crop, much less buy other necessities.

Acres In Farm	No. of Families on each Farm	Allotments, lbs cotton on each Farm
104	4	2185
7½	1	405
33	1	3595
61	2	3440
65	1	4000
80	1	4000
20	1	1700
40	1	1445
35	1	1900
40	1	1650
40	1	3000
40	1	2000
40	1	1225
40	1	3000
60	1	2950

The above figures are as given by the landlord or tenant. This survey shows the discrimination of the triple A, and I hope every reader will examine these figures closely, and compare them with the allotment in your community and see if the same discrimination is not there. I also hope that the editor of the Chilton County News will check these figurs, then he can see that it is not a political issue. Any man that is honest enough to admit the truth will admit that the foundation on which the AAA is built is responsible for this discrimination.

Fellow citizens, let us not surrender any more of our "liberties", but stand together against any further invasion. Let us hold to the freedom gained on the blood-stained battle fields, by our forefathers. If you are a liberty loving citizen, speak up, stand up, and let us march together and we shall win.—Yours for Justice, W. L. Sanders.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH
(Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks, Pastor)

Throughout this week Childhood and Youth Week is being observed in our church. It is an annual period when parents and all other adults in the church consider anew their responsibility to growing life in the home, in the church, and in the community. The Children's Division had a program Monday night. The Young People's Division had its program Tuesday night. Friday night the Adult Division will have a program. The committees assure all that it will be an enjoyable evening. Each family is requested by the refreshment committee to bring a dozen sandwiches. All members of the church who are over 24 years of age and all above that age who are not members but consider this church your church home are invited.

Sunday night at 7:00 a dramatic sketch will be given by the Clanton Methodist Church Dramatic Club with Miss Alice Polk, director. The public is invited to this service and all other services of the day. The pastor will speak at the 11:00 service. Immediately after service he will leave for Andalusia where he will teach in a Standard Training Sschool, beginning Sunday afternoon and continuing through Friday night. Dr. D. W. Haskew, a former astor of the Clanton Methodist church, is pastor at Andalusia.

The church school attendance is growing. If you are not in a class, join one Sunday. Each Sunday at 9:45 the church school is in session with D. W. Waite as general superintendent. Parents with very small children can bring them now and have them cared for. Recently a nursery department was organized in which children under four years of age are enrolled. Mrs. D. W. Waite is superintendent, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Newell.

The newly reorganized Epworth League is getting off to a fine start. The young people meet at 6:00 for the fifteen minutes social period at which time refreshments are served. Then at 6:15 they have their regular program. All young people from 15 to 23 are invited to join. Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer is the counselor.

Miss Birdie Teel spent the week end in Birmingham.

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this — and see that you get what you want.

PROTESTING THE MISUSE OF THE WORD "REVEREND"

Editor Union-Banner:

The Bible speaks of several abominations. It fails to speak of one of the worst abominations known to the clergy. I refer to addressing a minister as "Rev. Blank" or putting his name in the newspaper as "Rev. Blank" officiated.

It grates on the nerves of ministers and others who know better to hear those who should know better constantly misusing the word "reverend". The word is not a title. It is a term of respect and as an adjective should always be preceded by the article "the". Moreover, it should be followed by either the full name or initials of the title "Mister" or "Doctor". It is wrong to write or say "Rev. Smith" or "Rev. Jones". It is equally wrong to write or say "The Rev. Jones" or "The Rev. Smith". It is rightly used when written "The Rev. Paul B. Jones". The term "reverend" is a descriptive adjective. You would not say "the long Jones" or "the short Jones". You should no more write or say "Rev. Jones, officiated" than you would write or say "Long Jones, officiated" or "Short Smith, officiated". It should be simply "Mr. Jones", or, if he has a doctorate degree, "Dr. Jones".

Many newspapers have strict rules for the proper use of the term "reverend". It is inexcusable for a newspaper to continue to misuse the term. Some papers that have printed a minister's full name or initials in contribuated articles for several months or years will say in writing up a funeral or a wedding, "Rev. Blank, officiated". It is not very difficult to learn a man's initials or name. If they are not known they can be looked up.

The Reverend Henry H. Hurst expresses the way many ministers feel in regard to being adressed as "Rev." He says:

"There is a certain title
That makes me want to burst;
Some people always greet me
With 'Howdy, Revend Hurst'.

"As just a common 'Mister',
I'd acknowledge him who durst;
But I would like to punch the man
Who calls me 'Reverend Hurst'.

"If two things make bad syntax
Well, this one is the first,
When someone introduces me
With 'This is Revened Hurst'.

"I don't object to 'Doctor'
(Though I am not so versed),
But twist the 'snoot' of that galoot
Who calls me 'Reverennd Hurst'.

"I like the term of 'Brother',
But save me from the worst,
When either saint or sinner
Says, 'Hello, Reverend Hurst'."

PLEASANT HILL

Our Sunday school was well attended last Sunday. We are glad that more of the fathers and mothers are waking up to their duty as church members, and we hope to see a large crowd out next Sunday.

Our B. T. U was good Sunday night, however, there were a few absent. We want to urge you to be back with us next Sunday night. You are missing something and we need you.

The people of Pleasant Hill church and entire community regret the loss of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Twilley, since they have moved to Dallas, Georgia. Their faithful work in the church will be greatly missed. We hope that they will be pleased with their new home.

We are glad to say that our chicken super last Saturday night was a grand success. Everyone seemed to enjoy it very much.

Next Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night will be our regular preaching dates, and we feel sure that our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson, will deliver a message that will be well worth our time. Let's all try to put some go into our church work, and not wait for our children of our neighbors to tell us how everything came out at church. Go and see.

Next Sunday afternoon is our regular singing afternoon, and we are expecting some real good singing. We invite everyone who can to come out and be with us.

We regret very much to say that Uncle George Plyer, of our community, is seriously ill with pneumonia. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

On last Sunday afternoon a large crowd of both young and old folks of our community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Twilley to enjoy a last visit at their home before they leave for Georgia, and yet it was a sad meeting.

Let's not forget our Sunday school every Sunday. If you are not already in Sunday school somewhere, we invite you to come to Pleasant Hill and get in one.—Reporter.

Who Owns The Telephone Company

MORE than eight hundred thousand people own the securities of the Bell Telephone System and most of these folks are small investors. No person owns as much as one-fifth of one per cent of the outstanding stock. The largest single stockholder, an insurance company, has less than one per cent and the average holding is only twenty-eight shares per stockholder.

Nearly half of the stock of the Bell System is owned by women, about two hundred and ten thousand of whom are housewives. There are about ninety thousand clerks and salespeople who have invested their savings in this business and thirty thousand manual laborers.

There are other thousands of farmers, merchants, professional men and others in every State of the Union who have placed their money and faith in the telephone industry. Trust funds for educational institutions, churches, orphanages, and homes for the aged, whose funds must be carefully guarded, have invested large amounts in this business.

No other company is owned by so many different people as is the Bell System.

It is this vast army of small investors who own the telephone business and it is these folks who have, by their sacrifice and saving, supplied the capital to build for you the world's finest and best telephone system. They own the telephone company.

Anything affecting the financial stability of this business directly affects them and the army of telephone workers who are devoting their lives to furnishing you the very best service possible during good times and bad, at a cost to you as low as possible, consistent with financial safety.

Today the Southern Bell company is able to earn only three and seven-tenths per cent on the money invested in the State to furnish you telephone service.

Farmers Call Mass Meeting At Courthouse October 23

Gathering At Jackson Chapel Saturday Night Passed Resolution Regarding Cotton Control And Ask For County-Wide Mass Meeting

A gathering of farmers was held at Jackson Chapel schoolhouse last Saturday night, October 5th, and resolutions were passed relative to the Agricultural Adjustment Act and the cotton allotment plan. The gathering also moved and ordered that a county-wide mass meeting be called at the county courthouse in Clanton on Wednesday, October 23rd, at 10:00 o'clock, a.m.

With W. L. Sanders acting as chairman and G. C. Donovan as secretary, the Jackson Chapel gathering moved and carried that the county-wide meeting be called, as stated above, and also that both county papers be asked to carry the announcement. It is the desire of those calling the meeting that all farmers and other interested citizens of the county attend.

Resolutions Passed

The following resolutions were passed by the Jackson Chapel meeting without a dissenting vote, and the signatures attached as below:

We, the undersigned citizens of Jackson Chapel community do agree that the Agricultural Adjustment Act in its present form is unjust, and that it is lowering the standard of living among most small farmers. To prove this, the following is submitted.

1. That the allotment plan based on the five year average is unjust, because:

(a). False reports given and accepted as to the base average in order to secure a larger allotment.

(b). That farmers who have already cut to a reasonable acreage were asked to reduce the same percentage as those with large crops.

(c). That a man's financial ability to use large amounts of fertilizer during the five year period, entitled him to a higher yield per acre.

2. That the passage of any law discriminating between two adjoining farms is unjust.

3. That the collection of taxes to the amount of fifty per cent of the farmer's income from cotton above a small allotment is unjust, compared with the taxes paid by profiteers and wage earners.

4. That under the reduction programsixty per cent of the farmers of Alabama are allowed to sell less than three bales of cotton tax free, and that this amount is insufficient to secure a decent living.

5. That the adjustment act has reduced the farmer's purchasing power by reducing and limiting his marketable commodities and by the rise in the cost of living caused from such reductions.

6. That the collection of taxes to support an agency to increase production, and at the same time such agency use its influence and authority to prihibit the sale of such roduction is inconsistant.

7. That all taxes assessed and collected from the farmer's income is a direct income tax.

8. That the reduction program has greatly hampered our foreign trade, and caused an increase in the importation of foreign goods to take the place of that taken out of production in this country.

The above reasons are our honest convictions, and we feel that the program does not deserve our continued support. Therefore we, this the 5th day of October, 1935, in mass meeting at Jackson Chapel do pledge our support for the repeal of this act through petition or referendum, and we solicit the suport of every "Liberty Loving Citizen" irrespective of political parties, to join us in a campaign in behalf of the little farmers.

W. L. SANDERS, Chairman,
G. C. DONOVAN, Secretary.

Signatures—D. M. Crowson, A. C. Bussie, Ervin Baker, J. C. Rich, Emerson Thomas, Cornelius Caton, D. M. Oates, D. S. Smith, F. E. Ellison, H. L. Bruce, Lee Ellison, Joe W. Traywick, E. A. Shirley, Percy McKinnon, D. F. Bryant, James Baker, J. H. Jackson, G. W. Willis, W. S. Willis, Ernest Jones, G. C. Jones, Marion Ellison, Hubert Smith, Floyd Little, C. O. Bell, Curtis Parrish.

The above resolutions will be offered for adoption at the county-wide meeting, subject to amendments of that gathering.

YEA, BROTHER—WE SHALL!

drive a wedge of discontent, for there is enough discontent among farmers at present. And The News editor does not point out the fact that those thousands that were brought in really amounted to only a small per cent of that lost to farmers through restriction of production and increased living costs.

The News says ours is a message of "destruction". We wonder what The News calls this business of plowing under cotton, killing and burning of pigs and other livestock, and the wholesale destruction of wheat and other food products. How insane is the idea of destroying foodstuffs while people go hungry, and restricting the growth of cotton while people shiver! Something is out of joint—suppose we let The News editor tell us just what it is.

Finally, The News editor says "improvements will be made, but they will be made by the farmers". Just ask any farmer who has tried to get a fair adjustment of his cotton contract—let him tell you how far he got.

So far as The Union-Banner is concerned, if the farmers really want the AAA, we are more than glad for them to have it, but when they come to us in scores, complaining, we can come to no other conclusion than that they are dissatisfied. Therefore, we offer the challenge printed at the top of this column. Frankly, we do not expect its acceptance. But, in a sense of fairness and conscientious belief, we DO expect The News to either accept this challenge or crawl in a hole on the cotton question, as they have done on so many occasions in the past. It's up to The News—a put-up or shut-up proposition.

Clanton Will Dedicate New Post Office Building Friday

Shriners Will Be In City During The Day And Take Prominent Part In The Post Office Dedication Services

The dedication services of the new Post Office at Clanton, Alabama, will be held on Friday, October 25, 1935. Representatives from Washington and prominent citizens of Clanton will participate in the ceremonies. Arrangements are now under way to make this a gala occasion. Music will be furnished by the Shriners Band from Alcazar Temple of Montgomery. The personnel of the committee in charge follows: H. F. Downs, postmaster; C. Fenn Jones, Mayor; and J. Mell Martin of the Kiwanis Club.

All arrangements have been completed for a really big day in Clanton. High features of the day will be short public speeches, band music by one of the best bands in the state, a parade through town by the Shriners, and other interesting and important festvities. Four thousand copies of the program, furnished by The Chilton County News and The Union-Banner, have been mailed out to all the boxholders of Chilton county, and the attendance is expected to be colossal. Everybody is invited to be Clanton's guest. Just lay down whatever you had planned to do Friday and come on to Clanton; help enjoy the good things that have been arranged for you.

The Post Office is one of the outstanding buildings of Clanton. According to Frank H. Dohrmann, Construction Engineer for the Government under the Treasury Department, the building covers an area of 4,235 square feet, with main entrance facing on First Avenue. The building is of early American type of architecture, brick construction, one story in heighth, with exterior trim and entrance steps of Georgia marble. It is modern and up-to-date in every way.

The public lobby extends the length of the front of the building with the exception of the postmaster's room to the left. The lobby has marble wainscot 4½ feet high, with plastered walls and ceilings. The floor is of concrete with terrazzo finish in two foot squares with brass division strips between.

Windows in the workroom screen include General Delivery, Stamps, Parcel Post, Registered and C. O. D. Money Order and Postal Savings, and four letter drops, with 397 lock boxes. The Post Office has a modern workroom covering an area of 1,740 square feet, with vault, a swing room, modern plumbing facilities and mailing platform to the side. It is equipped for steam heat and has up-to-date lighting equipment.

The General Contractor is H. W. Beers, Jr., Atlanta, Ga., with A. L. Henderson superintendnet on the job. The cost of the building, including equipment, is $45,000.00.

AT THE WADESONIAN THEATRE THURSDAY NIGHT, OCTOBER 24th

A treat is in store for the theatre goers of Clanton tonight, for it is then that the Wadesonian Theatre shows "The Return of Peter Grimm," the most talked of picture on the screen this year, presents Lionel Barrymore in the story of a man who returned from the spirit world to redeem the mess he had made of life.

Heart-sick at the tragedy and unhappiness he had brought upon those he loved, by his tyranny while on earth. Peter Grimm returns to his mortal abode in an effort to restore peace and joy. For a time he is unable to make his presence known, but the highly tuned instincts of his old Collie dog and the eyes of a dying child, whom he had loved, finally pierced the celestial veil, and he is enabled through them to rectify his mistakes and restore harmony and well being to his family.

Never in his long career of stage and screen successes has Barrymore had a more delightful and impressive role than that of Peter Grimm.

Other favorites in the capable cast include Helen Mack, Edward Ellis, Allen Vincent, James Bush, George Breakston, Greta Meye, Ethel Griffin and Donald Meek.

Cotton Taxes Ruining Trade With Teutons

Processing Levies Blamed For Sharp Decline In The American Exports

Washington, Oct. 19.—Prohibitive cotton processing taxes, bulwark of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's crop destruction program, are driving another American customer—this time Germany—into other cotton markets.

This became evident tonight in a report of the Commerce Department which showed Germany has turned to Argentina, Brazil and Peru for this commodity and is sharply pruning her purchases of American cotton.

The report, covering the first seven months of this year, shows that in this period Germany bought 367,002 340 pounds of cotton, compared with 508,683,780 pounds in the same period a year ago and 536,682,080 pounds in the same months two years ago.

Cotton purchases from the United States in this period totaled 79,999,-480 pounds, compared with 325,038,220 pounds from January through July of 1933.

The corresponding purchases by Germany from Egypt were 48,212,780 pounds this year, 77,677,600 pounds in 1934, and 54,060,820 in the same months of 1933, and from British India, 38,026,640, 64,813,320 and 47,847,-360 pounds.

Meanwhile her imports from Argentina rose to 16,462,160 pounds compared with 6,508,260 in the same period of 1934, and 6,029,540 pounds the year before in these months. German purchases from Brazil in the same period soared to 99,022,440 pounds, compared with 3,480,400 in the January-July period of 1934, and 12,540 pounds in that period of 1933.

The same report showed re-exports of raw cotton from Germany in the first seven months of this year dropped 22 per cent below those of that period last year.

Administration leaders, pinning their hopes of a favorable trade balance at the close of the year to huge cotton exports, find little to support such hopes in the face of declining markets.

MIDDLETON WILL SPEAK AT OLD HOME CHURCH SUNDAY

Hon. J. Osmond Middleton will speak at 11 o'clock next Sunday at old Rehoboth Methodist church in the southern part of Montgomery county. The occasion is a home-coming service. This is the comunity in which Col. Middleton was born, and he feels it an honor that he is to go back there and speak to the good people of that old church. Although his parents moved away from there and came to Clanton while he was only a babe, yet Col. Middleton cherishes the old church and holds a peculiar regard for the comunity where he first saw the light of God's bright sunshine. And we might add too that the people of old Rehoboth should be, and likely are, proud to claim him as originally theirs, and to have him come back there and speak to them at their home-coming service.

WIFE OF ROY TAYLOR WAS BURIED AT CHESTNUT CREEK

Mrs. Clara Mae Taylor, age 32, wife of Roy Taylor of Montgomery, died at a Montgomery hospital last Friday night following an illness of three weeks. Funeral services were held at Chestnut Creek, Coppers, Saturday afternoon, Rev. Leek of Montgomery and Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby officiating. Leak Funeral Home was in charge. Burial was in the adjoining cemetery.

Besides her husband, two small children survive; also her father, D. S. Robinson of Coopers; nine sisters and two brothers.

MASONS PERFORM LAST RITES FOR D. O. MANNING

On October 13, 1935, the Masons conducted the remains of Bro. D. O. Manning to their last resting lace in the cemetery of the Mulberry Baptist church. Bro. Manning was a member of the Maplesville Lodge and had been for a number of years, and was a faithful member—always attending its meetings. The high esteem in which he was held was evidenced by the large attendance of Masons from this section of the state.

Due to close family ties the Worshipful Master of the Maplesville Lodge, Bro. W. P. White, asked Bro. Jack Hicks, of the Centreville Lodge to take charge of the ceremony at the grave, which he did with much honor to himself and to the fraternity.

The following Lodges were represented: Maplesville, Clanton, Thorsby, Lawley, Verbena, Jemison, Cooper and Centreville. The pallbearers were as follows: C. W. Foshee, Joe B. Hicks, Judge Lee Smith, L. H. Reynolds, Tom Rockett, Macy Jones, Tom Kemp, M. Lande and L. E. Diefenderfer.

NOTICE!

The Union-Banner urges all unprejudiced people who want to know the New Deal, its original aim, the personnel picked to carry it out, and the results it has obtained, to read Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's article, "Think Fast, Captain!" in this week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

Gen. Johnson was at the council table when the original New Deal was outlined and drawn up. He was picked as one of the mainstays to help carry it out. He stayed with it and fought for it so long as it held to its original stated couse. But when it took off after fanciful collegiate and communistic ideas and trends, Gen. Johnson left it. An excerpt from this article runs as follows:

"With one exception, almost none of the complex and massive affairs of this government have been trusted to men of affairs, but rather to starry-eyed and fiery-eyed idealists, utterly unsuited to effective administration. This is NOT government on the American plan. The tail is wagging the dog. You can't beat four billion dollars but four billions dollars can beat you."

These are only a few of the plain-spoken remarks of this former ground-work New Dealer. No matter what your politics, if you want to really know how the New Deal has been carried out, as regards its original charted course, be sure to secure a copy of The Saturday Evening Post for this week at any of the newsstands in Clanton.

THE AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT ACT

[AN EDITORIAL]

As a part of the plan of the Roosevelt brain-trust New Deal to foster on the American people a Mussolini-Hitler-Stalin dictatorship, the A. A. A. was designed to bribe the American farmer with some purely temporary financial advantages. However, the scheme is not working so well in that respect, while quite a number of well-to-do farmers who could very well get along without government aid, are deriving some temporary financial benefits, the small, really poor, forgotten people who farm for a living are being ground further down into a state of peasantry and serfdom.

We have the spectacle all over Alabama and the entire South, of the little farmer, who grows two, three or four bales of cotton to purchase winter shoes and clothing, and who is required to purchase twice as many school books as should be required at twice the price they should be sold for. When this class of families undertake to sell their two, three or four bales of cotton, they are confronted with the proposition of paying over to the government bureaucrats from one-third to one-half of the proceeds of their small cotton crop, for the privilege of having grown their crops under this benign autocracy that is fastening itself on the American people.

If you are one of the farmers who has derived temporary advantages out of this Russian scheme, do you ever give thoughtful consideration to what a price in human liberty you are paying for your temporary gain? You do not need to be a lawyer or a Supreme Court Judge to know and reason out that the government that can take over to itself the autocratic power to send one of its bureaucratic agents, with brief case in hand, out to your farm, to measure off your land in plots and tell you to plant this and that and the other as he dictates, and count your chickens, your hogs and your cows and kill them for the fowls of the air while people starve, as he dictates—a government with such powers may just as well dictate to you what religion you must profess and practice, what political thoughts you must entertain and express, and how you shall vote.

Do you want to remain a free man or become a vassal?

The American farmer, along with every other legitimate business, is being ground down with an unbearable load of taxes in some form, either direct or indirect.

There are now 200,000 brief "toting" bureaucrats swarming up and down the land at a staggering public expense, meddling with everybody's business and into everything, like the locusts that plagued Pharaoh in Egypt, and this army of bureaucrats is being added to daily by leaps and bounds.

The farmer, or business or professional man, who is striving to make a living in any other way than sucking some kind of government pap, is the forgotten man and is altogether out of luck.

Nine times out of ten when you hear some one blabbing about the wonders of the New Deal, if you will and can get the facts, you will find that he is getting his at public expense, which means at the expense of you folks who are not getting yours, and who are paying and will continue to pay the bills.

To any student of current affairs who will carefully study and analyze the acts of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, no other intelligent conclusion can be reached than that he is just as covetous for unrestrained powers as Hitler, Mussolini or Stalin. He is altogether intolerant of any restraints. His every recommendation to Congress has been that the Congress invest him and his chosen tools with autocratic power. And when the Supreme Court of the United States, giving heed to their solemn oath to uphold the Constitution, by a unanimous vote of its judges gave effect to the plain mandates of the Constitution, he, President Roosevelt, proceeded to give vent to his feelings of disgust at the Constitution as a "horse and buggy" insrumentality, and near contempt for the Court.

After Huey Long had played a very conspicious and effective part in bringing about the nomination and election of President Roosevelt, and when it developed that Long was sharing the spotlight of publicity too much to suit President Roosevelt and Farley, they cast Long overboard and turned the Federal patronage of Louisiana over to the New Orleans corrupt political machine. Then when Long continued to grow in popularity with the rabid element that made up so large a portion of the New Deal voting strength, and when Huey came out with his "share the wealth" demogogery and was getting exceedingly popular with this great idea, the smiling President steps in and says, "That is my idea by adoption". And when President Roosevelt recently visited California, all his attentions and smiles were bestowed on the Sinclairites and Townsendies, and the true Democrats of California did not get one smile or pat on the back.

You can quite frequently hear some fanatical New Dealer berating Huey Long as an arch demagog. What, when carefully scrutinized, is the difference between Huey Long and President Roosevelt? A comparison of the two men is altogether favorable to Long. As a result of Long's administration as Governor of Louisiana, the children of that State have free text books in the public schools. The State has many of the finest concrete roads and bridges in America. The state has one of the finest, if not the finest, capitol buildings in America.

How does that compare with President Roosevelt's program of leaf-raking counting passing automobiles, weed-cutting, teaching dancing and manicuring and at the same time piling on the present and future generations an appalling burden of debt? Huey Long does not suffer in a comparison with President Franklin D. Roosevelt. No demagogery ever proclaimed exceeds that proclaimed and practiced by Prsident Roosevelt. Shining examples: "The Forgotten Man", "The Abundant Life" and "Share The Wealth", followed up by pretending to spend a nation and a people into prosperity.

The American people may as well look the facts squarely in the face. In President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the nation, its Constitution, its Courts, and the fundamental structure of our form of government, is menaced with the most dangerous demagog that ever attained so great a place in the nation. The spirit and ambitions of Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin, only with less ability, stalks this land of the free and the home of the brave.

1500 Chilton Farmers Condemn Cotton Plan

Monster Mass Meeting of Farmers Adopts Resolutions For Repeal or Change of Present Law. Resolutions To Be Sent To Sen. John H. Bankhead

At a mass meeting held at the courthouse last Wednesday, attended by approximately 1,500 Chilton County farmers, resolutions were passed overwhelmingly protesting the cotton plan in its present form.

The courthouse was packed to capacity, the general estimate being 750 farmers inside the courtroom, while a like number were unable to get inside the building.

At the beginning, W. L. Sanders called the meeting to order and read a copy of the resolutions and suggestions as given below. Immediately, J. B. Atkinson asked that a resolution be passed allowing equal time for discussion of the questions by both sides. This move was shouted down in a chorus of "no's". Then Mr. Sanders asked that a vote be taken on the resolutions, making clear that an affirmative vote meant that the voter wanted the cotton plan repealed or changed from its present form, while a negative vote meant that the voters wanted the cotton plan to continue in its present form. When the vote was taken, a scant dozen voted to retain the law as it now stands, while the remainder voiced their sentiment against the plan in no uncertain terms. It was a regular steam-roller demonstration, something over 700 against a mere dozen or two.

Farmers began arriving early, as the meeting had been well advertised as a county-wide affair, and both county papers had urged that farmers attend. They gathered on street corners, in stores, and various places, discussing the question which has been uppermost in the minds of farmers ever since the allotments were received early in this year. This was called as a non-political meeting, and nowhere was there any evidence of party feeling.

Notice is given that someone will be taking signatures to the resolutions in every community. The following have been named so far: I. A. Dennis, Maplesville; Bunk Williams, Jemison; D. S. Robinson, Cooper, H. O. Bean, Thorsby; W. M. Devaughn, Clanton; A. A. Jackson, Lomax.

A copy of these resolutions and suggestions, as well as a report of this mass meeting, and a list of hundreds of names of subscribers to the resolutions and suggestions at the meeting will be mailed to Sen. John H. Bankhead, sponsor of the present cotton program.

Following are the resolutions and suggestions adopted:

Resolutions

We, the undersigned citizens of Chilton County, Ala., agree that the Agricultural Adjustment Act, in its present form is unjust, that it is lowering the standard of living among small farmers, and cite the following:

1. That the allotment plan based on the 5-year average is unjust, because:

(a) False reorts were given and accepted as to the base average in order to secure a larger allotment.

(b) Farmers who have already cut to a reasonable acreage were asked to reduce the same percentage as those with large crops.

(c) A farmer's ability to use large amounts of fertilizer during the 5-year base period entitled him to a higher yield per acre, which is out of proportion with smaller farmers, which condition amounts to a penalty on poverty and a bounty for financial ability.

2. That the passage of any law discriminating between adjoining farms is unjust.

3. That the collection of taxes to the amount of 50 per cent of the farmer's income from cotton above a small allotment is unjust, compared with the small income taxes paid by industrial wage earners and capitalists.

4. That under the present reduction program 60 per cent of the farmers of Alabama are allowed to sell less than three bales of cotton tax free, and that this amount is insufficient to secure a decent living.

5. That the adjustment Act has reduced the farmer's purchasing power by limiting his marketable commodities, and by the rise in the cost of living caused from such reductions and limitations.

6. That the collection of taxes to support an agency to increase production, and at the same time such agency use its authority and influence to prohibit the sale of such production is inconsistant.

7. That all taxes assessed and collected from a farmer's income is a direct income tax. Under the AAA this tax is 50 per cent, which is out of proportion with other income taxes.

8. That the reduction program has greatly hampered our foreign trade, and caused an increase in the importation of foreign goods to take the place of those taken out of production in this country.

The above reasons are our honest convictions, and we feel that the rogram, in its present form, does not deserve our continued support. Therefore, we, this 23rd day of October, 1935, in mass meeting assembled, do pledge our support for the repeal of this act, or for drastic changes which will bring about a more fair and proportionate division among producers.

THREE THOUSAND GALLONS BEER POURED OUT MONDAY

Deputy Herbert Wright, of Jemison, made what is believed to be the biggest beer haul on record in Chilton county last Monday, approximately 3,000 gallons.

Deputy Wright came upon the beer, in fifty 60-gallon barrels, on the bank of Waxahatchie Creek. The still had been moved, so Wright poured the beer into the creek. There were no arrests.

In addtion, the sheriff's office made seven arrests during the past week. One was for assault and attempt to murder, one was for bastardy, three for abusive, indecent and obscene language, and two for violating the prohibition law. Three of the persons arrested are in jail, and four made bond.

OLD AGE PENSION NOTICE

Miss Nolen Meroney has given us the following notice for publication to all interested in securing old age pension consideration:

"Old age pensions will be granted according to eligibility requirements as published this week. Investigation will be made through the Department of Public Welfare. This service is without charge to applicants. No applicant need send any sum of money to any person or company in order to obtain assistance in getting old age pension."

This notice is given because it has been brought to the notice of the Welfare Department that certain parties are sending circular letters soliciting clients to whom they may render aid in securing old age pension, and these parties state a charge of $1.00 for this assistance. All such solicitations are fakes, and Miss Meroney issues the above warning, that none may be swindled.

New Census To Be Made For Clanton

Work of Enumeration Will Start Nov. 1. Estimate Is 3,500 To 4,000

Since the town of Clanton is no more, but has become the city of Clanton, it is necessary that new census figures for the city be gathered. Accordingly, the work of gathering th se figures will begin next Friday, November 1.

This work will be under supervision of Federal Census Supervisor, Herbert R. Greene. So far the roster of assistants and enumerators have not been named.

Mayor Jones estimates that the number of people living within the newly designated city limits will be around the 3,500 mark, with a possibility of it reaching 4,000.

A close check of the map of the city, since the new lines were laid out, shows that the city of Clanton will total 3 and one-thirty-second square miles. The lines enclose 48½ "forties", or 20 acres over 3 square miles.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones asks all people living within the corporate limits of the city to cooperate with the census bureau, by giving all information desired to enumerators when they call.

A description of the new lines, relative to the main roads that lead into the city, is given below.

On the Lay Dam road, the line reaches to the junction of the Pinedale and Lay Dam roads, near the Ed Miller place. On the Birmingham highway, the limit is at the land line a few steps south of the home of F. A. Ellison. On the old highway, north, the line is the land line on top of the hill above the cotton mill, this line being just north of the Headley home. On the Maplesville road, a land line about midway between the home of Wiley Gray and the junction of the old Thorsby road and the Maplesville highway, is the point. On the road by the P. T. Hinkle home, the line is the land line just north of the Hinkle property. To the south, the city limits reach to the junction of the old Mt. Pisgah road and the Montgomery highway, a point just north of the J. N. Dennis home. The city limits include the section houses of the L. & N. Railroad Company. To the east, the creek near the home of Dr. W. L. Parrish, is the line.

Enumerators will visit at all homes situated within these limits, and Mayor Jones and census officials urge all to give the desired information as accurately and quickly as possible, that the enumeration job may be finished and the city can turn in the figures to the federal census department. These figures will replace those in the federal census files, as taken in the 1930 census, and will be considered as official until the regular census in 1940.

Mrs. Delia Traywick left Saturday, October 19, for a 2 weeks visit with her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Foster, of Lanette, Ala.

University, Ala.—The executive board of the Alabama branch of the American Association of University women held a meeting at the University of Alabama late this week to plan a program for the year. Miss Agnes Ellen Harris, Dean of women at the University, is president of the state branch.

While more than 85,000 students entered elementary schools in Alabama last year, only 38,000 were graduated from the sixth grade, and only a few more than 10,000 from High school, it is shown in a statistical study made by C. J. Jordan, working in connection with the department of Vocational Education at the University.

BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST

LESSON TEXT—Daniel 5:1-31.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. Proverbs 20:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Daniel Solves a Riddle.

JUNIOR TOPIC—At the Feast of Belshazzar.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Drink Leads To.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Facts About Alcohol.

I. Belshazzar's Impious Feast (vv. 1-4).

1. Those in attendance (vv. 1, 2) Those present were Belshazzer, his wife and concubines, and one thousand of his lords.

2. Their behavior (vv. 3, 4).

a. They drank wine and engaged in drunken revelry.

b. They committed sacrilege. They drank wine from the sacred vessels taken out of the temple at Jerusalem.

c. They worshiped idols.

II. The Handwriting on the Wall (vv. 5-16).

1. The time of (v. 5). It occurred "in the same hour" in which they were engaged in their drunken debauchery.

2. The effect upon the king (v. 6) "The joints of his loins were loosed, and his knees smote one against another."

3. The king's behavior (vv. 7-16).

a. He called for the astrologers and soothsayers, offering them rewards of gold and of position (vv. 7-9).

b. Daniel brought in at the suggestion of the queen (vv. 10-16). The queen was perhaps the wife of Nebuchadnezzar who remembered Daniel's service in interpreting the dream of her husband.

III. Daniel Interprets the Writing (vv. 17-28).

1. Daniel's address to the king (vv. 17-24).

a. He brushes aside his promised gifts (v. 17). He would not have his speech limited by the king's gift.

b. He reviewed before Belshazzar the history of Nebuchadnezzar (vv. 18-24). He showed clearly that Belshazzar should have profited by the experiences of his father.

2. The interpretation of the writing (vv. 25-28).

a. "Mene" means "numbered" (v. 26). "God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it."

b. "Tekel" means "weighed" (v. 27) "Thou art weighed in the balances and art found wanting."

c. "Peres" means "divided" (v. 28). "Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians."

IV. The Judgment Executed (vv. 29-31).

So rapidly did the divine judgment fall that Belshazzar was slain and Darius the Median took the kingdom that same night. The Chaldean dynasty ended with Belshazzar. We may, therefore, interpret this whole scene as pointing to the conditions at the close of the time of the Gentiles, and as adumbrating their prevailing conditions. Let us note

1. The stupidity of men. Belshazzar, like people today, did not learn by example. Nebuchadnezzar's fate should have deterred Belshazzar.

2. The magnificent splendor. This great feast was characterized by pomp, display and parade. How characteristic of our own age!

3. Luxury. The famous hanging gardens of Babylon were a noteworthy example. Signs of luxury abound today on every hand.

4. The licentiousness of the king with his many wives and concubines. Licentiousness is likewise notoriously prevalent today.

5. Blasphemous sacrilege. The sacrilege of this day may be in excess of that of Belshazzar's day and expresses itself in a. A profession of religion for pecuniary gain, social and political preferment.

b. The use of the pulpit of the Christian ministry for notoriety and even for the propagation of false doctrine.

c. Uniting with the church and attendance at the Lord's table so as to cover up secret sins.

d. The use of the Word of God to give point to a joke.

e. Denying that the Bible is God's Word, making it a book of errors, myths, and legends.

f. Sneering at the virgin birth, repudiating Christ's deity and setting aside his vicarious atonement.

6. Drunken carousals. The hand writing is on the wall. His judgments shall eventually fall. Conditions in the world indicate that the time is drawing near. Are you ready?

ALABAMA ANTI-CONSUMER SALES TAX ASSN. MEETS

Birmingham, Ala.—Pledged unanimously to fortify its campaign with a $50,000 war chest, the Alabama Anti-Consumer Sales Tax Association came into being at a two day meeting terminating here Thursday afternoon with the announced determination to carry its battle into every corner of the state before the next session of the Legislature.

Representative merchants, labor union leaders, farmers, druggists and automotive trades men from every section of the state came to Birmingham at the call of the Alabama Independent Merchants Association and wrote a declaration of policy couched in unmistakable terms against any effort to increase the tax burden of the people of Alabama and served notice they would stand to the last ditch in opposition to the program regardless of its sponsors.

Enthusiastic pledges of cooperation from labor, farmers, professional and business men poured into the meeting from every section of the state.

Irby C. Hall, Collinsville merchant, was named temporary chairman of the organization, with B. C. Apperson, Birmingham, as secretary. Another statewide meeting will be held in Montgomery within ten days, it was announced.

The vote to raise $50,000 to conduct a statewide fight was the result of a motion to the effect by Irby Hall, who previously had declared a consumer sales tax will fall with crushing force on thousands of relief clients throughout the state and further devalue an already fast shrinking dollar.

PLEASANT VALLEY SINGING

Folks, we had a real good singing on last second Sunday afternoon, although there were not many singers present, there was a fairly good audience.

Directors for the afternoon were: Orbie DeVaughn, Forrest Huett, A. P. Williams, Marshall Burkhalter, J. W. DeVaughn, J. E. Varner, and C. M. Billingsley.

For some reason we are losing interest in our singings. We have been in harmony for some time and we want to continue.

We have Pleasant Valley society and Bethany society within one mile distance, one on the first Sunday afternoon of each month, and the other on the second Sunday. Now, what we would like to see these two societies come together as one, meet at Enterprise on the first Sunday of each month and have a real good singing society. We would have a splendid place—good piano, plenty of room and seats. I have talked with several singers and others and none have objected. Mr. J. W. Devaughn is now chairman of Bethany society and a good one. On last Sunday it was agreed, by all who were present, to meet at Enterprise next first Sunday, sing and bring these two societies together as one.

We all know in union there is strength, so come on everybody and let's put our singing on top. Visitors invited, glad to have you.

Our Saturday night singing at Enterprise has been called in for the winter months and until our lighting system gets in better condition.

Every body remember the first Sunday in November—Enterprise, beginning promptly at 2 o'clock.—Chairman.

Listen, you ladies near Poplar Springs that don't attend these club meeting are really missng something. Why not start now? Some to our next meeting at Mrs. J. K. Millers on Friday, November 1, at 2 o'clock. You will learn lats. Be sure to come. We are always glad to have visitors too.—Reporter, Ruth Minor.

LIVING COSTS UP, SURVEY REVEALS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An advance in the living costs of wage earners and low salaried workers is reported Monday by the Labor Department.

After a survey of 32 cities covering the four-month period ending July 15, the department said the items purchased by this consumer group had increased 2.7 per cent above their June, 1934, cost and 8 per cent above June, 1933.

As compared with the period ending March 15, the department said food, rent and household furnishing costs were up a fraction, while clothing and miscellaneous items dropped slightly. It reported the most marked change as a 4.9 per cent decline in fuel and light costs.

Food costs increased in 20 of the 32 cities.

25% REDUCTION IN RESIDENTIAL ELECTRICITY COST IN TWO YEARS

The United States Department of Labor continues to put out figures showing the steadily mounting costs of living. The only items showing apreciable declines are fuel and light.

It is interesting to know that in Alabama the average rate paid by the residertial customer of the Alabama Power Company has declined 25 per cent. Here is at least one bright ray in the encircling gloom. This drop in rate costs is also being reflected in increased demands for other electrical services.

NINE FACTORS IN CORN-HOG VOTING

Farmers of State Urged to Look Into Conditions Before Balloting

Nine major factors should be weighed by Alabama farmers before marking their ballots in the nation-wide corn-hog referendum next Saturady, October 26, according to F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who is helping formers of the state in administering of the program.

If no control program is adopted, low prices for hogs may be expected beginning in 1937, AAA officials pointed out in the nine points which farmers should carefully consider.

First is the outlook of the country's small livestock population. Unprecedented drouth which cut the corn crop and the harvest of other feed grains almost in half last year forced farmers to strip their herds and flocks down to the smallest number of grain-consuming animals on farms in 34 years. Furtherfore, the country's livestock population will not have been rebuilt to any great extent by the beginning of 1936.

Second, although farmers have 15 per cent less livestock than they had during the five year period 1928-1932, it is estimated that at the close of this year's harvest they will have enough feed supplies for almost as many animals as the average during the five-year period. The grain supply per animal this winter is therefore expected to be larger than in any year since the World War, except 1926.

Acreage Higher

Third, if there is no adjustment program in 1936, farmers will be likely to harvest more than 100 million acres of corn. They harvested about 105½ milion acres n 1932 and 1033, and a recent government report indicates a 1935 harvest of nearly 94 million acres. Acreage this year was held down to 94 million because carn-hog contract signers retired about 11½ acres. With average yields, an uncontrolled acreage of corn next year would mean a production of more than 2½ billion bushels. Since it is doubtful that the number of grain consuming animals will be increased enough in 1936 to bring the grain supply per animal back to normal, the amount of feed per head would continue high during the 1936-37 feeding season.

Fourth, With a large supply of corn, and too few animals to utilize it, the trend of prices of corn during the coming year is expected to be downward. With uncontrolled production next year, the farm price received from the 1936 crop may be expected to average much less than the price received for this year's harvest.

Fifth, it is possible for the hog population to increase rapidly durng the next two or thee years. Furthermore farmers would be forced to resort to this means of utilizing their feed supplies if production were uncontrolled. Wth unlimited farrowing in 1936 a total pig crop of 25 to 30 per cent larger than the 1935 crop may be expected. This would lead to a similar increase in 1937, causing 1937 farrowings to total from 50 to 70 per cent heavier than in 1935.

LOW PRICE POSSIBLE

Sixth, in the past ruinously low farm prices have always resulted from unlimited increases in corn and hog production following periods in which livestock numbers and feed supplies have been out of balance. If no control program is adopted, low prices for hogs can be expected, beginning in 1937.

Seventh, it is likely that the gradual economic recovery which has been under way since 1933 will continue, but no improvement in the export demand for pork products can be expected. Since the war, American exports of pork and pork products have declined gradually by the equivalent of eight million head of live hogs.

Eighth, a considerable increase in hog production above the present drouth-reduced level is desirable from the standpoint of both the farmer and the consumer. On the other hand, an ultimate increase in hogs is not to the interest of either.

Nineth, an adjustment program can allow for a healthy increase in hog numbers and at the same time keep corn acerage at a more desirable level.

The county Committee of the corn-hog Control Association for Chilton County will hold an election at the County Agent's office, Clanton, Ala., on Saturday, October 26, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 4 p.m. for those who wish to vote on the corn-hog Control Program. Any farmers who grew corn or hogs in 1935 may vote in this referendum.

During the remaining minutes until adjournment, the assembly was entertained by the witty and humerous remarks of Joseph Maddox and the Popwell twins. The next regular meeting of the chapter will be held on the first Monday of next month, November 4th, at 7:00 p.m. —John M. Higgins, reporter.

Dear Editor:

Will you please give me just a small space in the good old paper to tell the people throughout the county that I have moved to the Log Cabin home? And when you are passing by, don't forget me. I need all of the help you can give me. There are lots who pass me by, and lots of stumbling blocks are thrown in my path, but good people remember, I have got to live and my only chance is to run a little store. It is a hard living.

Again I will say, don't forget to trade just a little with me when you are passing my way. I am a helpless cripple. God doesn't forget me, so don't you. Thank you, Mr. Editor.—Reauby Chasteen.

Now, when it comes to a cigarette that will suit you . . . you want to think whether it's mild, you want to think about the taste

That Chesterfields are milder and taste better is no accident . . .

The farmer who grows the tobacco, the warehouseman who sells it at auction to the highest bidder, every man who knows about leaf tobacco will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobaccos to make a good cigarette.

In making Chesterfields we use mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobaccos.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

God has a program and His program will "go over" sooner or later. The plan of redemption will be finally consummated. Creation will be restored to nought. We may differ about how his program will be brought to nought. We may differ about how this program will be carried on, but the Bible sets forth two essential things. First, "it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save people". In this church age the gospel is reaching the lost. Men are being saved. This church age will come to an end. Then, according to the writer's understanding of the scripture, Jesus Christ will come back to this earth literally, bodily, visibly and will reign on the earth. He will be King of Kings and Lord of Lords. There is to be a new heaven and a new earth and former things are to pass away. We Christians who are faithful to God are on the winning side. Victory may be delayed but victory is sure. All the things of the world are vanity. Temporal things will pass away. The unseen things are eternal. Victory is coming. It may be nigh.

My son, Dr. Bob Jones, Jr., acting president of Bob Jones College and head of the History Department of the institution, asked me recently if I had noticed that the Bible teaches that Abraham believed God and it was counted unto him for righteousness and then further on in the same chapter it says that Abraham asked God for a sign. The Lord demanded a sacrifice. Abraham divided the sacrifice and put it in two piles and for the rest of the day he spent his time keeping the vultures away. If we trusted God more instead of asking for a sign we wouldn t have to spend so much time fighting the vultures. The experience of the writer teaches him that practically all the trouble we have comes from the fact that we do not trust God. We rely upon the arm of the flesh or we depend upon uncertain riches. We ask God for a sign and then we spend our lives driving the vultures of sorrow awayfrom us. Remember, we Christians are to walk by faith and not by sight.

THOU SHALT NOT PLAY DOMINOES IF IT BE SUNDAY

Just how far the ruling will go towards cramping the style of Alabama fox hunters, there is no way of telling —but the office of Attorney General, Albert A. Carmichael held yesterday that it is a violation of the law to hunt fox on Sunday in this state, even though the hunting is done with dogs only.

Furthermore, it is a violation of the law to play cards or dominoes or indulge in racing on Sunday. These prohibitions are contained in section 5,539 of the code of 1923, though it is probable that Alabamians are unaware of the fact.

Specific attention is called to it, how ever, in the opinion containing the ruling which was rendered to Sheriff A. F. Lee of Greene County, answering his inquiry as to whether Sunday fox hunting, with dogs only, is a violation of the section, which reads in part as follows:

"Certain acts prohibited on Sunday; punishment.—Any person who compells his child, apprentice, or servant to perform any labor on Sunday, except the customary domestic duties of comfort, or works of charity; or who engages in shooting, hunting, gaming, card playing, domino playing, or racing on that day. . ."

The punishment for violation of the provisions of this section is a fine of not less than $10, or more than $100; or not more than three months in jail.

In the opinion forwarded to the Greene County sheriff, the point is emphasized that "hunting" is the act prohibited. "It being of no moment that dogs only are used in the perpetration of such act."

VERBENA WINS OVER ISABELLA 7 to 0

Verbena won their fourth game of the season by defeating Isabella's big eleven by one touchdown. Isabella had one of the best lines that Verbena has played. Verbena made very little through the line. Both teams played hard making about the same number of first downs.

Verbena scored in the first quarter when Marshall Williams started on an end run and cut back off tackle for forty yards and went across the goal line standing up. There was some good blocking on this play. The extra point was made by Robert Williams on a straight buck to the right.

The outstanding players for Verbena were Marshall Williams, Reeder Cathey and Martin Waller.

Verbena has an open date for a game on October 25, and would like to fill it if some team near here has an open date then.

Jesse Frank Foshee and Grover Harkins spent the week end in Clanton.

BOOKS NEEDED AT CCC CAMP

Textbooks in various subjects are needed at the CCC camp. Especially needed are texts in English, spelling, arithmetic and citizenship. Texts in almost any subject can be used.

Since the school texts for the state have been changed, the books used last year by the children no longer have any commercial value. Since this is the case, the camp authorities wish to ask the people of Clanton to give these books for the use of the CCC classes.

Books may be brought to the school by the children and turned over to the principals, and the company truck will be sent to pick up the books. Or if anyone with books to give will call 132, the company truck will be sent direct to the house to get the books.

All who give books for this purpose may be assured of the very great appreciation of the CCC boys, practically none of whom are able to buy books for the courses that they wish to study.

BOX SUPPER

There will be a box supper at Mineral Springs school, Friday night, October 25. Contests will be open to all. Everyone is invited to come. —D. P. Culp, principal.

W. T. PIERSON AGAINST THE BANKHEAD ACT

Editor Union-Banner:

I saw in the Union-Banner that you and the Chilton County News have up a controversy as to whether you would do away with the A. A. A. and want the citizens to vote on it.

Now, I am not a citizen of Chilton County but our Baptist church is almost on the line between Chilton and Dallas and I would vote to do away with the triple A.

If I buy a piece of land in Alabama and pay for it—say 100 acres—it is absolutely none of Bankhead's business what I plant on it. In fact I do not believe Bankhead was ever elected the last time he ran for U. S. Senator, but that the Hon. Tom Heflin was really elected in his stead and should have been so declared. But you know what the ballot box stuffers of Alabama can do for a good man. Yours for killing the A. A. A.—W. T. Pierson, Plantersville, Ala.

The Christian Endeavor had a very interesting program Sunday evening. The program centered around this topic, "The Chains of Prejudice." This was discussed under the following headings: "Why we Dislike people," "Groups that we dislike,", "Breaking down Prejudices", Christian Actions". The whole membership took part in the discussion. Thorsby Institute News

Last Saturday night Miss Katheryn Foss gave a voice recital at Thorsby Institute. The program given was the same as the one that she gave at Piedmont in her graduating recital. She sang in German, Swedish, Italian and English. She had memorized the songs and put a great deal of expression into her singing. She sang some very difficult songs with apparent ease and accuracy of tone. Miss Foss was accompanied beautifuly by her Piedmont college class-mate, Mrs. Milton White of Phoenix City, Alabama.

Monday morning at chapel Dr. Henry J. Bennett, a brother of Mrs. F. B. Ensminger and a returned missionary from Western Japan, gave a most interesting talk on Japan. Thorsby Institute is fortunate from time to time in having a variety of speakers at the daily chapel programs.

A week ago Monday Mrs. Jamie Sutlive, mother of Mr. V. H. Sutlive, who is a teacher at Thorsby Institute, gave a talk at chapel about New London, Connecticut, where she had been with her son and family for a year. She saw many interesting things which she told about.

A week from Saturday night, Nov. 2, at 7:30 p.m., the second open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society will be held. The program will consist of songs, plays, and living pictures from "The Simkins-Family Album". Every one is invited to come. The admission will be ten cents.

NEXT YEAR — THE NEW DEAL

Next year, as in the past, the American people primarily will be voting not for somebody and something, not so much their likes or dislikes. The question here is not the wisdom of a theory but the existence of a fact, a fact, a condition, not readily to be changed.

The people voted their dislikes three years ago. The G. O. P. can see to it that it does not give them the chance to do it again. It will be an easier task than it was in 1932, because it is the New Deal this time that will be on the defensive. The minority will have to offer something that will be more likable than what the people now have. It cannot do that by offering what has been rejected. But it can win support by offering correction of unworkable policies and pledging itself to what is fundamental to national recovery—that is, constructive, sound, trusworthy and enlightened administration. — Kansas City Star.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The principal topic of newspaper dispatches and of conversation is at this moment the between Ethiopia and Italy. We are being furnished with maps showing the positions of the armies and the strategic points together with the progress which is being made by the invading European forces. The Ethiopians are steadily falling back, although the campaign has barely begun and the defenders have not yet elected to make a defensive stand, and the general consensus of opinion in the United States seems to be that Mussolini has as good as won. One hears nearly every time the subject of conversation comes up that, no matter how brave the soldiers of Haile Selassie may be, it cannot be expected that their antiquated arms will stand up against Italian warships, tanks, poison gas and machine guns. Science has taken the romance out of war. The victory no longer goes to the men with the stoutest hearts but to those who have the modernest weapons and the most of them.

In view of all this, isn't it about time that we draw a lesson for Uncle Sam out of the Afro-Italian conflict? The frist thing we naturally do is to express thanks the United States is out of the mess, that because of the wisdom of many of our statesmen, we have elouded membership in the League of Nations and the World Court, and can therefore take an independent position, offering our neutral services in the cause of peace if and when the opportunity presents itself. But there is another "horrible example" for us in all of this cruel carnage and destruction. Ethiopia is comparatively defenseless so far as military equipment is concerned. She is being invaded by a foreign foe in search of her undeveloped treasures, her towns are being bombed and her women and children have suffered in the carnage. And all of this is happening because Ethiopia was not prepared for modern warfare. Haile Selassie possesses no navy; he has few machine guns, fewer tanks and airplanes, and what equipment he possesses is for the most part supposedly out of date. Therefore Ethiopia must suffer, just as China and other nations who failed to prepare for national defense have suffered.

If Ethiopia possessed a good navy there would not be so many hundreds of thousands of Italian troops in a threatening position. If she had a modern airplane fleet and other military equipment, Mussolini would not be so anxious to hunt for Ethiopian minerals. With the defenses which nature has afforded her she would be practically impregnable, or at least the game of subduing her would not be worth the candle. Now it may be answered that Ethiopia is too poor to maintain a navy big enough to defend herself, too poor to equip her armies with the latest weapons of warfare. Perhaps this is true. She could not be expected to compete with a modern Europeon power in that respect. But she is being compelled to suffer the consequences—invasion and perhaps worse.

It is here that Uncle Sam ought to draw a real lesson. We have untold natural wealth, far greater than any Ethiopian would dream of. We are separated from Europe and Asia by watery barriers in the form the Atlantic and the Pacific. But we are not too poor to provide an adequate defense for the people of the United States against predatory powers abroad, and we have the genius to prepare such defense. The experience of Ethiopia proves that adequate defense is necessary for peace. The cries of the pacifists that we ought to disarm in the interests of peace to furnish an example for the rest of the world are completely answered by the experiences of Hailie Selassie with Mussolini. Therefore the efforts of certain alleged pacifists, who would sabotage American defense, without waiting for a general disarmament which would include even Soviet Russia, is little short of treasonable. When any pacifist well intentioned or otherwise, tells you that the urge for war, just point out to him the case of Ethiopia. It is a complete answer. Since the deplorable war broke out over there many professional "pacifists" are shouting that the world has gone mad. Perhaps so. But experience shows that the best way to keep the mad dog away from America is to maintain adequate defense.

OUR FARM EXPORTS (?)

Commenting on the report of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce concerning exports and imports of farm products to the United States, the Washington, D. C. Herald says:

"While farmers are burning harvested crops to stay within arbitrary limits prescribed by the AAA, imports of wheat, oats and other crops have jumped to a record high point, U. S. Chamber of Commerce figures disclosed yesterday.

"Never before in the history of the country have foreign -agricultural products so invaded the American market. Statistics show that if the trend continues American farmers will lose not only their fast-slipping export markets, but their domestic markets as well.

"The fact that the United States with its tremendous supplies of meat products, wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye and other staples should be importing them in large quantities probably comes as a shock to many, but here are some of the figures:

"Meat products imported for the seven months ending August 1 totaling 67,202,628 pounds, compared with 32,066,458 last year.

"There were 23,269,074 bushels of corn imported compared to 176,659, and 10,084,107 bushels of oats compared to 173,468. There were 7,907,760 bushels of rye and 4,768,668 bushels of barley imported, according to the Deartment of Commerce, while the same source discloses neither of these crops was imported for the same period in 1934."

All along the line there has been an increase in our form products importations. In 1934 we imported no tallow and no cottonseed oil. This year we have brought in over 176,000,000 pounds of tallow and more than 122,000,000 pounds of cottonseed oil. Importation of cattle hides has nearly doubled while we have brought in 66,000,000 pounds of peanut oil against 700,000 pounds in 1934 an increase of more than 1,000 per cent."

Of course the freetraders may argue that the amount of our importations is small compared with our total use. Yet they used to talk about the very great importance of the 5 per cent of products we exported as compared with the 95 per cent absorbed in the home market. So they would have you believe that exports are very important but that imports are unimportant in their effect on the producers. There is something screwy about this kind of argument.

The fact is that our favorable balance of trade has been steadily shrinking. If we consider invisible exports of money, such as that spent by tourists abroad and that sent home to relatives by aliens in the United States, the fact is that the balance is against us. What becomes of Secretary of State Hull's argument that we must lower our tariff and get more imports to have more exports because our "favorable" balance of trade is too large? Your guess is as good as anybody's.

There is something almost pathetic in the situation with the State Department lowering tariffs by agreement in an effort to get us large exports while the AAA is seeking to cut the size of our crops until we have nothing to export. But any pity should be expended on the American producer not on the "statesman". In this contest of cross purposes Secretary Wallace seems to have won the first round, aided as he had been by the weather. He has been able to beat Mr. Hull to it because it has been brought that the farmer has nothing to export, and not even enough for the home market, so that our agricultural imports are increasing by leaps and bounds.

Of course farm prices are high, but the foreign farmer is benefitting the most because he is selling what the American farmer does not possess to sell. And the housewife is footing the bill with the processing tax added for good measure.

IS THE CONSTITUTION DEAD?

If there be those who have been thinking that interest in the Constitution of the United States is dead they had better reconsider the evidence. The violence done the federal charter, either directly or indirectly, or proposed for the future, by the New Dealers has awakened a tremendous interest in the historic document, a discussion of its meaning and a purpose to study its revisions.

This awakening has been manifest all over the nation, and was reflected in the oratory which characterized Constitution day recently, in resolutions adopted, in discussion of the subject in high school and college classes, and in a general giving of attention to governmental construction and department responsibilities.

The State Journal wondered just how much interest there was in the Constitution hereabouts. As a sort of feeler and as a contribution to good government, this newspaper printed several thousand copies of the entire text of the Constitution, and offered them for distribution, hardly daring to predict whether or not they would be called for. But the copies were eagerly sought by citizens in all wakes of life in and around Columbus, and additional tens of thousands of copies were printed and called for.

The State Journal takes this incident as indicating clearly that the Constitution is not dead, that consideration of it is not passe, and that there is an intelligent determination that it shall be preserved and protected against the assaults of those who would do it violence.—Ohio State Journal.

51,000 CORPSES

In the eighteen months that ended June 20, 1935, 51,200 persons met death in motor crashes in this country. More than 1,300,000 were injured.

The bare statistics, though provoking as they are, cannot give an adequate picture of the horror of major automobile accidents. Figures cannot express broken bones—mangled bodies—crushed Skulls—obliterated features—decapitated bodies—and all the rest of the results of fatal motor crashes. Nor can figures picture the tragedy of parentless children and broken-hearted dependents of the victims of recklessly driven cars.

In a recent article in Readers' Digest, F. C. Furness wrote: "A first-class massacre is only a question of scale and numbers—seven corpses are no deader than one. Each shattered man, woman or child who went to make up the 36,000 corpses checked up last year had to die a personal death."

That is worth thinking about next time you take the wheel of your car. Driving at excessive speeds may, if you get away with it, save you ten minutes in a fifty-mile run. If you don't get away with it, it may mean your death, or the death of an innocent party. Passing on hills and curves, weaving through thick traffic and taking other chances may save you a minute or two more—or it may mean a crushed body on the pavement, its bones twisted and broken, its eyes staring and sightless.

It's up to you—to everyone who drives a car. Is recklessness worth its horrible cost?

MAN IN THE MOON

NEW COTTON PLAN

We wonder just how the new proposed plan for controlled production cotton is going to suit the masses. Right off, I imagine there will be some who will kick at the new plan, but I do not believe there will be as many kickers at this plan as there are at the present one.

The new plan calls for three amendments to the present plan. (1) That the production allotment be based on the number of dependents on a farm—hence, a big family would be allowed to grow more tax free cotton than a small one. In this manner the production of cotton would be based on population, and not on numbers of acres, or past production records. I believe this to be a more fair division, and there certainly would be no chance for graft in production allowance, as is the case now.

(2) That the penalty for over-production be along the same lines as that in other lines of endeavor. It is a potent fact that the tax on cotton over the production allowance figure is nothing more nor less than an income tax. Now, in the case of the cotton farmer, this tax amounts to 50 per cent of the overproduction, while with salaried people, wage earners, industrial workers, etc., this income is only a small part of that collected from farmers.

(3) That an embargo be placed on all imports of raw cotton, manufactured cotton goods, and all by-products of cotton until the domestic cotton production is exhausted.

It is pointed out by advocates of this new plan that if officials should find that such a production program would cause an overproduction of raw cotton, a pro-rata reduction could be brought about, with the peg-price raised by the same percentage as the quota, allowing the farmer an income commensurate with his needs, yet, removing the problem of a surplus.

We think this a fair plan. There may have to be further details worked out, such as the amount allowed per family member, the peg price per pound, etc., but in the main, the idea is a sound and workable one. The plan is being submitted to Sen. John H. Bankhead, originator of the present program.

THE OPENING GUN

Two years ago we were told by Democrats over the country that President Roosevelt would not have to even stage a speaking tour in order to be reelected in 1936. But it seems times have changed in these two short years.

Various elections on the Atlantic seabord have proved to both Democrats and Republicans alike that this section of the country has gone thru a complete reversal of opinion. In the New England states these elections have shown Reublicans taking over the reins of government from Democrats who were carried in on the giant Democratic wave of 1932.

Of course this has been quite heartening to the national Reublican party, and, in like manner, the Democrats have read their handwriting on the wall in this section. Consequently, Mr. Roosevelt did not open his new campaign there, as he did in 1932. That year he was quite confident of the support of the eastern part of the country before he even fired a gun in the mid-west and far west. Now, knowing the futility of any of his efforts in the east, he has shot his opening gun in the mid-west "America's bread basket".

Recently he made a speaking tour through the middle section of the country, whooping it u pfor the AAA. It was not an official campaign tour, yet it was so recognized by both parties. Reports from Democratic quarters were that his speeches were well attended, and received a warm reception everywhere. However, newspapers from the very section where he appeared had an entirely different story to tell. They, too, reported good attendance, but declared that farmers came in to hear the president and judge for themselves if he had anything new to offer in the way of a farm program, and finding none, were quite disappointed.

So, with the east a Republican concession, the mid-west the same big question mark it was before 1932, and the far west chafing under the restraints and restrictions of the New Deal and threatening to jump back into the Republican fold, at the slightest provocation, the picture seems to leave only the South as firmly safe for the Democrats, and even that has crumbling edges, with Kentucky and one or two other states apt to slide over on the Republican side of the ledger.

THIS BREATHING SPELL

After about three years of monarchistic control, the president only recently declared a "breathing spell". He said that he believed that his New Deal had accomplished its purpose, and that the nation was now due a breathing spell. Some Democratic commentators think the president's term was not so apt, as the term "breathing spell" leaves the impression that heretofore the nation has been under some kind of pressure.

That is just what we, as well as many other Republicans, have been contending, that we were under unwarranted pressure. And we have contended all along that if this pressure could be removed, business would pick up of its own accord faster than it was doing under pressure.

What gives us a laugh, though, is the turn that Democratic editors took in giving the president credit for "allowing" the breathing spell. It seems that they look on it just as they would if the warden of a prison should suddenly go soft-hearted and decide to allow all prison inmates a day of rest—giving us something extra, as it were. Really, what the president did was only to relinquish what little iron rule the supreme court had left him when it turned thumbs down on the NRA. He merely allowed the country to go back under the same style as it was before his high-handed NRA went into effect, which, as stated before, we contended right along would be best after all, and would have to be done in the long run. In short, Mr. Roosevelt's breathing spell was a hard loser's give-up shot. Now, the term "breathing spell" denotes more tribulation of the kind served in the past to be served in the future, but we do not believe Mr. Roosevelt will try anything so high and mighty again this term. The time for reelection is too near, and, too, he has had proved to him that he is not going to be able to get away with his autocratic tactics any way. Therefore, he has tried to save his face as far as possible, and has "allowed" this breathing spell. We predict it will be a long breathing spell.

Statistics given out since the breathing spell began prove our contention that we are better off without the NRA—trade figures go to prove it. And between the reversal of public opinion regarding the New Deal since the public has had a chance to realize the futility of it all, and the bomb shells the supreme court has lighted beneath these high and mighty New Deal ideas, the whole New Deal is proving to be the colossal flop we predicted all the while.

POOR ETHIOPIA

The struggle between Italy and Ethiopia is now on. We have it from the Italian propagandists themselves that what their government is seeking to do is to civilize Ethiopia. It seems that that country is in a backward and barbaric situation which needs some enlightening treatment from a civilized state. Besides, Ethiopia is said to have some valuable mineral deposits which might be used to enlarge Mussolini's place in the sun. For years the Fascist dictator has been preaching bigger and more active Italian families. Now he discovers that Italy proper is so small there is no place to locate the increasing population. So he has set about civilizing Ethiopia to make a little room for surplus Italians.

The civilizing treatment may be a little rough, but Mussolini and his generals feel that it is bound to succeed. It consists of approaching the Ethioians with mustard gas, tanks, heavy artillery, bombing planes and other instruments of advancing culture. Since most of the Ethiopians are so barbarous they don't ever wear shoes, we are informed that the invaders plan to teach them a lesson by scattering over the sidewlaks a chemical which will burn holes through the soles of a naked foot, even an Abyssinian foot.

The rest of the world in properly horrified by the adventure in advancing European civilization. Great Britain is especially horrified and France doesn't like it either. Hitler is saying nothing because he seems still waiting to see what kind of language will be the most profitable.

England and France have a right to feel horrified. For several generations they practiced the same sort of civilizing on poor ignorant natives that the Italians are now using. By getting in early they were able to grab off enough territory to take care of their needs indefinitely. They found that it was no longer necessary to go civilizing with shotgun and bayonet so in recent years they have given up the practice—especially since there doesn't seem to be much left that is worth the effort. They are properly chagrined that Mussolini is doing something which they outgrew more than a dozen years ago. Great Britain is chagrined some more because Mussolini's drive might endanger some of her Egyptian interests and the Suez Canal route. France is chagrined further because Mussolini has almost succeeded in putting her on the spot. She o-kayed the Italian adventure some months ago in return for a promise of help at home, and then found that John Bull, another of her assistants, didn't like it so well.

So, taken all in all, there is a tremendous uproar. Mussolini is going ahead to shoot the barbarians full of civilization and Great Britain and France are chagrined because he has "stolen their stuff," so to speak, although the copyright seems to have expired years ago.

If the thing keeps up and Mussolini goes fare enough and fast enough the European propagandists will do their best to involve Uncle Sam seriously against Italy in the "interest of the poor Ethiopians.' But if a compromise can be arranged the fight will be localized and it will all end in Haile Selassie's paying the bill, both to Mussolini and John Bull. Of course this may be expensive but it costs money to be civilized.

In the meantime let us hope that Uncle Sam conitnues to mind his own business.

HOW FARMERS FEEL

Nothing makes a person as mad as to be made to feel that someone "looks down upon" him. Ever since I have been knee high to a duck I have heard fun poked at rural people—not to their faces, mind you, for these sturdy sons of the soil will take a poke at the nose of any smart guy who would be so indiscreet. But the fact remains that, for the most part, city and town people seem to feel some kind of superiority over their rural cousins. Why this should be the case I cannot imagine—I know only that it is true.

In the controversy which has held forth for some time, and is still a moot question, concerning whether farmers are better off now than under the old cotton plan, I have heard many discussions of the needs of farmers. Many times I have heard merchants—Clanton Merchants, too—say that farmers should not have to buy anything to eat. Nothing makes me madder than to hear some merchant who depends on the trade of country people for his own living break out with an assertion of this kind. Take away the purchases of foodstuffs in Clanton which the rural people buy, and about half the food stores in Clanton would have to close their doors.

There are Clanton merchants who have the brass to say that farmers should raise all they eat, and, if you press them, they will leave with you an impression that they believe that most any old kind of clothes are good enough for farmers. In my estimation, the rankest backwoodsman has a right to as good food, as good clothes, and as nice a home as his city cousin. His children have just as much right to a good education as the child in town. He has as much right to drive an automobile as anybody, no matter what his vocation. And, in nine cases out of ten, if the snickering "jelly bean" city boy had to work for his money as hard as the farmer does for his, the farmer would dress the best on Sunday. The next time you hear some "city slicker" make a wise crack about the appearance of a farmer, you can safely put it down in your little book that the farmer carries the difference in his head, and not on his back.—Man in the Moon.

POTATO NULLIFICATION

One of the AAA's biggest problems has been the potato control legislation passed by the last Congress. Unheralded and unknown to most of us, it burst across the sky with meteoric brilliance when a few enterprising newspaper correspondents published in their periodicals the fact that it regimented every man who grew a few bushels of spuds, provided for potato stamps, and against potato bootlegging, and was designed to raise the price of the humble tuber to the point where it could look porkchops and bacon in the face without blushing.

So great was the outcry from small potato raisers and householders already bedeviled by the high price of flour and pork products that there was intimation it might be impossible to enforce the regulations because Senator Long had filibustered an appropriation bill to death. Some friends even intimated that the passage of the potato regulation act was a Republican plot to put the Brain Trusters "in bad" with the housewife. Later it developed that the act was sponsored by a true and loyal Democratic statesman from North Carolina.

But at any rate the agitation against potato regimentation had its effect and newspapers of October 3, quoted Secretary Wallace that "I am going to do all I can to avoid enforcing the Potato Control Bill." Later he is said to have added, "I've merely indicated my own attitude."

But the good secretary reckoned without all his host. The potato moguls from every state which boasts of potato moguls assembled in Washington in a belligerant mood. Their expenses were paid not by the AAA or any other branch of the government. They dug down in their own jeans and bought their own tickets because they were angry and wanted to do something about it.

The session in a department of agriculture edifice was a stormy one. The potato moguls were really sore about the statement credited to Mr. Wallace that he would do what he could to avoid enforcing the potato bill. Late in the session Secretary Wallace is said to have appeared and made a "clarifying statement but only after the potato barons had intimated that the AAA had been bluffed out of its potato regulation plans by the Liberty League or Congressman "Jim" Wadsworth who had announced that he would raise as many potatoes as he pleased.

Secretary Wallace is said to have smiled beneficiently to the assemblage and to have explained that his personal attitude in no way altered the enforcement of "Compulsory legisaltion." It is said that he also suggested a referendum to find out just how much support the potato act has among the spud growers of the country.

The significant thing is not the division of opinion among potato growers on the regulation law. It lies in the fact that the secretary of agriculture proposes according to the press, to do what he can to avoid enforcing the law. Is it an intimation that he desires to render aid and comfort to potato bootleggers or that he thinks there are more votes to be saved in not enforcing the act than votes to be gained in enforcing it?

The time was when people had an old fashioned idea that when Congress passed laws it was the duty of the executive department to enforce them. Mr. Wallace is a very important member of the executive department. But evidently the impression that laws were passed to be enforced belongs to the horse and buggy days. If we are going to have a referendum why not let the potato growers vote on whether or not they want to have the law enforced. What is a little thing lake the constitutional rights of Congress among friends?

And to think what that sturdy Democrat Andy Jackson said and did about nulification!

CLEVELAND WARNED

"No thoughtful American," Cleveland said, "can shut his eyes to the truth, that when our people regard their government as the source of individual benefit and favoritism, and when their interest in it is measured by the extent to which they hope to realize such benefit and favoritism, our popular government is in dangerous hands and its entire perversion is alarmingly imminent.

"When, therefore, men in high places of trust, charged with the responsibility of making and executing our laws, not only condemn, but flippantly deride cheapness and economy within the homes of our people, and when the expenditures of the government are reckless and wasteful, we may be sure that something is wrong with us and that a condition exists which calls for a vigorous and resentful defense of Americanism by every man worthy to be called an American citizen."

We can look back now and wish that we had taken heed of the Cleveland warnings instead of turning the government into a gift shop and ridiculing old fashioned ways of living and buying. Today those who tried to follow the simple precepts are the backbone of the country, suporting hordes of free spenders and wasters.—Meridian, Conn., Journal.

The sum and substance of George Bernard Shaw's advice to Haile Selassie is, "Knuckle under to Mussolini and hang on to your job." What a sad joker that bird turned out to be. —Detroit Free Press.

An Oklahoma girl advertised for a husband and got him. The total expense for advertising, wedding outfit, etc., was $11. He died within a year, leaving her an insurance policy of $10,000. And yet some people claim that it doesn't pay to advertise.—Altoona, Kansas, Tribune.

AAA leaders are said to be trying to find a way to avoid enforcing the potato regulation act. But what is a little matter of law-enforcement among friends, anyhow? That goes back to the horse and buggy age.

CCHS LOSES TO TALLASSEE 18-6

The boys of Chilton County High School lost a hard fought game in the first night game they have been privileged to participate in.

Although outweighed in almost every department and playing under adverse conditions the local boys were a determined group that fought a good fight.

In the first quarter the heavier Tigers from Tallassee were able to push over two touch downs. Our boys came back in the second quarter and made a good showing by not letting the Tallassee team score in this nuarter. C. C. H. S. boys tried their aerial attacks with some success, and were able to gain consistently through Tallassee's line.

In the third quarter Tallassee received another break to pave the way for their other touchdown.

PLEASANT HILL

We are glad to report that the health of our community is some better this week. In fact every thing seems to be getting better every way.

We had a large crowd out for our week end services and we really had a wonderful message delivered to us at each service. Folks, when we fail to go to church we are missing something that God has in store for us.

What a fine thing it would be if each church member would just stop and think that they are a part of something and let us search our every day life and see if we are doing our part in our own church.

We were glad to have the many visitors with us Sunday from other churches. We especially invite them back again. We would not forget to mention too, that our singing Sunday afternoon was well attendtd and we did have a real good singing. However, the writer failed to get a full report of our sing so we will have to leave that untold. We invite the visitors to be back with us again every time it is possible.

On next Sunday night Rev. Cannie Lowery will preach for us at Pleasant Hill. We invite every body, who can, to come out and hear him.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Robinson of Pleasant Grove community spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Cleckler.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cleckler had dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Martin.

Miss Central Cost, Miss Willie Mae Davis and Miss Lurlene Blow spent a while Sunday with Miss Pearlene Martin.

Mr. Dewey Cleckler, Mr. Frank McMullins, Misses Minnie Bolton, Odelle Ellison and Alta Blow were the dinner guests of Miss Datha Cleckler Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Blow, Miss Hazel Blow and Miss Ollie Belle Davis had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin Sunday.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS PROFIT BY GETTING FOREST PRODUCTS APPRAISED

Auburn, Ala.,—Farmers will profit by getting a careful estimate of the forest products to be sold, by obtaining prices or bids from several parties, and by securing a written agreement, signed by both parties, advises D. J. Weddell, assistant professor of forestry.

"Many examples could be given where the seller of a block of timber has received double the original offer after the tract to be sold has been estimated and the amount to be sold definitely known," he says.

BUTTER CONSUMPTION IS LOW IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala.,—The annual per capita consumption of butter in thirteen of Alabama's leading cities amounts to an average of only 10 pounds of butter per year compared with 17 pounds per capita in the United States, reports Prof. A. D. Burk, head of the dairy department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in pointing out that "butter is one of our most important health producing foods."

WALNUTS INCREASE FARM CASH INCOME

Auburn, Ala. — North Carolina farmers are receiving thousands of dollars each year from blackwalnuts, many of which go to waste annually on Alabama farms.

Walnuts are being sold in the shell and as cracked kernels in grocery candy and drug stores almost everywhere, reports R. W. Graeber, North Carolina extension forester, who calls attention to one farmer who sold 16 barrels of kernels during the past season.

TURKEYS REQUIRE PROPER ATTENTION

Auburn, Ala.,—Six weeks before marketing, turkeys should be separated into three groups: (1) breeders for next season; (2) birds ready to finish out for market; and (3) immature or light weight birds which need a longer period of growth.

This is advised by John E. Ivey, extension poultry specialist, who says that turkeys should be given growing mash and grain at night in addition to being permitted to range on cowpeas, grain sorghum, peanuts or alfalfa during the day.

A good growing mash may be made by mixing 50 pounds of yellow corn meal, 15 pounds shorts, 15 pound bran, 10 pound meat scrap, 5 pounds dried milk, 5 pounds alfalfa leaf meal, and ½ pound of iodized salt," he states. "The dry mash can be kept in open hoppers, or can be fed as a crumbly wet mash in the afternoon. Feed all the milk available. Gauge the rate of development by your feeding so that the birds will finish at a desired time. Do not force early-hatched birds along too rapidly."

Where the farmer desires to place the birds in close quarters and force feed them for the last four or six weeks, Mr. Ivey suggests the following fattening mash: 60 pounds white corn meal, 25 pounds wheat grey shorts, 10 pounds dried buttermilk, 4 pounds meat scrap and 1 pound salt. "Another good fattening ration may be made by adding 50 pounds of corn meal to the above growing mash," he adds.

"Use the method which suits your condition best, but remember that it pays to exchange four to six pounds of feed for a pound of turkey meat," he concludes.

Miss Jeanette Culver, of Clanton visited relatives in Birmingham Saturday and attended the circus. She was accompanied by her friend, Mr. Henry Jenks, of Key West, Florida.

Pianists for the afternoon were: Misses Virginia Eubanks and Dessie Wyatt. Closing prayer was led by Mr. E. T. Weldon.

Everyone remember our singing every third Sunday afternoon. We are glad to have you at any time.

THE NEW FORD V·8 FOR 1936

Why do we say The New Ford V-8 for 1936?

What is new about it?

Of course, the newest engine in the low-price car field is still the V-8 engine. Since Ford made it available to all car users (keeping it as economical as cars with fewer cylinders) the Ford V-8 has been the newest engine on the market, and remains the newest for 1936.

You may buy a car on minor "talking points"—some specially advertised feature "with the car thrown in"—but, after all, it is the engine you buy when you buy a car. Hence we put the engine first.

Other new points about the car make a long list.

Its lines are much more beautiful. The hood is longer and sweeps forward over the distinctive new radiator grille, giving the car a length and grace that are instantly impressive. The fenders are larger, with a wide flare. Horns are concealed behind circular grilles beneath the headlamps. New steel wheels.

Ford upholstery—always of sterling quality and excellent taste—is rich and enduring. The appointments of the car have a new touch of refinement. There is no question about the increased beauty of the Ford V-8 for 1936.

In more practical matters, many improvements have been made—Steering is made easier by a new steering gear ratio. The cooling system circulates 5½ gallons of water through a new, larger radiator. Natural thermo-syphon action is assisted by two centrifugal water pumps. New style hood louvres permit a rapid air-flow around the engine.

Easier, quieter shifting of Ford gears—The gear shift lever now travels a shorter distance.

The two qualities you want in brakes—Brakes that stop the car with ease and certainty. Ford Super-Safety Brakes of the long-tested, fool-proof, mechanical design.

Safety—as always—in the electrically welded genuine steel body. Safety Glass all around at no extra cost. Hundreds have written grateful letters because this glass has protected the safety of their families.

A car you can drive without strain all day, if you like, in city or country. Steady, holds the road, responds to the driver's touch like a well-trained horse. You don't have to "push" or "fight" the Ford V-8—driver and car easily get on terms of good understanding with each other.

An engine has much to do with the roominess of a car. Very much indeed. A long engine uses up car space. The compact V-8 engine permits much of the ordinary engine space to be used by passengers.

It really is a great car in every way, this 1936 Ford V-8—the finest, safest, most dependable Ford car ever built. Now on display by Ford dealers.

C. C. C. BUILDS BRIDGES

Montgomery.—The construction of vehicle bridges by the Civilian Conservation Corps, although generally following standardized specifications, presents many interesting sidelights, particularly with regard to the bridges requiring a piling foundation, according to the Alabama Commission of Forestry.

In driving bridge piling the C. C. C. uses many methods to penetrate the soil according to the equipment and facilities available. In sandy soil a jet is used, while in heavy soils an engine driven pile driver with a heavy hammer is required. One of the camps has a small hand operated pile driver with twelve foot leads and a block of black gum of approximately the same weight with four handles attached is used as a pile driver. The latter requires eight men to operate it, two men to the handle. Strange to say, the latter method is quite as effective and satisfactory under favorable conditions as any other.

The specifications of such bridges are not as pretentious as those of highway bridges, since the forest roads are not built as regular thoroughfares but mainly for fire protection purposes. However, the structures are quite substantial and are designed to endure for many years.

Bridge construction on State Park projects has resulted in a great range of designs. Planned to fit with existing natural features, bridges of native stone masonary have been constructed to give pleasing results. Foundations for masonry bridges are carried down to solid bed rock. The largest masonry bridge constructed thus far has a semicircular arch opening of 20 feet in diameter. Park bridges fulfill more purposes than forest bridges, and are thus frequently built to higher specifications.

CORN-HOG FARMERS WILL VOTE OCT. 26th

Auburn, Ala.—Do corn-hog farmers of the nation want the AAA corn-hog adjustment program to continue another year?

That question will be answered on October 26 when farmers of Alabama and other states go to the polls and vote. "It rests with farmers themselves whether or not there is enough interest in and demand for a corn-hog adjustment program to justify the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in offering such a program in 1936," state AAA officials.

Every corn and hog farmer in the state, whether or not he signed a 1934 or 1935 contract, will have a chance to vote on the corn-hog adjustment program.

NEGRO SHOT NEAR LOMAX

Sheriff Hardy's office was notified Tuesday night of the shooting of a negro in the community near the Reynolds swimming pool. Investigation showed that the negro had asked for food at several homes in the community, and some people on whom he had called became exctited and fearful. Neighbors were called, and when the negro was seen entering a potato bank, shots were fired, several shot entering the negro's head, neck and shoulders.

When Sheriff Hardy arrived the negro had run, but blood hounds were put on his trail, and he was soon caught. The negro was scared, but gave his address as Montgomery, and stated that he was hungry. Sheriff Hardy said that he could testify to that, for he believed he was the hungriest man he had ever seen.

It is not yet known whether charges will be placed against the negro, as he seems not to have committed any crime, but was merely an exceptionally hungry man, trying to get something to eat.

GEORGE POPWELL HURT IN TRUCK WRECK OCT. 17

George Popwell is in Central Alabama Hospital suffering from severe injuries sustained in a truck wreck near Plantersville last Thursday afternoon.

George, accompanied by John Griffin, was driving a Chevrolet truck, heavily loaded with brick. At the foot of what is known as the Wells hill, a long winding hill near Plantersville, the truck rounded a curve and the driver saw a road tractor and grader across the road. Popwell said the road machine reached from side to side of the road, and there was no room to go around on either side. The havily loaded truck could not be stopped in the few yards intervening. Griffin jumped, and was unhurt. Popwell, however, had no time to get from under the steering wheel. He stated that he steered the truck for the coupling rod between the tractor and grader, hoping that it would jump the rod when it hit, and intending to jump through the windshield if it failed to jump, knowing that the trailer load of brick would come through the cab. When the truck failed to jump the coupling rod, he said he leaped toward the windshield, but the brick crashed through the light cab, pinning him tightly against the steering wheel.

When questioned, George stated that he had no doubt that his attempt to jump through the windshield saved his life, as he was jammed about the hips, and would have had his chest and ribs crushed if he had not jumped.

The cab was crushed like an eggshell, and the steel steering post bent forward from the impact.

Popwell is improving, and hospital attaches stated that he would be up and on his way in a few days, if no unforeseen complications develop.

The Cooke Players will be in Clanton on the opening week of the new theatre which has just been built by Mr. C. W. Wade on Seventh Street, just south of the Dixie Cafe.

The date of opening has not yet been set, but the Cooke Players have already been contracted to help in the opening week.

The Cooke Players are well known to Canton and Chilton County. They have been coming to Clanton for years, and have always put on a good, clean, up-to-date performance. Watch for further announcements as to the opening date for the new theatre, and the program the Cooke Players will have on tap for the opening week.

ANOTHER COTTON MEETING

As The Union-Banner went to press on Wednesday afternoon we were advised that another cotton meeting was being organized by Mr. J. W. Fant, to further discuss the farm question with farmers. We were advised that Dr. L. N. Duncan of Auburn was here to speak also.

A full account of this meeting will be given in next week's issue of The Union-Banner, as time will not permit its publication this week.

We solicit the support of every liberty loving citizen, irrespective of political affiliations, to join with us in this, our honest effort to effect such repeal or change, in the interest of the majority of cotton producers. We offer the following suggestions for proposed changes:

Suggestions

1. That each farm allotment be based on the number of dependants upon that farm, and that the 5-year base allotment plan be discontinued.

2. That the amount of taxes collected on excess cotton be in proportion to State and National income taxes.

3. That a national embargo be placed on all imports of raw cotton, manufactured cotton goods, or any and all by-products of cotton, until such time as domestic cotton production is exhausted.

We respectfully petition our Senator, Hon. John H. Bankhead, author of the cotton control act, to use his influence in having the resent cotton control plan repealed, or the above changes or like changes, enacted.

The Truth About Farmers Meeting

Farmers' Reports Vary From That of Chilton County News

Many various and sundry, and even contradictory reports have been published regarding the second spasm of the farmers meeting at the court house in Clanton last Wednesday afternoon. The Union-Banner had no representative at that meeting, but we have gathered as best we could as accurate information as possible regarding it from more than one person who attended.

For the 2 o'clock meeting it seems that the court room was about filled—that is, about all the seats were taken, which means that around 350 people were there. Mr. J. W. Fant, the county agent, made a few remarks and introduced Dr. L. N. Duncan of Auburn, who spoke for about 30 minutes, emphasizing the amount of money the AAA had brought into the State of Alabama. After Dr. Duncan had spoken about half an hour the people present began to ask him various questions; lots of folks over the audience began talking and asking question at the same time, until the whole meeting became a mass of confusion.

A short talk was made by Mr. C. Reese Mullins, in which he is reported to have voiced the dissatisfaction of the farmers over the present control program.

A proposition was put before the body in which they were asked if they wanted a change in the present agricultural program, and practically every one present voted for a change. A second vote was taken as to killing the AAA completely, at which about 25 voted in favor of discontinuing endefinitely the program. No vote was taken on retaining the law as is.

People gradually left the meeting in disorder; it was not dismissed but everybody kept leaving until they were all out of the courtroom.

THE SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH OF CLANTON ORGANIZED AT VILLAGE

A full-fledged Missionary Baptist church was organized at the Clanton Alabama Mills village last Sunday, October 27th. The presbytery consisted of Rev. J. W. Jones, moderator pro-tem.; Dr. S. J. Ezell, Clerk protem.; Rev. J. S. Holland, and Rev. M. E. Calloway, of Elmore County.

Rev. J. S. Holland of Clanton was chosen as pastor of the new church, and the meeting day was set for the third Sunday in each month. There will be services both morning and evening on meeting days.

The new church will be called the second Baptist church of Clanton.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY GRAMMAR SCHOOL THRUSDAY NIGHT

There will be a Hallowe'en party at the Clanton Grammar school, sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association, Thursday night of this week. The hour to begin is 6:30, and there will be everything that usually goes with such frolics. Everything will be Hallowe'en — witches, fortune-telling dances, etc. The admission price will be 10c for everybody, and the proceeds will go to the Grammar school. The public is cordially invited.

Don't forget the date—tonight, Thursday, October 31st, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. Bring the family.

CIRCUIT COURT IN SESSION AT COURHOUSE THIS WEEK

The Circuit Court of Chilton County is in session at the courthouse in Clanton this week. Civil cases are being tried, and the docket is listed through Thursday, averaging about twenty cases each day.

Those serving on the jury this week are:

FARMERS GIN AND WAREHOUSE HAS SPRINKLER SYSTEM

Representatives of The Union-Banner and The Chilton County News were called to the plant of the Farmers Gin and Warehouse, owned and operated by Mr. F. B. Goodgame, one day last week to witness the operation of a new sprinkler system in the warehouse there.

The system consists of a series of water pipes running throughout the building. Every few feet there has been installed a sprinkler head. A removable plug is placed at the end of the pipe, so that the pipe may be washed out from time to time, as as is released through the sprinkler come fouled with rust, scale, or any kind of trash that might find its way into the pipes.

On the front of the building is the master valve, which governs the flow of water to the system. In case of fire in any part of the warehouse, this valve is opened and a deluge of water heads.

The system was constructed by Mr. Goodgame and Mr. Macey Jones, and is a valuable addition to the warehouse. Farmers should inspect this new sprinkler system, and see for themselves the excellent move Mr. Goodgame has made to provide his customers with the utmost in protection from fire. With this new addition, we believe Mr. Goodgame's warehouse is the best in Chilton Conty, and one of the best in the state.

Mr. Ed Mullins motored to Huntsville Saturday. His mother, Mrs. J. R. Mullins, who had been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott for several days returned home with him Sunday.

1936 CHEVROLETS TO BE HERE SATURDAY

Residents of Clanton and vicinity will have their first opportunity Saturday to inspect and ride in the new 1936 Chevrolet cars, it is announced by "Dick" Hayes of the Hayes Chevrolet Co., whose showrooms is being prepared today for the large number of visitors which the event always attracts.

"There will be both Master DeLuxe and new Standard Chevrolets, not only for display puroses, but for everyone interested in testing the performance and riding qualities of these new lines of cars," said Mr. Hayes. "Due to the early start on Chevrolet production, we have cars on hand for immediate delivery, and the assurance of prompt service and orders. However, the earlier the order is on hand, the sooner buyers will get delivery.

"Orders received prior to tomorrow's announcement will be put on a preferred list for delivery in the next few days. We know it will be greatly to the advantage of every prospective car buyer to see these two new Chevrolet lines before buying any car.

A COCKLE BUR GROWN 3½ FEET FROM GROUND

Mr. P. M. Martin of Union Grove settlement brought to The Union-Banner Saturday a report and the evidence of a peculiar cockle bur. The little plant was noticed to be growing out of a half-inch pipe which was stuck in the ground, the top of which was three and a half feet above the ground. The little plant grew three or four inches out of the top of the pipe, and roots extended through the three and a half feet vacant space into the ground. There were two matured burs on top of the little stalk.

LESSONS TO BE DRAWN FROM THE FARMERS MEETING

[AN EDITORIAL]

The outcome of the mass meetings of the farmers of Chilton County, held at the courthouse last Wednesday, speaks in clear and no uncertain terms. The farmers of Chilton County, contrary to the language of some wiseacres in which they have said that "The farmers do not know what is best for them," have shown that they still have feet to stand on, and they are not going to let some scientific know-all tell them when to squat and when to jump, what to sign and what to take as their portion and keep their mouths shut.

Farmers of Chilton County think for themselves. They may be a pretty common bunch, but they have got sense enough to run their business of farming without being led with a ring in their noses like so many cattle. They know when they are being discriminated against, and they have the backbone to stand up and let their grievances be known.

It does not suffice for some slick-tongued speaker to tell them that they are so much better off in this and that way, when they feel down in their pockets only to find a hole and a hand-full of cancelled certificates, two or three letters from the county agent and maybe a renewal contract to be signed up. Our farmers know when they are better off and when they are not.

They did not fail last Wednesday to let it be known how they feel about the injustices being perpetrated upon them by the authorities in charge of the cotton control methods of the AAA.

There were a thousand to 1,500 farmers in Clanton last Wednesday, most of whom could not get in the courthouse, but it would be conservative to say that 90 per cent of them are not satisfied with the way farming is being regimented in this and other counties. This same feeling was registered in both the morning and afternoon meetings, before and after L. N. Duncan and County Agent J. W. Fant had had opportunity to defend their contentions on the subject. The general sentiment was not changed after they had spoken, notwithstanding the many erroneous and misleading reports made in the Democratic papers regarding the sentiment of the farmers.

And too, in passing, it is interesting to note the contrast in the opinion of the people over the county, as expressed in these meetings and on the streets or anywhere you chance to hear people talking, with the opinions on the question expressed in recent issues of the Democratic Chilton County News. Evidently somebody has missed the mark in figuring this farm question; and we will likely hear more about it later.

It is amusing also to note how The Chilton County News, in reporting the meeting last week, tries to make the farm question a purely political one in Chilton County, and tries to belittle the motives of the movement because some men in it are Republicans. It is true that there are quite a few Republicans in Chilton county, and likely a large percentage of those bucking the cotton control program are Republicans, but we venture to say that none of them are ashamed of the fact that they are Republicans. To the contrary, they are proud of it. And as to a man working in the cotton mill, that, in our opinion, is no disgrace.

The News stated that there were six hundred present at the second farmers meeting last Wednesday afternoon. Why The News stated this we do not attempt to say, when the court room will seat only a scant 350, and it is generally stated by those present that the house was not crowded at all. And too, when the vote was taken in the afternoon the crowd was almost unanimous in asking for a change in the present law.

Evidently the News reporter got his figures crossed and his eyes too, when he reported the afternoon meeting.

Dr. Gragg Foresees Disaster To Small Farmer Unless Changes Are Made

Who's fooling me, or is he fooling me? If I am to believe the figures given out from the AAA or similar authorities, the cotton farmer is growing richer year by year. They say he received about twice as much for his cotton crop last year as the year before, and it was about double the amount received the previous year. In other words they say he has been doubling his money every year for the past three years.

On the other hand when Mr. Farmer comes to pay his bills, he informs us that "we poor farmers are having a "hull of a time". "The government has cut my roduction down till when I paid my fertilizer bill, taxes and maybe rent, it took all they allowed me. I made one bale over my allowance and they took about half of that and here is $15.00 left to buy shoes for my family, school books for my children and pay all my other obligations for the year, which amounts to $100 or probably $200, as the case may be. A very different picture, is it not?

Yet I believe both pictures are true. In the case of a man who is a large land owner and has persisted the last five years in planting all cotton, he can cut his crop half and have more cotton land than his neighbor who had been diversifying his crop, had to start on before his crop was cut, besides getting large rental on that other land which may be put in food crops.'

However, the neighbor who has been trying to raise his own corn, peas, potatoes, cows, hogs, etc., in other words, make a living at home first and then raise a little cotton for necessary spending money as suggested by Auburn and his county agent and his farm paper,—this man's crop is cut in the same proportion as that of the man who has been raising the big cotton crop and has so little cotton and so little rental that he is just about left out of the picture entirely. Yet he is the very man that tried to farm the past five years on the plan suggested by all the farm leaders.

I have in mind now a man, whom I am told, has fourteen in family and was allowed 340 pounds of cotton. How can this man clothe his family and buy school books or pay doctor bills, or bury a member of his family in case death should knock at the door? And there are thousands like that in the south.

I say that I believe both pictures are true, but I believe where one farmer is helped, that ten are injured by the present plan. Now don't understand me to object to some form of production control. I think it is necessary in a way, but let's see if we can't improve on the present way. I see in the future, not far distant I believe, when we will all be told what we must do, and when and where it must be done.

I can't see fairness in telling our farmer that he must make only a half crop of cotton and tax him to death if he does, while the price of other things he must buy goes sky high and at the same time allow the farmer from foreign countries to raise all he pleases and ship it in here to supply the demand and starve our people to death and not allow our farmers to produce and sell and keep the money at home.

I read where millions of yards of cotton cloth are coming from Japan and where whole shiploads of cotton seed meal are being shipped in from China, and I have seen with my own eyes, this summer, whole shiploads of cotton seed oil, corn wheat, coming in at New Orleans from South America.

As further evidence of the truthfulness of my argument, let me call your attention to some of the figures given out by Washington report of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States carried in the Birmingham News, October 2, 1935.

Quoting this statement, "Feeding grains, cattle, meats, butter, vegetable oil and seeds (cotton seed oil, meal, etc) flowed into the United States in heaviest importation in many years.

Wheat shipped in the first half of this year amounted to 12,179,000 bushels, 117 per cent larger than last year. By-products, wheat feeds, 182,000,000 tons (not pounds), 226 per cent over last year. Corn 17,620,000 bushels, 462 per cent more than last year; 230,581 head of cattle, 356 per cent more than last year; imported meat products 58,000,000 pounds, 122 per cent above last year.

This list included oats, butter, suger and many other farm products that our farmers are forced to cut

POST OFFICE FORCE MOVED TO NEW BUILDING ON WEDNESDAY

The Union-Banner was given authority Tuesday morning to announce that the post office employees would move into the new federal building on Tuesday night, with the first mail service from the new building being given on Wednesday.

We have been waiting patiently and hopefully for the change, and the people of Clanton and the surrounding community will welcome the change. The new building is a distinct addition to Clanton, and we are all proud of it.

If you have not visited the new post office, by all means do so. It is a beautiful and modern structure in every way, with every facility for giving the utmost service.

DIEF GETTING STARTED OFF WITH NEW BUSINESS HERE

Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer reports that he is gradually getting started off with his new business in Clanton, located in the new Mullins-Moore building on the highway.

Mr. Dief is trying a new venture in the auto accessories business. He believes that more of the money spent for these things should stay in Clanton rather than be carried away to other cities. In order to keep the trade at home, the price must be in line with those elsewhere, and Dief says he is now situated so that this kind of competition can be met.

We believe that Mr. Diefenderfer has the right idea about this business of keeping the money at home. We should make every effort to trade at home where possible, and the home concerns should make things as attractive to the trade as they can, and price goes a long way.

CLANTON HAS BAKERY OPENED LAST SATURDAY

All are from Montevallo. Only Mr. Davis is a married man, and he expects to move his family to Clanton in the near future.

The name of the place is the Clanton Bakery, and they will do only retail business. Besides regular loaf bread, they are baking rolls, buns, fancy cakes, pies, cinnamon rolls, doughnuts. They make and serve all kinds of sandwiches, hot dogs, cold drinks and coffee.

These young men would like for you to call around and get acquainted with them.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL TO JUDGE W. I. GRUBB

Leader On Federal Bench Dies Suddenly At Residence in Birmingham

Judge William Irwin Grubb, for 26 years judge of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama, died suddenly Sunday shortly before noon at the residence 634 Idlewood Circle, Birmingham, as he was preparing to accompany Mrs. Grubb to church.

Apparently in good health, he presided over the court Saturday. He was cheduled to open court at Florence Monday for that division of the Northern District of Alabama.

Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, March 8, 1863, Judge Grubb attended Yale University and the University of Cincinnati, receiving his law degree from the latter and coming to Birmingham in 1888.

At Yale he was a classmate of Horace Taft, cousin of President William Howard Taft, by whom he was appointed judge of the United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama. Although a Democrat, his ability as a lawyer influenced President Taft, a Republican, to appoint him to this high office, and since that he has been mentioned several times in connection with appointments to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of the United States.

He had reached the retiring age with full pay, but expressed the desire to remain on the bench until his death, a wish that he realized.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hogan spent last Sunday in Deatsville with friends.

New Post Office Dedicated Friday

An Impressive Ceremony Was Carried Out: 2,000 People Attended

Approximately 2,000 people gathered in Clanton Friday for the dedication of the new $45,000 Clanton Postoffice, which was recently completed and will be occupied within a few days. W. B. Wooten, inspector in charge of pst offices, and Congressman Hbbbs spoke.

Mr. Wooten traced the progress of this community, measured by the statistical records in the Postoffice Department, beginning with the establishment of the first postoffice under the name of Goose Pond, Jan. 31, 1871. Alfred Baker was the first postmaster and this territory was known then as Baker county.

One Mail A Week

It became Clanton May 4, 1871. At this time, Mr. Wooten told his audience, there was only one mail each week, supplied by a star route from Welumpka. The mail left Wetumpka every Friday at 8 a.m. and arrived at 12 noon the next day; this star route was 46 miles each way.

Mr. Wooten represented the Postoffice Department in the absence of Postmaster Gen. Farley, who was schduled to speak.

Judge Hobbs spoke to the group that filled the street and vacant lot in front of the new postoffice, paying high tribute to Congressman W. B. Oliver for his efforts for Clanton and Chilton County, declaring that without Mr. Oliver's work the people of this section would not have had the privilege of dedicating one of the finest postoffice buildings in any small city in this state.

The program was begun at 10:30 with a parade of Shriners, led by the Alcazar Temple Band, through the business section of the city, reassembling in front of the postoffice. With C. E. Stapp, former county agent here, presiding, this was one of the most splendid programs ever staged in Clanton.

Mayor Talks

Mayor Jones was the first on the program, speaking in behalf of Clanton. He traced briefly the progress made in this municipality in the ast quarter of a century. "We have looked forward for the past 20 years for this moment," he said. "Today we are indeed proud to be gathered here for the purpose of dedicating this structure to the services of our people."

Probate Judge Smith spoke in behalf of Chilton County, declaring the national administration has taken greater notice of the people in rural sections than has ever been known before. He cited briefly some of the improvements made in this county through the government.

Other speakers were Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent and district governor of the Piolt International; W. M. Wyatt, representing the Clanton Kiwanis Club, and Percy M. Pitts, commander of the local post of the American Legion.

After the completion of the dedication program, the visiting Shriners motored to J. Mell Martin's camp on Lake Mitchell for luncheon.

J. MELL MARTIN IS "FIRST" AT NEW POST OFFICE

When the new Clanton post office was opened last Wednesday morning, Mr. J. Mell Martin, Clanton undertaker drew a group of "firsts."

Mr. Martin rented the first box, No. 86. The first piece of mail delivered was to his box, this being a letter from the National Red Cross, relative to the annual Red Cross roll call, of which Mr. Martin is chairman.

Mr. Martin also mailed the first letter, addressed to Civil Service Inspector, T. C. Gibbs, of the post office department at Birmingham. Mr. Gibbs was the man who picked the location of the new post offfice. He was invited to the dedication last Friday, but was unable to attend, and so was accorded the honor of being the addressee of the first letter mailed at the new post offifce.

THE LEADER OPENS 16th ANNIVERSARY SALE TODAY

The Leader today opens its 16th anniversary sale in Clanton. This store, with Mr. Maurice Lande as proprietor, opened its doors to Clanton people first in the fall of 1919. In the sixteen years this establishment has been a part of the business life of Clanton it has grown from a very modest beginning until now it is one of the leading dry goods stores in the City of Clanton.

Mr. Lande has always conducted his business along good business lines, always selling first quality goods at fair prices, and standing back of his sales from the beginning. From time to time the proprietor of The Leader has seen the need of changing to larger buildings to take care of his growing business. Today The Leader can look back on 16 years of success, brought about by fair dealings and fair prices.

Today Mr. Lande opens The Leaders 16th Anniversary Sale. On another page of this paper you will find a full page advertisement of the event. Read that advertisement, and visit Mr. Lande and The Leader. You will be well repaid for your trouble.

Rev. Glenn V. Tingley of Birmingham was in Clanton Wednesday night.

5 P.M. is a test of how you FEEL

"How do I feel.... Swell!—why do you ask?"

IT is all so simple, too! That tired, run-down, exhausted feeling quite often is due to lack of a sufficiency of those precious red-blood-cells. Just build up these oxygen-carrying cells and the whole body takes on new life... food is really turned into energy and strength ...you can't help but feel and look better. S.S.S. Tonic restores deficient red-blood-cells... it also improves the appetite and digestion. It has been the nation's standby for over 100 years... and unless your case is exceptional it should help you, too. © S.S.S. Co.

Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red cellophane-wrapped package. The big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment... it's more economical.

S.S.S. TONIC Makes you feel like yourself again

BULBS SHOULD BE PLANTED NOW

Auburn, Ala. — Spring - flowering bulbs, such as tulips, hyacinths, grape hyacinths, crocus, etc., planted from now until November 15 will roduce a good root system ready to support good, strong flowers next spring, says E. W. McElwee, assistant professor of horticulture.

"Soil for bulbs should be well prepared to a depth of 8 to 10 inches and given a good application of well-rotted manure or fertilized with 4-8-4 or some other good complete fertilizer at the rate of 4 pounds per 100 square feet of bed," he advises. "The manure or fertilizer should be mixed well with the soil. A good friable soil that is well drained is best for bulbs."

Prof. McElwee recommends that following depths and spacing for bulbs: Crocus and grape hyacinths, 2 inches deep, 2 inches apart; hyacinths, 4 inches deep, 7 inches apart; tulips, 4 inches deep, 5 inches apart; narcissus, 4 inches deep, 12 inches apart; and lilies, 5 inches deep and 12 or more inches apart.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FUMIGATION PROTECTS CORN AGAINST WEEVILS

Auburn, Ala.—By fumigating their corn with carbon disulphide, Alabama farmers can protect their corn crop against a $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 loss caused each year by corn weevils.

In treating their corn against weevils, farmers should place the carbon disulphide in shallow pans on top of the corn, says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist. "The poison vaporizes and penetrates into the pile of corn, killing the insects. After 36 hours the crib should be opened and aired out."

The amount of carbon disulphide required varies with the tightness of the crib. The average tongue-and-groove crib especially for fumigation requires 8 to 10 pounds for each 1,000 cubic feet of contents. Many cribs considered fairly tight require 15 to 20 pounds for each 1,000 cubic feet.

Fumigation may be performed successfully only when the weather is warm,—i.e., 70 degrees F. or above.

Extreme care must be exercised to see that no lighted lanterns or other flames are carried in the vicinity of the fumigation as the fumigant is highly inflamable, he warns.

MOST FOREST FIRES CAN BE PREVENTED

Auburn, Ala.—Lighted matches, cigarette stubs, and camp fires start hundreds of destructive forest fires in Alabama every year, reports Lyle Brown, extension forester, who emphasizes that the leaving of any fire, regardless of how small it may be, unquenched, is dangerous.

Another bad practice is that of building fires to smoke 'ossums or rabbits out of hollow logs or trees and leaving the fires to burn, Brown states.

SODIUM FLUORIDE CONTROLS ROACHES

Auburn, Ala.—By dusting sodium fluoride on places where roaches run, housewives can rid the house of cockroaches.

"When the roaches lick the fluoride off their feet it poisons them," says Prof. J. M. Robinson, head of the entomology department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Since young roaches are likely to hatch from eggs already laid, the dusting should be repeated every few weeks until they disappear, he advises. If the roaches continue to infest the house, it is evident that they come from some source where at least some of the roaches are not reached by the dust.

POULTRY FLOCKS NEED IMPROVING

Auburn, Ala.—It is imortant for poultrymen to improve their flocks by eliminating low-grade fowls and introducing only purebred chicks free of disease, says John Ivey, extension poultryman, in pointing out that the poultry industry in Alabama dropped from a $21,401,000 business in 1929 to a 12,000,000 business in 1934.

CORN-HOG CONTRACTS MUST BE IN THURSDAY

Auburn, Ala.—Thursday, Oct, 31st, is the last day the State corn-hog board of review in Montgomery will accept 1935 corn-hog adjustment contracts.

"It was necessary to set a final acceptance date in order that all contracts may be completed before the final check on contract compliance is started on December 1," report AAA officials.

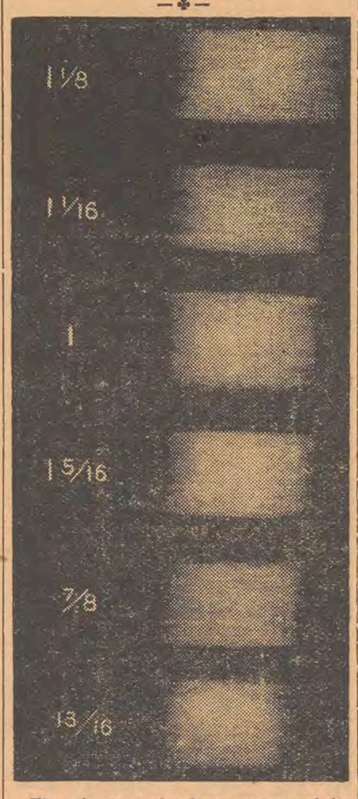
WHAT STAPLE LENGTH IS YOUR COTTON?

Improved Varieties of Cotton Give Longer Staple



The photograph above, prepared by the Division of Cotton Marketing Bureau of Agriculture Economics, shows official cotton standards of certain lengths of staple.

Staple length is a very important factor in establishing the value of cotton. Over the period 1926-30, in the central markets, thirteen-sixteenths cotton was penalized an average of 93 points or $4.65 per bale, whereas, an average of 45 points of $2.25 per bale premium was paid for fifteen-sixteenths and 96 points or $4.80 per bale premium for one inch basis middling seven-eighths.

According to report of September 27, 1935, of Cotton Quotation and Market News Service of Bureau of Agricultural Economics, an average of 31 points or $1.55 per bale premium was being paid for fifteen-sixteenths and 67 points or $3.35 per bale for inch over seven-eighths.

Grow varities of cotton averaging seven-eighths inch and longer, preferably those averaging an inch in staple length. Varities which barely pull seven-eighths inch with normal rains will fall well under seven-eighth inch in case of drought. Then heavy penalties are inflicted on farmers because of short cotton. The very short varities with severe drought conditions cost Alabama farmers millions of dollars in penalties in 1929 and 1930.

Varities pulling an inch and better will not likely run shorter than seven-eighths inch in case of drought. In variety tests of the Alabama Experiment Station several varities of cotton give good yields an average around one inch in staple length. These are as follows:

North Alabama and Central Alabama: DPL 10, DPL 11, and Stoneville. In the wilt infested area a wilt-resistant variety must be grown; Cook 27-34, Cook 1022, Cleve Wilt, and Cook 307, have run seven-eighth inch and better.

Now is the time to swap or buy some seed from neighbors who have better staple varities if your cotton is running shorter than seven-eighths.

Let's grow only the best cotton in Chilton County.

Mr. Charles Rogers, of Elmore Rte. 1, was in Clanton Thursday, October 24th.

W. L. Sanders Calls Hand Of Chilton County News In Cotton Controversy

The publicity given the farmers meeting of Oct. 23, seems to have created considerable criticism among many of those who attended this meeting. I wish to refer particularly to The Chilton County News, while a similar article appeared in the Montgomery Advertiser, both giving an incorrect account of this meeting.

In the beginning I wish to state that it is not my desire to enter into a paper controversy, however, I feel that in justice to me and to those who failed to attend this meeting, and also those who failed to receive a copy of The Union-Banner, which gave a correct report of the meeting, that we should analyze the report given in The Chilton County News. I do not attempt to say that the editor of The News drew up his report, or that he would knowingly permit such misrepresentation to appear in the columns of his paper. But since there was no names signed to this report I presume the editor is responsible for this incorrect report.

Now, Mr. Editor of The Chilton County News, your first charge was that this was a one-sided politically planned meeting. I wish to call your attention to the names of those who signed the call for the county-wide meeting: G. W. Willis, W. S. Willis, H. L. Bruce, C. O. Bell, Cornelius Caton, J. H. Jackson, E. A. Shirley, G. C. Donovan. Most of the above men have been life-long Democrats, and I am sure most of them voted the Democratic ticket in the last election.

The above names are evidence that partisian politics had no part in the call of this meeting and that your charge is untrue.

Your second charge that the people showed signs of being ready again for the "Hoover Prosperity" and five cent cotton is also untrue. You completely ignore the peoples' right to petition their representatives to remove or amend such laws as become burdensome and unjust to them.

You intimate that the farmers are not intelligent enough to assemble and draw up resolutions setting out their grievances, but that they should humble theirselves down and be satisfied with the recommendations of some highly paid white collared official.

I cannot understand just why you refer to me as being an employee of the Alabama Mills. If you refer to my working in this mill as being a disgrace, then you sting the pride of every employee of the milling industry throughout the nation.

I want you to understand Mr. Editor of the News, that the employees of the Alabama Mills, and other mills of the country, have just as respectable citizens as the News editor and its employees.

If you refer to me as being a tool in the hands of the Alabama Mills to fight down the triple A, then you charge the officials of the Alabama Mills, (Clanton Division) as being undermining. As I stated in the meeting, I have never discussed any of the government control acts with any of the mill officials.

Your inference as to my connection with the Alabama Mills is unethical and misleading. With reference to my being a defeated candidate, I wish to say that this has nothing to do with the discussion of the injustice imbedded in the triple A. I want to also remind you that I was defeated by a Reublican and not a Democrat, and that if I were trying to get revenge I would be fighting the Republican who defeated me and not the Democratic party as you infer.

Another charge that you made against me, that I, as chairman, would not allow open discussion on the question. This charge I brand as being untrue. The motion made by Lawyer Atkinson that both sides be permitted to discuss the question was voted down. The second motion was, that the resolutions be adopted as read. The whole house voted to adopt the resolution except twelve or fifteen, who raised their hand against any change in the triple A program.

I want to say that all charges that I took the meeting in my hands and run it to suit myself is untrue. But that the farmers took the meeting in charge and run it as they thought best. The charge that I called for a motion to adjourn after W. H. Gillespie had whispered in my ear that the Auburn delegation was entering the court room is untrue.

W. H. Gillespie never mentioned the Auburn delegation to me. He asked me if we had a secretary to take down the proceedings of the meeting.

I want you to understand Mr. News Editor that I served as chairman at the request of the people and that I was governed by the body and not by any particular person.

Your statement that I denied being afraid to discuss the question is one true statement you made in your report. I still deny being afraid to discuss the question with County Agent Fant or Dr. Duncan from Auburn. I did not attend the afternoon meeting but the reports given by many citizens who attended this meeting said the demonstration was about the same as the first meeting.

I would like for you to tell the people, Mr. News Editor, what part of the resolution is so worded that the vote was in reality "for repeal." It must be that you realize that the program was sponsored by the big farmers and that any amendment that would give the little farmer an even chance with the big farmer would ultimately result in the discontinuation of the program.

Another thing I would like to know, is what evidence you have that Lawyer Pitts and The Union-Banner editor drew up the resolutions offered at this meeting? I want to say that Lawyer Pitts and I have never discussed the triple A and that he nor the editor of The Union-Banner had anything to do with the drawing of the resolutions. If there is any criticism to be offered on the resolutions it belongs to me. For I drew them myself. You should never put supposition in the columns of your paper without producing some evidence for your self. Such statements are very misleading and should not be practiced if you wish for the people to read the columns of your paper.

The figures you gave showing the farmers the increase in farm receipts since 1932 are misleading, because you never mentioned the increase in farm disbursements. The farmers realize that cotton is bringing more per pound than in 1932. They also realize that the small amount of cotton they are allowed to sell and the rise in the cost of living have over-balanced the price of cotton.

The farmers are more intelligent than you, the county agent, and Dr. Duncan give them credit for, and they are at a stopping point until some radical changes are made.

The farmers remember the promise that the two-bale farmers would be exempt of all processing taxes. This promise was not kept true. There were numbers of promises that have not been kept, therefore he has stopped until some of the broken promises are made good. Now, Mr. News Editor, the farmers are looking for a square deal in the cotton program and from this on confine yourself more closely to the truth and the people will not be cancelling their subscription to The Chilton County News.

Now, my farmer friends, we are up against a rock wall and we must stand together if we ever expect to gain our rights. We must demand our rights through the newspapers. We must make our officials realize they are the peoples' servants and then justice will prevail. Yours for justice among all men.—W. L. SANDERS.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gerald had as their week end guests Mrs. Gerald's brother and his family and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Horn of Birmingham.

CENTER HILL SINGING

The singing was called to order by the president, Mr. B. L. Cobb leading two songs. Prayer was offered by W. J. Northcutt.

The directors for the afternoon were: Benn Tom Haynes, Berney Dean Cobb, Mrs. J. E. Covy, Mrs. J. W. Collum, W. R. Scott, J. N. Scott and W. J. Nortcutt.

The singing seemed to be enjoyed by both singers and listeners. Let's all remember our afternoon singings and keep them going.—Reporter.

Prospective Brides Make Careful Study

"Certified Bride" is the striking degree conferred upon graduates from the new marriage course established by Boston University. This fine institution has formally recognized the desire of countless young women to become better equipped for the life long job of presiding over a good home.

A canvass among some of the marriageable young women in this community disclosed no "certified brides" but it did show a growing appreciation of up-to-date thinking, coupled with modern methods and equipment, as prerequisite to successful home making.

Prospective brides were found to be making a careful study of the social responsibilities attendant upon marriage, also the practical side of operating a domestic plant.

While interviews with these young women brought out a variety of views as to just what constitutes a happy marriage, there was expressed a unanimous belief in "feeding the brute" as an absolutely necessary domestic accomplishment.

Prospective brides also evinced a somewhat surprising knowledge of modern equipment as a means of disposing of household duties and still leaving time for shopping, recreation and self-improvement.

Here is a most interesting fact. Every girl had near the top of her list of things specified for house-keeping a modern kitchen cabinet.

Forward looking young women of today have learned the difference between scrubbing a pine table and passing a damp cloth over the glistening surface of a cabinet table top. They recognize the importance of orderly arrangement of utensils and food ingredients, in fact could almost count the enormous number of steps saved by the use of a fine kitchen cabinet.

This view of the situation is confirmed by local merchants. They find that while the younger women, and especially college women, are taking the lead in purchasing cabinets, the idea is being rapidly adopted in a majority of the better class homes. The growing popularity of cabinets is proved by the rapid increase in sales. Some stores have found difficulty in stocking enough cabinets to supply the demand.

RED CROSS SAFETY PROGRAM IS UNDER WAY IN ALABAMA

Washington, D. C., October 29.—Gratified with Alabama's response to the Red Cross Home and Farm Accident Prevention Campaign, launched October 1, officials at National Headquarters here announced today that 17 Chapters in the State have already appointed committees to carry ont the plan.

Other Chapters are rapidly completing plans to put the program into operation at an early date, reports to Headquarters indicate. In many counties Chapters are selecting locations for the establishment of Highway First Aid Stations and arranging first aid in instruction for persons employed in filling stations, wayside stores, tourist camps, etc., where these "mercy" stations will be located.

Four such stations are already established in Alabama; two in Jefferson county near Birmingham and two in Chilton county near Clanton.

Miss Margaret Jones returned to Montgomery Monday after spending a two week's vacation with her parents in Clanton.

FOREST FIRE STATISTICS FOR NATION ISSUED BY GOVERNOR

Montgomery.—The U. S. Forest Service has just issued a full compilation of forest fire rotection data for the entire United States, exclusive of Alaska. The preparation of these statistics is a long and laborious task which is begun by the Government workers at Washington shortly after the close of each calendar year. The publication of the data usually does not ensue until autumn of the following year.

Of interest to Alabamians are the figures for this State and for the balance of the region presenting approximately the same fire protection conditions, comprising the State of Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. The Federal statistics show, among other things, the gross area within each state included in the protective work of the various State Forestry Departments, the cost to the state of the fire protection activities and the percentage of the protected area that has been burned over during the calendar year.

During 1934 Georgia protected 4,565,280 acres at a cost to the state of .35 of one cent per acre and a loss of 7.57 per cent of the area involved. Florida, 1,556,250 acres at a state cost of 2.56 cents per acre, losing 6.91 per cent of the protected area; Alabama 12,604,000 acres at a cost to the state of .09 of a cent per acre, with a loss of 3.39 per cent of the protected acreage; Mississippi 3,734,820 acres of .79 of one cent per acre, with 4.21 per cent burned over; Louisiana, 5,660,520 acres at a cost to the State of 1.31 cents per acre, with a loss of 1.45 per cent of the protected territory, and Texas, 8,010,000 acres at a cost of .75 of one per cent per acre with a loss of 1.27 per cent of the protected area.

The Federal statistics show that the average gross area protected in these states during 1934 was 6,210,810 acres, the average proportion of such territory burned over was 6,210,810 acres, the average proportion of such territory burned over was 4.13 per cent and the average state cost per acre .98 of one cent. They further indicate that Alabama included in her territory organized for fire prevention more than twice the average area, sustained considerably less than the average loss but expended only one-eleventh of the average state cost per acre.

Mrs. Mattie Fox is visiting in Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. George Trotter, of Jordan Dam spent Thursday in Clanton.

Miss Elizabeth Harris, who is attending Huntingdon College, was home for the week end.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., Oct. 29.—A radio program featuring the University of Alabama will be presented by Radio Station WSM, in Nashville, on November 11, at 9:30 p.m. An especial feature of the program will be an account of the life of one of the University's most outstanding alumni, Dr. Robert J. Van de Graaf, of Tuscaloosa, former Rhodes scholar and now Professor of Physics at Princeton University. Dr. Van de Graaf is noted for his experiment in which he broke down the atom, a feat hitherto considered impossible.

A banquet combining the annual celebration of the School of Commerce and Business Administration at the University, and celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the founding of the School of Commerce, will be held at the Tutwiler Hotel in Birmingham on November 1.

County superintendents of education, high school principals, and teachers of physical and health education from all over the state gathered at the University Saturday for an all-day conference on the new course of study in physical education now in force throughout the state's school system The conference was called by Dr. Ethel Saxmon, head of the department of Physical and Health Education for girls at the University.

Whereas 81 per cent of the negro men above ten years of age in Alabama are gainfully employed, only 76 per cent of the white men in the same group are so occupied, it is shown in a recent statistical study made by C. J. Jordan, working in conjunction with the Deartment of Vocational Education at the University. Only 16 er cent of the white women work, however, while 40 per cent of the negro women work for money.

The Alabama Crimson Tide will meet the University of Kentucky in Birmingham on Saturday. This is the fifteenth time the two teams have met. Alabama has lost one of the series so far.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well - Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

PLANTING WINTER COVER CROPS

Best results from Austrian winter peas and hairy vetch are obtained when planting is done between September 15 and October 15, but due to the drought Chilton county farmers have not been able to plant during this period.

When it is impossible to do a thing at the best time then it is necessary to take a second debt. We have had rains in most of the county this week and I believe it will be advisable to go ahead with the planting of peas and vetch.

Let's not forget that peas or vetch will increase the yield of corn 20 bushels per acre and will double the yield of cotton on average land in Chilton county.

You will need 30 pounds of Austrian winter peas or 20 ounds of hairy vetch seed per acre, and remember that is is essential to inoculate the seed.

There are several good methods used in planting. Any way you plant, provided you cover the seed two or three inches deep will usually give good results. It is better on sandy land, especially, to cover your seed in such a way that you will have plenty of drainage, example: Sow your seed broadcast and plow the dirt to the cotton row, leave the middle lower than the row.

Oats make a good winter cover crop. Oats planted in the fall on an average, made considerable more feed than oats planted in hte spring. In addition to feed, fall sown oats protect our land during the winter.

Austrian winter peas, vetch and oats may be purchased in Clanton and probably other places in Chilton counyt.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

PERCY M. PITTS TAKES NEWS TO TASK ON REPORT PUBLISHED

Editor Chilton County News:

Under the caption of the AAA meeting in your issue of the 24th in discussing the recent meeting of the cotton growers and farmers which was held last week, since you saw fit to mention my name personally as follows: "Although it is generally believed that the resolutions rendered in the meeting were drawn by the editor of The Union-Banner and Percy M. Pitts, Republican Attorney, shortly after the closing of this meeting Mr. Pitts declared that he was not informed well enough to discuss it intelligently."

This is to advise you that prior to this meeting held at the courthouse last week that I had never discussed directly or indirectly with either the editor of The Union-Banner or Mr. W. L. Sanders, the chairman of the meeting or anyone else directly or indirectly regarding a resolution or resolutions introduced. I believe that the readers of your paper will greatly appreciate your publishing facts, instead of dealing so much in generalities and beliefs. Further I do not appreciate the insinuation that I would attempt to advise with or draft resolutions affecting the welfare of our county and particularly our farmers welfare, unless I was thoroughly familiar and informed of the issues involved, and thought it was for the best interest of our producers in Chilton county. It is true, that I did not attend the meeting and never entered the courtroom, and it is further a fact that I stated on the street near Alred Drug Co., while the meeting was in progress, to your representative, Mr. Norris, while the meeting was being discussed, that I was not well enough up on the subject to discuss it intelligently, as I had not had time to study the proposition.

Should it be an unpardonable sin to be a Republican Attorney, I am guilty as charged, and so far I have been unable to be convinced that I am wrong. I feel that the farmers and cotton producers of Chilton county, who apparently attended this meeting in full force and who have had actual experience in handling their cotton under the AAA plans are parties qualified to pass upon this subject more than any attorney, College president, or the head of any extension service group, and for this reason I have had nothing to do with the proposition, directly or indirectly, as a Republican Attorney, or otherwise.

Kindly show me the courtesy of publshing this letter and correcting the inference, insinuation or misstatement of facts pertaining to me.

I am mailing a copy of this letter today, also to The Union-Banner.

FEEDING HOGS

Experiments show that a farmer can get better results in growing hogs if he uses a supplement to corn in his feed. The following figures show some comparison of corn along and corn mixed with other feeds:

1. When corn alone is used it takes 10.7 bushels to produce 100 pounds of gain.

2. When corn is used with tankage and cotton seed meal, cotton seed meal and tankage should be mixed in equal parts and kept where hogs can feed on it at all times. It takes four and two-thirds bushels of corn, 44.3 pounds of tankage and 44.3 pounds of cotton seed meal to produce 100 pounds gain.

3. When corn is fed with skim milk the hog should have all the skim milk it will consume. It takes 5.3 bushels of corn and 445 pounds skim milk to produce 100 pounds gain.

4. When hogs are grazed on peanuts 250 pounds of peanuts will produce 100 pounds of gain.

Tankage will cost about $50.00 per ton.

Mineral mixture consisting of equal parts by weight of charcoal, slaked lime and salt should be kept before the hogs at all times for best results with any of the above rations.

I FEEL FINE

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Ben Haynes wishes to announce to his friends that he is now with the Gibbons Garage at Thorsby, Ala., equipped to do first class auto repairing. He invites his friends and anyone needing repair work to call by to see him.

WAR REPORTS

Preparing for war in a neutral country, such as this country should be in relation to Italy's war on Ethiopia, is to prepare to discount not only propaganda from both sides but reports from all sides.

The bombing of Aduwa may be taken as a preliminary example. The report is that 1,700 were killed and three thousand wounded. We may assume that many bombs were dropped for, because of their limited range of destruction, it would require many to kill and wound 4,700 people even in a sizeable city.

As Aduwa is officially credited with a population of only five thousand, however, it seems necesary to conclude that whether the reports come from Ethiopia or Italy, it may be safer to assume that instead of a remnant of only three hundred unkilled and unwounded in Aduwa after the bombardment, that may have been about the number of killed and wounded.

Certain it is that, if Mussolini conquers Ethiopia by killing and wounding 4,700 out of every five thousand of the inhabitants, there would be few Ethiopians left for Italy to civilize.—Springfield Union.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

One of the most frequently used arguments employed by those supporting the processing tax provision of the AAA program is that the New Dealers are simply trying to give the farmer the same sort of benefit which they say the manufacturer gets from the protective tariff. The protective tariff and the processing tax are thus lumped together. The chief defense, if any, offered for the processing tax is an apologetic one, in that it is made necesary it is alleged because the protective tariff 'discriminates against the farmer,' and this tax will compensate him.

The parallels of the AAA plan and the protective tariff, however, are not parallels at all. The two are different in principle just as they are different in practice. On the matter of principle it may be said that the protective tariff seeks to build up home production at the expense of the foreign producer. The present farm plan is exactly opposite this, in intent. It seens to cut down the production of the American agriculturist, instead of increasing it, and so it stimulates the foreign products. While the protectionists vision a great home market and a prosperous industry which may fortify itself so that it can compete with the foreigner in foreign markets, the AAA plan is to cut down production on the farm and so raise costs that it is almost impossible for our growers to compete with the foreign producer in foreign fields.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating thereof. There is now very little American farm export trade. On the other hand the importers are sending us plenty of farm produce. The money for foodstuffs which ought to remain in America is going abroad. Our local industries are not benefitting commensurately because the imports are gradually ed as possible. Any other course during the amount of money we send abroad one way and another each year ,the "trade balance" is now against Uncle Sam and this adverse balance is going to become greater if the present policies of cutting farm production and negotiating tariff reduction treaties is continued. There can be no help for it. We cannot export what we do not produce, and if we fail because of artificial restrictions and adverse growing conditions to raise enough to feed our own people, then we are going to buy farm produce from abroad instead of shipping American food abroad.

There are other reasons of course why the tariff and the farm program, including the processing tax are not parallel. No free trader has ever yet been able to prove that protection is costlier to the American consumer than free trade. Protection fosters home industries and the more competition and work we have at home the better it is going to be for a consumer. If, by free trade, we wipe out tht so-called "weak industries" that free traders talk about then we will be at the mercy of European cartels and trusts. What we need is plenty of American industries with anti-trust laws enforced so that there will be competition at home. Processing tax apologists say that by taxing the working man in buying food and turning this over to the farmer they are applying tariff principles but this is not true. It is true that about half of our imports pay a tariff, but this money goes into the treasury of the United States. It is not turned over by the AAA or any other governmental agency to any class of citizens.

Mr. Wallace is quoted as stating that the Smoot-Hawley measure incited other nations to bar out Americans goods. The fact is that all nations were compelled by the exegencies of the depression to become as self containe das possible. Any other course during the storm would have been economic suicide.

Free trader assume that the protective tariff does the farmers no good. But many farm commodities other than wheat and cotton do not depend on the world market prices and we do suffer severely from much alien agricultural competition. For example, since artificially high prices due to curtailment of production in America enabled foreign producers to mount our tariffs we have during the past eight months imported among other things 22,000,000 pounds of butter and 4,000,000 tons of sugar. Under the new treaty with Cuba we bought from her $31,000,000 more in produce principally sugar, but Cuba bought only $18,000,000 more from us! Uncle Sam will never make our farmers rich this way.

OUR FOREIGN MADE FIGURES

One of the choicest bits of bunk disseminated by the free traders and low tariff advocates of the United States is that our foreign trade has been "strangled" by our protective tariff. A little study of the figures issued regularly by the U. S. Department of Commerce will show the fallacy of this argument.

In the year 1929. the last one before the depression descended upon us, our total exports were, in round numbers $5,241,000,000, and our imports $4,400,000,000. In 1931 and 1932 there was a steady decline, which was due to the deepening of the depression . In 1933 and 1934 there was a slight picking up due to the fact that the world, especially some of the important countries of Europe, was slowly forging ahead.

Now in 1929 when we had those top heavy figures of foreign trade the same tariff was in effect as in 1932 when exports had dropped to 1,611,016,00 and imports to $1,449,599,000. We still have the same tariff now when there has been a slight improvement.

The figures show that the dropping off in foreign trade was not due to our tariff but to the depression (as the foreign trade graph follows pretty closely the graph of the progress of the depression. The depression was world wide and had its roots in the World War way back in Wilson's administration, although some of our forward lookers apparently have not yet discovered this fact.

But the most significant thing is yet to be mentioned. Our imports are gradually catching up with our exports in value. In 1929 we had a favorable trade balance of $800,000,000 while up to date in this year we had a tentative balance of only $100,000,000,000 of visible exports over imports and may close the year with a deficit. The exports are $1,396,679,000 and the imports $1,341,290,000. Now just what is the cause of this? Is it due to the reciprocal tariffs which the State Department is negotiating? If so Secreatry Hull ought to be as happy as a little boy with a new drum on Christmas. He sure does seem to dislike favorable trade balances.

As a matter of fact the real balance is now against us. When we figure the amount of money which American tourists spend abroad, and which Americans and aliens of our country send abroad, it is apparent that Europe has all the better of it, as the striking of a real balance would show. The figures which measure the export of this capital do not show in our foreign trade balance.

The truth probably is that a great part of the increase of our imports is due to Secretary Wallace and the AAA. Under the program of scarcity our farmers have arrived at the point where they not only have lost their export surplus but have a deficit of commodities so far as supplying the domestic market is concerned. This means that we are importing farm produce which American farmers were paid not to grow, and that the money is going to alien farm interests.

This swells our imports. Unfortunately produce because there is no produce to ship there are no compensating exports of farm abroad. So far as wheat, corn and meat products are concerned it is all coming in and nothing going out.

RADIO SANCTIONS

Great Britain started her sanctions against Italy on the night of October 11, according to an Associated Press dispatch. The first sanction had nothing to do with machine guns, gunpowder or tanks. In fact it had to do with the American radio audience. It seems that Baron Pompeo Aloisi, the Italian envoy at Geneva, was preparing to present his country's side of the present trouble in Europe and Africa, to the American public in an address which was to take the form of a "chatty dialogue" between the Baron and a distinguished American newspaper correspondent at Geneva.

But the British postoffice, which has charge of British radio affairs refused to relay the "chatty dialogue" from Geneva to America through London.

The first application of sanctions seems to have taken a form far different from what one would expect it to be. Instead of preventing the importation of ammunition, food and clothing to Italy, the first sanction seems to have prevented the export of a commodity —one which the critics of Italy would probably characterize as "hot air".

Be that as it may, we are not going to accuse the British of interfering with the rights of free speech. If they prevented the flow of Italian propaganda to the United States, they did us a favor, whether they knew it or not.

Now if the efficient British officials will only find a way to cut off from the United States not only Italian, but British, French, German, and last but not least, Russian propaganda, they will have put us under a debt of gratitude which can never be paid in terms of money.

Our weather bureau is seeking the cooperation of the Soviet, according to the newspaper. Next thing you know they will be sending us communist propaganda along with the weather ftrecasts, with a cold wave characterized as "capitalist weather".

We presume that if and when the potato laws goes into effect the New Deal campaign song will be changed to "Stampy Days are Here Again."

MAN IN THE MOON

THE NEWS—THE FARMERS—THE TRUTH

Did you ever try to catch a flea? If so you know that just about the time you think you have him cornered he will jump clear out and away. Our dealings with the Chilton County News makes us think of catching fleas.

Two weeks ago we challenged The News to a test, a put up or shut up challenge. They had been contending that more farmers were in favor of the present cotton plan —we didn't think so—hence the challenge to ask the farmers, themselves. It was a put up or shut up challenge, and as has been the custom of The News, they chose to shut up on the subject rather than stand by their guns and back up their fancies with facts. And once again The Chilton County News has been run into a hole, and we doubt very much if they can be smoked out again.

Now, as to the way the farmers feel about the present cotton plan, we believe anyone —even The News editor—could very easily feel the trend of the farmers from the meeting held at the courthouse last Wednesday. A majority of over 700 to 15 is enough to convince the most skeptical that farmers do not want the present cotton plan, and if farmers talk to us in the manner they feel, they will not sign up for next year.

As to the last meeting held at the courthouse in the afternoon, reports from the farmers who attended vary widely from the one given by the News in last week's paper and reports carried by various state dailies, who are, of course, just another part of that group of parasites who are taking so much interest in the farmers' troubles without having so much interest in their welfare. What puzzles us is how The News could get a full story of the afternoon session, when their "dead line", or time for closing of printing forms was fully as early if not earlier than the hour the meeting was called. How did they do it? We know a few things about printing of newsapers, and we never have been able to get an accurate story of any kind before the event came about. We have always had to wait for something to happen before we could tell about it.

But, after all, judging from the report The News gave on this last meeting, and from individual reports of farmers who attended, this was just another one of those things where things don't pan out as they are planned. The meeting was all planned, it seems, and everything was to go just so-so, so The News went ahead and printed their story along the general lines the meeting SHOULD go. But the editor couldn't know, of course, that the farmers were not going to fall for the slick line of palaver the "big shots" from Auburn were going to dish out in great gobs. Neither could they know that the farmers would walk out and leave the meeting flat when they found there was nothing new to be learned about the program.

The News seemed especially anxious, also, to have its readers know that the chairman of the first meeting was W. L. Sanders, "employe of the local cotton mill and former defeated candidate on the Republican ticket.' Although by this move The News seems inclined to publish a scandal sheet, yet we have not known before that there was anything so dishonorable about being an employe of a cotton mill or a defeated candidate for office.

Intent, it seems, on bringing out "the dark side", The News says:

"Although the resolutions, read by Mr. Sanders, proposed to call for either 'amendment or repeal', the wording was such that it is feared that the audience failed to recognize that the vote was in reality 'for repeal'." Now, as to this, we believe that any one of the more than 700 farmers who voted for the resolutions has as good a set of ears as The News editor or his representative at the meeting, and the above is nothing more nor less than a hint that the average farmer did not have sense enough to understand what he had heard—a downright insult to every farmer in the meeting. We believe that those 700 farmers understood perfectly the resolutions and suggestions as read, and they seemed to harbor no hesitancy about supporting them with their vote.

Going further, The News says: "It is generally believed that the resolutions read in the meeting were drawn by the editor of The Union-Banner and Percy M. Pitts". We don't know what connection Mr. Pitts had with the affair, but the reference to the editor of The Union-Banner is a highly presumptive misstatement, and we challenge The News, its editor, or any other person to give proof that "it is generally believed" that The Union-Banner editor had any hand in the affair. This vicious and whole falsehood is solely the belief of The News editor because of the fact that the script was written on The Union-Banner's typewriter. Will The News editor not be honest enough to admit that the idea is solely his own and is drawn only from this fact?

We believe the farmers are not yet ready for complete repeal of the cotton law, and we are with them. What the farmers want, we want them to have. If they want the present control plan, then let them have it; if they want changes, we want them to have changes; if they wan complete repeal. then we are for that. Farmers ought to know more about their own needs and desires than we do, and we are at all times willing to back their judgment in their affairs. They have shown clearly that they do not want the present program; some have expressed themselves as wanting complete repeal, but we believe that most farmers want the program retained, with several drastic and much-needed changes in its administration. We believe in the idea of curbing over-production, but we most certainly do not believe in shutting off a farmer's chance to earn an honest living, and then muzzling him to keep down his squawks.

Personally we like The News personnel, and knowing them as we do, as likable chaps, we are at a loss to understand their attitude in willful misstatement of facts when cornered, and wholly unfounded arraignment of the personnel of The Union-Banner in this affair. In the name of all that is high and holy, let's have the truth, Mr. News editor, even if it takes the hide. Let's give facts, not fancies; let's print the picture as it really is, not as we would like it to be; let's print the truth that can be backed up by facts, not dream ideas drawn from prejudice and imagination. Let's print our whole-hearted and consicentious beliefs, not the ideas and beliefs and wishes of some demi-god higher up. And when we have made those statements, let's at least have the grit and grace to stand up and defend them to the last ditch, rather than throw down our guns and make for the rear on the double-quick just as soon as the first shell whistles by or comes to rest right in our nest.

We can take it. We form our own opinions, after a close scrutiny of facts, and proceed to state those opinions unafraid of contradiction based on facts. Let's bring this old scrap out in the open, and stop jumping behind bushes when the going gets tough. What say, Mr. News Editor?—Man in the Moon.

AMERICAN AND EUROPE

To many of the New Deal rah rah boys who have been claiming that the application of the theorems of the collegiate statesmen, has been rapidly pulling the country out of the depression, the report of the American Federation of Labor that Europe is outstripping us in creating reemployment must come as a rude shock. During the past year the unemployed in Europe have shrunk one million in numbers—from 8,400,000 to 7,400.000. In the United States alone there are still more than 11,000,000 unemployed and we have not been improving our situation as many of the governments of Europe have done.

When we consider this along with the additional fact that the New Dealers have been spending the money of the public like inebriated sailors in an effort to check the depression, with the result that our national deficit is now approaching thirty billion dollars, the conclusion to be drawn is not one that is favorable to the New Deal results. European countries are maing desperate efforts to balance their budgets, and in some instances, like that of Great Britain, the efforts have not been made with success. Europe does not possess the natural resources of the United States, but even at that most of the countries over there seem to be getting along wihout running into debt four or five billions a year.

The American Federation of Labor is certainly not unfavorable to the New Deal and the members who prepare the economic reports cannot be accused of unfairness on that score. The simple fact is that the New Deal has been expensive in its efforts to relieve employment without turning the trick. European nations, using sound, and time tried methods seem to be getting along.

There is an encouraging note, however, in the report of the A. F. L. It points out the fact that business interests in the United States are expecting business to be better during the next few months. In view of the fact that we were told that the death of the Blue Eagle would be followed by economic chaos, his state of feeling must seem little short of remarkable to the New Dealers themselves. Maybe the Horse and Buggy Age won't be so bad after all if it brings better business.

The A. F. L. document points out that the increase in the cost of living has held down the buying power of the workers. In this respect the pressing tax has been successful.

THE SUPREME COURT

The Supreme Court of the United States is made up of men who have resigned themselves to a life of judicial piety.

Theirs is not to cherish any ambition for personal glory in elective office.

Theirs is only to preserve the immutable principles of American jurisprudence as it has come to them through centuries upon centuries of ethics and morality.

We have a set up a court of nine men not to decide cases of their own initiative but to review the testimony taken in Federal District Courts and Circuit Court of Appeals, and in a series of state tribunals and in state courts of last resort, to review the reasoning and determinations made by judges in those courts who have examined in the first instance the laws and the facts.

To say that this tribunal of nine men shall not henceforth declare the supreme law of the land is to say in effect that we must change our form of government and substitute the rule of passion for the rule of reason. The constitution is an agreement between the people and their agents.

Let the agreement be changed in specific issues, unemcumbered by other circumstances of politics, are placed before the people.

Let the agreement be changed in specific particulars only when specific issues, unemcumbered by other circumstances of politics, are placed before the people.

But meanwhile let it be proclaimed that when an act is declared invalid it is so declared because the people in the original agreement set forth the rights and grants of power they had delegated and that if by the congress or by the president these provisions are transgressed the Supreme Court of the United States alone shall have the right to continue to express the people's veto.—United States News.

Swo Stanford graduates have been arrasted in Japan for taking photographs in a military zone. There are some things our universities do not teach their young men and one of them is plain common sense. Everybody who sets foot on a steamer should know that photographs are not to be taken of fortifications or military zones, and that the Japanese have a case of jitters at the mere sight of a camera in alien hands.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Park Commissioner Robert Moss has notified the PWA in Central Park to speed up or quit. Aw shucks; why bother to try to trim the grass any more? The frost is doing a good job of it anyhow. On with the mumbledy-peg tournament. Whose got a good jackknife?

The first thing congress will do after the depression disappears is to stake a $100,000 investigation to find out where it went.—McPherson, Kansas Republican.

A Dutch astronomer has discovered an unnamed far-off star which carries 180,000 degrees Fahrenheit. That is about as hot as the modern jazz orchestra.

Well, if it gets to the point where they can't find anybody else for Joe Lewis to fight why not match him against Popeye.

The New Dealers haven't tried to harness the Gulf Stream yet but if Congress will only give 'em the money they will try it.

There never will be complete peace in this world until they beat the swords into plowshares and trucks with loudspeakers into silence.—Ohio State Journal.

An affable stranger called at the office, was asked to state his business. "You did me a favor 10 years ago," said the stranger, "Ah," the office man replied, smiling with great satisfaction, "and now you have come back to return it." Not exactly. I've just reached town. I need another favor, so I thought of you right away."—Brown Company, Kansas World.

PRLIMINARY STRAWS

It is a long time until the presidential election of 1936, and yet the Republicans have no reason to be discouraged by the early straws which have been blowing in the breezes of local elections. The Rhode Island contest brought the first real encouragement to the Republicans and led them to believe that they might be on their way toward capturing New England again. The town elections held in Conneticut early in October are another indication that they might not be disappointed in this hope.

While these town elections are purely local it is interesting to note that the Republicans wherever possible sought to make the New Deal an issue, while the Democrats tried to avoid this and center public attention solely on local affairs. Significantly enough, the G. O. P. gained a sweeping victory. Out of 149 towns which held elections, it captured all but twenty. The Democratic vote everywhere was cut heavily even in the score of towns which the New Dealers carried, and they lost control of 17 towns.

The Middletown, Conn., Press calls attention to the significance of the Republican gain in Fairfield County, which, it points out, is next to New York and a suburban part of the Metropolis. Continuing the Press says:

"An analysis of the voting shows some surprising changes. For instance in Tirrington, a manufacturing city, the Democrats named for Mayor, State Senator Frances W. Hogan, who carried the city by 2,275 last November and he had been elected as representative in two previous terms. The reversal was marked, Mr. Hogan losing by 150. Bristol, another good sized city, disclosed similar results."

In summing up the situation and its significance the observant Boston Transcript concludes:

"The truth of the matter simply is that Roosevelt experimentation has cost the Eastern industrial section far more than it has turned back to it in benefits. Through higher taxes, nationel as well as local, and through an increased cost of living as a consquence of direct grants to wheat farmers and cotton growers, the people of this part of the country have become the victims of the New Deal. They are the nation's forgotten men and women—a status they gladly tolerated so long as it promises to be temporary and in the ultimate interests of the whole United States, but a status which they refuse to endure as a permanent condition. First Rhode Island, then Pennsylvania, and now Connecticut have demonstrated the plain fact that the voters are in rebellion. Unless there is a great change in the situation, Republicans of the East, seeking a way to win in 1936, will find the issue ready-made for them."

OUR TAX STRUCTURE

Disagreement with President Roosevelt that our tax structure is stronger now than ever before is expressed by Henry H. Curran, of the National Economy League, whi apparently thinks that the way to help the tax structure is to reduce expenditures so that fewer taxes will be necessary. In a recent statement, Mr. Curran said:

"The National Economy League takes direct issue with the President's statement that 'the underlying tax structure of the government is now stronger than ever before in our history.'

"The fact is that the underlying tax structure of the government is weaker than it was before in time of peace within the memory of living man.

"In this very year, by the President's own statement, the tax structure is over $3,000,000,000 weaker than the amount of money necessary to pay the expenses of the government.

"It does no good to say that the actual deficit is a billion less than the President fancied nine months ago. This is not a saving. We still have a deficit of over $3,000,000,000.

"If the money were being spent wisely that could mitigate the danger to that extent, but most of the country knows by now that the relief money is not being spent wisely beyond a small fraction of the amount that is being expended."

Business seems to have picked up for the spender manufacturers since the rah-rah boys got to wearing galluses, but up to this time there doesn't seem to be much hope for the man who used to manufacture the buggy whip.

THE REAL COST OF WAR

It will have to be a very rich conquest, indeed, to repay Italy for the destruction of wealth represented by its military establishment.

The announcement that Mussolini has called 200,000 more soldiers to arms accents the ridiculousness of war. It increases to 1,000,000 the number of Italian soldiers under arms. It is a burden that will bankrupt Italy or place burdens upon it for years to come.

Even the United States, rich and powerful as it is, could not keep 1,000,000 soldiers under arms day in and day out without suffering grievously. For it does not merely mean the maintenance of men, it means the concentration of all industry upon turning out supplies of all kinds that never will help the people who make them.

Every cent means money thrown away. The Italian people are not making things to sell, but to destroy. Their government is piling burdens upon them under which they must stagger for years.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

9-POUND BABY BORN IN WELL, UNDER WATER, FULLY NORMAL

Sanford, N. C., Oct. 28.—His wide blue eyes full of innocent wonder and his squawls as lusty as the next young chap's, a 9-pound baby was the center of attention at the Lee County Hospital Monday—all because he chanced to be born under water, deep in a well.

Dr. J. F. Foster, of Sanford, who is attending the mother, Mrs. Alton L. Jordan, and the infant. Franklin Woodrow said the baby was normal in every respect, and owed its life to the fact that it couldn't begin breathing until it was out of the water.

The 26-year-old mother, a farmers wife, said she went to the well to get a bucket of water, fainted, and regaining consciousness, found herself in the water. She swam a bit to keep afloat, finally clung to a knot.

"It was only 45 minutes that I spent in the well," she said, "but it seemed like two years."

Her father-in-law and nephew, happening to pass through the yard, heard her screams. Summoning her husband from a nearby field, they managed to tie a rope around her and pull her out.

"The next thing I remember, I was in the hospital," she said.

Eerybody is doing fine now. We have been working hard for some time to improve the appearance of our church. We are weather-boarding it, and we have painted it in side, and purchased three nice lamps.

We feel that we will be blest for anything that we can do for the upbuilding of His kingdom, so let's everyone be a booster for His kingdom.

Remember that next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Let's everybody come and hear the good message that Bro. Culpepper will have for us.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

(Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks, Pastor)

Sunday is "paid-up Sunday." What a joy it will bring to all of us for the Board of Stewards to be able to announced at the eleven o'clock service Sunday that the church has paid everything for this conference year, which is drawing rapidly to a close. This announcement can be made if every member will do his or her best. What you have planned to pay this year, pay it this week and be through with it. Give it to the steward who has your name, or send it to Mr. Otto Jones, the church treasurer. Be at church Sunday to hear the announcement of the good news.

Then Wednesday night will be "jubilee nite" for everybody in the church, young or old. It will be a night of fun, rejoicing, games, eating and drinking. Every member of the church, and those who are not members but consider this your church home will want to be at this jubilee celebration.

Sunday's schedule of servces: Church school staff meeting at 9:30. Let every oficer and teacher be present for this meeting. Church school session at 9:45. There is a class for every group, from the nursery child to the oldest person. Church worship hour at 11:00, Epworth League at 6:15 and evening worship hour at 7:00.

Lesson for November 3

JUDAH TAKEN CAPTIVE

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 25:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:34.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Black Man God Cared For.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In Time of Danger.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Results of Doing Wrong.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Nations Accountable to God.

I. The Siege of Jerusalem (vv. 1-3).

1. The time (vv. 1, 2). It began on the tenth day of the tenth month of the ninth year or Zedekiah's reign, lasting about eighteen months. The tenth month, according to the Jew's calendar, corresponds to our December-January, as their calendar began about the middle of March. The reason the exact time is given is that this was to be an event of great importance to the Jews in their exile. In their gloomy exile God directed Ezekiel to utter a parable unto the captives of that day (Ezek. 24).

2. The method (v. 11). Nebuchadnezzar came in person with a large army and encamped against Jerusalem, building forts against it round about. It is thought that several walls were built around the city, shutting it in. On the tops of these walls forts were built from which missiles of destruction could be hurled by their engines of war against the city. With the city thus shut in, its fall was only a question of time.

3. The famine (v, 3). Geikie says, "It was speedily followed, as is always the case, with an outbreak of pestilence. Food was well-nigh gone. There had long been no bread. Mothers were at last driven to murder and eat their children. The richest citizens wandered about searching for scraps in the dung hills." Even outside the city the people were starving. "There was no bread for the people of the land." It is estimated that one-third of the people of Jerusalem died of starvation.

II. Zedekiah's Flight and Fate (vv. 4-7).

1. "The city was broken up" (v. 4). The Chaldeans had succeeded in making an opening in the wall so large that they could make their way into the city in spite of all that the Hebrews could do. Resistance was carried on to the bitter end.

2. Zedekiah's flight (v. 4). The king with his men of war fled by night toward the plain. His object no doubt was to cross the Jordan at Jericho and hide in the mountains east of the Jordan.

3. Zedekiah's fate (vv. 5-7).

a. He was overtaken in the plains of Jericho (v. 5). As soon as the Chaldean army discovered the flight they pursued and captured him.

b. He was brought to the king of Babylon at Riblah (v. 6). Riblah was a town north of Damascus. It was the king's headquarters from which he directed his armies against Tyre and Jerusalem. Before Nebuchadnezzar Zedekiah was tried as a criminal.

c. His fate. His sons were slain in his sight. His own eyes were put out. He was bound with fetters of brass and they carried him to Babylon where he remained a prisoner to the day of his death (Jer. 52:11).

III. Jerusalem Destroyed (vv. 8-10).

The dismantling of the city was delayed a month, perhaps awaiting instructions from Nebuchadnezzar who was at Riblah. The work of destruction was executed by the officer next in rank to the king.

1. They burnt the house of the Lord (v. 9). This was the sacred temple built by Solomon, with additions and alterations. Before burning it, they plundered it of all its sacred contents.

2. Burnt the king's house (v. 9). This was doubtless the palace built by Solomon.

3. Burnt all the houses of Jerusalem (v. 9). The implication is that the common houses were left for the people (v. 12).

4. They broke down the walls of Jerusalem. The aim in this was to render the walls useless as a means of defense.

IV. The Disposition of the Temple Furniture and Priests (vv. 13-21).

1. The temple furniture carried to Babylon (vv. 13-17). The pillars of brass and the brazen sea were broken into pieces by the Babylonians and together with the utensils were carried to Babylon.

2. Certain officers and priests taken to Riblah (vv. 18-21). These officers and priests and three score men of the land were taken to Riblah, where they were slain by the king of Babylon.

The events recorded in Second Kings cover a period of 368 years. God had said, "If thou wilt, then I will"; they had invited disaster by disobedience.

Experience

In youth we learn how little we can do for ousselves, in age how little we can do for others. The wisdom of experience is incommunicable.

A Good Man

It is better for a city to be governed by a good man than by good laws.—Aristotle.

Nature

Nature never stands still, nor soul neither; they ever go up or go down.—Dore.

VISITORS FROM EIGHT COUNTIES TO CONVENE IN BIRMINGHAM

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 26.—Six hundred teachers and leaders in Parent-Teachers Associations will convene at the Phillips High School, in Birmingham, next Saturday, November 2, for a district meeting. The meeting is being sponsored by the Alabama Education Association, the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers the State Department for the purpose of discussing current educational issues.

This series of district meetings was inaugurated two years ago by J. E. Bryan, Superintendent of the Bessemer schools, who was then President of the Alabama Educational Association. Last year the meetings were made joint affairs when Mrs. James Fitts Hill, President of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, united with the State Education Association in providing an all-day program in each of the seven districts of the state. For the current year these two organizations have been by Dr. J. A. Keller, representing the State Department of Education.

The funeral was held at Pleasant Grove church on Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Paul Oden, assisted by Rev. Maurice Hodgens. Martin was in charge of burial. Pallbearers were Morris Jones, Bonnie Hand, Claude Conway, Herman LeCroy, Kendall Franklin, and Hubert Reinhardt.

The deceased is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hodgens of Jemison Route 1; two sisters, Mrs. I. N. Waldrop and Mrs. Eric Kinkaid; and a host of relatives and friends.

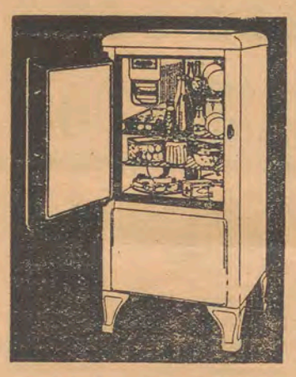
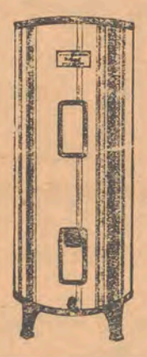
Now You Can BUY ALL 3 AT ONCE



AN ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

—makes it possible for you to keep milk, cream, eggs, meat and other foods fresh and appetizing for days—leftovers need not be fed to the chickens. You can make appetizing, inexpensize frozen desserts frequently—every day if you like—it costs so little to operate an Electric Refrigerator.



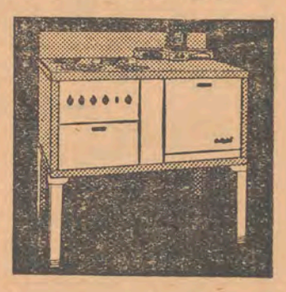
NOW even modest homes can enjoy the comfort and convenience of electrified kitchens. The Economy Purchase Plan makes it possible to buy an Electric Refrigerator, an Electric Range and an Electric Water Heater all at the same time, with monthly payments so low that almost anybody can afford them. You might want to include an electric water pump too.

Of course, you needn't buy them all at the same time if you would prefer to buy them one at a time. You may already have an Electric Refrigerator and Electric Pump and may want to add the Electric Range and Water Heater and other equipment a step at a time. You can also do that under the Economy Purchase Plan.

Consider These Advantages

AN ELECTRIC RANGE

—helps keep your kitchen clean—is great for roasting meats without waste—bakes biscuits and cornbread to a queen's taste—is fine for preserving and canning—makes all food taste better—gives you more time OUT of the kitchen—costs surprisingly little to operate.



AN ELECTRIC WATER HEATER

—operates automatically and gives you all the hot water you want—when you want it—where you want it. Makes it convenient to take a nice refreshing bath every day if you like—makes dishwashing and churning easier and helps you keep the house clean with less work.

AN ELECTRIC PUMPING SYSTEM

—will bring running water to the house, the barn, the milking shed, the poultry house, the yard—any place you want running water. It does away with pail totin'—saves time—gives you time to rest or do other things.

Investigate These Devices!

production on while it flows in from the producers of foreign countries by the millions of tons. Now how can we expect to be prosperous if we cut our own production at home and throw the doors wide open to the foreign farmer to flood our country with his cheap products grown in unlimited quantities?

The United States News, under date of October 14, 1935, has this to say, referring to the Secretary of Agriculture and his aides. They are now giving attention to a study entitled "The Collapse of Cotton Tenancy." This study was made by Charles S. Johnson of Fisk University; Edwin R. Embree, of the Rosenwald Fund; and W. W. Alexander, assistant to Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, Re-Settlement Administrator and under Secretary of Agriculture.

The authors present figures to show that in a study by them of 2,000 families in Mississippi, Texas, Alabama and South Carolina, of the few families having any cash income, the average yearly income was $105.43. Actual earnings per family when divided between five persons (the average family) would give a monthly income per person of $1.75, they asserted."

Still further quoting this same authority they say "That the ancient order of cotton culture in the Old South is doomed. Sweeping changes in southern farming must come swiftly if millions of farmer plantation workers are not to be completely wrecked— if the region itself is not to suffer violent ruin."

I am not offering a remedy, I do not feel competent, but I am saying to the leaders of our farmers that you must improve the present method of control or our small farmers are facing financial ruin. I will say furthere, if and when they are ruined, we will all go down with them.

I am not thinking of this as a political question, I do not see it as such. It is a question that pertains to the very vitals of our economic existence. As such, it should be considered too important for mere political aggrandizement. If you will do something to make the farmer prosperous, prosperity to others will follow.

It seems that our leaders have forgotten that 25 years ago the world looked to us for wheat, corn, cotton, meat, etc., now our farmers live on flour, beef pork, butter, cheese, cotton oil products, etc., imported from foreign countries, much of it grown on land that has been cultivated thousands of years, while millions of our acres lie uncultivated and too idle to pay taxes. These foreigners are raising bigger crops and "getting" while the getting is good. They are not asleep on the job as we are.

As I said before, this, to my way of thinking, is not a political question. At Washington, Democrats are promulgating it. In Chilton County, Republican are praising it and carrying it on. Your county agent can't change it. He is not to blame for it. His orders are from higher up.

Let's keep our heads level and seek some sensible change. What we have may be O.K., for some big cotton planter, but it means ruin for the average good old "one gallus farmer" of Chilton county and he is the best man I ever knew and I am for him, no matter who or what party is against him.

Yours in the hope that better is in store for us—V. J. GRAGG.

CORRECTION ABOUT REPORT OF NEGRO SHOOTING AND ARREST

Last week The Union-Banner reported about county officers going up near Reynolds swimming pool Tuesday night of last week and bringing to jail a negro man that had been shot in the back with a shotgun. Since the paper went out last week we have gotten a fuller and slightly different report about the affair.

Mr. W. M. Nelson, whose house the negro visited twice during the afternoon, reports the following:

About 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Mrs. J. T. Nelson, aged mother of W. M. Nelson, heard a noise on her back porch, and found that it was a negro man. She asked him what he wanted, and he answered that he wanted something to eat, whereupon Mrs. Nelson told him to leave the place. The negro left, and during the afternoon was seen at other places in the community. About 8:30 that night he was found again on the back porch of Mrs. J. T. Nelson, whereupon W. M. Nelson was called from his home a short distance away. When he arrived at his mother's the negro had already disappeared, but was found near the road 250 yards from the house. The negro was said to have had a stick and a sack of rocks, and refused to leave when Nelson ordered him away. The negro offered to attack Nelson and threw several rocks at him, whereupon Nelson summoned other help. Clarence Oaks came to Nelson's aid and brought a shotgun. As Oaks approached, the negro began to leave the scene, and Oaks ordered him to stop. When he kept going, Oaks shot him in the back of the head and neck.

The officers were summoned. When the negro was found, he had been captured and was being held by Floyd Bean on the railroad near the swimming pool. The officers took charge of the negro and brought him to jail. It was then about 10:30 Tuesday night.

The negro gave three different reports as to where he was from. Some he told he was from Greenville, some from Montgomery, some from Clanton and some from the nearest town. The negro never revealed his name.

Republicans Sweep Elections In East

New Deal Is Made Issue; Few Democrats Win; Kentucky Close

Decisively leading in New York's State elections, Republican leaders quickly filed a claim Tuesday that the Empire State had repudiated the new deal.

Ousting at least eight Democratic incumbents, they apparently regained control of the State Assembly, by a margin estimated at five to six seats. The Democrats had a majority of four in the last assembly. A Republican trend was apparent in the State's Mayoralty elections.

Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee and of the New York Democratic State committee, saw his own district go Republican, as did President Roosevelt in the Assembly elections.

Meanwhile, returns were coming in slowly from State Legislature elections in New Jersey.

Topping a long list of mayoralty elections, Philadelphia priduced a growing lead for the Republican, S. Davis Wilson, over his Democratic opponent, John B. Kelley.

In Kentucky, more than a million votes were cast in a heated gubernatorial election which saw a split in the ranks of Democratic leaders. Two men were shot to death and two were wounded in shooting affrays. The ballots were locked up until today, when counting will begin.

Kentucky's bitter campaign, made spectacular by a party split which found Gov. Laffoon bolting the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, reached its climax in a general downpour of rain and a heavy flood of ballots.

Chandler appealed for votes as a supporter of the new deal. The national question was thrown into the contest also by Senator Barkley (D) Kentucky, and other new deal spokesmen, who sought Chandler votes as votes for the new deal. Chandler's opponent was judge King Swope.

New Jersey voting was quite and light. The national issue had been raised there by Senator Barbour, Republican, and former Senator Walter E. Edge, the latter proclaiming the assembly contest to be "the first and most important round" of next year's presidential election.

KIWANIS ELECTED OFFICERS

At their regular weekly meeting last Thursday night the Clanton Kiwanis Club elected officers for the coming year. They are:

Dr. C. O. Lawrence, president; J. W. Fant, vice president; Raymond Smith, treasurer. The board of direcotrs consists of Dr. V. J. Gragg, Luther E. Little, H. F. Downs, J. Mell Martin, Homer Roberts, J. C. Page, and S. J. Ezell.

The secretary will be named by the board of directors.

ONE FINED IN MAYOR'S COURT

Only one case was on Monday's docket in Mayor's court. This was a case of public drunkenness. A fine of $5.00 and costs was assessed.

Monday morning Mayor C. Fenn Jones refused to allow a license to the operator of the shooting gallery on Seventh Street. Mayor Jones stated that the management of the gallery had caused quite a bit of confusion among the patrons of the place, many feeling that they had been "gypped", and that he had been requested by numbers of people to "do something" about it, and that he believed it was to the best interest of all concerned that the license be denied.

Literary Digest To Try New Deal Poll

To Ask Americans How They Like The New Deal Now

Individual ballots have been mailed to voters of Clanton and nearby communities in a new Literary Digest poll of 10,000,000 persons to ascertain the present popularity of the New Deal and should be distributed by the Post Office locally within a few days, ocording to advice received today from the magazine's publishers.

Alabama's returns in this new referendum will be tallied as a unit so they may be compared with the voting in other states, it is announced.

The voting of the post-card ballots is secret as no signature or other identification is required and the return postage is paid by the magazine. To guard against tampering and counterfeiting a specially manufactured cardboard is used for printing the ballot, according to the sponsors of the poll, and all spurious votes can be detected immediately and destroyed.

The ballot asks a yes or no answer to the question: "Do You NOW Approve the Acts and Policies of the Roosevelt 'New Deal' to date?"

NEW CAFE TO OPEN HERE ABOUT MIDDLE OF MONTH

The Johnson building, next to Clanton Laundry, is being remodeled preparatory for a fine new cafe to be opened up there in about fifteen days. The owner of the new cafe is Mr. Albert Gramatas, and he comes here from Birmingham. He owns a large farm in the northern part of Chilton County, we are told.

Mr. Gramatas has had a number of years experience in the operation of cafes, and it is said that he really knows the game. Sixth Street is glad to welcome Mr. Gramatas and his new business.

PASTOR'S WIFE WILL UNDERGO OPERATION

Montgomery, Nov. 4.—Mrs. John W. Inzer, wife of Dr. Inzer, pastor of the of the First Baptist church Montgomery will go to Memphis, Tenn., tonight where she will undergo a serious operation as an aftermath of an accident she received while returning home from a tour of the world early this year. Several days before the boat docked in New York City, Mrs. Inzer fell and fractured her hip. She was in a New York hospital for several days before returning home and then after her return, was confined to bed for several months.

OCIE A. BAKER HURT WHILE HUNTING

Chilton County friends of Ocie A. Baker, former Chilton County man, now living in Sylacauga, will regret to know of his serious injury last Saturday afternoon, in which he suffered a broken leg.

Mr. Baker was a member of a hunting party, composed of himself, Monroe Powell and John Henry Johnson. A short while after taking to the woods, about 20 miles from Sylacauga, he sipped and fell, breaking the large bone of his leg. He was brought back to Sylacauga, where an examination was made, X-ray pictures disclosing a complete fracture.

Sunday afternoon he was resting fairly well, after a restless night. Attending physicians expect he will be all of six weeks recovering from the accident. He is foreman in the Avondale Mills, at Syacauga.

New Census Figures Made For Clanton

City Of Clanton Has 3,363 People; Ratio 4 to 1 White

Under the direction of H. R. Green, from the Federal Census Bureau, four enumerators have finished the enumeration of the inhabitants of Clanton, since the expansion of the city limits. And thereby, The Town of Clanton is no more, but has become The City of Clanton.

The enumerators were James P. Crumpton, Carrie Middleton Foshee, Will H. Sartor, and Hugh M. Simpson, and their work was finished and tabulation made last Monday.

This tabulation shows that Clanton has 1,332 white males, 1,368 white females, 300 negro males, and 363 negro females, a total of 3,363 people.

The tabulation by enumerators was as follows:

	White		Negro
	M	F	M	F	Totl
J. P. Crumpton ..	355	347	14	16	732
Carrie M. Foshee ..	572	569	47	66	1,254
Will H. Sartor ...	146	157	230	268	801
H. M. Simpson ...	259	295	9	13	576
Totals	1,332	1,368	300	363	3,363

As will be seen by the above, the female population of Clanton is greater than the male, both black and white. The ratio of black and white is a little over 4 to 1 white.

Several attempts have been made in the past by various mayors to have the city limits enlarged, but to no avail. Mayor Jones states, however, that the drive he began which finally succeeded met little opposition. The old city limits ran to within 50 yards of the creek all around, and was not a true boundary of Clanton. The new one is more near correct, and does not really hurt anyone concerned, as almost all who are now in the city limits have their business interests in Clanton, and, in reality, are a part of the city.

The cost of the enumeration was $201.90, divided as follows:

Enumeration books	$ 23.25
Enumerators	100.89
Expense of H. R. Green	77.76
Total	$201.90

It will begin at 8 o'clock, and some of the outstanding artists of the country are booked to appear. They include Gertrude Peterson, Lucy Lewis, Joseph McPherson, Philip Frank, Edwin Strawbridge and his group, Lisa Parnova.

These artists come to Clanton with the highest praise from the leading journals of the country. It is not often that people so acomplished as these come to Clanton; and all who can should avail themselves of attending the program.

An admission charge of 50c will be made for adults; all students will be admitted for 25c each.

THE RED CROSS IS YOURS, FOLKS

The annual roll call of the American Red Cross begins next Monday and continues through November 28th, Thanksgiving Day. This organization's record in times of war and peace is well known to the people of Chilton County, and it deserves the support of the American people. Hundreds of us in Chilton county should respond promptly to its appeal by enrolling ourselves as members.

The few dollars that we will contribute to the Red Cross will be only a cheap and small participation in the glorious realization of mercy and relief. Surely those of us in Chilton county who possibly can will be included in that great army of people over the country willing to help the afflicted and unfortunate.

Let us not depend on the other fellow doing his part and ours too in this most worthy cause. The work must be carried on, and it takes money. Private contributions will do the work, and it is vital that all who can do so give toward the support of the organization.

THE CAUSE THEY SERVED IN 1917-18

Armistice Day is again upon us, and our attentions are turned toward the Americans who gave up their lives in the service of their country during the great World War. It is well that the people of Chilton County should place some emphasis on the sacrifice of brave young men who surrendered their all in that great struggle. Surely we should honor those who lived but are disabled as a result of wounds received and the harassing ordeals of battle.

Rightly or wrongly, they were convinced that the suffering they were called upon to endure and the blood they were forced to spill was a part of the price that mankind had to pay for world peace. Our only fitting tribute to them—soldiers, sailors, marines, nurses, and all connected with war-time service, is sincere attachment to the ends they sought and a courageous determination to secure the goal for which they struggled. We will always remember those who died and remain loyal to those who survived.

Attendants at the plant of Clanton Motors, local Ford dealers, are pointing out the many improvements of the 1936 Ford V-8 this week. A representative of the Union-Banner went to the Ford place and had all the improvements explained, and they are legion.

This year's Ford V-8 has the same sturdy, powerful 8-cylinder, 90-horsepower motor, with various improvements. The cooling syshem has been enlarged, carrying two quarts more water. There are improved and enlarged shock absorbers. The steering rato is changed from 15 to 1, 17 to 1, with an adjustment to take care of the wear.

The new syncro-mesh transmission is silent in all gears, even in reverse. The brakes are improved and enlarged, carrying several inches more braking surface, and the shoes are self-centering, insuring even braking at all times. There are lighter and stronger steel wheels, each wheel being 5 pounds lighter than the wire wheel of the 1935 model, yet is stronger, and is a one piece affair. There are eight more Timken bearings in the 1936 Ford, too. The horns are enclosed in the fender aprons. The new radiator shell is ultra-streamlined, enhancing the appearance of the new car.

The complete all-steel body carries better upholstering, and is equipped with safety non-shatter glass all around in both standard and deluxe models.

The sales force at Clanton Motors are completely sold on the new car, and they can tell you more about it in a minute than we can in a week, so call around and let them explain all the new features of the new Ford V-8 for 1936.

The store managers of the twenty Elmore 5c, 10c and $1 stores in as many towns of the State, were in annual session at the firm's headquarters in Clanton Monday, Tuesday and part of Wednesday this week. The object of this meting of the managers was to make a general round-up of the past year's business, discuss new plans, and make general preparations for the coming holiday trade and the next year's business in general. No social functions were given the men while here, other than a banquet each day at noon at a local hotel. "Strictly business," were the words which Mr. Elmore used in describing the gathering of the managers here.

The towns of the State where the stores are located, together with the names of the managers, follow: Clanton, J. C. Parr with J. C. Leverett assistant; Jasper, W. R. Morgan; Wetumpka, D. L. COMMISSIONERS COURT IN SESSION THIS WEEK

The Commissioners Court of Chilton county was in session the first part of this week. The usual routine of monthly court work was done, and quite a few individuals met the court, but no special acts were passed, according to Judge J. Lee Smith. The court will meet again next Monday morning.

Mrs. Billy Smith is the guest of her sister in Wetumpka.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Powers and Suan spent Monday in Birmingham with relatives and friends.

1936 CHEVROLET MODELS ARE NOW ON DISPLAY

Hayes Chevrolet Company is this week showing the new 1936 models of the 1936 Chevrolet, both Standard and Master Models. The new Chevrolet has been dubbed "the only complete low-priced car on the American market".

This new car carries the same dependable 79 horsepower Blue Flame valve-in-head economical 6-cylinder Chevrolet engine that has made the Chevrolet so popular. The wheels are optional—new steel or wire wheels, according to your choice.

The 1936 model carries hydraulic brakes, has the 1-piece steel turret top, knee action (which is optional), and a new snappy bullet type radiator shell, with lamps attached on each side. All doors are hinged on front pillars. And there are two new body types, the sport sedan and the town sedan, both carrying trunks.

On the coach and town sedan, the front seat is of a new type which admits more ample room for entrance. The 1936 model brings over the starter from last year's model. The glove compartment locks, and the door to this carries an ash tray and a clock. The instrument board is complete—a 100-mile speedometer, gas and oil, gauges, heat indicator, ammeter, cigar lighter, ash tray and clock. Two windshield wipers are on all models. Fisher no-draft ventilation is retained, also. On all models not equipped with trunks, there is a spacious luggage compartment back of the rear seat.

In the standard models, the wheelbase is increased two inches. Interior accessories, brake extensions, shift lever balls, cigar lighters, door pulls, etc., all harmonize with the upholstery of the particular model's interior color motif.

Hayes Chevrolet Company point, also, to the easy terms of the GMAC purchase plan, which makes it so easy to own a new Chevrolet.

We are advised that the first 1936 Chevrolet was delivered here to Geo. McCain—a standard coach. Hayes Chevrolet Company will prove their claims for the car with a demonstration. Call on them

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP THURSDAY NIGHT OF THIS WEEK

Mr. J. Dudley Collins asks The Union-Banner to announce the singing at Friendship Thursday night of this week. This being their singing just preceding the second Sunday, they expect to make it an exceptionally good one. At this time each manth a special singing is held at Friendship, and this one promises to be better than any in the past. A number of outstanding singers have promised to attend, as well as some good quartets.

All singers are invited, and singing will begin at 7:00 o'clock. Bring your new books. And listeners, if you want to hear some good singing, be on hand. All will be welcome at Friendship.

FIFTEEN EARS CORN IN ONE

Mr. Will DeShazo of Isabella community has presented The Union-Banner with fifteen ears of corn all grown under one shuck. We believe this gets the prize for this kind of corn. Mr. E. J. Vinson brought in one last year with, we believe, eleven ears.

Mr. DeShazo's corn is Hastings Prolific variety; and it must be really prolific, according to the number of ears it produces to the shuck.

Uncle Pink Jones of Corinth community was in Clanton Wednesday morning shaking hands with old friends. In speaking to The Union-Banner Mr. Jones stated that both he and Mrs. Jones were enjoying fair health, notwithstanding there combined ages now total 170 years.

Huge Salaries Paid To Cotton Officials

Revealed By Senatorial Search Conducted To Find Cost To Uncle Sam

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 30.—A senatorial subcommittee pursued its searching inquiry into the costs of the cotton coooperatives to the Government today but assured thier officials that private cotton firms have been under investigation for six weeks.

Senator Bankhead (D), Alabama, told E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the American Cotton Cooperative Association, that investigators will report to the senatorial committee of which Senator Smith (D) South Carolina, is chairman, at a public hearing at Washington next month.

Senator Bankhead, also a member of the Smith committee, said the investigation concerns market speculation chages and last March's collapse in cotton prices, but that it "has expanded to include the exchanges and general buying methods."

"Senator McKellar (D), Tennesseee, chairman of the subcommittee here, has $1,500 for his inquiry into the co-ops. His principal duty is to determine whether the co-ops are entitled to a $4,000,000 reimbursement for losses incurred in the old Farm Board's cotton stabiliation operations.

Senator McKellar drew from Creekmore today that six of the 14 American Cotton Cooperative Association directors are member Association managers and receive half their salaries from the American Cotton Cooperative Association. Directors of member groups elected them to the parent body, he said.

He named the directors and their total yearly salaries as follows: C. C. Selden, California Cotton Cooperative Association, $75,000; W. R. Squires, Southwestern Irrigated-Cotton Growers Association, $7,000; P. E. Harold, Oklahoma Cotton Cooperative Association, $5,000; A. D. Stewart, Mississippi Cotton Growers Association, $7,500; J. A. Beatty, Alabama Cotton Cooperative Association, $5,000; and J. S. Hatchcock, South Carolina Cotton Cooperative Association, $4,800.

The American Cotton Cooperative Association President, N. C. Williamson, Lake Providence, receives $25 a day when engaged in Association business, he said. Creekmore's salary is $35,000 a year.

Red Cross Roll Call To Begin Nov. 11th

Will Close Thanksgiving Day; J. Mell Martin Chairman Of Local Committee

JOIN

Day by day the annual roll call of the American Red Cross approaches, and preparations are being shaped up in readiness for the drive, according to J. Mell Martin, Chilton county's chairman for the roll call. Organization of forces over the entire county is being perfected and an intensive drive for membership will be carried to every corner of the county.

It will not be necessary for The Union-Banner to devote space and time to recounting the benefits to be derived from the Red Cross. Our people know what it is, what it stands for and what it does. We also know what the Red Cross has done for Chilton County when we needed help. They came to our rescue in that memorable time of March, 1932, a time when we needed help, and if we had not gotten such help the consequences would have been much more deplorable than they were.

We all hope and pray that we may never witness another such ordeal of human suffering and mal-adjustment, but it may come. Therefore, we should be as nearly prepared for such emergency as we humanly can. It may hit Chilton county and it may hit somebody else in America. Wherever calamity hits, the Red Cross will stand ready to extend its strong arm of helpfulness. That organiation deserves the support of the people of America if any organiation does.

Chilton county will not fail. We cannot afford to sit down on the job now. The Union-Banner urges those placed in charge of the work over the county to stand by Mr. Martin and help him out in this worthy work. And we hope when the opportunity is presented to the individuals of the county they will extend what help they can. We believe in the people of Chilton county, and we are confident they will not fail to support the Red Cross.

SUNDAY IS RED CROSS DAY

Next Sunday has been officially designated as Red Cross Day. All pastors of churches and Sunday school officials are asked to make mention of the annual roll call at their services next Sunday, making whatever explanation of the plan that they feel disposed to. It is hoped that not a single person in Chilton County will not be reminded of the Red Cross and their attentions brought to bear on the values of the organization and the necessity for everyone to extend a helping hand to make the drive a success.

SLIPS THAT WON'T PASS IN THE NIGHT

Of all the stories concerning newspaper incidents coming to our desk, the most amuzing and by far the prize winner appeared several days ago. In explaining "Exactly How it Happeed" several editors printed the story concerning a most humorous blunder made by an inebriated publisher.

The story runs like this:

After receiving a column of type from the linotype operator containing an account of a marriage and an auction sale, the publisher "pied" the gally of type (dropped it on the floor). In putting it together he obtained the following result relative to the marriage write-up.

Mr. John Eaton and Miss Mary Thompson were united in marriage at public auction, on the premises, on last Friday at high noon, in the presence of two yearling heifers and 4 13 year-old steers.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of two tons of unbailed timothy hay and several hundred bundles of fodder, trimmed with two spring tooth harrows, and one riding cultivator. She carried a bouquet of beautiful sausage grinders, stuffers and cooking utinsils.

The groom had been a life-long resident of Bentonville, being general manager of two dozen Berkshire pigs and about 100 leghorn hens. The bride was given in marriage by two draft mares, to foal by day of sale, and the bridesmaids were one Oliver chilled plow, a 6-horse drill and two shares of telephone stock. The groom's best man was a cider press, wheat fan and two barrels of cider vinegar.

Miss Emily Johnson, a friend of the bride softly played "O Promise Me" on one New Idea manure spreader, a corn-sheller and two copper kettles and stands. The color scheme of lavender and yellow was carried out, the room being decorated with a 1929 Ford sedan, one double-barrel shotgun, and 14 Jersey heifers eligible for registration.

After a luncheon and reception, the happy couple left for a trip of two months' time, with 2 per cent off for cash, and upon their return will be at home with 2 sets of almost new work harness, 2 sets of fly-straps, and one slightly used baby carriage. The officiating minister was Charlie Hilbert, auctioner.—Exchange.

Lest We Forget! A thought for

1918 - November 11 - 1935

TIME moves on. Hardly seems that seventeen years have gone into History since that eventful day of 1918 when the greatest conflict the world has ever known came to an end. A glorious victory it was for the Allied Armies . . a glorious triumph of Humanity over the forces that sought to destroy it.

 And yet it was not a victory without its price. In honored graves in Flanders fields and in our own consecrated ground lie those young heroes who so unselfishly gave their all in Humanity's defense. And, in hospitals throughout the land . . yes, in civil life, too . . there still are many whose wounds of war have never healed. Yet uncomplainingly they carry on . . bearing the cost of their devotion to their fellow man with a fortitude that is amazing.

 To the hero dead . . to the wounded . . yes, to all the lads who in '17 and '18 followed the flag in the World War . . our undying gratitude. And to give that gratitude expression, let us solemnly FACE THE EAST at 11 a.m., Armistice Day, and breathe a silent prayer of Thankfulness!

STATE GAME NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 5.—Conservation Commissioner I. T. Quinn announced today that the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey has assigned Harold S. Peters, formely attached to the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to Alabama Polytechnic Institute to direct a new cooperative wildlife project in Alabama.

Mr. Peters appointment was with the approval of the State Conservation Department, the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and the American Wild Life Institute and fulfills a promise made by Chief J. N. Darling of the Biological Survey during his December visit to this state to provide Alabama with a trained biologist to conduct a course in game management and do research work in the wild life field.

The biologist will be attached to the Department of Entomology and Zoology, at Auburn, but will utilize the Biology Department, the Agricultural Extension Service and its Experiment Stations in his work. Commissioner Quinn considers Alabama very fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. Peters.

Among his more specific duties, Mr. Peters will make a study of external and internal parasites of game birds and animals; a food habit study to determine the effects of the food habits of certain species of wildlife upon other forms; a study of the predatory habits of certain birds and animals, and conduct demonstrations with the purpose of determining the factors which regulate minimum and maximum production of a given species of wild life on a definite area.

5 P.M. is a test of how you FEEL

"How do I feel.... Rotten! why do you ask?"

"Because, you are not yourself!"

IT is all so simple, too! That tired, run-down, exhausted feeling quite often is due to lack of a sufficiency of those precious red-blood-cells. Just build up these oxygen-carrying cells and the whole body takes on new life... food is really turned into energy and strength... you can't help but feel and look better. S.S.S. Tonic restores deficient red-blood-cells... it also improves the appetite and digestion. It has been the nation's standby for over 100 years... and unless your case is exceptional it should help you, too. Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red cellophane-wrapped package. The big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment... it's more economical.

T. V. MIMS COMMENDS FARMERS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your paper. I want to commend the farming class of people for the stand that they have taken in demanding their rights on the Federal triple A program. We, as farmers, voters, and citizens of our country have got to wake up and take notice of what is going on in our country. We have for the last fifteen years been drifting into the hands of the political leaders, who will make you think that they are doing something for your benefit. How can you expect anything from men of high financial standing to make a program for common people, because they are liable to hurt their own pocket book.

Our government is supposed to be of the people, for the people and by the people. Instead, it has got to where it is of the politician, for the politician and by the politician. We, as a people have got to wake up and see that our officials do their duty as public officials.

We have been made to believe that there has been an ovr-production of cotton and no market for it. There are not a dozen families in Chilton County that can't use from fifty to a hundred yards of cotton cloth. If you want a market, give the people something to buy with and see if it don't sell like hot cakes. How can people buy anything when it takes all the money they can get to pay taxes to keep our homes from selling. If I, for one had had to depend on my farm for clothes and a living above the expense, I am afraid we would have failed.

There are hundreds of people right here in Chilton County who can't even send their children to school because they are not able to buy clothes and books. Does that show that the market is over-crowded? One thing that we need very badly is real referendum within reach of the voter so when they fail to do their duty as officials, recall them. We have put up with too much stuff, no wonder that men of high educational standing can come to Clanton and other places and tell the farmers what they need. They are getting big pay for it out of the taxpayers of this state. Any change might hurt their payroll.

Voters and friends, we have got to organize our votes so we can have a better understanding with each other. Sometimes we have to fight fire with fire, so now we are facing a time when we all have got to fight the organized politician with organized voters. When Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston wrote out the Declaration of Independence, which reads like this, All men are created equal and they have a right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Think this matter over and see if you have any men in office that are as sincere as this bunch of men were.

Voters, it costs the tax payers about $10,000 a year for each Senator in the United States, $8,000 for each Congressman. Now there are not fifty farmers in Chilton County that make enough, above expenses, in two years to pay one of these officials. Does this look like equal? I think before they try to enforce the triple A, they had better reduce the taxes some and see if it won't work out better. We wouldn't mind cheap cotton if we could get cheaper officials. Is it right for these fellows to get large salaries when the farmer can't pay his taxes let alone get something to eat and wear. I think the triple A will be all right if they will try some of the reducing from our State Capitol to our National Capitol.

I am with you for a cheaper government and a better government.—Thanks.—T. V. Mims.

CLEANIN UP OF FTUIT TREES BY THE GOVERNMENT

The Alabama Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture are doing good work in Chilton County taking up old diseased peach trees and cleaning run down orchards.

I have had some of this work done and I believe it is a good project. These old trees have been on my place for a good many years, harboring insects and diseases and making it almost impossible for me to produce good fruit. The insects and diseases that winter in these old trees attack my new trees that are put on my place.

As I understand it the project is to do away with the phoney peach diseases that have cost the fruit growers of Georgia so much money.

This is a worthwhile project and is now spreading into Alabama. I believe everyone who is trying to grow fruit should cooperate with the government in making this project a success.—J. C. Watson, Calera, Ala., Route 1.

The friends of Sidney Littleton, who s at the South Highland Infirmary, are proud to know he is now improving.

I. God's Sovereign Right to the Souls of Men (18:1-4).

Every man is personally responsible to God.

II. The Moral Obligation of Sons to Their Father (Ezek. 18:14-20).

While the law of heredity gives the child a sinful nature and when the child arrives at the age of moral responsibility it begins to sin, God holds such responsible for their deeds.

III. Ezekiel's Responsibility (Ezek. 33:1-9).

As a prophet of God certain responsibilities were imposed upon him. There is a sense in which every disciple of Christ is a witness for him and therefore is responsible for the giving of his testimony to sinners. His responsibility is set forth under the figure of a watchman. Two things were required of a watchman.

1. To hear the words of God's mouth (v. 7). The source of the message of every minister and Sunday School teacher is God's holy Word. Just as the prophet did not originate his message but received it of God's mouth, so it should be with every minister and Sunday School teacher.

2. To sound the warning (v. 7). After hearing God's message he was to speak it out and proclaim it to the people. A watchman today is both to hear and to speak. The people are to be warned of the impending danger. Failure to sound the alarm makes the watchman guilty of the blood of the sinner.

IV. God's Attitude Toward the Sinner (vv. 10, 11).

God has declared in his Word that unfaithfulness on the part of his people would cause them to "perish among the heathen," that they would "pine away in their iniquity" (Lev. 26:38, 39). In view of this pronouncement some are disposed to say that their case is hopeless. To meet this attitude of despair the prophet assured them that God had no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but that his sincere desire was for the wicked to turn from their way and live. Regardless of what their past had been, they were given the assurance that the future was bright if they heeded God's command and plea. No one need to despair because of sin, for God's grace is greater than human sin.

V. The Sinner's Personal Responsibility (vv. 12-20).

God created the members of the race personal beings, giving them freedom of choice. They have moral discernment enabling them to distinguish between the right and the wrong. They choose, therefore, according to the quality of their being.

The following principles govern the sinner:

1. Past righteousness will not avail for present sins (v. 12). When a righteous man turns to iniquity, his past seeming righteousness will be of no avail.

2. Past sins do not make impossible present acceptance with God (vv. 12-15). By virtue of the operation of the law of habit, every sinful act makes it harder for the sinner to repent, but God's grace is such that if the sinner repents God will forgive and restore.

3. Restitution required (vv. 15, 16) The proof of penitence is that, so far as possible, the sinner makes amends for wrongs done.

4. God's ways are equal (vv. 17-20) God holds man responsible for his own deeds. The child is not condemned because of the deeds of his father, nor can it be said that the fathers have eaten sour grapes and the children's teeth are set on edge. This does not do away with the law of heredity. Regardless of what one's past life has been, God's grace in Jesus Christ blots out his record and he stands accepted in the Beloved.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

In the fifteenth chapter of the Apostles, we read that there were certain men from Judea who tried to stir up strife among a group of Christians by insisting that these Christians be circumcised after the manner of Moses. According to the report there was much dissension among the brethren. How up-to-date this story is! It has been the writer's privilege to contact religious groups throughout America and also in a number of foreign countries. The orthodox groups agree on all the fundamentals. They believe the Bible is the word of God. They believe in the necessity of the new birth. Yet, many of these Christians refuse to have fellowship with each other because they disagree about matters which, in the strictest sense, are not fundamental.

The writer is a fundamentalist. He believes that modernism and fundamentalism are so diametrically opposed to each other that it is impossible to bring them together. The modernist says that the Bible contains the word of God. The fundamentalist says that it is the word of God. Both can not be right. There is no middle ground. No man can be neutral. The orthodox Christian should unite in testimony and in service. The modernists ought to be able to get together. The writer has built an orthodox college and operated it for nine years. It is built on the one idea that whatever the Bible says is so. In this college there are Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, and other Christians united in the faculty and the student body. They live together harmoniously, and the denominational integrity of each student is preserved. The Bob Jones College in Cleveland, Tennessee, is a daily demonstration of the fact that evangelical, orthodox Christians can agree on certain fundamentals and can work together harmoniously without sacrificing a Christian conviction. There is no use to say that it can not be done; it is being done. If you do not believe it, come and see.

Our Sunday school is still improving. More people seem to be interested and we are doing good work. Everyone who wishes to hear some good discussions on the lesson should visit us.

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Connell and little grand son, Moses, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Connell Sunday.

The pounding for Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Miner on last Thursday night was a grand success. These old people received many useful articles in the grocery line. There was just a little from each one, yet they have enough to last for several months.

Let's everyone be sure and come to Sunday school next Sunday and try to have your lessons just a little better.

OUT OF THE EXPERIMENTAL STAGE

The farm cooperatives have passed out of the experimental stage. They have become as essential to modern agriculture as the plow.

They have demonstrated that only through cooperation can supply be adjusted to demand —that only through cooperation can the farmer obtain a fairer share of the final selling price of what he produces—that only through cooperation can scientific farming be extended to millions of farms, making smaller acreage produce better, more profitable crops.

The establishment of the first cooperative marked one of the greatest days since the dawn of farm history—though few realized it at the time. The cooperative ideal is the most dominant characteristic of farm activity today.

The Yale Class of 1924, which 15 months ago was 68 per cent in favor of the Roosevelt program, is now 69 per cent against it. Probably the President, like a good Harvard man, will now quote the succinct phrase of contumely made famous by John the orangeman.—"T' hell wid Yale!"—Boston Transcript.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Many Americans have felt that it wouldn't be long until Uncle Sam was blamed for the trouble between Italy and Ethiopia. The process it seems has already started. Declaring that the League of Nations has been crippled by the United States after President Wilson helped set it up, the Toronto Mail and Empire says in part:

"After his return home the nation repudiated his commitments and defeated him at the polls. Ever since that day the United States has maintained the attitude of the Levite who passed by on the other side. It is due to that retrograde action that the League of Nations has been crippled from the outset—that it has been hamstrung in all its undertaking. Had statesmen from Washington sat with the representatives of other nations at Geneva neither Japan nor Germany would have left the League, and Italy today would not be treating it with contempt."

The fact is that the Europeon nations who had their diplomats helping draw up the Treaty of Versailles were warned in advance by the United States Senate that the League treaty would not be ratified by America. They knew very well what the fundamental law of the United States is. In fact, they knew and still know about everything that is going on in the world—so much better than we do that we are mere infants in international politics.

The United States has not maintained the attitude of the Levite noted in the Canadian editorial. It has cooperated for world peace and world disarmament wherever possible. Uncle Sam foolishly gave up an assured naval supremacy in 1922 for a promise of disarmament that was never kept. There have been other conspicious examples of his willingness to cooperate for world peace.

In the matter of maintaining the authority of the League it might be just as well to call to the Toronto paper's attention as to what happened in the Manchurian episode. Little effort was made by Great Britain and other important members of the League to maintain the League's authority then. The reason was that John Bull and LaBelle France were not interested, even though they were under direct obligation to maintain the authority of the League because of their Geneva membership.

But now when it looks like John Bull's interests in Egypt might be threatened by Mussolini's invasion, Great Britain becomes suddenly enthusiastic about the League. She demands that it enforce sanctions and do whatever is necesary to maintain its authority and stop Italy not because of poor Ethiopia, but because of Egypt. Were trouble to break out in eastern Europe, Great Britain would not be so interested in maintaining the League's authority because no direct British interests would be at stake. And France and Italy, who would demand League action if their interests in Austria were affected, would now prefer to have the League ignore the African question.

The fault for the League's weakness should be pinned on the folks that deserve it. The blame does not lie with Uncle Sam but with the hypocritical European nations who only support the League when it is to their selfish interests to do so and are willing to let it go hang its crises which do not affect their national fortunes.

Uncle Sam is a thousand times better off outside the League than inside. Nothing indicates this better than the fast and loose methods the big nations of Europe use in dealing with the League, acting as they always do, according to their national interests.

WHEN RECOVERY BEGAN

In spite of all the political boondoggling about the great state of bliss which the average man has achieved under the new dispensation some of these days the truth will be generally known to the American people about the depression which started in 1929 and reached its depth two and a half years later, before the national election of 1932. That this fact is a fact is indicated by the truth that recovery has been continuing all over the world since the summer of 1932. In some countries it has proceeded faster than it has in the United States, due to serious efforts there to curtail the expenses and balance the national budget. Natural forces have been at work in the United States too, in spite of our tremendous expenditures, which have run our national debt to thirty billions, and the fact that these forces have not been entirely checked by the artificial and strangling efforts to hasten recovery, proves our strong national situation. Col. Charles R. Gow president of the Warren Brothers company, outlined the situation logically and clearly in Industry not long ago when he said:

"When the history of the depression finally will have been written in the light of a dispassionate future appraisal, it will be found that recovery actually began in the summer of 1932; that its progress was arrested in the fall of that year, due to uncertainty respecting the intentions of the newly elected national administration, with the result that a new low was established by the time it took office in March of the following year; and that while business thereafter sought to expand by natural processes and thus to absorb the country's idle workers, it was made to alternate between hope and despair as a consequence of the extraordinary attitudes and policies of our Government authorities who in one breath preached doctrines of encouragement to the nation's business interests and in the next filled their hearts with apprehension and dismay by evincing a spirit of pronounced hostility toward them or by introducing new elements of uncertainty into their affairs.

"In the meantime we have witnessed the rapid economic recovery of many competing nations throughout the world, none of whom has found it necessary or desirable to resort to the expensive, complicated and elaborate experiments upon which our own Federal authorities have confidently relied for the restoration of normal condition of trade and employment. In fact, it has become apparent to thoughtful men in all walks of life in every section of the country, that far from stimulating recovery these unfortunate experiments have served actualy to retard emergencie from our economic difficulties, with the result that there remains little, if anything, in the nature of public benefit to show for the staggering burden of indebtedness which the program has imposed not only upon the living, but likewise upon suceeding generations yet unborn."

That Mr. Gow is not a pessimist of America, not an ordinary "viewer with alarm" is indicated by the fact that he expreses faith in the future of the country and predicts national betterment despite obstacles thrown in the way.

QUODDY POWER

Everyone has heard the story about the fellow who was "all dressed up with nowhere to go." Some engineers are predicting the same sort of a situation for the Quoddy Tidal Power plant, at Eastport, Maine, if and when the plant is in shape to produce power. And producing power is only half of it. The next question is that concerning where the power will be sold after it is produced. The great schools of fish along the Maine coast run on their own power. Quoddy will have to sell its product to other "consumers".

The building of the tidal power plant will cost nearly fifty millions of dollars and the question as to where the power is to be sold is yet unsolved, according to statements atribuited to Colonel G. R. Lukeish, divison engineer of the U. S. Army at New York, in an address delivered recently before the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association. Col. Lukesh is quoted as stating:

"It is a project to generate electric energy from the tide. The main range of tide at Eastport is 18 feet, the spring tide range being 21 feet and the extreme tides have a range up to 25 feet.

"Advantage is taken of the string of islands bordering Cobscoog Bay. Dams will connect these islands together and to the mainland, forming a pool controlled by gates.

"A power plant will utilize the difference in head of the water within the pool and that of the ocean. A one-way plant is contemplated. The power plant will function at differences of head greater than five feet.

"To convert the resulting intermittent power into uniform power an auxiliary high reservoir will be built which will be filled during each tide by pumps operated by the current from the power house; the water will be released to generate electricity when the tidal plant is not effective.

"The question of a market for the power has not been settled. A study is under way. The legal question is not settled with the State of Maine. Only the preliminary work is now being done. About $10,000,000 of ERA money is used to begin the work and several years will be required to complete the job."

All of this is fine. Eastport is some distance away from any centers of population. A glance on the map will convince anyone of this fact. Of course the plant may work and may not. There is division of opinion on this point. Of course if it doesn't produce power, then we won't have to worry about where the power is to be sold. But if it does produce—well a lot of things may happen in the meantime and they may be bugging and digging potatoes by electricity before the dam is completed. Who knows?

MAN IN THE MOON

ARMISTICE DAY

On next Monday we join the rest of the world in celebrating one of the most glorious holidays on our calendar — Armistice Day, November 11th. To us this day ranks next to July 4th, as on that day we saw peace come to our land again after the turmoil of war, the most horrible war in all history. But in addition to this, Armistice Day holds special significance for America and Americans, for it was on this day in 1918 that millions of Americans, including high officials and dignitaries, swore deep down in their hearts that we would make all efforts to keep America out of war in the future.

Since our disastrous experience in the World War, Americans feel that any expense for preparedness is better than war, for in the case of war, the expense is terrific and the loss of life appalling. This being the case our people have come to the conclusion that we can't spend too much for preparedness, if it will keep peace.

I think this is one question in which all true Americans, private citizens and officials alike, see eye to eye. We all know that if we are prepared, if we have an imposing army, navy and air force, the probability of our becoming involved in war is far less than if it was common knowledge that we did not possess those arms of defense.

Therefore, on this 17th anniversary of the return of peace, Americans agree with President Roosevelt, regardless of race, creed or politics, that America must stay out of war at all costs. Of course that does not mean that we will not defend the lives and interests of Americans, but we are all fairly well agreed that we will not go poking our national nose into hornet nests just to see what will happen.

Let our national officials spend whatever is needed to build up a military force commensurate with our positions in international affairs, and equip that force in a manner adequate to command the profound respect of all nations of the world. Let us arm ourselves, not to fight a war, but to insure peace.

IT'S ALL OVER

It's all over, this controversy over the cotton plan, and to be honest, we are glad of it. We know only too well that people become disgusted with long drawn out scraps on any question, and we are always glad to settle one, win or lose. In this one, however, we feel that we have won—our opponent in the scrap, The Chilton County News, has left the fight, and we naturally take that as a sign that they have either become convinced that we were right, or have realized the futility of carrying their fight further in the face of such overwhelming opposition on the part of the farmers, themselves.

After all, there was only one contention we were out to prove, and I believe that has been proved beyond contradiction—that the cotton farmers are not satisfied with the present plan and want a change—any kind of change. All we have to guide us in ascertaining public opinion is the way people talk to us, and in the matter of the cotton question public opinion as voiced was almost wholly against the present plan—hence our stand in the matter. We believe the farmers have sense enough to know when they are being hurt. The News seemed to think different, and kept telling farmers they were better off than they had been, quoting figures enough to fill a book, but figures don't fill a wrinkled belly—the farmers couldn't eat and wear figures. But, as said before, The News editor seems to have seen the light and has given up his fight.

The cotton plan may have helped in some instances, and we are ready and willing to admit this, but for the greater bulk of farmers it has worked a hardship. And they have come to a point where they do not mind telling the intellectual big shots that their fairy ideas may be fine on paper, but do not work out on the cotton field.

We are told that if the Supreme Court kills the AAA, farmers will raise so much surplus cotton that the price will go below the cost of production. We have an answer for that —if the government will open its eyes to the immense imports of cotton goods and cotton by-products, thus forcing our mills to use our American cotton first, our surplus will be no larger than it has been for decades past.

How can we expect to sell our cotton, with cheap cotton goods flooding into this country by the millions of pounds? For some very curious reason Americans differ from most other peoples of the world in this respect—they will buy where they can buy the cheapest, regardless of any economic question that may arise concerning it. We're just built that way, and there is no way of getting around it. And when there is no way to remove an obstacle, the next best thing is to find the best way to get along with it.

CURB THE SUPREME COURT?

In a nationwide poll conducted by Dr. Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, through 41 newspapers from coast to coast, Americans were asked this question: "As a general principle, would you favor limiting the the power of the Supreme Court to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional?"

About 150,000 of these ballots were sent in to headquarters of the Institute. Of these, 31 per cent voted "yes"; 53 per cent voted "no"; and 16 per cent returned their ballots marked "no opinion". In other words, 53 per cent of the voters want the Supreme Court's power kept as is, 31 per cent want it cut down, and 16 per cent can't make up their minds or don't give a rap which way the river runs.

The Constitution of the United States reads: "The judicial power . . . . . shall be vested in one Supreme Court." There is no way of getting that clause out of the Constitution, but there are ways of getting around it. One way is for the Cogress to cut the number of justices making up this court. It has been cut once before, but the original number was replaced later, Therefore, the Congress COULD take the liberty of ascertaining which justices were generaly against their acts and cut their acts and cut judicial heads off, IF they could be sure that the people of the country would stand for it. Hence the poll. A constitutional amendment could fix things up so that a verdict would have to be unanimous, too, but that amendment would have to be voted by the people, and the above figures seem to prove that any tinkering with the Supreme Court would be bad taste, insofar as the people's opinion is concerned.

Inasmuch as the Supreme Court promises to become a big question in the coming presidential election, it would not be amiss to give the percentage figures in the different sections of the country.

The "do not curb" vote ran as follows: In the densly populated New England states, New York and Pennsylvania, 56 per cent; in Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Maine the vote was even larger, running to 63 per cent —and we are told that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation"; in the Great Lakes states, the vote was evenly divided, 50-50; the midwest and part of the far west, including Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Kansas, and Missouri ranged from 41 per cent to 49 per cent, and was the only part of the country to favor a change; and even the rock-ribbed South, with Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, North and South Carolinas, Georgia Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Lauisiana favored letting the present system stand by 52 per cent; the far west states, Washington, Oregon and California wan to keep the present plan by 51 per cent.

In view of the fact that the American public is fully aware of the fact that the Supreme Court has killed five out of six New Deal projects it has passed on already, and has several more booked to pass on within the next few weeks, with the general opinion running that the majority of these will be killed, it is quite significant that the American public, the country over, is still satisfied to leave matters as they have stood for over a hundred years, holding to a system that has brought America from a swaddling national babe to its present position as one of the stalwarts of the world. America seems satisfied with Americanism, it seems, and is not yet ready to bounce off on some uncharted course.

New Dealers are inclined to poke fun at the Constitution, with such terms as "horse and buggy document", and point out the fact that times have changed, but for the most part our people seem quite content to stick to our established standard and manner of doing things, rather than branch off to radical paths.

Just how much light this poll may shed on coming national political events no one can tell. But the vote could be construed as evidence that some of that overwhelming confidence the nation voted in the New Deal has slipped away. Other questions are to be put to voters by the Institute, which may help to shed more light on this all-important question.—Man in the Moon.

NEWSDOM'S POLL

Newsdom, a trade publication, has presented final figures of its 1935 "New Deal" poll of American newspapers, which disclose a heavy reversial of opinion on the Roosevelt policies and practices.

The poll shows that more than one-fourth of the nation's Democratic papers are now against the administration, whereas in 1934 only 14.7 per cent were so opposed. This represents a loss of administration support to the extent of better than 11 per cent of its own party organs.

In 1934, nearly 21 per cent of the country's Republican papers were supporting the "New Deal". This year, they total only 12 per cent —an administration loss of 12 per cent.

Last year the President had the hearty support of 56.3 per cent of the nation's independent papers. In 1935, this support has been cut to 40 per cent—an administration loss in this division of 16.3 per cent.

For all papers combined, in 1934, the President was supported by 66.6 per cent of all papers, and was opposed by 33.4 per cent. Today, 67.7 per cent are in opposition, and only 32.3 per cent are supporting him.

In 1934, 2,025 papers answered Newsdom's questionnaire. In 1935, the total was 2,306. The population area of the papers responding this year was in excess of 52 million, and the gross circulation of the responding newspepers is 14,474,00.

The "yes" and "no" division of the circulation—assigning half of the 50-50 papers to each side—is 5,299,000 "yes" and 9,175,000 "no". The people of the United States could be divided less one-sidedly than 9 to 5 and still prove that the New Deal has been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

It is frequently true that when an opinion-trend first gets under way, the press's position may be somewhat in advance of general public sentiment. Yet it is equally well known that the press in the counrty does very decidedly reflect public sentiment.

It will be recalled, for instance, that when the time came for the American people to vote on repealing the Eighteenth Amendment, their verdict did not differ greatly from what had been earlier indicated by general journalistic sentiment.—Fort Wayne News-Sentinel.

MIGHT IS MIGHTIER THAN THE MITE

There is a touch of pathos, not to say bathos, in the action of the women's division of the Democratic party in turing out donkey mite-box banks for the collection of campaign funds. Instead of a saddle, where normally a Democratic mogul would be ensconced, the little metallic donkeys have a coin slot to receive the "women's mite."

Slightly incongruous in the "mite" beside the $4,000,000,000 work relief fund and the hundreds of millions in crop curtailment benefit payments, which the Democrats are leading out with an eye cocked toward 1936. But the mote has points as a symbol, for in the New Deal lexicon it is might that makes right.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Frazier-Lemke act has been declared unconstitutional again, this time by a Federal court in Illinois. Maxie Baer could have told 'em they rarely come back once they have been knocked out.

What these college fotball players want to remember is that when they get out of school they may find it even harder to make a touchdown through the front door at home with the right arm wrapped around a side of bacon.

General Hugh Johnson is quoted as writing that the political pledges of 1932 were broken. This was hot news several months ago.

An Oklahoma bank robber was sentenced to life imprisonment after his lawyer sang "Home, Sweet Home" to the jury. Probably many a poor man has suffered because of the sins of his counsel.—Williamsport, Pa., Sun.

According to a Washington dispatch in the New York Times recently the government has just spent two billion dollars in two weeks which is an all time peace-time record. In piling up a deficit the Brain Trust is batting over four hundred.

"Yes," said the old man, "I have had some terrible disapointments, but none stands out over the years like the one that came to me when I was a boy."

"And what was it."

"When I was a boy I crawled under a tent to see a circus and discovered it was a revival meeting."—Exchange.

It is said that the national debt is approaching thirty billions of dollars. If the New Deal professors aren't careful some of these days they will have us broke.

IS THE "NEW DEAL" NEW?

One of the facts which the average citizen is apt to overlook is that the theories embraced in the "New Deal" are not new after all. Many of them have been tried time and again, in Asia, in Europe and in South America. Regimentation is not a new idea, and it is not an untried one. Many students of economics find some of the theories of the New Dealers back in the days of Plato, and thence on down to modern times. Mentioning this fact, Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa well said in an address at Chicago the other day:

"What must be brought home to the public in clear and unmistakable terms is that the New Deal is neither new nor that march forward which the President proclaims. It is merely a reversion to the world's oldest political philosophy. At the very beginning of history we meet the concept of the state as all-powerful, as the mainspring, the guiding hand for all economic activity. Those precious rights for the individual, which we had thought permanently safeguarded after having been won through centuries of struggle, are again endangered, not as formerly by conflict with royal or autocratic power, but by collision with what is now called the mas will.

"Exploited by political leadership that is dangerous because it is irresponsible, there is now held out to the unfortunate victims of the depression the promise that the state can and will, banish poverty and want; and that it shall guarantee not only life without liberty, but by sharing wealth, a higher average of individual well-being. This is to be accomplished through government control of a magic spring called credit—a word more pleasant sounding than debt, but in its consequences no less disastrous to the public. Such is the modern manifestation of the art of the demagogue which always consists, as John Stuart Mill pointed out, in tempting the people into idleness by promising them a share in a fictitious hoard lying in an imaginary government strong box supposed to contain all national wealth."

Here are some facts not to be lost sight of. Things which are new are not good because they are new. Neither are they new because they bear the "new" label. By the same token all things are not good because they are old. If this were true then the tenets of socialism would be unimpeachable. They go back as far as civilization. They are rooted in man's desire for unlimited power and his ability to sell the other fellow the idea that the other fellow may be able to get "something for nothing," to get a living without working.

TO BEAT THE NEW DEAL

Readers of newspapers cannot but be impressed by the number and variety of brightly named organizations which are banging away at the New Deal. There is the Liberty League, and the Sentinels of the Republic, and the Minute-Men, and heaven knows what others.

Now, there is only one organization in this country which stands the slightest chance of being able to "turn the rascals out." That is the Republican party. The Liberty League —need it be said?—can bang away at the New Deal until doomsday without doing any appreciable damage to the target unless the Republican party is in a position to take advantage of whatever hits the League may make.

The point is, of course, that people who believe that the welfare of the country demands the ousting of the New Deal and who have something to contribute to that end, should first think of the Republican party. If the Republican party is unable to take over the government—if if is fatally hampered by lack of funds or lack of leadership or lack of ideas, the New Deal will perforce stick with us. It is to the Republican party, and to the Republican party alone, that the country must look for relief from the misgovernment now at Washington. It is a fact so plain that—as so often happens with plain things—many of us may overlook it.—Worcester Telegram.

NEW ENGLAND THRIFT

For some years every resource of the government has been used to raise the price of farm products for the producer.

No on begrudges the farmer a good living But the consumer should not be forgotten during this proces. It must be remembered that if an undue part of the family income is taken for food alone, the purchasing of all other commodities is reduced, with resulting unemployment.

There is one outstanding way to hold down food prices to consumers, namely, by continually cutting distribution costs.

The railroads do not raise freight rates when the prices of food products rise, whereas wholesale handling charges between producers and consumers are often figured on a percentage of cost basis. This causes a steady pyramiding of final cost to consumers.

A ten per cent saving in overhead costs on the retail price of $1,000,000,000 fo food purchased, would mean $100,000,000 saved in the family pocketbook which could be spent for other necesities or luxuries—money which would not otherwise be expended for radios, automobiles, traveling, better homes, etc., etc.,

Thrift creates wealth. Now is the time for the nation to practice thrift on the family bread basket and demand and encourage merchandising methods that cut waste between producer and consumer.

One trouble about invading some one else's country, you never know if and when you are coming back and how fast.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money.

PHONEY PEACH DISEASE CONTROL IN CHILTON CO.

A crew of workers are now engaged in carrying on prevention work in regard to the phony disease in Chilton county. This work is in the charge of Mr. A. J. Lecroy, and anyone wishing information about the work should get in touch with either Mr. Lecroy or Mr. J. W. Fant, the county agent.

In speaking of the work Mr. LeCray stated: "There is not much of this disease in Chilton County, but it should be treated where it is present. The disease in Georgia is a big item among the peach growers. There are certain defined methods of fighting this disease, and it will save lots of trouble and expenses later on to attend to it when first noticed.

I'M SOLD

It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a liquid laxative, and you can bring yourself to clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

Let's get busy and put something into our church and we will get something out of it.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS MUST FILE SALES CERTIFICATES WITHIN SEVEN DAYS

Auburn, Ala.—Cotton sales certificates which are being obtained by producers to qualify for the 1935 cotton price adjustment payments are required to be filed promptly with the county agents within seven calendar days after the date of sale, according to information received here from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The sales certificates have been printed and distributed throughout the Cotton Belt. The new regulations provide that in the case of cotton sold prior to Nov. 1, 1935, the cotton sales certificates for such sales shall be delivered to the office of the county agent NOT later than November 15, 1935.

Producers to qualify for the cotton price adjustment payments are required to obtain from the buyer a certificate evidencing the amount sold and the date of sale. These certificates will be attached to the applications which will be forwarded to the disbursing offices for auditing and and payment. Under the regulations, producers will be required to deliver the originals of these certificates to the office of the county agent who will keep the same on file until the producer makes his application. These certificates are executed in triplicate, one copy to be delivered to the county agent, another retained by the producer, and the third by the buyer.

Producers interested in detailed information regarding the sale certificates and how to fill them out are advised to confer with their county agents.

FARMERS ARE RECEIVING SECOND PAYMENT CHECKS

Auburn, Ala—Cotton farmers in Alabama are at present receiving their second benefit payment chcks totaling over 3 million dollars. This is made known by Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service, who states that farmers in several counties have already received their checks and that those living in other counties are receiving theirs daily.

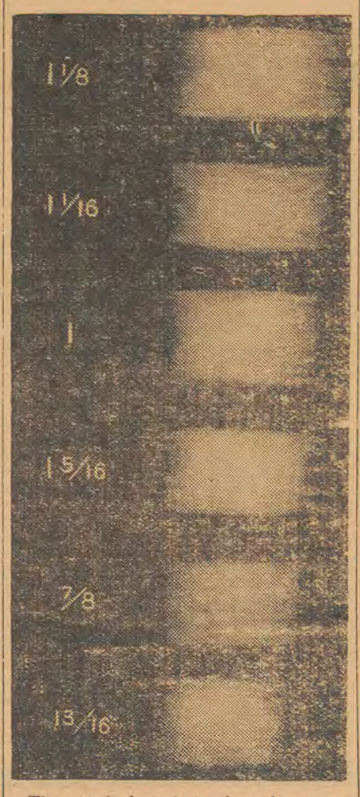
The first benefit payment checks totaled $3,396,375.74, and were distributed to State producers several months ago.

Mr. Sidney Littleton, who was operated on at the South Highland Infirmary, is now improving.

BETTER STAPLE VARIETIES GIVE SATISFACTION

That better staple varieties of cotton will give satisfactory results is demonstrated by the experience of the Lily Flag one-variety community in Madison County and Coates Bend and Allord's Bend one-variety communities in Etawah County.

The crop in these communities in 1934 averaged around one-half of an inch in staple length. Out of 200 bales classed in the Lily Flag community this year 178 bales pulled over one inch and better.



The staple length in the other communities is also quite satisfactory. These communities are growing the D. P. L. varieties. It has been satisfactory for about five years.

Yields and gin turn-outs are better than most varities.

The one-variety communities are not suffering penalties and has reported 50 to 75 points premium.

Save carefully seed of better staple varieties. Farmers in a community should cooperate in growing one good staple variety and build a reputation for good cotton.

A high per cent of the farmers in a market area growing very short varities means that the local market will average well below markets having good cotton.

Certain staple lengths of cotton according to official standards of Division of Cotton Marketting of Bureau of Agriculture Economics are shown in the photograph above.

Staple length and grade determine the value of cotton in the cotton markets Cotton is bought and sold on basis of staple length as well as grade.

Cotton mills in most instances demand cotton having seven-eighths or longer staple.

What is the staple length of the cotton you are now growing?

Let's make Chilton County noted for good cotton.

GERMAN FORESTRY IS FAR ADVANCED

Montgomery.—Advances in American forestry were made possible largely through the emulation of the standards and practices developed in Germany during the past couple of centuries, according to the Alabama Commission of Forestry. German scientists are noted for thir thoroughness in investigations and experiments, and forestry in Germany has benefitted enormously from the results of such researches.

When the need for the development of forestry as a system of economic production co-ordinate with mining, agriculture and hydro-engineering became evident in the United States, American foresters naturally drew heavily upon German sources of information. While the application of the principles developed in Germany soon resulted in systems peculiarly American, nevertheless the basic scientific data upon which most forestral procedures must be based have been thus far mainly of European origin.

The libraries of various public forestral agencies contain translations of German works on forest botany, pathology, silverculture and other essential subjects. However, with the advent of the World War, co-operation between German and English scientists as to publication of translations became interrupted and has not been resumed on anything like its former scale. As a result translations from the German to English now must be made by individual foresters and forestral agencies. It is regarded, however, that the value of the up-to-date information thus rendered available far more than outweighs the labor and cost involved.

STATE WILD GAME WILL BE STUDIED

Auburn, Ala.—Experimental work to find how wild game can be made profitable to Alabama farmers and sportsmen is being conducted under a cooperative arrangement of the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey, Washington, the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and State experiment Station, Auburn, the Department of Game and Fisheries, Montgomery, and the American Wild Life Institute.

Head quarters for the work has been located at Auburn with H. S. Peters of the Bureau of Biological Survey in charge. Studies will be made in different parts of the state of various game birds and animals, including quail, doves, turkeys, ducks, deer and foxes. The project is being conducted with a crew of encouraging farmers to produce more wild life on their farms and to obtain a cash income from this industry.

CORN-HOG FARMERS FAVOR AAA PROGRAM

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama corn-hog farmers voted more than 4 to 1 for continuation of the corn-hog adjustment program. The vote in the State was 4,720 for the program and 1,120 against it. Only 92 contract signers voted against the program, while 1,017 non-signers voted against it.

The vote throughout the nation was 6 to 1 in favor of the adjustment program being continued.

ALABAMA IS FREE OF CATTLE TUBERCULOSIS

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama is now a T. B. modified area. This means that the state is practically free of cattle tuberculosis.

Announcemtnt of the state being placed on the accredited list was made this week by the United States Department of Agriculture, which states that 30 other states are free of bovine tubersulosis and that work is going on in six other states.

QUARANTINE AGAINST 3 GEORGIA COUNTIES

Auburn, Ala.—Cattle cannot be shipped into Alabama from Worth, Tift, or Colquitt counties of Georgia until requirements of the Alabama Livestock Sanitary Board are fulfilled. The livestock board placed a quarantine against the Georgia counties because cattle fever ticks were found in that area.

Dr. I. S. McAdory, acting state veterinarian, states that the quarantine not only prevents cattle from being shipped into Alabama from those three Georgia counties but it prohibits hay, straw, manure, hides of cattle, mules, horses, sheep, goats, plants and other materials to which the cattle tick may be attached when coming into the state from the infested areas.

ALABAMA GAME NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 5.—After a lapse of one year the annual deer hunt in the Alabama National Forest is to be revived this fall.

The decision to hold the hunt in the forest was made at a conference between Conservation Commissioner I. T. Quinn and F. C. Heneberger, federal forest ranger stationed at Decatur. The dates will be Nov. 14, 15 and 16.

The hunt, as in other years, will be open to sportsmen throughout the state. No person will be permitted to take part in the hunt unless he is equipped with a hunting license and no one will be allowed to enter the forest without a permit from Mr. Henneberger. The Forest Service will chage a fee of 50 cents for each permit issued and the proceeds will be used for predatory animal control work in the forest.

The hunt was discontinued last year in anticipation of an expansion in forest acreage and the forest now embraces approximately 145,000 acres, crosing portions of Lawrence, Winston and Franklin counties.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

FRANK PALMER MAKES FINE RECORD WITH INVESTORS SYNDICATE

Probably Frank Palmer has called on you during the past month or six weeks, and told you that he represented Investors Syndicate. Maybe you did not know all about what he represented, even after he had told you, but no doubt you knew more about it before he let you go.

Well, Investors Syndicate, in a few words, is a means by which one lays aside a little each month into a fund to be drawn later in life in a lump sum. It is a saving method wherein one gets out more than he puts in.

Whether you are in shape to take advantage of it or not, Mr. Palmer has a fine proposition and one that should interest you. If he calls on you, try and give him the time to explain to you what he has. You won't lose anything.

During the month of October the forty representatives of Investors Syndicate in Alabama had on a contest, and Frank Palmer won the loving cup. And he won it by the work which he did in Chilton county. We are proud of it both for Chilton county and for Mr. Palmer, who is a Clanton boy, having spent his boyhood days in Clanton. He now, however, lives in Birmingham where State headquarters for Investors Syndicate is located, in Comer Building, Room 601.

Mr. Palmer is setting out this month to win another honor—a greater one than he has already gained. He is going to compete for the national trophy this month, and he is depending on Chilton county again to put him over. He has the utmost confidence in himself and his old home county to do the trick.

Mr. Palmer and Investors Syndicate are this week beginning a series of advs. in The Union-Banner. Turn to it and read it. It may mean more to you than you imagine. And when Mr. Palmer calls on you, give him the time to explain his plan to you. It is an attractive one.

R. I. VARDEN WANTS PLACE

The Union-Banner has a communication from Mr. R. I. Varden. He wants to find a place, about 15 acres with pasture for two cows. If anyone knows of such a place, it would be appreciated if they would let Mr. Varden know. He is in bad health and not able to be out. He now lives on Clanton Route 5.

UNDERCOVER FORCE APPOINTED FOR CHILTON COUNTY CHURCHES

People of Chilton County who do not go to church for the purpose of listening or taking part in the services had best stay home or go elsewhere, is the opinion of Sheriff J. R. Hardy, and it is his intention to see that they do just what he declared.

"I'm getting plenty tired of these continuous disturbances at our churches over thecounty," he said in discussing what he terms a 'deplorable condition.' It seems to be getting to the point where it is practically impossible for people to go to church and conduct services without a bunch of roughnocks causing some disturbance, he continued.

But Sheriff Hardy has a plan which he believes will put a stop to this practice of "trying to turn church services into a circus." Chilton county's chief law enforcement officer has announeced that he will place a deputy sheriff in eery church in the county or see that certain crowds cease to annoy the church goers.

In fact that is Sheriff Hardy's plans. He intends to deputize 50 to 75 men throughout the county to cooperate with the sheriff's office in keeping peace at churches and other public gatherings. The names of those appointed will be kept secret and their identity even in their own communities will not be known until duty makes it necessary for them to expose themselves.

Sheriff Hardy hopes to get his army of "church deputies" ready for action by this week end.

"Nearly every Sunday night we are kept busy running from one place to another because some few people refuse to respect our churches and the people who go there for the purpose of worshipping," the sheriff declared.

Mrs. John Kimmey and little new son arrived from a Birmingham hospital Monday and are at home in Mrs. Hugh Foshee's apartment.

MAD DOG SPREE

A mad dog, starting in Concord community Monday afternoon, had quite a spree that afternoon and night. It is said to have bitten a dog belonging to Reese Baker and probably some other dogs in the community. It headed out toward Cooper and bit a small son of Tom Hilyer. It then headed back north toward Cordrey old mill, supposedly biting dogs going and coming. It was killed in that community Monday night.

MAKING SECOND CROP APPLES

Mr. Emmett Pepwell of Route 5, who works for Teel Shoe Shop, has brought to The Union-Banner specimens of the second crop of apples grown on his trees this year.

Mr. Ppowell gathered the first crop early in July, and immediately the trees began blooming again. They are still blooming and putting on apples. Some of the second crop are now as large as a large hen egg and they range from that size on down to blooms. They are of the delicious variety, Mr. Popwell stated.

Miss Lois Faircloth of Marbury visited friends in Clanton Monday evening.

Gov. Talmadge Sees Opposition To F D R

Georgian Renews Attacks On National Policies In His Talk At Brewton

Brewton, Ala.—Georgia's governor, Eugene Talmadge, forecast in an Armistice Day address Monday that voters of the nation's two major parties "will stand shoulder to shoulder" in opposition to the Roosevelt administration in 1936.

"The taxpayers are the forgotten man," said Talmadge, a self-described "Jeffersonian Democrat" who has been mentioned by friends as a possible candidate for the presidency.

"But Washington is going to wake up to the fact that it kicked the sleeping dog too hard. The taxpayers, awake at last, will go to the polls next year as never before. Not only that—the taxpayers are going to the conventions of both parties, and stand shoulder to shoulder, and see that their children and their children's children are protected and have an opportunity to invest their money in American dirt, American rocks and American labor.

Gov. Talmadge predicted payment of the outstanding $2,500,000,000 soldier's bonus and urged that it be financed from the federal government's $4,880,000,000 recovery appropriation.

"Two and one-half billion dollars spent by private citizens, enlarging and improving their business, paying debts, would be a greater stimulus to recovery than $10,000,000,000 spent by the government," Talmadge said.

He advocated "cutting out red tape." and repeated his advocacy of abolition of the federal income tax.

"If you abolish the federal income tax," he said, "you will stop an army of people who are going over the country, trying to blackmail any courageous soul who has the temerity to come out against the policies of Washington."

Evidently referring to the presidents letter of inquiry to ministers all over the country, Talmadge said:

"No letter to preachers will flatter them up to this bacchanalia of spending in this country, which we have seen going on for the past three years. The brain trusters can't fool God's people. The brain trusters can't change the seasons.

He reiterated attacks on relief, agricultural and financial policies of the national administration.

"The taxpayers of this country also are going to see to it that there is no such thing as tax-exempt government bonds sponsored by the country any longer than 1936.

"When this is done and the Bankhead bill and the AAA and the processing taxes are smothered into oblivion, the second recovery will be back in this country that the New Deal has fought down for the past three years."

SINGING AT COURTHOUSE LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON WAS GOOD

The courthouse was filled last Sunday afternoon for the singing, in spite of the cloudy weather and other hinderances. The singing was real good. Prof. Emmett Wilson of Friendship acted as chairman, in the absence of the regular chairman, Jesse C. Jones. A full list of directors was present; Prof. W. M. Devaughn arranged one quartet. Near the close a negro quartet from Maplesville came in and sung four numbers which were enjoyed.

The neighbors announced that they would put on a free concert at the courthouse Thursday night, November 21st. They will bring a chorus of singers with them.

The Clanton Methodst Church most cordially invites the public to come, see and hear the "Son of Man" on Friday evening, November 15, at 7:00. There will be electrically transcribed music of John McCormick, Homer Rodsheaver, Gypsy Smith, Sr., and many other noted singers and choruses; also violin and organ solos.

Dr. E. E. Morrison, of Hillsdale, Michigan, now owner of this film and equipment, will give interpretations while the pictures are being shown, using two portable moving picture projectors.

The public is invited to take advantage of this rare oportunity to see this great production of eight thousand feet of beautiful colored film. No admission is charged, but a silver offering will be taken to defray expenses. Children should be accompanied by adults.

ALABAMA SPENDING INCREASED BY $53,000 A MONTH

The national New Deal is not the only wild and extravagant spenders of the present day and time. Alabama's new deal has got the habit too. According to recent authentic reports the Graves administration has averaged spending $53,000 per month more than was the average of the preceding administration. Does this look like balancing the budget when the State of Alabama is already in debt 42 million dollars?

But what else could you expect from that party, be it State or national? They simply cannot help but get worse and worse.

Since August, the state payroll has been increased or will be increased about $30,000 additional monthly with the newly created departments that have gone into operation.

This does not include, either, the increased expense accounts resulting from the increased personnel. For instance when the state highway patrol gets under way its $12,500 salary checks will show but not its $9,000 expenses.

The payroll reveals many litte interesting things that it takes time to dig out. Take Senator D. Hardy Riddle, who voted consistently for administration measures. As superintendent of Alabama Institute for Deaf and Blind at Talladega, his salary was $250 monthly under Gov. Miller up to December but August shows him drawing $300. Of course his legislative salary was drawn too.

EVANS VARIETY STORE IS NOW OPEN FOR BUSINESS

A new addition to Clanton's business houses is Evans Variety Store, operated by Mr Julian Evans. The location is the building between the Fish Market and Yellow Front, near the railroad.

In speaking of his new business Mr. Evans stated: "It is my desire to make of it the nicest little store I possibly can. I will handle candy, fruit, nuts, flower seed and bulbs, and toys. I aim to keep a full stock of these at all times. Naturally I will be pleased to have my friends call to see me, and their trade for things in my line will be appreciated."

For the present Mr. Evans will operate the business by himself, but he hopes trade will justify him in adding some help soon.

THE CORN-HOG POLL

[AN EDITORIAL]

Although the result of the corn-hog allotment voting has been hailed by AAA circles as a great victory for the idea, the wonder among those who have analyzed the situation is that the vote in favor of a continuance of the bounty was not greater than that really registered. Expressions credited to AAA officials just before the voting that the result was doubtful may be regarded as just so much window-dressing to make the victory of the administration all the more impressive.

It is said that the ratio of the vote was about five and a half to one for a continuance of the "bonus" to farmers. In all it is estimated that a little more than a half million votes were cast. But it is not to be forgotten that here are in the country, in round numbers, about four and a half million farmers who are interested in corn and hogs. What the other four million may think of the program is a matter of conjecture.

It is not to be forgotten that only the farmers most directly interested were polled on the subject. They were asked whether they wanted the govrnment to continue to pay them for curtailing production. The answer could have only been one thing unless human nature has greatly changed in the past few months. If the veterans of the American Legion were to be polled on whether or not they wanted Uncle Sam to pay them a bonus, if the automobile manufacturers were asked to vote whether or not they wanted the government to pay them more money for making fewer cars, or the brewers for brewing less beer, it would not be hard to prejudge the result.

The fact is also to be taken into consideration that the corn and hog farmers who voted were only given one side of the case by the AAA publicity men—that was whether they wanted the immediate bonus for raising less produce. The other side of the picture was not presented.

For example, it is known that the program of artificial scarcity and higher production costs has practically eliminated the American farmer's foreign market. There has been so great a shortage that we are actually importing in great quantities foreign agricultural produce which should have been raised by farmers and the money is going abroad. Then our governmental curbing of production has encouraged foreign producers to increase their output to take up the slack and the tendency is one which is bound sooner or later to result in disaster for the American farmer. Again the artificially high price of certain farm products in our cities and towns due to the processing tax has tended to decrease the demand for these products at home, thus depressing consumption, and if the folks get in the habit of curtailing on certain lines of produce they may continue to do so to the future detriment of the American farmer.

These facts were not given to the farmer by the AAA rah rah boys. He was only told about the fat checks which may be forthcoming in the near future. So the wonder is that even one-fifth of those voting, cast their ballots against the New Deal program of paying the farmers for what they do not raise.

MAY GET AIRPORT

Project Favored If Clanton Will Buy More Acreage

Clanton will get its airport if the county and city will provide 32 more acres to the 60 set aside for this purpose.

Maj. Edward M. Haight, regional supervisor of airport marking, and Al Key, endurance flier and district advisor, told the Clanton Kiwanis Club Thursday night they would recommend the immediate release of $35,000 already allocated by WPA to the airport if the additional acreage were obtained.

Maj. Haight and Key spent the day examining the proposed site about three-quarters of a mile northeast of Clanton.

The Department of Commerce has for a long time been interested in having an airport at Clanton. The project languished here a while, but the Kiwanis Club has revived it recently.

DOROTHY WAITE TIED FOR FIRST PLACE ON HONOR ROLL

Blue Mountain, Miss., Nov. 12.—Miss Dorothy Waite of Clanton, Alabama, tied for first place on the freshman honor roll of Blue Mountain College, according to a release from the dean's office today. Dr. Geo. T. Buckley, Dean of the College, stated it is a mark of scholastic excellence to attain the honor roll.

NEGRO KILLED SATURDAY NIGHT

As a result of an altercation at a box supper near Billingsley last Saturday night, Jasper Tillis is dead and Walter Parker is in jail under a first degree murder charge. Both men are negroes.

The story, as given by the sheriff's force, is as follows:

The negroes were holding a box supper at a schoolhouse near Billingsley. Parker was bidding against another negro, whose name we were not able to learn, on a box that had been furnished by a sister of Jasper Tillis. Parker lost out in the bidding, and becoming enraged, went to the Tillis home, broke in and got a shotgun belonging to the father of Jasper Tillis. He was on his way back to the schoolhouse, when he met Jasper Tillis and his father. The elder Tillis tried to get Parker to give him his gun, but he refused to give it up. Then Jasper Tillis, who is said to have been a good friend of Parker, started to him, asking him to give him the gun. Parker warned him to keep back, but Tillis, thinking that his friend would not shoot him, kept on toward Parker, who raised the gun and shot, the full load taking effect in Tillis's stomach. He died Sunday afternoon.

Sheriff Hardy was informed Monday afternoon by the Sheriff of Autauga county that he had Parker in jail at Prattville, to answer a minor charge in the court there, and that he could get him just as soon as that case was finished. Sheriff Hardy stated that he expected to go after Parker Tuesday afternoon. He will be held in the Chilton county jail on a first degree murder charge.

MR. AND MRS. HARLEM WILLIS ARE BOOSTING EAST CLANTON

Other enthusiasastic boosters of that portion of Greater Clanton north of Black Snake are Mr. and Mrs. Harlem E. Willis of Reynolds Addition. These two young people operate the store and filling station out there, and they not only enthusiastically boost their business but their part of the city as well. They are running a list of grocery cash specials in The Union-Banner this week. Look over what they offer.

In speaking of that part of Clanton, we might make note that Judge Reynolds is putting the finishing touches on a big new barn on one of his lots near Mr. Willis's store and the big feed milling plant. This will add to the progressive appearance of that community.

BAPTISTS NAME STATE PRESIDENT

Troy, Ala., Nov. 12.—L. L. Gwaltney, Sr., of Birmingham, for 16 years editor of The Alabama Baptist, today was elected president of the Alabama Baptist State Convention in a three-way contest over H. L. Anderton, of Birmingham, and the Rev. J. M. Thomas, of Talladega, in opening the annual session of the convention.

Anderton, head of the convention's social service commission and president of the Alabama Temperance Alliance, later was elected first vice-president. E. C. Bassett, deacon of the First Baptist Church, Troy, was chosen second vice-president by a unanimous vote along with Anderton.

Gwaltney succeeds Dr. J. E. Dillard, of Birmingham, while Anderton and Bassett relieve the Rev. W. R. Seymour, of Fayette, and the Rev. V. L. Wyatt of Gadsden.

M. M. Wood of Birmingham was reelected by acclamation for his 31st year as secretary, and uon his recommendation the convention renamed A. S. Barnes, of Montgomery, as statistical secretary.

Gwaltney defeated Anderton in a run-off vote after failing by three votes to obtain a majority in the first balloting. The official vote was not announced.

The 114th annual meeting of the convention, which will remain in session through Thursday, got under way this afternoon with more than 350 delegates and ministers registered to represent an estimated 320,000 Baptists in Alabama.

Dr. Dillard in formally opening the session criticized any practice of governments making appropriations for the support of sectarian schools, charging that "no person should be coerced to pay taxes to support institutions of religion in which he does not believe."

"Eternal vigilance is still the price of liberty," he said, after an opening assertion that "religious liberty may indeed be said to be the most distinctive contribution Baptists have made to civilization."

CENSUS FIGURES CHANGED

When the Federal Census Bureau had checked the census books compiled in Clanton a few days ago, it was found that the figures totaled a little different from those given in the county papers last week.

The report as given last week was: 1,332 white males, 1,368 white females, 300 negro males, and 363 negro females, a total of 3,363. This gave a total of 2,700 whites, and 663 negroes.

The new figures, as given out after the official count by the Census Bureau, are as follows: 1,303 white males, 1,348 white females, a total of 2,651 whites; 322 negro males, 390 negro females, a total of 712 negroes. The grand total of 3,363 remained the same.

Mrs. James Wade and Miss Alice Brooks motored to Montgomery Monday afternoon.

Misses Dollie and Ressie Harris spent Saturday in Montgomery with friends.

Clanton Has A Real Feed Milling Plant

Central Alabama Milling Co. Is Ready For Feed Manufacturing

Chilton county has realy got a feed milling outfit that is prepared in the right style. It is located in East Clanton, or that part of the city commonly known as Reynolds Addition, and is operated by Mr. Willie Crowson. Assisting in the project is the Farmers Exchange, the principal promoters of which are Mr. J. W. Fant and Dr. W. L. Parrish.

When we say that Mr. Crowson is prepared to make feed, the statement is made to cover a multitude of operations, products, etc. But that is just what he is doing. There is an investment of about $5,000, and another thousand will be added to it in the next month or so, according to Mr. Crowson. The present building, a two-story affair, is going to be about dcubled in size, making room for more storage and machinery and increased production.

One interesting machine is a John Deere corn shucker and sheller, which at one operation shucks the corn, shells it, puts the cobs in one place, the shucks in another, and conveys the shelled corn into a large hopper. This machine is upstairs, but the bottom of the large hoper is near the ground floor from which the corn is drawn into sacks. The capacity of this machine is 60 bushels of shelled corn per hour. Another machine on the second floor is a mixer for dry feeds. A sweet feed mixer is being installed this week. The capacity of the dry mixer is 2 tons per hour and the sweet feed mixer will put out 4 tons per hour.

Then there is a chicken feed grinder, which takes shelled corn and cuts it up to any size or grade that is desired. It is capable of handling one ton of corn per hour.

The main machine of the plant is the one which grinds up nearly anything imaginable in the way of feed, such as shucks, corn, cobs, fodder, velvet beans, sorghum stalks, pea vines, goober vines, etc., turning them into meal. The products from this machine may be taken and mixed with various other things, making just the balance of feed desired, so far as ingredients are concerned.

The mixers are run with individual electric motors. All the other machines are powered by a large 42-h.p. kerosene-burning International engine.

Mr. Crowson is working out analysis tables for the various feeds and elements which he produces. These analysis will be posted up and will show just the protein and other contents of various products. This scale has to be figured out by the State department of weights and standards, and will be made in strict compliance with the State law.

The promoters say that it seems useless to them for the farmers of Chilton county to import their feed whenever plenty is raised right here in the county if only properly worked up. They are going to continue to add to this machinery until the needs of Chilton county farmers can be taken care of. The farmers can bring their stuff and have it ground according to their wishes, or make exchanges for other feed, or what have you. In short, every wish of the farmers in the way of grinding feed will be taken care of.

Mr. Crowson is going to have a big opening introductory sale of feeds soon. Watch The Union-Banner for particulars about it. There will be some real bargains.

Tom Taylor Named Chairman Tax Fight

At the meeting held in Montgomery last Wednesday, November 6th, Tom Taylor of Clanton was elected County Chairman for Chilton County to organize the county to fight the proposed consumers sales tax.

The Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association Thursday had inaugurated a statewide campaign to enlist voters to sign a pledge not to support any "public officeholder who opposed a sales tax in pre-election promises and has since changed his stand."

The "pledge" headed a series of petitions given campaign committees of various counties at an organization meeting of the association attended by over 200 merchants and individuals here Wednesday.

The association elected Irby Hall of Collinsville, as permanent chairman, Dr. C. C. Thomas of Selma as treasurer and chose B. C. Apperson of Birmingham as secretary.

F. T. Raiford, editor and publisher of the Selma Times-Journal, charged in an address before the association that "the best place to beat a sales tax is in the legislature," which Gov. Graves said Wednesday he expected to call into special session in January to consider statewide referendum on the sales tax combined with homestead exemptions.

"Taxation has reached the saturation point," Raiford said, "and the time is coming when no business will be profitable—when the government will take it all."

AVIATION COMMISSION AIDS THE FORESTRY

Montgomery.—That airplanes have long been used as an adjunct to forestry as well as to commerce and military operations is pointed out by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. It early was found that timber reconnaissance, general mapping, fire detection and a number of other forest functions could be aided and expedited through the use of airplanes with greater economy than in any other way.

The establishment in many of the states of official aviation boards has contributed greatly toward advancing all branches of aviation. State forestry departments using airplanes in their work thus find added cooperation available to them in carrying out the responsibilities best performed by aircraft. In Alabama, in particular, the action of the Legislature of 1935 in establishing such a board is viewed by the forest interests with strong approval.

Although some public forestral agencies use several planes the Alabama State Commission of Forestry has but one. The Commission's lane has been used in a great variety of forest work with a distinct saving in costs. In fire protection alone, after the use of the airplane was adopted it was found that it enabled the commission to reduce the cost of the work by a net amount of approximatley $2,000 a year above the expense of operating the plane.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

A friend recently sent the writer an editorial clipping from the Mansfield, Ohio, News. The editorial says in substance, "Twenty years ago the six week's evangelistic campaign conducted in Mansfield by Bob Jones came to a close. The majority of the Mansfield churches and pastors cooperated in the campaign and there were a total of two-thousand six-hundred and eighty converts. A roll call of converts in the various churches with which the converts became affiliated may even be regarded as timely and worthwhile."

The writer remembers one very brilliant newspaper man who was converted in the Mansfield, Ohio, campaign. He had been engaged to a woman for eighteen years. The lady promised to marry him if he would stay sober for six months. He could not stay sober. He told me so himself. But God saved him during the Mansfield revival He lived for ten years a sober, beautiful life. For nine years and a half he was happily married to his boyhood sweetheart. He died a triumphant death and went to Heaven. Passing through the city of Mansfield during an evening of the revival was an old bum—friendless and alone. He was a graduate of a leading university. He was steeped in drunkenness and in every form of vice. He dropped into the meeting. God saved him. Now he is at the head of a sales organization of more than two-hundred men and he is one of the loveliest Christian gentlemen I know. A girl was converted. She lived a lovely Christian life for several years and died a beautiful death leaving behind her a wonderful Christian testimony. A man was converted who later became a minister and he is now on the foreign field. The writer remembers well the things which happened in the Mansfield, Ohio, meeting.

There is no substitute for a genuine revival of the old time religion. We have tried to substitute education for evangelism. It will not work. Education has its place. Machinery is all right, but no movement lives without a revival. Springtime is a revival in nature. Every four years we have a political revival in the Democratic and Republican parties and thus these parties are kept alive. "Why do you have a sale?" a minister inquired of a Jewish merchant. "In order to stimulate business," the merchant replied. A revival stimulates business. These modernistic preachers and educators who are opposed to revivals are really enemies to Christian progress.

COMMON DISEASE OF CHILDHOOD

There are certain diseases commonly spoken of as "Childhood Diseases", and which children very seldom escape having at some time during childhood. Among these are measles, mumps, chicken-pox and whooping cough. These diseases are so widespread and so commonly seen that the expression "familiarity breeds contempt" might very well be used in speaking of them. Contempt in this case would mean a disregard of the possible dangers that might arise during the course of any one of the diseases. And so it might be well to check up on some of these conditions just to see what damage they do, and what part they play as a cause of death among children.

Whooping cough ranks about sixth as a cause of death in the age group under one year. In children one to two years old, it is still a more important cause of death, ranking fourth. In the age group from to to three years it ranks sixth, and from three to four, eleventh. These figures are for the United States as a whole, and are for the year 1929, but may be considered to be a fair average for any year. And so we learn from these figures that every effort should be made to prevent young children from being exposed to a case of whooping cough, and the expression often heard "I know my child will have it some time, so I will expose him now and get it over with" hardly seems justified, at least among children under five or six weeks of age.

Measles is another important cause of death among the very young. While the number of deaths vary from year to year, there occur, on anaverage, about four thousand deaths in the United States each year from this disease alone. And approximately 75 per cent of these deaths occur in children under five years of age. So here again we find that while the disease has come to be accepted as a matter of course in the lives of children, many lives could be saved if more care were used in keeping young children away from cases of measles. Another point that is well to remember is that measles is most infectious during the early stages of the disease, when the cold first develops and before the rash comes out.

Chicken-pox and mumps owe their importance to the fact that, while they themselves are not such important causes of death, complications which may arise following them might prove dangerous to the life or future well-being of the child.

There are other diseases, such as diphtheria and scarlet fever, that are seen most often in children, but the danger from these are much better understood than in the case of such common diseases as whooping cough and measles.

ARE YOU PLANNING TO CHANGE COTTON VARITIES?

Are you planning to get a new variety of cotton next year? If you try a new varety what will it be?

Great care should be used in changing varieties. It is very easy to change to a variety which may not be at all suited to this county. Seed of a new variety should not be bought until all the facts about the variety are obtained.

Who knows the facts about cotton varieties? The safest guide for farmers of Chilton county is the cotton variety tests of the Alabama Experiment Station. All best known varieties are tested year after year on the principal soils of the state by well trained experienced men. The results of these impartial tests are the best guides we have for selecting a variety of cotton for this county. For example, in these tests the farmer selecting the poorest variety in place of the best one in the test on one soil type would have lost $13.70 per acre or $137.00 on ten acres of cotton

These Experiment Station varity tests remove the "guess" in selecting a suitable variety for this county.

If you plan to change varieties this season let me urge you to see or write me about these Experiment Station variety tests. I have these results in my office and shall be delighted to discuss them with you.—J. W. Fant.

IT WORKED FOR ME

Women should take only liquid laxatives

MORE people could feel fine, be fit and regular, if they would only follow the rule of doctors and hospitals in relieving constipation.

Never take any laxative that is harsh in action. Or one, the dose of which can't be exactly measured. Doctors know the danger if this rule is violated. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why it should be a liquid like Syrup Pepsin.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if it doesn't give you absolute relief, if it isn't a joy and comfort in the way it overcomes any sluggishness or biliousness, your money back.

RED CROSS REPORTS BUSY YEAR AIDING DISASTER VICTIMS

Tornadoes, Fires, Hurricanes, Floods, Epidemics, Make Record of Year

The American Red Cross assisted sufferers in more disasters throughout the United States during the year ending June 30, 1935, than through any similar period in the peace-time history of the organization, Admiral Cary T Grayson, chairman, revealed recently in commenting on the annual report which has just been released.

"The 128 domestic disasters in which the Red Cross extended aid during the fiscal year exceeded by 56 per cent the average over the past few years," Admiral Grayson said "Not only was the period heavy in the number of disasters, but the geographical distribution was wide, with 37 States and 353 counties affected.

"Through these disasters and times of community distress, the Red Cross assisted 110,000 persons," the Admiral disclosed.

Spectacular service was rendered in many disasters because of the uniqueness of the problems and the far-flung points affected. The work of the National organization covered in the report carries stories of the Morro Castle burning; the trench-mouth epidemic in the beautiful San Luis Valley of Colorado; the great fight over a wide front in the mid-west dust bowl against respiratory diseases; floods, hurricanes, and tornadoes in many sections of the United States.

In addition to the disasters taking place within the continental limits of this country, Admiral Grayson pointed out that work had been made necessary by disasters in Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines, where 26 disasters were recorded in that archipelago. The American Society also assisted the Red Cross of two foreign countries in caring for victims of floods and earthquakes.

The variation of types of disasters called for expert council on matters relating to health and nutrition as well as epidimic prevention. Last year's work proved the value of the structure and administration of the Red Cross disaster relief, the Admiral said, the very frequency of occurrence and the variety of types constituting a severe test of the organization chartered by Congress to handle this type of National relief.

Expenditures of the Red Cross for relief of persons stricken by disasters within the continental United States amounted to $464,413. In addition, $75,000 was sent to the Philippines to assist them in three major relief operations necessitated by typhoons, $5,000 went to victims of the Indian earthquake, and $5,000 to Poland for victims of severe floods. A number of smaller foreign emergencies called for sums totaling $2,500.

The months of February, March, April, May and June were heaviest for tornado disasters. Floods occurred throughout the year. Serious fires calling for Red Cross assistance took place during July and December. A devastating explosion took place in Tennessee during April. Most of the hurricanes struck States along the east coast during the fall and early winter.

"All of this assistance to persons in distress," Admiral Grayson pointed out, "was only possible through generous contributions made by citizens in all sections of the country."

Most of this support of the disaster relief service comes from the annual Roll Call held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

Local Red Cross Set For Roll Call

Armistice day, November 11, which was last Monday, inaugurated the Annual Red Cross Membership Drive staged each year to give those who know and appreciate the great work being done by this organization in lessening the suffering of humanity over the world an opportunity to contribute to its continuance.

In Chilton County the work was begun with that spirit of enthusiasm expected with J. Mell Martin, as roll call chairman, directing and leading activities. The quota for this county has been set at $300 this year, and Mr. Martin declared that he has no apprehension that our people will be slackers in this, one of the greatest humanitarian movements known to civilization today.

"When you join the Red Cross, you are helping those who need help," Mr. Martin pointed out. During the past year the Red Cross gave relief in 128 disasters, affecting 38 states and the territory in Alaska. The people of Chilton County need no statistics as a guarantee of the type of work done by this organization. Four years, next spring, when the storm swept the northern section of Chilton County, the people here remember who came to their rescue. The Red Cross spent more than $40,000 to alleviate the suffering of those whose homes were wrecked by the winds.

Statistics show that one out of every 20 people will be injured or killed in motor vehicle accidents within the next 5 years, and only one-third of the number of accident fatalities result from automobile accidents.

The Red Cross is perpetually at war against avoidable accidents, educating the people of the country to exercise more care and thus prevent many accidents. But where tragedy stalks, there you will find the Red Cross—administering help.

JURY TO REOPEN SCOTTSBORO CASE

Jackson County Venire For Probe This Week Includes names Of Two Negroes

Scottsboro, Ala.—From its starting point nearly five years ago, "the Scottsboro case" this week has been moved back to Jackson County where a new grand jury tomorrow will again investigate the alleged mass attacks on two white women on March 25, 1931.

The venire of 36 from which the 18-man grand jury will be selected contained the names of two negroes, the first to be called in Jackson Circuit for many years, but whether they will serve is unknown.

Lieut. Gov. Thomas E. Knight, Jr., special prosecutor retained by the State said he would call as many witnesses as necessary, and would ask that true bills be returned against the nine negro defendants charging them with attacking Mrs. Victoria Price and Ruby Bates.

Mrs. Price appeared in all seven trials in the case thus far, but the Bates girl after appearing in the first four here in April, 1931, two years later at Decatur, repudiated her previous testimony. She asserted that she was not molested.

Since her dramatic appearance in the courthouse at Decatur to repudiate her former testimony partially on which eight of the nine were convicted and sentenced to death, she has dropped from sight. Lieut. Gov. Knight said the grand jury would be informed her whereabouts were unknown.

New indictments were made necessary under a decision of the United States Supreme Court last March which in effect sustained defense motions to quash the indictments on constitutional grounds.

The nation's highest tribunal held that there had been "systematic exclusion" of negroes from the grand and trial juries in Jackson and Morgan countes, where the trials were held under a change of venue.

Samuel S. Leibowitz, representing the defendants, in the trials of Haywood Patterson, thrice convicted and sentenced to death, and Clarence Norris, twice under death sentence, had conteded the absence of negroes from jury rolls in the two counties violate their constitutoinal rights.

Snce the decision reversing death sentences for Norris and Patterson the names of negroes have been placed in the jury boxes of most Alabama counties.

P.-T. A. SPONSORS THREE-RING WILD ANIMAL SHOW COMING TO CLANTON

On Wednesday, November 27th, just about the time most of the people of Clanton are thinking of getting up, the long line of trucks of the Mighty Haag Shows will begin to arrive here, and start work pitching their vast city of tents on the high school base ball park, where they will give two complete performances.

The Haag show this year will bring to Clanton more wild animals, horses, ponies and trained dogs than ever before exhibited. This year the Haag shows are featuring such well known acts as the Tan Araki Japanese Troupe in a new act, Johnson Duo of wire walkers, Zeldo Troupe of head balancers, Fisher family of Acrabats and Haag's herd of performing elephants, largest and best trained in the country, presented by Miss Ruby Fisher, who takes her life in her hands twice daily when she places her head n the mouth of one of the elephants.

There will be a street parade at 1 p.m. followed by a number of free exhibitions on the show grounds. Performances start at 2 p.m. and at 8 p.m., but doors will open one hour earlier so as to give everyone an opportunity, and ample time to visit Haag's big new zoo and be entertained by Haag's Gold Concert Band.

Admission will be at popular prices, and the public is assured of a whole evening of splendid entertainment.

IT WORKED FOR ME

Women should take only liquid laxatives

MORE people could feel fine, be fit and regular, if they would only follow the rule of doctors and hospitals in relieving constipation.

Never take any laxative that is harsh in action. Or one, the dose of which can't be exactly measured. Doctors know the danger if this rule is violated. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why it should be a liquid like Syrup Pepsin.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if it doesn't give you absolute relief, if it isn't a joy and comfort in the way it overcomes any sluggishness or biliousness, your money back.

KENNAMER IN BIRMINGHAM TO CLEAR GRUBB'S DESK

Judge Charles B. Kennamer, of the United States District Court left yesterday for Birmingham to clear from the desk of the late Judge William I Grubb, details of the court's business that have accumulated since the death of the eminent jurist.

The vacancy in the northern district for which Judge Kennemer is also presiding judge will add heavily to the many duties of the Montgomery jurist, until such time as the vacancy has been filled.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

SCOPE AND IMPORTANCE OF FARM WOODLANDS

We can more easily understand and appreciate the vastness and economic importance of the woods fire problem in Alabama when we consult recent census figures that show 9,364,810 acres in farm woods or idle land, a total of 48 per cent of the farmers land holdings. Any problem of economic concern in the farm woods is further magnified by the 27 per cent increase shown in farm woodlands from 1930 to 1935, while cultivated crops were showing a 2 per cent decrease. This means that the more than two million acres added to the farms of Alabama something over one and three quarter millions were either added as or converted into woodland.

These facts simply serve to impress upon us that our farm woods problems, including fire, not only can not reach a partial solution by decreased areas, but are increasing along with a large addition in woodland.

There seems to be no other source than the laying out of a program to solve in some measure the major problems connected with this crop which in normal times ranks second only to cotton as a net cash producer on the farm, worth $15,000,000 in gross returns, and which has shown the least fluctuation of any crop down through the years. It is also one hope of holding and utilizing the millions of marginal and submarginal acres offering the greatest threat as an erosion problem.

The perpetuation of tree crops on these acres and certainly the successful economic operation of them will depend on a number of factors of which fire prevention is by far the most important.

No major project affecting half the farmers' land can be ignored or passed lightly by in a rural state like Alabama.

Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Jurden of Birmingham were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Kimmey on Sunday.

5 P.M. is a test of how you FEEL

"How do I feel..... Rotten! why do you ask?"

"Because, you are not yourself!"

IT is all so simple, too! That tired, run-down, exhausted feeling quite often is due to lack of a sufficiency of those precious red-blood-cells. Just build up these oxygen-carrying cells and the whole body takes on new life... food is really turned into energy and strength... you can't help but feel and look better. S.S.S. Tonic restores deficient red-blood-cells... it also improves the appetite and digestion. It has been the nation's standby for over 100 years... and unless your case is exceptional it should help you, too. Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red cellophane-wrapped package. The big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment... it's more economical. © The S.S.S. Co.

WILL SING AT ROBINSON SPRINGS EACH FOURTH SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Mr. Virgil Smith repoorts that a singing was held at the new church, Robinson Springs, last Sunday afternoon, but it was decided that in the future their singing time will be the fourth Sunday afternoon in each month. This change was made so as to avoid conflict with the courthouse singing.

All singers are asked to bear this in mind, and visit the new church when convenient. They will be glad to have you. Mr. Floyd Bailey is chairman of the singing society.

VERMONT SCHOOL

Our regular weekly meeting was held at the Vermont Junior High school on November 8th. We enjoyed meeting several of our friends that had not been attending. Everyone seems to enjoy these meetings and we appreciate the interest shown by cooperating and making the meetings more successful. You miss something each time you are not there. Let's come out and try to help each other along as Miss Heflin and Mr. Smith are kind enough to come out and tell us something that is worth while. We can't help but be benefited by lessons on how to save if nothing else. So meet with us tonight (November 18th) at 7 o'clock at Vermont.—Reporter.

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this — and see that you get what you want.

Lesson for November 17

THE RETURN FROM CAPTIVITY

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 1:1-6; Psalm 126:1-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad. Psalm 126:3.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A New Song.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Coming Home Rejoicing.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making a Fresh Start.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Thanksgiving for God's Care.

I. The Return Predicted (Jer. 29:1-14).

It seems that false prophets were flourishing in Babylon telling the people that they would speedily be restored to their own land. To counteract this the Lord moved Jeremiah to send this letter to the captives in Babylon (vv. 8, 9). In this letter he advised them to settle down and quietly pursue their regular callings of life and not to be led astray by the false prophets (vv. 6, 7).

1. The length of the captivity (v. 10). Their coming back was to be "after seventy years." From Daniel 9:2 it is clear that seventy years means a definite time. It dates from the time when the first company was taken captive, among which Daniel was found.

2. Recovered by God (vv. 10-14). God's purpose in the captivity was to cure them of their idolatrous practices. He assured them that when his purpose was accomplished he would visit them and convince them of his good purpose toward them. Their captivity he would turn away, gather them from all the nations, and bring them into their own land.

II. The Predicted Captivity Fulfilled (Ezra 1:1-6).

1. The proclamation of Cyrus (vv. 1-4).

a. This was not by accident, but that the word of the Lord might be fulfilled (v. 1). What God has promised he will do; he never forgets.

b. By divine initiation (v. 1). "The Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus." How this was done we do not know. Possibly Daniel brought to his attention the prophecy of Isaiah and Jeremiah (Isa. 44:28; Jer. 25:12). Every impulse to do good in all men is caused by the Lord. It may have been that Cyrus only saw his own action as a piece of statecraft—the creation of a buffer nation between his kingdom and that of Egypt.

c. The content of his proclamation (vv. 2-4).

(1) "The Lord God of heaven hath charged me to build him a house in Jerusalem" (v. 2). This makes clear that he had some impression of God's hand upon him.

(2) Appeal to Jewish patriotism (v. 3). He invokes upon such as possess the national religious feeling, the blessing of God, and commands them to go and build the house of the Lord God.

(3) Lend assistance (v. 4). Many of the Jews were established in business and therefore were not free to go. Many, no doubt, had lost their national spirit and therefore did not desire to go. All such were to lend friendly assistance in silver, gold, and beasts.

2. The response to Cyrus' proclamation (vv. 5, 6). The chief of the fathers of Judah and Benjamin and the priests and Levites presented themselves as willing and ready to go. The company which returned was largely made up of representatives of Judah and Benjamin.

3. The royal favor (vv. 7-11). Cyrus brought forth the vessels of the house of the Lord which Nebuchadnezzar had carried away from Jerusalem and put into the house of his gods. Now to have 5,400 of these vessels returned to their owners and sent back to Jerusalem to be put to their original use, met a hearty response by the Jews.

III. The Gladness and Rejoicing of the Returning Exiles (Ps. 126:1-6).

1. The proclamation of Cyrus as a dream (v. 1). They recognized that their going back was through the favor of the Lord.

2. Their laughter and singing (vv. 2, 3). They not only recognized this as the favor of the Lord upon them, but testified thereof in the hearing of the heathen round about them.

3. Their prayer for prosperity in the land (v. 4). They were not only going back with the consciousness of the good hand of the Lord upon them, but were trusting him for fruitfulness of the land.

4. Sowing in tears (vv. 5, 6). The seed which they were to sow in the land was so precious that they seemed to have hesitated as to sowing, and yet they recognized that joy would follow their sorrow as they brought with them the sheaves of the harvest.

Monotony

Whether we are rich or poor, we all have to fight against monotony—doing the same thing over and over until it loses interest.

We can fight monotony with variety, and one way to do this is by making a wise use of leisure. If we wish to avoid the feeling that we are merely machines, we must become interested in many things.

Patience

Patience is bitter, but its fruit sweet.—Rousseau.

Mrs. Don Calloway has returned from a visit to relatives and friends in Birmingham.

GET-TOGETER AND QUILTING PARTY AT MRS. POPWELL'S

An old-time quilting and get-together party was held at the home of Mrs. Lester Powell, in Walnut Creek comunity, Wednesday of last week. A number of ladies of that and adjoining communities gathered together, and besides having an enjoyable time, seven quilts were quilted out.

At noon dinner was spread on a large table out in the yard. After all had eaten all they wanted, enough food was left to feed the crowd again. There was plenty of good old Winner Brand coffee, country milk and butter. All were convinced and reassured that the country is the best place in the world to live.

Those present were: Mesdames Newitt Easterling, Reese Baker, Leland Easterling, S. V. Miller, Lewis Easterling, Steve Baker, Dalton Bice, Arthur Thompson, Rufus Powell, Dewey Powell, Charlie Duke, Allen Moatts, Isaac Powell, S. J. Powell, Robert Mims, Ed Minor, Johnnie A. Easterling; Misses Ruby Easterling, Leavolah Mims and Mildred Easterling; also Tom Jeff Easterling.

There were a few who had invitations but were not present. They missed a fine time, a good dinner and lots of fun. We all hope to have another such gathering at the same place next year.—Mrs. Dalton Bice.

C. C. H. S. LOSES TO MONTEVALLO, 13-6 ON BREAKS

The Chilton County Tigers lost a hard fought game to Montevallo High last Friday afternoon.

Early in the first quarter Montevallo registered a touchdown, but this did not dishearten our boys. They put up a good fight, and the spirit "hold them to the end" was shown on the faces of every player on our team.

In the second quarter neither team was able to score. In the third quarter, on a beautiful pass from Gillispie to Williamson, registered a touchdown and the score remained 6-7 until late in the fourth quarter when a punt from Williamson was blocked, paving the way for Montevallo's second touchdown.

The local team plays Holtville at Holtville next Friday afternoon, and the following Friday the classic game of the season will be played between Clanton and Isabella. This is a long looked for occasion. Quite a bit of friendly rivalry has arisen between Isabella High and C. C. H. S. This game no doubt will be one of the hardest fought and most hotly contested athletic occasions ever experienced in Clanton. Printed programs will be run off early next week descriptive of this game with names, weight, and positions of players on both sides and posted in prominent places down town for the information of all concerned. These programs will pe paid for by the merchants and businessmen of Clanton. Thank you.

Don't miss Isabella High vs. C. C. H. S., November 22.

NORTH PROFITS BY ALABAMA COAL STRIKE

Birmingham, Ala.—Alabama coal operators after more than six weeks of bitter strife have definitely concluded that their real fight is against gigantic Eastern coal combines using organized miners as a tool to permanently stifle bituminous competition in the soft coal fields.

The threat of permanent extinction of Alabama's basic industry is far more menacing than the walk-out of Alabama miners, is the opinion of coal operators here. Sensing the peril of a permanent shut-down, coal operators are devising ways and means of combatting the agitation of outside interests.

A kaleidoscopic chain of events following the walk-out, gunfire and intimidation of operators has led to disclosure of the subversive methods employed by Eastern operators to close the doors to Alabama coal and throw thousands of unsuspecting miners out of work for all time.

The Human Element Back of Your Telephone

But for the human element back of your telephone, the millions of dollars worth of telephone equipment in the State would be only so much inactive machinery.

It is the army of telephone workers who give life to the vast network of wires, switchboards and other equipment, making of it one of the State's most used and useful instruments of modern business and social life.

These workers are selected with extreme care as to their fitness for the job and the majority of them have had years of experience and training in their respective lines of work. They are loyal folks, all striving for the same end—that you shall continue to get the best and most dependable service possible at the lowest cost consistent with the financial safety of the business.

Collectively, they and their families form a very large group of substantial citizens, who contribute in many ways to the welfare and support of the State. Their earnings are spent mainly for the necessities of life, in the communities where they work and live. This regular expenditure of money aids materially in the support of merchants and other business institutions throughout the State.

Because their life work in the telephone business is service to the public, it is natural for telephone people to be interested and active in civic, church and other organizations which work for the upbuilding and betterment of the communities in which they live.

The telephone industry is one of the State's largest and most necessary institutions, but its value is not measured alone in money. Of equal importance to the investment in land, buildings and equipment are these loyal people whose lives are dedicated to a necessary public service, which through years of perseverance and labor, they have developed to the present high standard of quality and dependability. These folks are the Telephone Company.

A Thorsby Boy Meets Adm. Richard E. Byrd

Leroy R. Peterson made a trip to Birmingham last week to hear Adm. Byrd lecture on the second Antartic expedition. The lecture was given in the Municipal Auditorium. Over a thousand people attended this lecture. The screen picture of the expedition was shown and Byrd stood before it explaining it and of course adding much of interest to all of the scenes. The lecture was quite long but seemed only a few minutes to Peterson. After the lecture Byrd retired through a rear door but the boys "were on to it" and caught him before he reached his car, pleading for autographs. At last Peterson had his chance and stepped forward and shook hands with him, and managed to have a short interview with him by introducing himself as a brother of Leo Peterson, who served as Byrd's mechanic on his North Pole Expedition. Byrd remembered Leo Peterson and said he was a fine fellow and that he resembered his brother. Peterson found the Admiral a most interesting man and he was one of a few who had the opportunity of talking with hom.

G. O. P. Criticizes Works Program

Washington, Nov. 12.—Asserting the work relief plan encompassed hundreds of "utterly ridiculous and fantastic" projects, the Republican high command today disputed an administration contention that the works program was "all good solid stuff."

In a formal statement, the Republican national committee dubbed the President "Frankly Destructive Roosevelt," openly expressed doubt that reliance could be placed upon his word; and charged that "hundreds upon hundreds of millions of dollars have been frittered away," with 11,000,000 still employed.

As examples of what it termed "boon-doggling" projects the committee presented a list which ranged from researches upon "the love life of the cow" to painting the fire hydrants in Wilmington, Del., and building islands in a Washington State Park lake.

A broadside of sarcasm was fired at the Federal theater project, together with a charge that it was under radical influence and intended to present unproduced plays and rejected manuscripts by a group of writers "regarded by the public as left-wing propagandists."

All this was contained in a printed pamphlet of 14 pages, issued by the Republican committee. To it was attached a brief mimeographed statement, saying it was a reply to assertions yesterday by Harry Hopkins the relief director.

The publication was entitled "Roosevelt the Waster". The Chief Executive, it said, "has devised more useless ways of wasting money than anyone ever before thought of," adding that one of them was "boondoggle."

Green beans, barring accidents, should be plentiful and lower priced than in weeks. Spinach and cauliflower are unusually attractive in quality and price. Idaho baking potatoes and sweet potatoes are worthy of special mention.

Apple Week continues with this most popular of fruits available in many varieties at low cost. Grapefruit are taking an important place in the fruit market. Florida oranges are arriving in greater volume and improving quality.

Here are three menus planned to suit graded budgets.

NEWS FROM MAINE

Maine furnishes more news and this time it is not welcomed at Washington. Gross misconduct and irregularities in handling funds are reported against Maine's Emergency Relief Administration. Discoveries suggested the arrest of two at least.

Right away a controversy arose. Should the state or federal government prosecute? Maine officials insist that as federal funds were involved the prosecution should be handled in the federal courts.

The individuals involved were recommended by Governor Brann, the Pine Tree State citizen who first brought that Quoddy project into national prominence in September, 1832.

This affair has settled down to an alphabetical battle, the MERA against the FERA, the Maine Relief Administration against the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

For the present, Maine is in the lead. Relief funds are still arriving and are administered by those who are under charges by federal officials. On the other hand hints come from Washington that Maine will go in the black list on November 15 if something is not done.

Maine better watch out. That $36,000,000 —Army officers even now warn that more than $50,000,000 will be needed for Quoddy—has not yet been expended. And they do whisper in Washington that they no longer worry over "As goes Maine."—Middletown Conn., Press.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Although the national election is still a year in the future and the Republicans seem not yet to have found a candidate, the experts are already beginning to speculate on the way the campaign will take shape and just what the results will be. Extended straw votes are being taken, to show just which way the political wind is blowing and these can, of course, be interpreted in different ways, according to the hopes and desires of the interpreter, who may be perfectly honest yet handicapped by wearing a pair of rose-tinted glasses.

Just now we are being told that the lineup will be the south and the west against the east, with some terrific battling due in the middle west. We are informed that the processing tax and huge outlays of money have caused the administration to lose popularity in the east, while the AAA program has given the powers at Washington great strength in the south and west where the cotton, the corn, the hogs and the wheat are produced. The President's announcement that he intends to make the AAA a permanent institution has given some of the prophets to believe that he has to all intents and purposes abandoned the "far east" and expects to get his majority in the electoral college in the south and west. The vote of the corn and hog farmers to continue the AAA program, so they believe, will only strengthen the application of this strategy.

One very comprehensive and sound political observer pointed out to the writer not long since that the Democrats start with 135 electoral votes almost certain, those of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. To these, he said, most experts would add the four border states, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland and Missouri which have 42 electoral votes. Next would be placed the so-called progressive farm states of the north and northwest, with 92 electoral votes, and all of which are now said to be strongly for the AAA. If President Roosevelt carried all these states he would have 269 electoral votes or three more than enough. Some of these border or western states, however, are apt to go Republican, in which event the President would have to get some votes elsewhere.

Of course the Republicans are no more apt to make a clean sweep in the other groups of states than is the President in the groups mentioned above. Some of these are bound to be uncertain so that several real battlegrounds are sure to develop in the next campaign, principally perhaps in states like Indiana and Illinois.

While it seems plausible that the administration is depending on the south and west for the bulk of its electoral votes, it is by no means to be assumed that Mr. Roosevelt has given up carrying some of the eastern states. That is not his style of playing politics, so we may expect several New Deal olive branches handed out east of the Mississippi river in the next few months. Neither is it to be assumed that the Republicans are going to give up the western and border states without a real struggle. For that reason it seems probable at this time that the GOP nominee for president will come out of the Middle West. This seems sound strategically, just as it is sound that the Republicans open up an active campaign headquarters in Chicago at this early date.

It may well develop into a battle of the west and south against the more populous eastern states, but it is a good bet that neither major party is going to surrender any debatable section of America to the other. For that reason the campaign next year promises to be one of the bitterest in the history of the United States. The campaign of 1936 is going to be no place for a mollycoddle and there probably won't be many mollycoddles in strategic positions.

MAINTAIN JUDICIAL POWER

In an enlightening article on the powers delegated to the judiciary of the nation by the Constitution, A. H. Dixon, in the current issue of the National Republic emphasizes that these powers must be retained by the courts if we are to have a free government. In part he says.

"With no constitutional checks upon lawmakers; with no authority to which the people may appeal when their sacred rights have been invaded by insatiate greed, anarchy would reign supreme within a comparatively short time; freedom would be a word of reproach; selfish interests would be knawing at the very vitals of the nation like a pack of hungry wolves; the sacrifices of our fathers would be lost for all time, and the government they founded would die by the onslaughts of its own disappointed people. The saying made across the water more than a hundred years ago, "Popular government in the United States cannot long endure," will come true, and the last, the grandest and most sublime effort of men to found a government where every individual might stand the equal of every other before the law, will perish amid the shrieks and groans of its mangled citizenry, while the autocrats of the Old World and their camp followers in the New, will chant a requiem over the last and final effort at popular government.

"The Constitution is all that any free people could desire in the way of popular government. Its checks and balances are fully adequate to the needs of a free and prosperous people, when properly administered. Every avenue to autocratic rule is closed; the delusive wiles of soap-box philosophy are precluded, and sitting at the portal of freedom for every one is the Supreme Court, guaranteeing equality before the law. What more can sane people ask?

"Because the Supreme Court has done precisely what the Constitution intends that it should do; because it can not be swayed in this way and that, at the behest of those whose selfish interests have blinded them to everything pertaining to the best interests of the people as a whole, its ultimate death has been foresworn by those whom it has refused to favor at the expense of all others.

"Because the Supreme Court guarantees equal rights to all alike—rich, poor high and low—it is now assailed most viciously by some supposedly learned men, men in places of trust in the government even. Because it has carefully directed legislation, both state and national, in keeping with the mandate of the Constitution for the last hundred and fifty years, it is now to be crucified on the cross of public opinion. This seems to have been its only crime: It has stood for the people and the whole people, and in so doing, it has incurred the displeasure of a few who have always placed self before the good of the nation as a whole. For this and this alone, it is to be dethroned by amendment or otherwise.

"Amendments are dangerous things. As every well informed person knows, the Twelfth Amendment was framed and ratified in the interest of the designing politician; the amendments immediately following the Civil War were passed without the consideration that amendments should have; the Sixteenth was passed on the pretext of "taring big business"; the child labor amendment no wbefore the states was pushed thru Congress by a deluded and one-sided crowd. The rice of some of these errors has been tremendous."

POLITICS IN EUROPE

The troubles in Europe and Africa continue. It is very probable that so far as American sentiment is concerned, ninety per cent of the sympathy of the people of this country is with Haile Selassie. This is not just because our people thoroughly understand the politics of the situation. But Ethiopia is comparatively poor, and unarmed as compared with her attacker, and it is traditionally true that Americans always sympathize with the under dog.

This need not blind us to the fact, however, that the sentiment of fully ninety per cent of our people is against our mixing in any war whether it be in Europe or elsewhere.

At this time it would seem likely that the war may be confined to Italy and Ethiopia. Should this situation continue it is not likely that Uncle Sam is in danger of becoming involved. But should other nations, particularly Great Britain, mix in then there will be a terrific barrage of ropaganda to get us into the mess.

At this time, after having failed to sustain League principles in Manchuria and other sections where it was not sufficiently interested, Great Britain is demanding that the League chastise Mussolini for jumping on Ethiopia. This is not because John Bull is particularly anxious about the League or Haile Selassie but for the reason that he thinks British interests in Africa are in danger.

On the other hand, France, which has always demanded support of the League when she feared that her interests in Europe might be affected, now wants the League to soft-pedal and to "lay off" of Mussolini. This for the reason that now her interests lie the other way, and she fears to antagonize Mussolini too much lest she lose a valuable ally. She thinks the League should by all means protect her friends, like Austria and Lithuania, but doesn't care a hang what happens to Ethiopia. Her motives are always purely nationalistic just as are those of Great Britain. She wants only to sustain the League and its sanctions when such action will help her.

But Great Britain in its new-found zeal for the League has put France in an embarrasing situation. France will, however, join Great Britain in enforcing sanctions, if sanctions are enforced, because she is "on the spot" and there is nothing else to do. This is not solely on account of Great Britain. There are other complications. France has a number of small allies in the League and these are sensitive on this Ethiopian question. If the land of Haile Selassie is carved up they do not know but that their turn will come next. Hence they will demand that France stand by sanctions and there is nothing else for France to do. Otherwise she may lose not only the friendship of Great Britain but of some of her small but important allies on the continent.

But France will go along as reluctantly as possible and this means that there will be no general war unless there is some unexpected disaster such as was the blowing up of the battleship Maine in 1898. In case of war Great Britain would expect France to do much of the fighting and France, of course, well realized this. Here is another reason why France is going slow, and few people can blame her.

The European situation is so full of political cros currents that there is but one thing for Uncle Sam to do and that is to keep out of the mess. Ninety per cent of our people, a least, want to do so, and here another cas where over a hundred million Americans can be wrong.

MAN IN THE MOON

BACK TO BUSINESS

After a lapse of several weeks, I can now get back to business and try to make this old column a little more interesting. For the past few weeks I have been all tangled up with the editor of The Chilton County News and haven't had space to write about many items of passing interest. However, that has all been taken care of, and everything is quiet again.

I get a great kick out of squelching that News outfit. They're great sports, but a curious outfit. One thing you must hand to them, though—they know when they are beaten. Now, to be fair and square, I have been told that they have that much on me—that I don't know when I'm beaten. Maybe that is true—maybe I don't know when I'm beaten. But I'll let you in on a little secret. I've always found that if you fight hard enough, you can't be whipped, and although I have seen the time when I felt that I was almost beaten, I always try to fight that much harder. You know, there is a great difference between being beaten and being whipped.

I get another great laugh out of the News bunch, too. Have you ever noticed how brazenly they will blaze out when they think they have something to get worked up over? And have you ever noticed how quick they are to back water when they have their hands called? They will wrap the front page up in editorials for a week or two, but when their shoulders are pinned to the mat, they'll shut up tight, and go back to the regular editorial page and set out writing about soil erosion, or forest fires, or something of the kind.

So, for the next few weeks I'm going to try to forget The News, and try to find something bigger and better to write about. Here goes.

"CITY" OF CLANTON

Since the limits of Clanton have been moved back, and we have had a new census, 'n' everything, the Town of Clanton is no more, but is now The City of Clanton. Clanton is now a booming little city, with her 3,363 inhabitants. And the general appearance of Clanton isn't to be sneezed at, either. Take a look about you, if you haven't already done so, and note just how few reminders of the horse-and-buggy days you see. Not many of the old-fashioned shelters out over the walks, nowadays. And few are the wooden store buildings.

Clanton's business section is nicely paved. I believe we have one of the most competent volunteer fire squads to be found anywhere in a city of the size of Clanton. Clanton's business houses are not old and dusty looking, but clean, sparking and up-to-date, revealing the fact that Clanton's merchants are fully alive and awake. Clanton has one of the nicest county courthouses to be found in the state. The new city hall and post office are creditable additions, too. And if you care to look over the residence sections of Clanton, you will find them above the average—the most of them have beautiful flower gardens, and various other items of natural growth which go to help make of Clanton a most beautiful city.

Various other improvements are on the card for Clanton in the near future, also. Sooner or later all of Clanton's residence section streets will be paved; some of these days the city fathers are going to see fit to fix up a "white way" for Clanton; and maybe—I say maybe—the time isn't so far distant when Clanton may have a little broadcasting station. Wouldn't that be fine—a radio station (even if it had to be a small one) to tell the people of Alabama and the world about "The City of Clanton, in the heart of Alabama"?

But, whatever you do, for the present, don't go near Mayor C. Fenn Jones, or the city hall, and make the mistake of saying something about "the Town of Clanton." If you do, Mr. Jones will certainly put you right. He is right proud of the "City of Clanton", and justly so. He has worked hard and long in this matter, and citizens of Clanton owe him much honor for the commendable job he has done.

FLY IN THE OINTMENT

The Democrats had a nice little fun-poking party spoiled for them a few weeks ago. At that time the Republican headquarters had sent out a national call for wealthy Republicans to contribute to the national Republican campaign fund. Democratic newspapers took up the chance to poke fun at the Republicans. A great time was being enjoyed by all until someone slipped, and the Democratic skeleton got out of the party closet.

Some how, in some way, the news got around that the Democratic Campaign Committee of 1932 still owe something a little less than half a million dollars from the campaign of that year. It was pretty well divided up among the big Democrats, with a few of them holding the bag for good sums. However, there was one item of some $147,000 owing to the American Telegraph and Telephone Company, although the officials of the company have not as yet given notice that they are inclined to do or die for the dear old order of the jackass. In fact, they have intimated, from time to time, that a small payment on account would not be sneezed the public service companies which have been made objects of searching governmental inquiries.

Democratic papers over the country were having a grand time printing cartoons of the Republican elephant standing on a corner with his tin cup and "I am blind" singing and begging for help. That all stopped, however, when the Democratic debt story got out, and Republican popers began printing their cartoons of the aetmster cracking his whip over the Democratic mule and telling him to stop laughing and balking and take up his load where he laid it down.

Funny thing about that, too. The Chilton County News didn't have a thing to say about that $447,000 Democratic debt, although they have said numbers of times that it is their intention to give the dear people all the news. We wonder why!

IS THE TIDE TURNING?

Just after the Democratic landslide in 1932 I heard many people say such things as this: "The Republican party is dead. It never can overcome this beating." But let's take a look nowadays, just a little over three years after.

Officials who have had a big hand in the affairs of the nation under Democratic rule are condemning the present regime for its lack of effectiveness. Democratic senators and representatives have been bold enough to stand in the congressional chambers and denounce the administration's policies and activities. Democratic governors who still have enough backbone to think and act for themselves and the upright principles they have been taught to respect are rebelling at the prospect of having to kiss a political toe just for the sake of being known as "good Democrats". Democratic newspapers, too have joined in the hue and cry, of late, against the mass of mistaken ideas, bad policies, and general bad judgment and mismanagement in the nation's affairs.

True, Republicans have pointed out these defects right along, but their squawks have been discounted in some degree as partisianship, but there surely MUST be something wrong, when Democrats, themselves, rise up against the method by which things are being carried on. Getting away from officials, the elections that have been held from time to time since the big landslide have given a perfect picture of public opinion, as it hung for a while, wavered, then began to turn back to the Republican party. The Democrats, themselves, admit that there has been some falling away. They admit, too, that there is not much to expect from a third party, and so there is nothing to do but go back and hope for help from the Republicans. Various elections throughout the country this year show a faster and faster return to the Republican ranks. Especially is this true in the eastern states, the most of which supported Mr. Roosevelt in a big way in 1932.

Oh no, the Republican party is not dead. It is coming back bigger and better than ever. And one of the biggest helps to it's cause is the very inability of Democratic officials to plan sensibly and work effectively. The guy who said: "Whoever picked the jackass as the emblem of the Democratic party certainly knew his oats", wasn't so dumb in the head, himself.—Man in the Moon.

TWO DAYS TO GOVERNMENT

Already government is absorbing $1.30 of every $3 of America's income. This means that you and I, the people of this country have to work between two and two and one-half days every week solely to support government and taxeaters. And still heavier levies, especially by the federal government, confront us. Before long, judging by federal expenditures and mounting debts, we may have to toil three days a week to keep taxleviers going. History reveals that powerful nations have invariably been ruined by mounting tax burdens. No nation ever spent as much money as America is spending today to maintain its federal and local governments. How much further can we go into debt, how much further can we go in governmental expenditures, without inviting ruinous hardships?—Forbes Magazine.

WHAT'S IN A MIDDLE NAME?

The thing that is going to beat Franklin Delano Roosevelt a year from November is that Delano. Only one man with a middle name has even been re-elected to the presidency. Ulysses Simpson Grant survived his handicap, but Herbert Clark Hoover couldn't nor could Warren Gamaliel Harding, James Knox Polk, John Quincy Adams, Rutherford Birchard Hayes, William Howard Taft and others.

John Calvin Coolidge and Thomas Woodrow Wilson beat the game by dropping their first names. Perhaps some of the others did also, but the two-term presidents appear in the records as George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, Grover Cleveland, William McKinley, James Madison and James Monroe.

So get down a bet now that Franklin Delano Roosevelt will not be re-elected. The odds should be better than ten to one.—Letter to New York Herald-Tribune.

GOVERNOR TALMADGE, POET

In case you didn't get that very effective little bit of rhyme Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, quoted in his recent Board of Trade address, here it is:

"I thank my God the sun and moon
Are both stuck up so high
That no presumptious hand can stretch
And pluck them from the sky.
If they were not, I do believe
That some reforming ass
Would recommend to take them down
And light the world with gas."—Philadelphia Sunday Dispatch.

THE AAA ELECTION

From the first to last the cards were stacked in favor of the program. Tons and tons of government literature flooded the agricultural regions, all demanding approval of the AAA and predicting calamity if it had to be abandoned. More than a hundred thousand Federal agents acted as campaign spellbinders and watched the polls. Last Friday, on the eve of election, the President himself issued a statement calculated to convert the few farmers who might be wavering in their loyalty to the scheme. All that the producers heard was propaganda. Not one word was said to them about the great decline in the use of pork by the American housewife, of the decline of American exports and of the largely increased imports from Canada. It was never even suggested to them that the time could easily come when the markets upon which they depend for a livng might approach the vanishing point.

If the Administration finds any deep significance in this decision by a few hundred thousand farmers, it is more easily satisfied than most persons thought. In any event, it will do well to keep its enthusiasm to itself. The great mass of the people is not being fooled. It knows that the Government has sold the nation a gold-brick and is now trying to justify the act.—Boston Transcript.

Wonder why John Bull thinks it is so much more important to stand by the League now than it was when Manchuria was invaded?

Out in Texas they call bootleg oil "Hot Oil". Up in Maine will they call bootleg potatoes "Hot Potatoes"?

Price of meat being what it is, calling a fellow a big "ham" now-a-days is a compliment.—Kansas City Kansas.

In moonshine districts, where the whiskey looks like water and is drunk like water, strange ideas prevail as to what intoxication really is. In a village one Sunday afternoon a man lay in the broiling sun in the middle of the road with an empty bottle by his side.

"He's dunk; lock him up," the sheriff said. But a woman interposed hastily.

"No, he ain't drunk," she said, "I jest seen his fingers move."

After the supply of pigs is regulated it is said the AAA is going to start in paying the American biscuit companies for making fewer animal crackers.

It is said that in Los Angeles they put skid chains on the thermometer so that the official temperature won't get too high or too low.

It is said that fourteen inches of snow fell at Walla Walla early in October. That sounds lige a good place to have it.

Freedom, social justice, religion. We used to think pretty highly of all three only a short while back. Nowadays we rate it smart to speak of all three as outmoded and obsolete. But they aren't; and in our saner moods we know they aren't. Some day we'll demand to have them back again, and the world will become again the better world that it used to be.—Philadelphia Sunday Dispatch.

Lord Churchill says that the Italian invasion of Africa is really the fault of Adolph Hitler. We are surprised but relieved to find this out. We have been afraid they would pin it on Uncle Sam, and ask him to pay the cost of "restoring peace."

An exchange remarks that Detroit has boycotted western meat and wonders what would happen if the westerners boycotted Detroit automobiles. Our guess is that the Westerners might soon have money in the bank.

It is said that the government is planning for a referendum among those on the dole and will ask them to vote on the proposition to give them bigger relief checks to be delivered to the front doorsteps with the milk.

Remember the old fashioned man who was innocent enough to believe the Italians when they said they couldn't raise a penny to pay on their two billion war debt to the United States

A Kansas farmer whose cow died of an apparently mysterious malady found that the animal had a huge mud ball in her stomach. Maybe she was plowed under and tried to eat her way out.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Dr. Middlebrooks will preach his last sermons for this conference year next Sunday morning and evening. It is expected that the church membership will attend in large numbers to hear these last messages. On Wednesday he will go to Opelika where the sessions of the Alabama Conference will be held beginning Wednesday night and closing Sunday. He has been called to meet the Board of Education of which he is a member at Opelika at 2:30 Wednesday.

Last Wednesday night at the "Jubilee Night" program the year's work was briefly reviewed, showing that substantial gains have been made during the year. A large class has been received into the church; training and vacation schools have been held; attendance in all departments of the church has had a marked increase, especially in the church school; several of the class rooms have been made more attractive with new esuipment; the payment for pastor, presiding elder, benevolences and district work is much larger than last year, an increase of as much as fifty and one hundred per cent in some phases of the work; the young people's work has been reorganized; the prayer meeting has been reinstated since early summer months with growing attendance reaching more than twenty-fice at the last meeting. The pastor will have an excellent report to make when Bishop Sam R. Hay, next week, calls for the report of the Clanton church.

Monday night of this week the newly elected Board of Christian Education was organized for the new conference year. D. W. Waite was elected chairman; V. J. Elmore was elected vice chairman; and Mrs. Otto Jones was elected secretary-treasurer. Other members of the board are: the pastor, Mrs. L. J. Stewart, J. T. Searcy, L. C. Warr, Vernie Teel, Mrs. A. County Farm Agent's Notes

1936 FARM OUTLOOK GOOD, SAYS BUREAU

Auburn, Ala.—The present "upward trend" in farm income will continue in 1936 predicts the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which expresses belief that the income available for farm family living will be the best since 1919.

"The demand for farm products in 1936 is likely to be greater than in 1935. Consumer buying power in the United States is likely to be increased in 1936. buying power of consumers in many foreign countries also is likely to increase," says the Bureau.

Improvements in farm family well-being, it is stated, are indicated by the decrease in the number of farmers on relief, only two-thirds as many being reported in October, 1935, as in the same month of 1936.

STATE FARMERS WARNED ABOUT COTTON VARITIES

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers planning to grow a new variety of cotton next year should get the real facts about the variety before buying the seed, advises officials of the State Experiment Station and Extension Service.

Growers are likely to suffer a heavy loss unless they do obtain the real truth about the cotton seed, they advise.

The safest guide for farmers in buying cotton seed is the cotton variety tests of the Alabama Experiment Station. All best known varieties are tested year after year on the principal soils of the State by well-trained, experienced men. These tests remove the "guess' in selecting a suitable variety of cotton.

The results of this year's findings will be made available within the next few weeks. In the meantime, farmers desiring to purchase seed should advise with their county agents who have the results obtained in tests conducted over a period of years.

POULTRY OUTLOOK GOOD FOR NEXT SIX MONTHS

Auburn, Ala.—Relatively short supplies and high prices for poultry are in prospect the remainder of this year and the first half of next, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in its annual outlook report.

Eggs, however, will increase in supply and decline in price during this period. There will be an increased hatch of young chicks in the spring of 1936. Prices of both poultry and eggs will decline in the latter half of the year.

CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS OFFERED SCHOLARSHIPS

Auburn, Ala.—Twenty Alabama 4-H club boys and girls will be given $5 and $10 scholarships to the state short course here next year, report T. A. Sims and Elizabeth Delony, state 4-H club leaders.

Winners in an essay contest will be awarded these scholarships. "We will probably start this contest about January 1, closing it April 1, and announcing the winners by May 1," say the club leaders.

WAYS TO INCREASE POULTRY PROFITS

Auburn, Ala.—Poultrymen and farmers will increase their profits by giving their poultry special attention during November, advises John E. Ivey, extension poultry specialist, in listing the following 7 November poultry suggestions:

1. Put your birds in comfortable laying houses, properly ventilated, having the north, east, and west walls closed to keep out the cold, winter winds.
2. Keep plenty of dry mash before the birds all of the time. Allow two 6-foot hoppers for each 100 birds.
3. Feed mash, moistened with milk at noon time.
4. Keep accurate records of what your flock is doing, as a guide for future management.
5. Be sure that lice and mites are controlled.
6. If round or tape worms are present and birds are not in satirfactory production, treat the flock for same.
7. Use morning or all night lights to stimulate feed consumption.

FIVE POINT HOG PROGRAM GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.—By following a simple 5-point program, Alabama farmers can profitably market surplus corn by feding it to hogs, says F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who offers the following suggestions:

1. Select only thrifty, well-developed pigs as feeders.
2. If possible, keep pigs on green fede, such as rye or oats, during the entire feeding period.
3. Keep a mineral mixture (equal parts by weight) of charcoal, slacked lime, and salt before the hogs at all times.
4. Equal parts by weight of 60 per cent tankage and cottonseed meal should be kept in a self-feeder or fed at the rate of ½ pound per pig per day, in addition to all the corn they will clean up twice daily.
5. Shade, shelter, and fresh clean water should be available at all times.

JEMISON F. F. A. - F. H. A. NEWS

The F. F. A. and F. H. A. of Jemison High School are sponsoring an oyster and chicken supper at the high school on November 15, 1935, from 5 to 8 o'clock p.m. The cost of each oyster or chicken plate is 25c, stew 15c, cake 5c, cocoa or coffee, 5c.

The public is cordially urged to attend. The proceeds will be given to assist in equipping convalescent homes for crippled children of Alabama. These homes are possible only with outside help, since the funds for equipment and furnishing them cannot be supplied from the state appropriations. Fortunately, buildings have been offered by kind hearted people, but these buildings must be equipped.

There are 9,000 crippled children in Alabama. There were only 158 crippled children treated last year. At present there are 744 crippled children on record and there are many more not on record. Without these homes there will be only a limited number of children who can receive hospitalization. With the homes they can be readily removed from the hospitals and treated theren, freeing the hospital beds for other children. After the homes are equipped that piece of work will be permanent.

Come to the Jemison High school, enjoy the supper and at the same time help the crippled children. Every effort is being made to give the public an appetizing supper and wholesome recreation.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala.—A survey of game conditions in Alabama by the field staff of the State Conservation Department revealed most wildlife species to be holding their own and, in some instances, to be on the increase.

Deer and turkeys were found to be multiplying; Bobwhites, while showing no great increase, are more plentiful than last year; doves and ducks are a bit late this fall due to the mildness of the weather; squirrels may be found where food is plentiful, while bears, foxes, o'posums and racoons are fairly abundant in their native haunts.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—Joseph Moore, student at the University of Alabama from Clanton, has been selected a member of the University Glee Club. Only 56 members were selected. They will make several trips during the year.

A gala celebration marked the annual home-coming day at the University of Alabama last week end. Hundreds of alumni were on the campus for the occasion. Gaily decorated fraternity and sorority houses contributed to the event, which was set in motion Friday night with a huge bonfire and pep rally, followed by a fireworks exhibition in Denny stadium. On Saturady, which was official home-coming day, there was a dress parade of the R. O. T. C. brigade reviewed by Governor Bibb Graves. Mrs. Graves spoke before a convocation of all women students later in the day.

Southern cotton manufacturers in 1933 consumed 82.9 percent of all native American raw cotton, it is shown by a recent statistical study analyzed in an article by Paul Schatz, graduate student in the school of Commerce, and published in the November 1 issue of the Alabama Business News. New England cotton mills during the same period used only 14 per cent of the nations cotton output, however, the cotton industry in the south was considerably less strongly affected by depression than were those in other sections.

When Little People Wash Their Faces Voluntarily . . .

THAT'S NEWS!

WE DON'T claim to have the complete answer to the problem of keeping children clean, but we do say that having hot water ready ALL THE TIME—the way you have it with an automatic ELECTRIC Water Heater — will make a world of difference. Frequently the children will solve the cleanliness problem themselves.

Automatic ELECTRIC hot water saves time and eliminates annoyance dozens of times a day, with dishwashing, laundering, house-cleaning and baths all needing hot water. (The cost is only a few cents a day at the most—a small price for making cleanliness so easy.)

Electric Water Heaters—like Electric Ranges and Electric Refrigerators—may be bought for only a modest amount "down," the balance payable on the popular ECONOMY PURCHASE PLAN.

CHILTON PEOPLE ARE HEALTHY

Chilton County people must certainly be a healthy lot. Each Monday morning we get out and visit both the Spigener Funeral Home and J. Mell Martin & Sons, for reports on deaths in the county during the past week.

Last Monday morning we followed the usual custom, and inquired. Neither of them had a death to report. And for three weeks, now, the story has been the same every Monday Morning, with one exception. So far we are able to learn there has been only one death in the county in the past three weeks. We believe that is some kind of a record.

"WRECK OF THE POOR FARMER'S LIFE"

The poor old farmer is done forgotten,
Made his little crop but he can't sell his cotton.
Oh my Lord, Oh my Lord, what a fix we're in.
Poor old farmer works hard all day,
But he can't get a job on the CWA.
The four cent tax that we have to pay,
Part of that goes to the CWA.
One little hog and no little beef,
Part of that goes to the old relief.
Some get lots and some get none,
See what our committeeman's done.
Some get one thing some get another,
Wish I had been a committeeman's brother.
Bankhead figured when he passed that act,
He throwed the poor farmer right flat on his back.
If there ain't a change in the farmer's life,
He will have to pay a tax to hug his own wife.
The farmer's wife has to cook and milk,
The welfare woman goes dressed in silk.
The farmer's wife has to work in the field,
The welfare woman rides the automobile.
The poor old farmer, he ain't no boss,
He has to buy another one a Gov't bull.
When his cotton is ginned, it's packed in a bag,
It has to be stamped with a Bankhead tag.
That twenty dollars I spent on the bale,
Caused my shirt to have no tail.
Come on old farmers, let's go to the polls,
Put a new man in, let the old one roll.
We will go to the polls with our trust in God,
We will mark our ticket for "J. W. Dodd".
Money is scarce and times are hard,
We will all get us a union card.

Lonza Ellison Dead From Accident 15th

Killed At Sawmill Friday By Falling Into Running Saw

Lonza Ellison, son of John Ellison, of Clanton Route 5, was instantly killed last Friday afternoon at McSwain's sawmill about 8 miles northeast of Clanton, near the old Marion Marcus place.

Witnesses stated that Ellison, who was setting blocks at the mill, saw the lever on the carriage fall over in the way of the saw, just as a log had been finished. He called to John Partridge, the sawyer, to wait, and swung around to pull the lever out of the way of the saw. Partridge, seeing what was about to happen, stopped the carriage instantly as it had started back, Ellison lost his balance and was thrown into the saw, mangling his body badly about the midsection, as well as a bad head cut. The accident came at 4:45, just 15 minutes before stoping time. Martin's ambulance was called and the young man was brought to Clanton.

He is survived by his wife and three children; his father, John Ellison, who lives in Coosa County; five brothers—Fonza, Marvin, Ottis, Wallace and John, Jr.; four sisters—Mrs. Paul C. Mims of Clanton Route 2, Mrs. Clarence Burnett, Mrs. Alfred Gentry, Mrs. Howard Stevens, all of Clanton Route 5. His mother died in 1932.

Lonza Ellison was born June 24, 1908, and was 27 years of age.

Funeral services were held at the home of John Bolton, near Mullins Cemetery, at 2:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Rev. H. H. Caswell, of Des Moines, Iowa, in charge. Interment was in the family plot in Mullins Cemetery.

JEMISON MAN KILLED IN HUNTING ACCIDENT

George Thrash, 24, of Jemison, was killed last Thursday on a squirrel hunting trip when his gun was accidentally discharged as he leaned it against a lumber truck.

Coroner J. Mell Martin returned a verdict of accidental death.

Byrd Killingsworth and Jack Smith, hunting companions of Thrash, said he stopped to chat with a lumber truck driver and leaned his shotgun against the fender of the truck. The gun was discharged, the charge striking Thrash in the left side. He died a few minutes later.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. George W. Thrash, two brothers and a sister.

The funeral was held at Providence at 2:30 Friday, with burial in the cemetery at that place, with Martin & Sons in charge.

Injustices And War Threats Deplored As Church Convention Ends

Troy, Ala., Nev. 5.—Resolutions deploring "conditions of social injustice" within the nation and war threats without were adopted by Alabama Baptists as they closed their 114th annual convention here yesterday afternoon.

The action followed an address by Dr. Charles E. Maddry, forreign missions secretary, in which he declared that American churches face the certainty of having their missionaries driven out of many foreign countries if a feeling of nationalism and mutual distrust continues to grow.

Missionaries in Japan already are being closely watched by military police, Dr. Maddry reported. He reported a reduction last year of $442,000 in the church's mission debt leaving a balance of $516,000.

By vote of the convention, collections on June "Christian Education Day" next year will go to Howard College, Birmingham. The goal was set at $6000.

The 1936 convention will be held in Tuscaloosa, Nov. 17-19.

California Man Forced To Jump About 7 P. M. After Being Lost

On Tuesday night a naval plane from the Naval Station at Sunnyvale, California, crashed near Lay Dam, about 7:00 o'clock, after the pilot, Lieut. L. C. Simpler, had bailed out on the west side of Coosa River at Lay Dam. Lieut. Simpler dropped between two high-voltage power lines and came within 30 feet of one set of lines.

The plane was being piloted from Anacostia, Md., to the naval air station at San Diego. He was to have stopped over for the night at Maxwell Field, Montgomery. Another naval plane on the same course was forced to land about the same time near Leeds, Ala.

Lieut. Simpler was given first-aid treatment by Power Company employees and spent the night at the home of W. P. Lakeman at Lay Dam.

Both planes, the one landing at Leeds and the one at Lay Dam, were wrecked. No one was killed or seriously injured in either crash.

MODERN DEMOCRACY AND THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

[AN EDITORIAL]

Most of the State Democratic daily papers have been caused to stand in amazement and wonder how come the State Democratic executive committee to act as it did in the choosing of the delegates from the state-at-large to the national Democratic convention, when said State committee took upon itself to elect these four delegates instead of submitting the matter to the voters of the State as has heretofore been the custom.

No objection, to speak of, has been voiced against the men selected—Senators Hugo Black and John Bankhead, Governor Bibb Graves and John D. McQueen; but where the rub comes is the manner in which they went about the selection. The committee was called together and these delegates chosen before the call was even made by the national Democratic committee, when only a little better than one-third of the members of the committee were present.

Since Senator Black and Governor Graves have for the past quarter of a century been such ardent advocates of the rights of the "deer peepul", and have won several hot fights on this very score, we doubt seriously that they will accept the honor placed upon them by this fraction of the State committee, when such choice should have been submitteed to the voters of the State.

As for Senator Bankhead, likely he will raise no resentment toward his name being chosen in such irregular style, as this kind of monkey business seems to be kindly in line with his policies any way. Everyone remembers how Mr. Bankhead had the State committee build a wall around him to keep Tom Heflin out of his affairs and out of the Democratic party in his race for senatorial election three years ago. Senator Bankhead, no doubt, likes this strangle rule business, but we can't believe the others will exactly savor such autocratic activities.

It is interesting to note, however, that one Alabamian, present at the committee meeting, voiced his opposition to such flagrant disregard for the sovereign rights of the common people. Judge Leon McCord vigorously opposed the manner in which the delegates were selected, and did himself considrable honor by declaring that the committee should have let the voters of Alabama elect the delegation. Judge McCord said: "I warn you that you will make a mistake in doing this today. This ought to be left to the sovereign Democracy of Alabama."

Judge McCord should be, and will be, honored by the people of Alabama for his firm and justified stand on this all-important matter. Alabama will elect another Governor and another State Senator some day, and Judge McCord's friends will remember him.

The State daily papers wonder why this was done. By way of suggestion for the cause, The Union-Banner asks: Could it be that the matter was not submitted to the people because President Roosevelt is slipping, and that the pro-Roosevelt members of the committee were afraid to trust the people of the State with the selection? Were they afraid an anti-Roosevelt delegation would be selected?

Aside from the political aspects of the business, however, to The Union-Banner this kind of manipulation looks bad, in a country where the rights of the people is supposed to paramount to everything else—a democracy, if you please. This is not democracy at all, but it is autocracy in the rankest degree. Such would be becoming in the hot-beds of dictatorial and war-torn Europe, but not in America where the people are supposed to rule.

Let us continue to hope and pray that someday we may have officials in office who will have more regard for the rights of the common people, and will not make political expediency paramount to justice, liberty, democracy and all other American traditions which we love but which have almost become forgotten.

FOUR MONTHS OF 1935

Some faint idea of the way the financial situation of the United States is shaping may be gathered from the report of the U. S. Treasury for the first one-third of the fiscal year which ended on October 31. Receipts during the four months were approximately $1,233,000,000 while the expenditures were $2,627,000,000 which means that Uncle Sam only took in 47 cents for every dollar that he put out. According to the Associated Press:

"The rate of expenditures for the first four months would initiate a total of $7,881,000,000 for the year, whereas the budget calls for $7,752,000,000. Receipts would be only $3,699,000,000, whereas $4,470,000,000 had been estimated.

"The present deficit of more than $1,393,000,000 would be swollen to $4,180,000,000 next June 30, if the present spread between income and outgo were maintained.

Officials, however, who have examined the figures, take comfort in the belief that they will get in a lot of money that they weren't looking for in increased income tax receipts next year. They base this belief on the assertion that business is now getting better and that the more profits there are, the more will be collected in the way of taxes. It is, of course, good to know that business is getting better and it is especially good to know this because the disciples of the NRA informed us after the Blue Eagle was caged by the Supreme Court that business would go to the bow wows.

It is certainly to be hoped that there will be bigger tax collections in March due to better business conditions. Because there certainly is a lot of coin going out now for what is coming in. And no matter what happens the Republicans will not be able to take from the New Deal the reputation of making this the most expensive administration on record.

NEGRO BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Robert Darby, 16-year-old negro boy was accidentally shot and killed shortly after noon last Monday. The boy had been working with Alfred Chancellor a few miles west of Clanton for about a month.

On Monday Darby was helping Eddie Williams haul wood. Near 1:00 o'clock the two had loaded a load and were ready to bring it in. The negro got on the wagon, carrying a 12-gauge single barrel shotgun he had carried to the woods with him. Once on the wagon, he attempted to push the stock of the gun down between the poles of wood, the hammer struck a pine knot, discharging the whole load of No. 4 shot into the negro's stomach.

Martin's ambulance was called and he was carried to Central Alabama Hospital, where an emergency operation was performed, but his life could not be saved.

Darby lived until 3:40 p.m., during which time he was fully conscious, and fully absolved Williams of any blame in connection with the shooting.

It is understood that Darby's father lives somewhere in Birmingham, while his mother is living in Georgia.

Democrats Ask Law To Purify Primaries

Propose To Re-Register Voters With Statement Of Party Preference

The most far reaching and important action of any State Democratic Executive Committe in the last decade was taken in Montgomery Wednesday when a meeting of that body, by a unanimous vote, endorsed a resolution submitted by Committeeman Silas Cater, of Montgomery, recommending that the Legislature pass a bill providing for the reregistration of all voters and a subsequent registration every four years with a declaration of party affiliation by every voter registering.

The resolution called upon Gov. Graves to include the suggestion in his call for the special session in January. Inasmuch as Gov. Graves was elected by the committee delegate-at-large and chairman of the Alabama delegation to the Democratic national convention next year, with only one dissenting vote and that by a Liberty League member of the committee, it is generally believed that he cannot fail to heed the suggestion that he cannot fail to heed the suggestion.

The resolution requests the forthcoming Legislature to pass a bill providing for the registration of all voters in Alabama in the year 1936 and every four years thereafter. There has been no registration of voters as a whole since 1901. Of course those who registered in 1901 and who have life certificates of registration will not be required to register.

For Pure Primary

The proposal of the governing body of the Democratic party in Alabama is to preserve the purity of primaries in Alabama by preventing affiliation of the Republican and other parties from voting in a Democratic primary and then casting their votes against the Democratic nominees in the general election.

For many years there has been agitation to prevent Republicans from entering Democratic primaries and then casting votes for Republicans in the general election. Democratic leaders have maintained that the system that has been in vogue in Alabama has given Republicans the balance of power in Democratic primaries allowing them to name Democratic nominees and then voting for their own nominee in the general election.

Gov. Graves, political observers point out, has never failed to heed the mandate of his party and it is expected that the reregistration and the party affiliation proposal will be incorporated in his call for a special session and will be enacted into law.

The resolution adopted unanimously by the committee follows:

Text of Resolution

"Be it resolved, by the State Democratic Executive Committee of Alabama:

"First that we heartily approve legislation for a complete registration of the electors of this State in 1936 and every four years thereafter.

"Second that we endorse a provision in such legislation requiring a statement of party affiliation upon such registration and prohibiting all voters not having declared their party affiliations from participating in any primary election hereafter held by such political party.

"Third, we recommend that the Hon. Bibb Graves, governor of the State, include in his call for an extra session of the Legislature legislation upon this subject."

Change Is Seen In Cotton Control Law

Bankhead Says New Program Will Remove Inequalities Of The AAA

Haneyville, Ala., Nov. 15.—Senator John Bankhead told 1,000 Lowndes county cotton farmers here yesterday that he was "reliably informed" that in 1936 they would have four alternate bases from which to select in determining their cotton production allotment.

He declared that this plan would supersede the five-year production plan which he said had caused considerable dissatisfaction, and would give cotton farmers of the south the opportunity to select ther best years for a base on which to fix their allotment.

Senator Bankhead, who drafted the Bankhead cotton control act in collaboration with Congressman Will Bankhead, his brothers said that president Roosevelt had declared that unless a legal cotton production control plan was in effect next year, the government would make no cotton loans.

The individual farmer can elect, Senator Bankhead said he was informed, to have his 1936 allotment based on:

1. Present base period of the five-year period 1928-32 inclusive.
2. Production in 1932-1933 and 1934.
3. Production in 1935 plus plowup acres in 1934-35.
4. Production in 1935.

He declared that this plan would eliminate "many of these inequalites" that exist under the present system.

"All people interested should bear in mind," he said, "that no further cotton loans will be made if there is no law for compulsory crop control. President Roosevelt, while Congress was in session, stated . . . that he would authorize no such loan unless Congress passed a bill continuing the Bankhead act.

"It should now be understood definitely and positively that if we lose compulsory control of the cotton crop that the price of cotton must take its place under the law of supply and demand, and that it will not be aided by further government loans. On that point I speak with authority."

KING DAVID HAYES DIED ON MONDAY AFTERNOON

King David Hayes, 38-year-old World War veteran died at the Veterans Hospital at Tuscaloosa Monday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock.

The funeral was held at Sardis Church Wednesday morning at 11:00 o'clock, Dr. S. J. Ezell officiating. Burial was in the cemetery at that place, with Spigener in charge.

Hayes was in camp for about six months during the last part of the war. He is survived by his wife; two children—Grover Lee, age 16, and Ernestine, age 13; two brothers—J. J. Hayes, Clanton Route 4, and Walter Hayes, Centreville Route 2; seven sisters—Mrs. Nan Headley of Clanton Route 6, Mrs. Dela Milford of Maplesville Route 2, Mrs. Mary Cherry of Billingsley Route 2, Mrs. Lillie Donovan of Maplesville Route 2, Mrs. Annie Nichols of Plantersville Route 2; Mrs. Ola Smith of Coffee Springs Ala., and Mrs. Charles Cox of Brent, Ala.

According to reports, the death of Hayes was the result of a stab received on September 29 in an altercation with Walter Scott, near Jemison. It is said that Hayes and Scott were next door neighbors, and a quarrel arose about a pecan three. A fight followed in which Hayes received the knife wound. Scott was placed in jail on September 30, and Hayes was carried to the Veterans Hospital. Scott was allowed bond on Monday, October 28, pending the outcome of Hayes' wounds. When death resulted Monday afternoon, Scott was placed in jail again Tuesday morning on a murder charge.

HIGHLAND NEWS

We had a good Sunday school lesson last Sunday. Everyone seemed to enjoy it very much.

Last Sunday was our regular singing date. The opening song was led by the chairman, Mr. Coy Lockhart, prayer by Mr. Jake Henley.

Directors for the afternoon were: Coy Lockhart, Sovereign Dickey, Willie Merle Lockhart, Ruby Weldon, Fonzie Coe, Herman Culpepper, Gladys Wyatt, Sam Culp and Gertice Riggins. Closing prayer was led by Mr. Sam Culp. Pianist for the afternoon was Miss Dessie Wyatt.

Our crowd was rather small. Perhaps on account of bad weather, but it seems like everybody is losing interest in our singing. Listen, folks, let's come on and boost our singing. It is going to be just what we make it and let's make it one of the best.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. We invite all who will to come and enjoy the services with us.

MT. PLEASANT HOME DEM. CLUB

The Mt. Pleasant Home Demonstration Club met on November 5, with very good attendance, at the home of Mrs. Amos Smith.

Miss Pardue gave us an interesting talk on walls, floor and table tops. Miss Pardue always brings us lots of helpful information about the home.

We have lots of members that do not attend these meetings regularly. We urge that you attend every time you can. The next meeting will be a Christmas program on December 3, at the home of Mrs. Emmett Smith. We hope all members and lots of visitors will be present.—Reporter.

Watch it bubble up, then drink it. You will be amazed at the almost instant relief.

It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of everyday ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

After trying many brands of medicines—so-called relief for gas, and all of them a failure, I gave up hopes. By chance I tried Alka-Seltzer—I am more than satisfied. Geo. Bennett, New York, N. Y.

Farmers Union Met At Chestnut Grove

RESOLUTIONS PASSED AT LOCAL CONDEMNING GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF FARMERS

Members of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America met in convention at Chestnut Grove Saturday, November 16th. The county president and secretary being unable to attend, the convention moved that the local president, W. F. Aldridge, serve as president and C. L. Curry as secretary.

The morning session was open to all, non-members as well as members of the Union. The Agricultural Arjustment Act was recognized as the leading issue of the day and was the center of discussion. The fact was brought forth and emphasized that the triple A is sinking the little farmer deeper into poverty and that the processing tax paid by the small farmer is being gobbled up by those already in good financial condition.

The delegates from the various locals registered with the secretary and were seated. The following resolutions were offered and adopted:

"Whereas, the Agricultural Adjustment Act, in its present form, is unjust, that it is lowering the standards of living among small farmers; and whereas, the allotment plan, based on the five-year average, is open to fraud, filled with discrimination, and has brought many to a low subsistece level; and whereas the small farmers are trying to raise enough cotton to meet the high cost of living; and whereas, the tax paid on excess cotton by the small farmer exceeds the benefit received from the AAA; and whereas the supporters of the AAA in its present form are willing to see their neighbor farmers suffer in order that they may secure their selfish gains.

"Therefore, be it resolved, first, the Agricultural Adjustment Act be repealed or that drastic changes be made which will bring about a more fair and proportionate division among producers. Second, that if the AAA is necessary and must continue, that the present allotment plan be discontinued and the allotment be based on the number of dependents on each farm, or that each farmer be allowed to plant one-third of his cultivatable land in cotton, and that all cotton growers on this amount of land be exempt from all taxes.

"Third, that we, as members of the Farmers Cooperative and Educational Union of America, (a national organization) do pledge our support against the present AAA program in the coming election, and that we will not support the program on the promise that certain changes will be made, but that every change be made before the election on this question, and the farmers made fully familiar with all changes. Fourth, that we, the members of the Farmers Union in Chilton County, Alabama, do solicit the membership of every farmer who wishes to see justice prevail among all men. Fifth, that the members of this Union feel that the condition under which the farmers receive the extra two cents for their cotton is unjust, that to an extent they are being bribed out of their freedom. We contend that if cotton is worth 12 cents a pound with the farmer's signature it is worth the same without it. Sixth, that we urge all farmers to give the AAA serious consideration before signing to cooperate next year, that such signatures will mean that the farmers are willing for Secretary Wallace and his henchmen to be their dictator next year. Be it further resolved, that each Local in the county appoint committees to wage a campaign against the AAA program, and that the Union cooperate in a convention assembled, this the 16th day of November, 1935, at Chestnut Grove, Chilton County, Alabama, do urge that every farmer in Chilton county, join with us in union, to defeat all issues filled with discrimination, and that we may sponsor a program whereby equity and justice will prevail among all men."

The second resolution passed by this convention is as follows:

"Whereas, there are many issues of great importance before the people, and whereas, these issues need careful consideration; and whereas, it is necessary to put on a campaign for membership in the farmers union in Chilton county; therefore, be it resolved, first, that this convention appoint a committee on resolutions. Second, that a special meeting be called at Center Hill next Saturday, November 23rd, at 12 o'clock, for the purpose of adopting such resolutions as the body deems necessary, and attend to any and all business that may come before the body. Be it further resolved that the president and secretary of each Local in the county attend this meeting without fail, as these are questions that may need discussion in each Local in the county.

"Be it further resolved that all members of the Farmers Union have a special invitation to attend this meeting, but that those who are not members will not be admitted, as this is strictly a business meeting. Be it further resolved that we urge all farmers to wake up and take a stand on the issues of the day, and demand that our interest be protected."

After the adoption of the above resolutions and the appointment of the committee the convention adjourned.

W. F. ALDRIDGE, President.
C. L. CURRY, Secretary.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice." That is what Paul wrote to the Romans. The word "therefore" carries the idea that he has already said somthing to them. What he really had taught them up until the time he besought them to "present their bodies a living sacrifice" was that they were saved men and women, and they were saved by the grace of God who did save them, to present their bodies a living sacrifice. Man is naturally a sinner. That is what the Bible teaches and that is what history and literature prove. Our bodies are the instruments with which we sin. We use our eyes to see what we should not see. We use our ears to hear the things we should not hear; and most of us use our tongues to say what we should not say. Paul beseeches us Christians since we are saved to give ourselves in absolute surrender to God.

When an army surrenders it is supposed to lay down its weapons of warfare. We Christians are supposed to be surrendered to God. Our hands have been used selfishly in the past. We give them now to God so He may use them to lift the fallen. Our eyes have been instruments of Satan, but we open them now to see opportunities for Christian service. Our ears have been attuned to the voice of the world. Now, they are open to the voice of God. Our feet have been swift to travel the road of sin. Now, God sends us on errands of mercy. Our tongues that have said the wrong things, now are used to tell the story of redeeming grace to a lost world. If the professing Christians of America would really surrender to God, we could evangelize the world in a very short time. The trouble is that most of us professing Christians live selfish lives. If God is God and if we are saved, then we should give every thing we have to God and should be transformed by His power and should not be conformed to worldly standards.

Editor Union-Banner:

Dear Sir:—First of all I wish to thank you for the paper. Indeed it is like a letter from home, and through this good old paper I wish to write a few lines to my friends around home.

Dear Friends:—I am again out here at Hot Springs, Ark., taking the hot baths. I am feeling reasonably well and enjoying myself as much as could be expected. I have not had time to stir around to see very much. Perhaps I can write more next time.

The Union-Banner has received the following message from Rev. J. E. Creel, of Haleyville, Ala.:

"I had my sorghum cane cut and carried to the mill on August 7th and 8th, and expected to get a crop of hay from the suckers. But on November 6th I cut a wagon load of suckers, sent them to the mill, and got 7 gallons of fine honey drip molasses. And still I got a good hay crop off what was left. How is that for a second crop?—Rev. J. E. Creel."

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

"How do I feel.... Rotten! why do you ask?"

"Because, you are not yourself!"

IT is all so simple, too! That tired, run-down, exhausted feeling quite often is due to lack of a sufficiency of those precious red-blood-cells. Just build up these oxygen-carrying cells and the whole body takes on new life... food is really turned into energy and strength... you can't help but feel and look better. S.S.S. Tonic restores deficient red-blood-cells... it also improves the appetite and digestion. It has been the nation's standby for over 100 years... and unless your case is exceptional it should help you, too. Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red cellophane-wrapped package. County Farm Agent's Notes

FARMERS SHOULD BUY FARMS, SAYS DUNCAN

Auburn, Ala.—Economic conditions are improving and land prices are rising, says Dr. L. N. Duncan, president, Alabama Polytechnic Institute and director of the State Extension Service, in advising farmers that now is a good time to buy farms.

Farmers with land, shelter, water, and firewood are assured of a comfortable place to live, regardless of the economic condition of the country, he said. He also described land-ownership as an old-age insurance, guaranteeing an income in later years.

In describing the farm as an ideal place to live and rear a family, Dr. Duncan says: "I believe that it will be only a few years before electricity, farm-to-market roads, and other conveniences will revolutionize the farm home and make it by far the most desirable place to live."

Dr. Duncan advocates improving the land by terracing and growing winter legumes and providing a comfortable home by repairing the old or building a new. He says that county agents, extension service and experiment station officials, Auburn, and the soil division of the Department of Agriculture, Montgomery, will gladly furnish information about farm lands and will give assistance and advice in repairing and building farm homes.

ALABAMA LEADS NATION TERRACING FARM LANDS

Auburn, Ala.—Eighty-six complete power terracing outfits are at present terracing farm lands in 50 Alagama counties in the greatest soil-conservation program ever conducted in the United States.

These outfits are terracing land for farmers at a low per-acre cost, usually ranging from $1.00 to $2.50 per acre, the exact amount depending upon the slope and condition of the land. It is conservatively estimated that the terracing increases the value of the land by at least $5.00 to $10.00 per acre, reports J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer.

Counties in which the terracing outfits are located are: Lauderdale, Limestone, Madison, Jackson, Lawrence, Morgan, Marshall, DeKalb, Franklin, Cherokee, Marion, Winston, Cullman, Etowah, Blount, Lamar, Fayette, Jefferson, Calhoun, Clebourne, Pickens, Tuscaloosa, Shelby, Talladega, Clay, Randolph, Greene, Hale, Chilton, Coosa, Tallapoosa, Chambers, Sumter, Perry, Elmore, Lee, Marengo, Dallas, Lowndes, Macon, Russell, Bullock, Butler, Pike, Barbour, Covington, Coffee, Dale, Henry, and Houston.

SOME HIGHLIGHTS IN 1936 FARM OUTLOOK

Auburn, Ala.—Some of the high lights in the 1936 agricultural outlook of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics follow:

Prices of farm machinery are likely to advance slightly in 1936, due to increases in the prices of materials, labor, and other costs.

The outlook is for somewhat lower fertilizer prices during the 1935-36 season.

The demand for electricity on farms will continue to increase if the plans of the rural electrification administration materialize.

Hog prices between now and next September are expected to average higher than in 1934-35, but will not be as high as the peak prices last summer.

Farm wage rates are expected to advance in 1936 in view of the greater demand for hired farm workers now in prospect.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many good friends who lent their aid and sympathy during our trying ordeal following the tragic death of our dear husband, son and brother, Lonza Ellison.

We especially wish to thank Mr. Harry McClure for his service in notifying the several members of the family, Mr. Charlie B. Cox and Mr. Reed Mullins for their management of the burial arrangements, and to Rev. Harry H. Caswell for his heartfelt management of the funeral ceremony. Also any others who aided in any way, we thank you most sincerely. "A friend in need is a friend indeed", and we most certainly appreciate these many friends for their help.—The Family.

Reader Sees Rights Of People Waning

COMMON PEOPLE IN ALABAMA DISREGARDED BY CHIEFS OF DEMOCRATIC PARTY

Editor Union-Banner:

The Democratic State Executive Committee meeting in Montgomery on November 14th, reached the conclusion that the idea of allowing the Democrats of Alabama the privilege of electing their delegates to the Democratic National Convention, belongs, along with State Rights, and free Democratic Institutions, to the horse and buggy era. The Committee on instructions from Tammany Jim Farley, decided that opposition in Alabama to the renomination of Roosevelt had become so pronounced, that it was time to adopt some of the tactics of the late Huey Long, and so they picked enough delegates six months in advance of the Democratic primary, to try to assure the renomination of Roosevelt. The Republicans have been saying for two years that the Roosevelt New Deal has been trying to Tammanynize the nation with its huge spending program, and, up until now, such talk was just considered more Republican propoganda, but since the Committee meeting the Democrats of Alabama are a little more familiar with Tammany operations.

It is quite amusing to see the two United States Senators, the Governor, and the chairman of the Democratic Committee, openly displaying fear of an anti-Roosevelt delegation going to the Convention, and being so fearful, hand picked the delegates six months in advance of the Democratic primary, instead of letting the people have a voice in the selection. With the farmers in revolt against the Bankhead Act; the industrialists revolting against the Guppy coal bill and other Socialistic Acts; and with the merchants might have been a wise move on the part of the Executive Committee to destroy the instrument by which these voters could express their disapproval of the Administration.

This was quite a strange step to take by the Democratic party, which has consistently advocated the right of the people to express themselves on all things, and that the people are never wrong. But this is an era of strange happenings on the part of the Democrats, and it might even be said that the "old donkey ain't what he used to be."

Perhaps the Executive Committee just realized that for once the people of Alabama might go wrong if given an opportunity to elect the delegation, and having heard some of the things the people have been saying about the Roosevelt Socialist Raw Deal, I am of the opinion that the people might not have done just what the Committee did, and might even have failed to send some of the Roosevelt "Yes Men" to the Convention.

This action by the Committee was more than an open portrayal of the fear felt by the Committee for the election of a Roosevelt delegation, it was notice to the Democrats of Alabama that Tammany tactics have entered into the plans to insure the renomination of Roosevelt. The call for a meeting of the State Committee did not include the plan to select these delegates, so the Democratic voters of Alabama had no knowledge of it until the announcement was made of what had been done. Not only was this hand picking of delegates to slap in the face of all Democratic voters of Alabama, but it was the beginning of the minority rule. These delegates were selected by a minority of the State Committee. The vote in the Committee to pick these delegates was 25 to 7, making a total of 32 members voting, and as there are 75 members on the Committee, it can readily be seen that not even a majority was present at the time this frightful step was taken.

It seems that Judge Leon McCord, Democratic National Committeeman, tried to calm the frightened Committee and get them to continue their trust in the Democratic electorate, but the rumblings of dissatisfied people are ringing in the ears of the Committee, and they figured this step would put a quietus on the anti-Roosevelt sentiment in Alabama.

If Jim Farley, Hugo Black, John Bankhead and other New Dealers are so scared of their own party members, then I suggest that they not have a National Convention, but let big Jim send out the word that Roosevelt's nomination in 1936 was included in the nomination of 1932.

This dictatorial action on the part of the Committee will surely be explained by the Montgomery Advertiser and Birmingham News so all good Democrats will, until then, swallow it as though they approved of such doings.—A Reader.

OLD TIME SINGING AT COOPER CALLED OFF

The old time singing will be held at some future date, announcement to be made later.

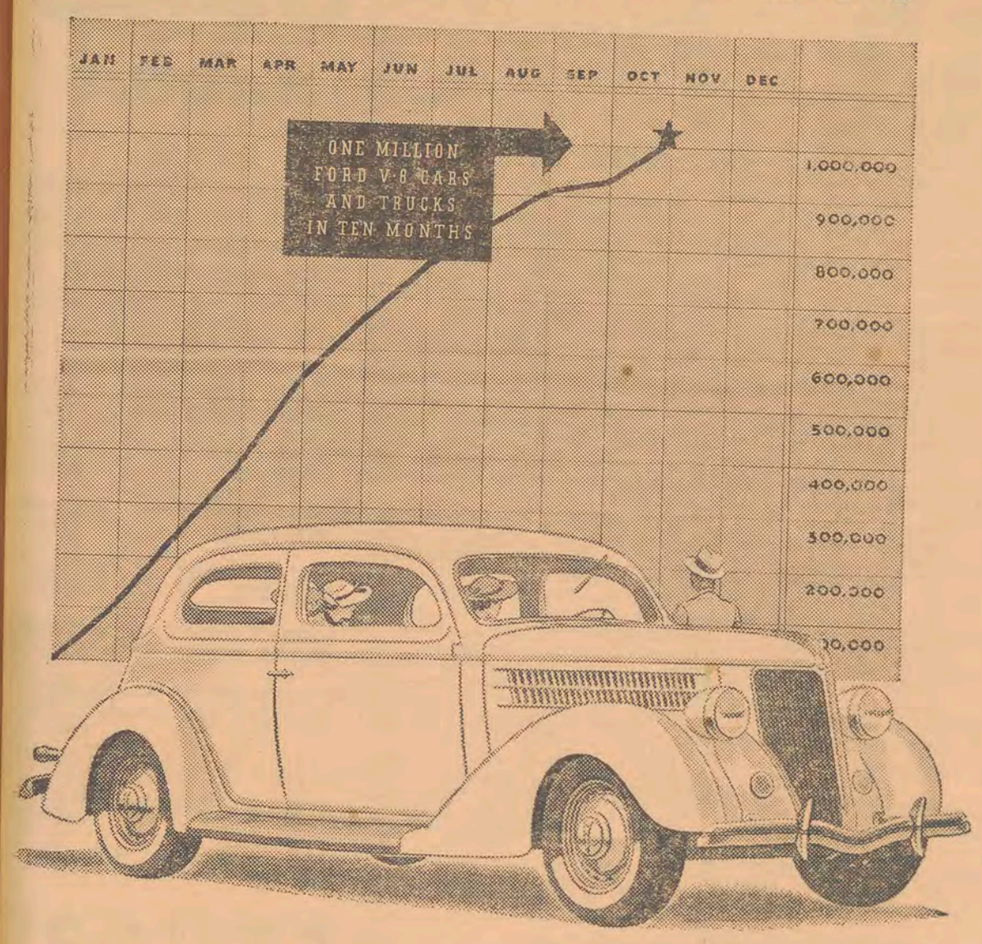
V·8 LEADERSHIP



ON OCTOBER 31 of last year, Henry Ford announced his intention to build a million Ford V-8s in 1935. We are pleased to report that this goal was reached in exactly ten months instead of a full year.

One million cars and trucks is an impressive total. But figures by themselves mean nothing. It is what they represent that counts. Selling a V-8 at a low price has brought a new kind of automobile within reach of the people. Producing it has provided steady work for hundreds of thousands of men in the Ford plants, in associated industries and on the farm.

These million Ford V-8 cars and trucks have helped to make things better all around. In the first ten months of 1935 the Ford Motor Company paid out, in the United States alone, $140,119,326.00 in wages and $523,111,389.00 for materials.

W. L. Sanders Asks For AAA Explaining

Editor Union-Banner:

Please permit me to say a few words through your columns to the farmers of Chilton County about the triple A.

I have never seen a time when the farmers should od any more serious thinking than just now. The question before us is of vital importance. It deals directly with the farmers and should be clearly understood before making a final decision. The question is simple and, when it is analyzed we find much involved. The question is this: Shall we sign up to co-operate with the AAA? The word co-operate is the word that makes the contract binding. Eliminate the word co-operate from the contract and see if you have the same obligation.

Let us rewrite the question, and define the word co-operate in this particular instance. Shall we sign up to be satisfied with our small allotments, be satisfied to pay half of our cotton for taxes, be satisfied for one farmer, with a large family to have an allotment of two bales of cotton and his neighbor with a small family to have an allotment of ten bales? Shall we be satisfied for Secretary Wallace to be the farmer's dictator, be satisfied with a program that will allow the county committeemen to reduce one man's allotment and raise another Shall we be satisfied with paying millions of dollars from the farmer's pockets to hire bosses, high and low, and on every corner to attend to the farmers business? Shall we be satisfied with any and everything, with the AAA?

Now, my farmer friends, for us to sign up to co-operate with the AAA means that we agree to do just what the AAA and its officials want us to do. I can't see why people are being asked to support such a program, when they have clearly demonstrated the fact that they do not want it.

Right here I want to ask the County Agent of this county a few questions, and hope that he will answer them through the public press. Now, Mr. County Agent, have you not been told that the AAA is working a hardship on most of the farmers of Chilton County? Can you not see that the program is filled with discrimination? Are you willing to back a program filled with discrimination? Are you supporting the AAA wholeheartedly? Do you think any change needs to be made in the AAA? If you thing some changes need to be made, why don't you ask the farmers not to sign up until all necessary changes are made? Do you think it fair to offer the farmer a parity check at the same time he is asked to sign up to co-operate with the AAA? Do you think it is fair to refuse the parity check to the farmers who refuse to sign up? Is the farmer's cotton who refuses to sign up worth less than the farmer's cotton who signs up? Does this not seem like outright bribery to you?

If the farmers who are not allowel to sell enough produce, tax free, to exist upon, should sign up, what plan of livelihood would you offer?

Now, Mr. County Agent, I am not asking you these questions because I have anything against you personally, but simply because your office is indirectly responsible to the people of Chilton County, and that they should know the policies of the office.

Next, I want to ask the farmer a few questions which he can decide for himself. If the AAA has brought you down to a subsistent level, are you willing to sign to continue? If you are faring well under the AAA, are you willing to sign up for a program that will bring to your neighbor starvation, nakedness and even drive many from their homes

Dear people, let us remember the judgment, what the Lord said He would say to many on that day, "I was a hunger and ye fed me not, I was naked and ye clothed me not, I was a stranger and ye took me not in; even as ye did it unto one of these little ones, even so ye did it unto me; depart from me ye workers of iniquity, for I never knew you."

My dear citizens, are we going to sign up to make our destruction sure? You remember that Judas betrayed Jesus for three pieces of silver, and brought destruction to himself. Are we going to act the traitor that Judas did? Are we going to be a traitor to our neighbor, who is in need for a few pieces of silver, or a parity check. My friends, let us not crucify our neighbor, but love him as curself.—Yours for the right, W. L. Sanders.

On Wednesday, November 27th, just about the time most of the people of Clanton are thinking of getting up, the long line of trucks of the Mighty Haag Shows will begin to arrive here, and start work pitching their vast city of tents on the high school base ball park, where they will give two complete performances.

The Haag show this year will bring to Clanton more wild animals, horses, ponies and trained dogs than ever before exhibited. This year the Haag shows are featuring such well known acts as the Tan Araki Japanese Troupe in a new act, Johnson Duo of wire walkers, Zeldo Troupe of head balancers, Fisher family of Acrabats and Haag's herd of performing elephants, largest and best trained in the country, presented by Miss Ruby Fisher, who takes her life in her hands twice daily when she places her head n the mouth of one of the elephants.

There will be a street parade at 1 p.m. followed by a number of free exhibitions on the show grounds. Performances start at 2 p.m. and at 8 p.m., but doors will open one hour earlier so as to give everyone an opportunity, and ample time to visit Haag's big new zoo and be entertained by Haag's Gold Concert Band.

Admission will be at popular prices, and the public is assured of a whole evening of splendid entertainment.

Our earthly father has passed to silence. May the memory of his life and work live forever in our minds and hearts.

Oh, mighty death, thou hast cast out of the world a body tortured with physical misery, a soul mellowed with time and toil—our loved one to whom we pay our tribute.

He was in sympathy with the poor and the weak. A friend of the oppressed, a helper of the needy. His integrity, blended with justice was far-reaching, to friend or foe. He prayed unselfishly for his fellow-man, worked untiringly until struck with physical burdens. He loved beauty in its form of the human side of life. It's colors of worthy deeds, its gestures of happiness and laughter, its humbleness in religious worship and its peace in harmonious music. He loved nature in its simplicity as well as its greatness. His wit and humor were among his chief diversions.

Now that he is gone, we may cry aloud but can hear only an echo as our answer. Let us accept our loss with tranquility and sing praises in our hearts for his freedom of gross suffering.

God grant that we may have a greater understanding and higher courage and may our trails of experience, to the foothills of the range, where the first link of our chain was broken, give us strength to break trail up the mountain of promise and light. Grant that we may have the inspiration to keep our faces always upward and our hearts aright with God, as was his desire from our early childhood.

To our dear sweet mother, let us give thanks for her valor in her most bewildered moment, for her courage when the footprints of time chose to sever her from her beloved companion. May she continue to strow fresh flowers over the nerraw path of life. May the stumbling blocks of heartaches be mellowed with time and transformed into stepping stones of beauty, serenity and valor. May the golden glow of a fireside be cheerful and sweet melodies of music restful to her. May the beauty of true friendships be a solace and God's book a comfort and joy. May her faith be her shield to quench temptation and may it impel her to humility and gratitude. May the angels guard her in in her sleeping hours and watch over her in her waking moments of domestic duties, with a song in her heart and God's love in her soul.

God grant her peace and enable her to let her light so shine that others may glorify Thee. Amen.—The Children of the Late D. O. Manning and Mrs. Emma C. Manning.

CENTER HILL NEWS

We are always glad to appear with our bit of news and really enjoy reading news from other places.

It Seems old man winter is really coming at last. People here are all busy trying to finish gathering and laying in a supply of wood.

We are sorry to say we still have some on the sick list around here. Miss Mildred Cobb is still in bed. Mrs. J. E. Cobb is not able to be out yet. We were proud to have Mable Cobb out with us last Sunday. Grandma Price is very ill. She was taken worse Sunday night. Her son, Mr. Pete Price, from Birmingham, is here with her.

This community was made sad Saturday afternoon on hearing of the death of little Berney Wayne Gillespie, the son of Mr. and Mrs. (Gwendolyn Cobb) Louis Gillespie. The body was brought to Center Hill for burial Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Bro. Kelly, great-granfather of the baby, and Bro. Maurice Hodgens conducted the funeral, with Martin in charge. Our deepest sympathy go out to the parents, also to the other relatives.

Bro. Durbin was with us Sunday and gave quite an inspirational talk on Sunday school work. While here Sunday, Bro. Durbin dined at the home of Mrs. J. W. Collum.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cobb and daughter, Peggy Sue, and Mr. Vester Rodgers took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Corey Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lesley spent Saturday night with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lesley. On Sunday they all went to Calera and spent the day with Mrs. J. C. Seay and son, Frank.

Miss Lelia George and Mrs. Paul Webb spent Monday afternoon with Mildred Cobb.

Fred Collum spent Saturday and Sunday with his aunt, Mrs. Osteen Lenoir, and cousin, Floyd Atkinson.

Everybody remember to come to Sunday school Sunday and prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

Mr. Burble Price has an attack of flu.

Mrs. B. L. Cobb is in Clanton with her daughter, Mrs. Lewis Gillespie.

We want to especially remind everybody next Sunday afternoon is our singing time. Be sure to come and bring your books and let's praise the Lord in song for two or three hours. Try to meet with us at 1:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Thrash were visiting relatives here Saturday night and Sunday.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

WITH Thanksgiving so close, Sunday dinner must take second place in the plans of the housewife. This week it is wise to buy staple and non-perishable foods. In order to know what will be needed, a menu with its market list should be made. Tell your butcher what size turkey you want so that it will be on hand for you next week.

Sunday's dinner will be attractive and good but not quite so special as usual. Chucks of beef and lamb and pork cuts other than from the loin are fairly economical. Eggs are cheaper but butter is higher. All root vegetables and most members of the cabbage family are cheap. So are string beans and spinach.

Here are two Sunday dinners and an average Thanksgiving feast.

Low Cost Dinner

Braised Lamb Shanks Boiled Rice
Glazed Carrots
Bread and Butter
Vanilla Pudding Preserves
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Roast Shoulder of Lamb Mint Jelly
Mashed Potatoes Spinach
Bread and Butter
Chocolate Cream Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Thanksgiving Dinner

Consommé or Grapefruit
Celery Olives
Roast Turkey
with Two Kinds of Stuffing
Giblet Gravy Cranberry Sauce
Cauliflower, Maitre d'hotel
Green Beans
Hearts of Lettuce Roquefort Dressing
Rolls and Butter
Pumpkin Pecan Ice Cream Wafers
Fruits and Nuts Coffee

Says Farmers Union Best For Agriculture

The final determination of every great cause finally lies in what the people, who are affected, do about it, and it is equally important how they do it. We are going through a crisis. What we are doing and how we do it and when we do it will pretty much determine the future of America.

It will determine what safeguards if any American citizens will enjoy with respect to liberty and freedom. Every farmer in America now must know that he is being singled out as one whose rightful liberties and ordinary freedom are to be curtailed, and if permitted, finally destroyed.

The first act in this direction as we know now, was promulgated under the Hoover administration by the Federal Farm Board and its army of federal payrollers. Special attention to the farmers, and even greater attention was given to the farm organizations. Especially the farmer's union, because of the fact that the farmer's union was the militant voice of agriculture demanding recognition of its principles refusing compromises, opposing dishonestey and hypocricy in dealing with the agricultural problems.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act and its administration is attempting to carry out the same essential program of restricting, curtailing, and, in fact, annuling the bill of rights of our Federal Constitution in their dealings with the farmers of America. But it even goes further. It seeks definitely to limit and restrict the agricultural income to a subsistence level.

The American farmer, wherever he may be(who is courageous and sincere enough to become organized with his neighbor, understands these things.

Now resident Roosevelt declares that he is determined to make permanent the vast bureaucracy of destruction, bribery, corruption and debauchery known as the AAA. He declares that the AAA will serve American farmers for years to come. There are signs that the President may be wrong in his predictions.

First: the sign of the Supreme Court's decision that such a course is unconstitutional and un-American.

Second: the sign that mass armies of consumers will be recruited to batter down the flimsy structures which have been holding up a few items of farm products during the period of security.

Third: the sign that a political whirlwind is about to strike this nation which will react upon agriculture with a force of power all the more vicious because of what bureaucracy has presented to do in behalf of American agriculture.

The hour was struck for some sound thinking by farmers who realize this perilous situation. Nothing can avert disaster but organized cooperation directed and controlled by the farmers themselves. In this hour of national danger the farmers union calls on every independent farmer to join the ranks of the only real farmer's organization left to function on a national scale by the destructive forces of debauchery and bureaucracy. No honest farmer endorsed the rotten principles of destroying his own production of human food. Yet every farmer demands as a minimum of his economic right that prices of farm products shall not be less than the cost of production.

On the one side stands bankruptcy and on the other stands debauchery so long as the AAA is permitted to live.

The farmers union offers the only possible means of avoiding these equally revolting and destructive courses of action, cost of production for the farmer for all of his products sold in the American consumptive market. Join with us in this fight. Join now and win.—B. S. Frederick, Secretary-Treasurer, Chilton County F. E. and C. U. of A.

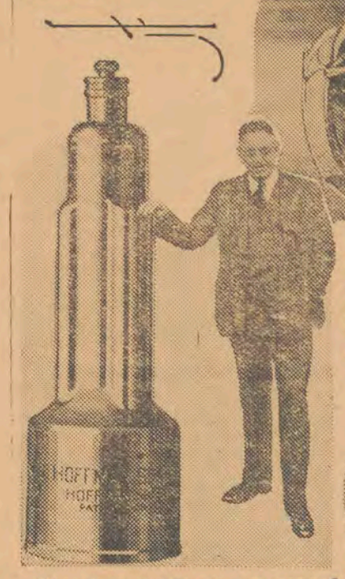
A SERIOUS GAME OF MAKE-BELIEVE—Little Rita Sandall, aged three, makes a charming "bride." Her "groom" is Julia Warren, aged six, and for a little girl makes a perfect gentleman.

Gone are household troubles caused by frayed wires, broken plugs, short circuits and other wire defects that force electric appliances into idleness. Famed songstress, Countess Olga Albani, has equipped her home with the new approved electrical cords soldered to soft rubber plugsmade by Belden. Engineers call the wire troubles "corditis."



Here is a model of a MODEL valve. This huge replica of the new type Hoffman radiator valve is built on a scale to vent a gigantic house, the size of the Empire State building. Like its comparatively tiny brother its port may be adjusted to various sizes in order to balance any particular heating system.

ROLLED OVER AT SIXTY MILES AN HOUR—The camera clicked at a critical moment as "Lucky" Teter, daredevil driver, subjected the 1936 Plymouth to a final series of hair-raising tests in Detroit. This first photo of the new Plymouth shows all four wheels off the ground as Teter rolls the car over and over. Teter drove the car away, undamaged, upon completion of the roll. A new type girder steel frame and safety-steel body enable the car to withstand such punishment.

If we get the drift of General Johnson's latest supplementary remarks about President Roosevelt, the general considers the President amiable and well meaning but weak, ineffective and guilliable. He thinks the whole New Deal is a washout, in other words, an abject failure.

On the strength of this recommendation, Johnson asks the people to vote for the re-election of Mr. Roosevelt.—The Detroit Free Press.

One of the reasons President Roosevelt crossed the continent was to find out what the people think about his administration. It would be interesting to know just how much the President, traveling in his private car containing five bedrooms, dining room and observation platform, equipped with radio and finished in mahogany, learned from the people. That is rather sound-proof isolation as far as getting "the feel of the country."—Sioux Falls Argus-Leader.

LIBERTY'S GUARANTEE

The people of this country should each day offer thanks to the framers of our Constitution, the document which guarantees freedom of speech and freedom of the press. This is the greatest protection a free people have against the crushing hand of officialism, bureaucracy, dictatorship and destruction of personal and property rights, and life itself, as we have seen occur in foreign lands not blessed with a constitution such as ours.

As one man, our people should resent any program to tamper with or weaken the basic principles of the United States Constitution.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Although the returns from the scattering November elections are not complete enough as this is being written, to give a comprehensive analysis of the result, a few things stand out as a result of the preliminary study of the voting. In nearly every election held, local issues entered into the campaign. Yet the Republican successes were so general, with the exception of Kentucky, that the results spell encouragement for the wheelhorses of the G. O. P. in the coming presidential campaign. In New York, the Republicans captured the general assembly by a safe majority taking control away from the Democrats. It is true that Democratic chieftains claim a "moral victory" in the fact that they cast some 350,000 more votes for assemblyman, on a state-wide basis than did the Republicans. But this does not dispute the fact that the Republicans captured the assembly, and it is difficult to figure this out in any other way than a Republican victory. The heavy Democratic assembly majorities were rolled up in Greater New York where in many districts the Republicans put up little opposition. The G. O. P. strategists centered their attention on the up-state districts, and their strategy proved to be sound. The result received another unfortunate tinge, from the Democratic angle, owing to the fact that Democratic leaders in New York, a few days before the elections, appealed to the voters to elect a Democratic assembly in order to stand by the New Deal. The Republican victory, therefore, gave official color to the charge that it was a New Deal defeat. The New Deal appeal would have proved sound had the New Dealers won, but when they lost, the strategy turned out to have been especially bad.

Next to New York, national attention was centered principally on Pennsylvania. The Democrats thought they had a chance to elect a mayor in Philadelphia for the first time in sixty years. The Republicans were badly split, yet carried the city with around 50,000 plurality. This is less than usual, but it is to be remembered that the Republicans elected a solid bloc in the city council and that there only state-wide candidate won handsomely. The Republican victory is especially important because it seems to defeat New Deal aspirations of carrying Pennsylvania in 1936. In Massachusetts the Republicans made a good showing by carrying such important cities as Worcester and Springfield and electing twelve mayors. They were generally successful also in local elections in Ohio. Most significant of all, perhhaps, is the report that a big majority of the proposed bond issues in Ohio were defeated. These bonds were to be used to supplement public works for relief, and the vote seems to indicate that this section of New Deal activity is not as popular as it once was. Republican New Jersey registered Republican gains.

It was only in Kentucky where, according to early returns, the Democrats seem to have won a real victory. This however, like the Republican victory in Pennsylvania, was to have been expected. It is true that the Kentucky Democrats were split as were the Philadelphia Republicans. But it is always to be remembered that nowhere in America is the partisian spirit more effective than in Kentucky. The Democrats and Republicans there can split easily during a campaign but the splits are generally healed on election day. A Democratic defeat in Kentucky would have been disastrous as would have been a Republican defeat in the Keystone State. But neither happened.

A calm estimate of the figures at this time inicates that the Republican have ample reason to be encouraged by the election results this year. But they by no means have easy sailing. If they are to have a fair chance to win next year they must put forth their strongest candidate, whoever that may be, to oppose Roosevelt, and work continuously and effectively from now on until November, 1936.

CONSTITUTION THANKSGIVING

Now that we are again opproaching the latter part of November and getting ready to render thanks to the Almighty for the blessings conferred upon us it is interesting to note that no less a personage than our first President issued a proclamation back in 1789, asking the people to render thanks for the American Constitution. In an interesting article in the November National Republic calling attention to this fact, Mr. J. E. O'Sullivan says in part:

"The people of the United States are approaching another Thanksgiving Day. The holiday of thankfulness seems to us a purely American institution. The observance of the event began with the Puritans. They set aside a day to render thanks to the Almighty because he had permitted them to found new homes in the wilderness, to protect themselves from the savages and to raise enough food to supply themselves and the members of their families. These Puritans were rugged individualists. They came to America to secure freedom of religious worship from an autocratic government which sought to deprive them of this blessing. They did not set out in government ships with tools and other provisions provided by government bounty. They came equipped only with the meager accoutrements which a niggardly civilization had provided for them. They came not with government aid but to escape government regulation of what they regarded as their inalienable rights as free born citizens.

"The colonies fringed along the Atlantic grew and prospered, as prosperity was measured in those lean days. Then same the demand for more liberty from an autocratic government, then for a free nation dedicated to the rights of man. But even in the stirring days of the Revolutionary war with its sacrifices and its suffering, Thanksgiving was not forgotten. Frequently during the long struggle the Continental congress set aside special days of Thanksgiving, to commemorate American feats of arms and to seek the blessings and guidance of the Ruler of all mankind.

"Peace was followed by discord, even by the danger of confederate dissolution. But this experiment in a new continent was not so ended. A congress of American patriots assembled in Philadelphia and there came forth after a summer of debate an American Constitution, providing for the establishment of a new kind of government, a republic in a democracy, in which the rights of the individual were to be preserved without sacrificing the essential powers of nationalism.

"Although some of the forward lookers of today take pleasure in telling us that the patriot fathers expressed some doubts as to the future of Constitutional government, it is good to know that even in the days of its adoption the Constitution was regarded as a political savior of the new nation. Its adoption was looked upon by the First Congress of the United States as a feat worthy of national Thanksgiving. Accordingly Congress appointed a committee whose duty and pleasure it was to wait upon President Washington to request that he recommend to the people of the United States a day of public Thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by acknowledging, with grateful hearts, the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity to establish a Constitution of government for their safety and happiness.

"It is a far cry from 1789 to 1935, as individuals come and go. And yet in the life of the average nation it is a brief temporal span indeed. In this space of a century and half the United States of America has grown from an experimental backwoods country to potentially the richest and most powerful nation in the world. For this fact let us render due thanks, with a reverent determination to do our part that American Constitutional freedom which made these things possible, shall not fall before any Orientally conceived despotism cloaking its deadly intent with a mantle of hypocritical chant of world-wide brotherly love. Eternal vigilance is still the price of liberty and the enemy who bores from within is all the more deadly because of his cunning tactics."

WHAT WE NEED

Says the Syracuse Post-Standard:

"The Gofernment will not put men back to work.

"Industry and business will not put men back to work.

"The taxpayer is the one who will, finally, overcome unemployment.

"The taxpayer is the man who buys goods. He has an income, as his taxpaying shows. When he spends more money for goods, he will put more men to work.

"All of this public spending of money has not returned men to jobs. As many men are out of work today as there were without employment a year ago or two years ago. It shows that taking money from taxpayers does not pay. Substitute private for public spending.

"The fact that men are not going back to work as rapidly as they should is evidence enough that something is radically wrong. Why not recognize the truth and set off on a new and better course? Practice thrift and more thrift in government, give the taxpayer a little relief and he will begin to buy more goods. And more buying will solve the problem."

More and more it comes to be realized that the taxpayer of the United Staes is the real forgotten man. Money is being spent on every hand to "prime the pump" and yet the pump refused to be primed if we are to be guided in our judgment by the number of the unemployed and the number of persons who are on relief.

The fact is, as the Post-Standard has pointed out, that it is up to private industry to restore the counry to normal, and this can only be done if the taxpayer has enough money to purchase the produce of private business. Public construction may be necessary for a time as a stop-gap, but even at best it is an unsatisfactory remedy. Sooner or later, as is recognized by all economists, it is up to private industry to carry the burden of business revival. The more public money is spent to try to create employment, the more burden there is for the taxpayers to shoulder, and it is, afer all, the consumer who must restore normalcy in this country.

But the effects of tremendous federal spending and unbalanced budgets cannot be counted entirely in dollars. We have been told time and again that what this country needs is restoration of confidence and that until our so-called heavy industries really pick up there can be no permanent improvement in the country at large. Until we do get confidence there will be no prosperity. Curtailment of expenditure and balanced budgets are necessary. When these are effected there is a chance for tax reduction and business can go ahead with some confidence. Unfortunately the goal does not seem to be immediately in sight.

In the excitement of starting a war, Mussolini probably gives not a thought to the fact that his country still owes us a war debt of $2,000,000,000.—Brattleboro Reformer.

MAN IN THE MOON

A NEW LAW

Pardon me, please, while I take one good hearty laugh. Some of the members of that august body of lawmakers which is the "boast?" of Alabama have studied up some very crazy ideas and pulled some pretty dumb stunts in the past, but one is coming shortly which will top all put forth so far.

It remained for one Mr. Cater of Montgomery county to study up this one. He will propose at the next meeting of the Alabama legislature that a law be passed requiring every voter in Alabama to re-register, and furthermore, to register every four years. On top of all that, he will propose that this law require every voter to state his party affiliation at the time he registers. If you are a Democrat, you must so state at the time you register, and your name will be placed on the roster of Democrats. Likewise if you are a Republican, you will be on that list. If you are a split voter—well, I suppost they would just put you down on a log somewhere until they found a place for you.

Mr. Cater expects, by this plan, to keep Republicans out of Democratic primaries, so he says. We wonder if he knows how much this plan would suit the Republicans of Chilton County. Democrats coming into our Republican primaries have been spiders in our coffee for years and years, and nothing could suit us better than to see this law passed and enforced, especially that part concerning voting in primaries other than those of one's own party. That business of registering every year will be a little trouble, but it will be well worth this trouble if it will stop the Democrats from voting people who have been dead for years, like they did last year in our county.

We really hope Mr. Cater gets his idea over, although it is a crazy one. We are just a little afraid, though, that someone will drop a bug in his ear and stop the plan, as was done in the case of the absentee voters law. You will remember they were going to do away with that, but the news got around that the law was a great help to the Democratic cause in Republican counties, like the case of Chilton County in 1934, and the new plan was dropped like a hot coal. We welcome any change in Alabama's rotten election system. It couldn't be worse.

THAT EXTRA TWO CENTS

A few weeks ago, when the cotton price peg was set at 10 cents, farmers were promised an additional two cents, to bring the price of cotton to 12 cents per pound. That is, they were promised the difference between the price they received on the spot market and 12 cents. When the matter was explained in full, it was found that the farmers would not receive the difference between what they were actually paid and 12 cents, but would receive the difference between the average price of the 10 big spot markets and 12 cents, according to the average price o nthese markets on the particular day on which their cotton was sold. It was found, too, that this average was generally from 25 to 50 points above the price actually paid for cotton on any given day at this point.

For instance, suppose a farmer sold a bale for 10.25 cents per pound, and the average of the 10 spot markets on that day was 10.50. That farmer would not receive the difference between 10.25 cents and 12 cents, but would receive the difference between 10.50 and 12 cents, although he sold for 10.25. That was the first joker to be uncovered in the intricate plan.

But the second was not long in showing up. When farmers began to inquire when they would get this extra margin, they were told that they would not receive anything unless they signed up for next year. In other words, that extra two cents per pound is a club held over the farmer's head to try to force him to cooperate in a plan which affects him vitally, yet which, according to all evidence, he does not like.

Now, the officials of the AAA contend that the cotton plan is the best for the farmers, and they will tell you, too, that the majority of farmers are in favor of it, although you can't get many farmers to tell they are. There is just one little question I would like to have answered by someone in charge of the cotton business or who is in favor of it. If it is such a good thing for the farmers to sign up to, and if the farmers are so overwhelmingly in favor of it, then why is the two-cent club held up to force farmers to sign for another year? What connection is there between this year's crop and that of next year? Will someone connected with the cotton business or in favor of the present plan answer these two questions? We're waiting for the answer.

BANKHEAD'S NEW PLAN

Have you read Sen. John Bankhead's proposed new cotton plan to help farmers? If you haven't, then you have a big laugh coming. Boy, oh boy, if that isn't a masterpiece fit to wonder at and ponder over, then I'd like for some bright boy to poke one out to us.

Here it is, and if there is one single, solitary person, no matter who he may be, farmer, merchant or what-not in Chilton County who can see how it is better than the present so-called cotton plan, (which is bad enough in itself), then we would like to have that gentleman stroll by our sanctum and let his identity be known. We confess, we fail to find the solution to the farmer's problem in it.

Mr. Bankhead proposes to let farmer's pick any one of four plans. (1) To use the present 5-year base period, embracing the years 1928, 1929, 1930, 1831, and 1932. (2) Begin with 1929 and run for five years, as a base period. (3) Begin with 1930 and run for five years. (4) Begin with 1931 and run for five years.

Now isn't that a bright idea. Any nit-wit from the president on down knows that the trouble with the present plan is the allotments are too low in the majority of cases, and by the use of this plan these allotments would be lessened, because every year has seen a lessening of the allotments allowed and raised, and naturally any base period beginning since 1928 would show a smaller total production figure from which to work.

That just goes to show you how much Mr. Bankhead knows about the farmer's troubles. Mr. Bankhead is a lawyer and a politician—not a farmer. He knows just as much about how to propose for farmers as a farmer would about making laws—in fact, I don't know if some of our good sensible farmers couldn't make a better job of law-making than Mr. Bankhead has done.

Study those plans over, Mr. Farmer, and see if you see any solution to your cotton troubles in them. They don't look so hot to us, and we believe we know a barefoot boy who lives down in the fork of two creeks and never went to school a day in his life who could think up some plan fully as good as these.

WHO PAYS THE TAXES

Suppose someone should ask this question: "Who pays the taxes"? About 99 out of 100 would answer: "We all pay taxes". But do we? Let's pick an item, start in at the top, run the line of taxes for that item, and see who really pays them.

A New York banker pays $1,000 taxes. He lends money to a coal mining company and gets the money to pay his taxes. The mining company sells its coal to a railroad company, and tacks on the taxes it pays to its cost of production, collecting all from the railroad. The railroad company adds those taxes to its charge for hauling freight, as part of its operating cost. The merchant who has freight hauled pays those taxes in paying his freight charges. When that merchant sells the goods he has paid freight on, he adds the taxes, of course. Each one adds the taxes to his product or charge for services, until in the end, when the farmer buys his needs, he too pays the taxes which started back up there in the New York banker's office.

But right there the tax cycle stops. There is nothing the farmer can add the tax to. He is told what he can get for his products—he never makes a price on them himself. And you can bet your sweet life the taxes are not included in that price he receives. So, after all is said and done, poor old Mr. Farmer is the only taxpayer. Where else CAN it come from, when everyone adds his taxes to the price of his product except the farmer. Bankers, manufacturers, merchants, professional people, all figure their taxes in on the price of their goods or service, and these taxes are passed from one to another. When they get down to the farmer there is no one for him to pass them on to. HE HAS THEM TO PAY! Isn't that the truth?

If you know of someone who doesn't believe this, ask him to come around and explain his idea. If there is some way whereby farmers will be able to get out of paying the nation's tax bill I would like to hear about it, so that I might pass the good word on. I know lots of farmers who would like to find this plan, and I would certainly like to be the one to break the good news to them. —Man in the Moon.

ANOTHER BUBBLE BURSTS

Did you ever see popular ranting of pseudo-economists receive sterner, more crushing rebuke than comes to them today in the news sent from China? Two years ago, monetary quacks filled the American air with great promises of blessings sure to be had from an increase in the world price of silver. They wept aloud over the cruel wrongs done to China and other silver-using nations by the wanton refusal of the United States government to help raise the price of their white metal. How could we expect the Orient to prosper and buy American goods, they asked, unless we helped them to gain from their silver stocks a proper exchange value?

On Dec. 21, 1933, President Roosevelt put the stamp of his administration's approval on this glowing theory. Ordaining a domestic price of 64 cents for newmined American silver, at a time when the world price was only 42 cents, he inaugurated the silver purchase policy which Congress, spurred on by Sneator Thomas, had ratified at the previous session. The President acted, he said in a formal proclamation, because "from investigations made by me, I find it necessary, in aid of the stabilization of domestic prices . . . and to protect our foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, that the price of silver be enhanced and stabilized."

Today, we know the results of this supposedly beneficient policy. China has been driven—just as Mexico was driven many months ago—to suspend her silver standard altogether, and adopt a paper currency basis. The finance minister, H. H. Kung, tells the exact truth of record when he says that "With the rapid rise in the world price of silver, China's currency became seriously overvalued. There have been severe internal deflations, growing unemployment, wide-spread bankruptcies, a flight of capital abroad, a fall in Government revenues and an adverse balance of payments." And has all this needless desolation in China been accompanied by any good to the United States? Not a particle. On the contrary, the exports of American good to China have declined very sharply.

These events are closely in accord with the predictions made by thoroughgoing economists both of the Brookings Institution, for example, and of the United States Department of Commerce itself. Meanwhile, they are exact reverse of the prophecies and cocksure rantings of inflationists and other monetary tinkerers. The tragedy for China—and it is not less than that—may serve some purpose if only the American people will take heed of the actual outcome, and grow more wary of the lures and pretended omniscience of pseudo-economists.—Boston Transcript.

RADIO ADVERTISING

A special committee of the House of Commons has reported against a proposal that the British Broadcasting Commission should now go in for radio advertising as a means of additional revenue. The recommendation seems to be entirely gratuitous, in view of the well known and firm policy which the B. B. C. has pursued in this connection from the outset of its operations. As one pithy commentator puts it, this is rather like the urging that the use of the red flag in front of motor cars should be discontinued thirty years after it had died out.

The Daily Mail has this to say:

"Radio advertising is obsolete. Stations which make use of it are declining. They depend on gramaphone records for much of their programs, and not even on new gramaphone records. Buy a few sixpenny and shilling records and you can have much of the program of these commercial advertising stations all day long in your own home. Very few advertising stations are left on the continent. The radio ad has practically disappeared in Germany and all the states services have given it up in France."

The inference to be drawn is obvious.—Montreal Star.

PLENTY OF SEATS

According to the Montral Star "up in Caledonia, Ontario, without a cent of expenditure by the promoters for bleachers or ballyhoo, thirty thousand people turned out and stood around for the best part of a day; stood, be it noted, taking their chances of fallen arches and lumbago while 172 entrants held a plowing match"!

Shucks, that's nothin'. What do the Cancks know about plowing anyhow? Henry Wallace could beat all of 'em with one hand tied behind his back. Dodn't he plow under nearly one-third of the crops in the whole United States? Of course, it did cost us something to see him do it, but most everybody could sit down—and did.

ACCORDING TO PLAN

President Roosevelt is quoted by press dispatches as stating recently at Charleston, South Carolina, "We are coming back more soundly than ever before because we planned that way. Don't let anybody tell you differently."

All of which would seem to imply a definite change of theory during the past few months. As we remember it, things in the industrial and commercial world weren't so hot when planned economy as typified by the NRA was in the saddle. Then all at once the Supreme Court rendered its very important decision and the Blue Eagle felw out the window.

If we remember our news dispatches correctly there was much wailing and gnashing of teeth among the New Dealers at that time. It was intimated in some frenzied quarters that all was lost and that we were headed for the "bow wows." There was even some talk from high sources to the effect that the Supreme Court had relegated us to the "horse and buggy age" and that the Supreme Court had sadly disarranged the New Deal scenery.

Strangely enough business began to pick up the next day after he NRA was nullified and it has apparently been getting better ever since. How much is due to natural causes and how much to government pumping of taxpayer money into business remain to be seen. But things didn't "go to pot" as the New Dealers predicted.

Now we are glad to know that things are getting better because the administration planned them that way. Perhaps it even planned the Supreme Court NRA decision to clear the path for the reconstruction that followed, who knows? Wonder if that was part of the plan, anyhow?

Of course with the national deficit growing three billions a year and the national debt more than thirty billions for the first time in history, the statement that "we are coming back more soundly than ever before" is at least open to argument. But anyhow we are reassured that everything was planned in advance just as it is now happening.

COAL GOING UP

The bituminous coal industry is now under the little NRA, or what might be called the Blue Canary. The Guffey Coal Act took effect November 1, and one chief effect so far as the consumer of coal is concerned, will be a rise in the price per ton to the fellow who has to fill his bin.

It is estimated that the price to consumers will be increased from 20 cents to $1 per ton, partially due to the cost of administering the act. In order to prevent coal from getting to the consumer too cheaply the act provides that the coal commission has the power to set minimum prices to prevent unfair competition and sales below cost. This provision certainly has the old NRA ring to it.

Two commodities which do not seem to have been greatly increased yet in price to the poor consumer are potatoes and bituminous coal. We now have federal regimentation of both, and perhaps later on they will be delivering coal and potato products to us in cellophane. Who knows?

The first real effect of the administration's silvery policy is now in evidence. China has gone off the silver standard.

It is said that the favorite game of the hitch hikers is "Simple Simon Says Thumbs Up."

A writer on our insular affairs reminds us that the Philipine Islands cost Uncle Sam twenty million dollars. Well, that's nothing. It costs the government nearly that much to keep the grass cut and the trees trimmed in Central Park.

Europe has displaced the United States as Brazil's best customer. And what do you think caused it? They are buying Brazilian cotton. Here is one for Henry Wallace's note book.

Another reason why the League of Nations hesitates to strafe a predatory member is that, at one time or another, all of its principal members have been predatory.—Detroit Free Press.

We see where some New Dealers are supposed to give a fifteen dollar a plate banquet up in New England. Must be going to serve everybody with a couple of pork chops apiece.

It is said that the earthquake in Washington, D. C., recently was caused by the vibration of the adding machines of the government clerks who were busy figuring out the latest peak of the national debt.

It is said that in the anti-noise campaign in New York the city administration is going to compel the Federal workers in Central Park to shoot crap with rubber dice.

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this — and see that you get what you want.

Judge McCord Opposed Hand-Picking Delegates

To the Democrats of Alabama:

The State Democratic Executive Committee met in Montgomery on November 13th, and without giving notice to its members of an intention so to do, passed the following resolutions:

"Be it further resolved that this committee do now elect as delegates at large from the state of Alabama to the Democratic National Convention to be held in the year of 1936, our governor, Bibb Graves and our two United States Senators, Hugo L. Black and John H. Bankhead, and our state chairman, John D. McQueen; and Governor Graves is authorized by this committee to act as chairman of the Alabama delegation.

"Be it resolved further that four delegates from each congressional district, with one-half vote each, be elected in the 1936 primary election; and that each delegate elected appoint an alternate delegate."

I went before the committee and earnestly protested against this procedure.

The Democrats of Alabama should have the right, if they so desire, to instruct every delegate and alternate delegate who goes to our National Democratic Convention as to how they shall vote and for whom they shall vote.

Our State Committee is composed of 72 members. Only 31 members voted for the resolution, 34 being present. The call of the committee nowhere disclosed that such a resolution was to be taken up by the committee, and only 18 counties of the 67 were represented by the vote taken.

I therefore invite Governor Graves, Senators Hugo L. Black and John H. Bankhead and Chairman John D. McQueen to join with me in requesting the Democratic Executive Committee of Alabama to rescind its action and permit the Democrats of Alabama to name at the polls next year each and every delegate and alternate delegate to the next Democratic National Convention.—Very sincerely yours, Leon McCord, Democratic National Committeeman for Alabama.

TALMADGE COTTON TAX SUIT ALLOWED BY SUPREME COURT

Original Case Makes Certain New Deal Test

Washington, Nov. 18.—A fresh attack on constitutionality of a New Deal act became certain Monday when the Supreme Court gave permission to Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia, a Roosevelt critic, to file an original suit challenging the Bankhead Cotton Act.

In a brief session, at which only one case was formally decided, the court also granted a government motion that arguments be heard December 19 on validity of the Tennessee Valley Act. That made it probable that at least three New Deal cases would be finally decided in January.

The government was allowed additional time to answer a request by Louisiana freight millers to enjoin collection of AAA processing taxes on rice.

The Talmadge request won out despite protest of government attorneys. Stanley Reed, the solicitor general, had contended there was no basis for the high court taking original jurisdiction before lower tribunals had passed on the controversy.

Talmadge has been a frequent critic of the administration.

This was the first request received by the high tribunal from a state seeking to start original action in the Supreme Court against New Deal legislation. Usually cases are started in lower courts and brought here on appeal.

ARKANSAS REPUBLICAN CRITICIZES NEW DEAL

Little Rock, Arkansas, Nov. 18.—Appearing before a predominantly Democratic gathering which attended a private dinner given by the Little Rock Young Business Men's Association, Osro Cobb, Republican State Committee chairman, tonight described the New Deal as a program of socialism and communism and asked his hearers for an examination of conscience before voting in the 1936 election.

Cobb responded to an invitation to present Republican views of national affairs by going before the meeting with a caustic indictment of Roosevelt policies.

"The hypnotism of the New Deal is fast fading," he said. "It is ominously significant that the program of the Democratic party under whose guise it masquirades. It is the program of the socialists and communists and it is small wonder that leading socialists and communists have been loud in their praise of the New Deal."

VERMONT HOME MAKERS AND FARMERS MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

The regular weekly meeting of the Vermont home makers and farmers is scheduled to begin at 7:00 o'clock on Friday night of this week. We don't know just what Miss Heflin has in store for us ladies, neither can we imagine just what Mr. Smith's subject will be, but we can rest assured that it will be something worthwhile. I am sure we will be greatly benefitted in putting forth a little effort to attend. Let's meet with these gifted speakers from time to time. Each subject is very interesting, we all have a good time, and can all be of help to each other. Bring your problems before the meeting and see if someone can't help you to solve them. If you have not already attended, you have missed something already, so come and see for yourself. Let's show them that Vermont community is always ready to do its part.

MT. SPRINGS NEWS

Rev. Lawrence L. Stanley filled his regular appointment here last Sunday at 2:30 and 7 o'clock. We had Sunday school in the morning at the usual hour. Several of the families brought lunch and all stayed at the church and ate dinner and visited until Mr. Stanley arrvied. He also brought Mrs. Goddard of Thorsby, with him. We enjoyed a very pleasant visit with these two between the services. We hope that since Mr. Stanley is our pastor there will be more cooperation between these two sister churches, so we invite the Thorsby people to visit our church.

The group that went to Headland reported a very interesting and inspiring conference. This group was composed of Mr. Johnnie Plier, Mrs. Carrie Rutherford, Mrs. R. A. Teel, Mrs. George Kilgore and Miss Ruth Teel. They visited Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Nelson in their new home and enjoyed it very much.

The Ladies Aid is to have a spend the day quilting at the home of Mrs. Jess Rutherford on Friday of this week. We hope all members will be present.

We were glad to see Mrs. E. C. Williamson out Sunday and hope she continues to improve.

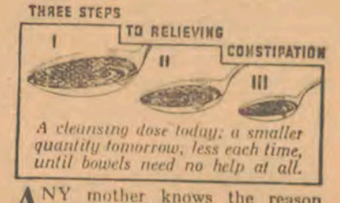
We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Paul Williamson with us again. Also Mrs. Hermie Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Golson of Montgomery.

Remember our Sunday school at 10 and C. E. at 6 o'clock.

We especially invite everyone to come on the next third Sunday at 2:30 and 7 to hear Rev. Stanley.

NO UPSETS

The proper treatment for a bilious child



A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow, less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

ANY mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage. Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

The ordinary laxatives, of even ordinary strength, destroy all hopes of restoring regularity.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use a liquid laxative. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative they generally use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist has it.

Winners In Better Homes Contest At Mitchell Dam

MR. AND MRS. A. L. (STEVE) STANLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley were second prize winners. Steve, another class A man, and when something goes wrong electrically, they call him, and he's there pronto! Basketball players note: Steve plays forward on the Mitchell Dam team.

Center are Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Ellison and their "boss," Miss Jetta Fay, first prize winners in the Better Homes Contest at Mitchell Dam. Perry is class A mechanic at Mitchell, and what he can't do with a piece of metal just can't be done. When he's not on the job he's either building a garage or something around the house—sometimes a hooh-house (dog house to the uninitiated.) Perry's a bird hunter and of course must have a good dog to "tree" them.

MR. AND MRS. PERRY ELLISON and JETTA FAY

MR. AND MRS. F. O. ROBINSON and SON

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. and Billie Robinson were the third prize winners. "Bozo" as F. O. is known to his intimates, is class B Turbine Operator when he's on the job, and a farmer (whether class A or Z is not stated), when he catches up on work around the house. It is understood that Mrs. Robinson was responsible for winning the prize, but being big-hearted permitted Bozo to get in the picture with her. Billie seems to be saying, "Well, where is that bird that was going to come out of the camera?"

Beware The Cough

From a common cold

That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

A CORRECTION

Editor Union-Banner:

I would like to make a correction upon the paragraph in the Center Hill news, of last week's issue, concerning the removal of Mr. James Gentry from the hospital by his sister, Mrs. Bob Troulias. It is true that James Gentry was brought home from the hospital, where he stayed until Sunday. He came to Birmingham Sunday with his aunt, not his sister by any means. Neither was he brought to Birmingham for any kind of treatments.

We want the public and the hospital attendants to feel that we think James had all the treatments necessary before he left the Clanton hospital. Again we thank Dr. Gragg and all the nurses for their attentative service.—J. E. Gentry and family and Mrs. Bob Troulias.

Miss Leora Mims spent the past week in Birmingham as the guest of Miss Margaret Stipes. Miss Stipes returned home with her for the week end.

Junior Music Club Holds Convention

Clanton has held many conventions lately, but perhaps the most interesting was that of the Junior Music Convention of the Fourth District of the Alabama Federation of Music Clubs held at the Methodist church in Clanton Saturday, with the Junior Music club as host. The meeting was presided over by the district president, Annette Lee of Montgomery, a charming member of the Student Music club of Montgomery. She was assisted by Mrs. Zeigler of Tuskeegee, district counselor.

The session opened at 10 o'clock with prayer by Mrs. Zeigler, followed by the Junior song and Junior pledge. A most important welcoming address was given by Miss Mary Courtney Jones, president of the Junior Music Appreciation Club of Clanton. In behalf of the club, Hon. C. Fenn Jones, Mayor, welcomed the guests in behalf of Clanton and turned over the keys of the city. The response was graciously given by Mr. Roderick Wolfe, a member of the Students Music Appreciation Club of Montgomery, of which there is perhaps no more wide-a-wake club in the district. Mrs. John Dreber is counselor for this club.

During the session given over to reports this club gave a most interesting and full report. The district was fortunate indeed to have present at this time Mrs. R. C. Woodson of Birmingham, the gracious president of the Alabama Federation of Music clubs. In her address she especially stressed how much the Juniors impressed her with the earnest and business-like manner in which they conducted their proceedings.

Mrs. Walter Agnew of Montgomery State Chairman of music in religious education, spoke on the hymn contest, an important feature of the state work.

At one o'clock a lovely luncheon was served. During the luncheon the newly-elected officers of the district were introduced: Miss Mary Courtney Jones of Clanton, president; Mr. Roderick Wolfe, vice president; and Miss Annette Lee, secretary - treasurer, both of Montgomery. Too much praise cannot be given the major feature of the afternoon session, which was given over to talented young artists. The program rendered by members of the young musicians group of Montgomery, including Sara Brown, soprano, Edward Burns, tenor, Louise Watson, pianist, and Willie Mae Howell, accompanist. Also a group from Alabama College added to the program.

A large representation was present, as the fourth district comprises clubs from the following cities: Alexander City, Clanton, Montgomery, Notasulga, Montevallo, Opelika, Roanoke, Tallassee and Wetumpka. Montgomery alone boasts six Junior clubs.

Miss Lee accepted the invitation most graciously extended by Mrs. John Dreber, Junior Club Chairman for Montgomery, for the Fourth District to hold its convention in that city next September.

The convention adjourned at three o'clock so that delegates might return home before such a late hour.

GRANGE ASSAILS U. S. TRADE PACT WITH DOMINION

Unanimous Vote Calls On Administration To Rescind Treaty

Sacramento, California, Nov. 18.—The National Grange, by a unanimous vote of delegates, called upon the administration Monday to rescind its new reciprocal trade treaty with Canada.

Adopting a report of the legislative committee, which climaxed a day of individual broadsides delivered against the treaty by many delegates, the Grange said:

"If these treaties are not rescinded, we demand the repeal of the reciprocal tariff act just as soon as Congress convenes."

The report predicted that the treaty will "prove injurious rather than beneficial."

"We already have a domestic surplus of practically every agricultural commodity on which tariff concessions have been made to Canada," it continued. "Foreign imports cannot fail to add to these surpluses and depress the domestic price level on farm commodities."

STATE PARK DEVELOPMENT IS PROCEEDING RAPIDLY

Montgomery.—The various State Parks comprising Emergency Conservation Work projects of the Federal Government in cooperation with the Alabama Commission of Forestry are rapidly nearing the point where they can be thrown open to the general public. Improvements in process of construction often interpose obstacles and inconveniences to visitors. However, much of the construction work has been completed with the result that facilities on many of the parks are now available for the comfort and accommodation of tourists and recreationists.

Developments to date comprise approach roads, park roads, bridges, foot trails, bridle paths, camp grounds, lake dams, piers, boat houses, shelters, lodges, cabins, observation towers, telephone lines and water works systems. On most of the larger parks electric linghting facilities are in prospect.

THE MESSSAGE OF HAGGAI AND ZECHARIAH

LESSON TEXT—Haggai 1:2-8; 2:8, 9; Zechariah 4:6-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord. Psalm 122:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A New House for God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Building a House of Worship.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why We Build Churches.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Building Adequate Churches.

After the returned captives had settled down in the towns surrounding Jerusalem the people were called together for the purpose of establishing the worship of the Lord God. This movement was led by Joshua the priest and Zerubbabel the governor. In view of the fact that the clearing away of the debris of the old city and temple and the erection of the new temple would take a long time, an altar was erected where sacrifices might be offered at once to God.

I. The Laying of the Foundation of the New Temple (Ezra 3:8-13).

This was an auspicious occasion and was celebrated with impressive ceremonies.

1. The priests in their official apparel (v. 10). These garments symbolized their consecration to the Lord's service.

2. The priests with trumpets (v. 10) Trumpets were used in calling the people together.

3. The Levites with cymbals (v. 10). This was according to the arrangements made by David (I Chron. 15).

4. They sang together by course (v. 11). This means that they sang to one another responsively.

5. Mingled weeping and singing (vv 12, 13). Some of the older men who had seen the magnificent temple of Solomon wept when they saw how far short the present foundation came of the former temple. Others were glad because of the favor of God which had brought them back.

II. The Building of the Temple Hindered (Ezra 4).

The leading adversaries were the Samaritans, a mongrel people, the offspring of the poor Jews who were left in Palestine and the foreign people who were sent into Palestine after the Jews were taken captive. The three perils which delayed the building of the temple for about fourteen years reveal the persistent methods which the enemies of God use to hinder the building program of God's people in every age.

1. An unintelligent pessimism (3:12). Because things were not as promising as they should be, some were not disposed to go forward with a constructive program and even hindered those who possessed a hopeful outlook. Under the circumstances, a glorious beginning had been made which had promise of great things in the future.

2. Worldly compromise (4:2, 3). The adversaries said, "Let us build with you: for we seek your God." This is Satan's most common and effective method. The help of the unregenerate in forwarding the Lord's work should not be accepted by the Lord's people.

3. Open opposition by the world (4:4-24). When refused a part in the work, open opposition was resorted to.

III. Assurance of the Completion of the Second Temple (Zech. 4:6-10).

By means of the golden candlestick is represented the restoration of the Jewish nation and the fulfillment of its divine purpose. It was to be a light in the world. There were insuperable difficulties in the way of accomplishing their restoration, represented by the great mountain, but assurance was given that God by his Holy Spirit could easily accomplish their restoration. The mountain would be displaced by a plain. The two olive trees represent Zerubbabel and Joshua. The Holy Spirit was to accomplish this work through them.

IV. The Temple Finished (Ezra 6:13-15).

Through the ministry of the prophets, Haggai and Zechariah (Ezra 5:1; Hag. 1, 2), the people were encouraged to resume the work of the building of the temple. When the temple was finished, they solemnly dedicated it to God (Ezra 6:16-22).

V. The Blessedness of Dwelling in God's House (Ps. 84:1-4).

1. The longing of the soul for God's house (vv. 1, 2).

2. The sparrow and swallow find protection in the sacred precincts of God's house (v. 3).

3. At home in God's house (v. 4). Those who have a heart for God find their chief delight in dwelling in his house.

The Future

Don't estimate your future by the little troubles that comfort you now. The black clouds which shut out your sun today will be gone tomorrow. Learn to look at life at long range and put the right value on things in general.

Religion

Some men want to have religion like a dark lantern, and carry it in their pocket, where nobody but themselves can get any good from it.—Henry Ward Beecher.

"COME INTO MY PARLOR"
. . . said the Spider

"COME into my parlor," said the Spider to the Fly, making attractive offers the while. The Fly, recalling previous narrow escapes, replied, "You entice me greatly, Sir Spider, but I fear you would put me in bondage."

Whereupon the Spider offered the Fly a contract in which would be included all the promises of a rosy future and freedom from care.

"Very pretty, very pretty," said the Fly, "but spiders have a reputation of being careless with their promises to flies. I think I'll take my chances rather than put myself under the domination of a Spider."

Rosy promises and dazzling inducements are offered by politically inspired promoters of public power enterprises. Assuming the honesty and sincerity of some public power enthusiasts, can they give any guarantee that their political successors in office will have similar high ideals?

After they gain their end of gobbling up the light and power business, what is to prevent officials in charge of public power plants from increasing rates, or taxes, or both? (Taxes already show a heavy increase.)

Alabama Power Company, under regulation by public bodies, has a record of steadily reducing its rates. The average rate per kilowatt hour paid by its customers for all residential uses has declined from 7.9c in September, 1926, to 3.6c in September, 1935.

During the same 9-year period the taxes paid by the company to federal, state, county and municipal governments have increased from 6.4c to 14.4c per dollar of total money taken in.

While taxes have gone UP 180%, average rates for electricity in the home have gone DOWN 54.4%.

MANY DEATHS IN PAST WEEK

Last week The Union-Banner carried an article in which we boasted of the good health in Chilton County, and of the few deaths recorded in our county during the past few weeks.

But fate has gone and played a grim joke on us. This week, instead of being able to further boast of our few deaths, we are compelled to publish more than the average number of death notices although very few of them were from sickness, most of them being accidental.

There were three deaths from sickness, one was killed in a sawmill accident, and three from shotgun wounds. The last four were almost instantly killed. In addition, we have received notice of the death of another man as the result of a shotgun wound some two months ago.

PLEASANT HILL

We are happy to say that our Sunday school was well attended last Sunday. In fact we had a real good attendance for our entire week end services and those who failed to get out to these services missed some of the greatest truths we ever get from the stand, and especially those who really go to church for the good they get out of it. We were glad to have the many visitors from other churches with us Sunday and we invite them to be with us again every time they can.

We had a very good singing last Sunday afternoon. However, the crowd was small, but we had Mr. A. H. Glasscock and Mr. E. L. Glasscock with us, and they took a big part in the singing. We would like to remind the rest of our society we missed you and need your help.

Miss Ollie Belle Davis and Miss Odell Ellison were the Sunday dinner guests of Misses Jesse and Datha Cleckler.

Miss Lurlene Blow spent a while Sunday with Miss Pearlene Martin.

Misses Central Cost and Sybil Vanzant had dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Cleckler.

Misses Hazel and Alta Blow, Minnie Bolton, Messrs. Osmond Cleckler, Lloyd Barnett, Frank McMullins were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Martin Sunday.

Listen folks, to those who might be interested, we have changed our singing at Pleasant Hill church. Our singing will be on the second Sunday afternoon in each month from now on, so don't forget and try to arrange to be with us on next second Sunday afternoon. Visitors are always welcome at our church.—Reporter.

REFUGE NEWS

Everyone come to Sunday school next Sunday and let's have a good lesson.

He will be remembered as "Dad" Sims one of the greatest baseball fans who ever lived in Clanton, and for several years managed a team of his own here.

PIG, CALF AND CAR STOLEN; TWO JAILED

Stolen Auto Used To Carry Animals To Market

Last Thursday night was a busy night for Jesse Bethel, 22, and Fuller Sameul, 23, Clanton negroes, according to Sheriff J. R. Hardy, but they will likely have plenty of time to rest—in the county jail.

There are quite a few details connected with the escapade which tired the boys so badly. At least three persons have expressed a desire to continue their "rest cure."

The H. N. Smith Motor Company, where Bethel worked, missed a car—L. C. Vance, of Cooper, noted that one of his pigs were gone, and Miss Mavis Thomas, of Verbena, angrily discovered that a calf had been taken from her place.

The car was discovered near the Clanton Baptist church. Evidence indicated that a calf and a pig had been back seat passengers on its most recent trip. A checkup of Clanton butchers revealed that Bethel and Sameuls had sold the calf and pig in question.

Owners of car, calf and pig swore out warrants for their arrests and the Negroes are now in jail.

DOG HEAD POSITIVE FOR RABIES

On Saturday, November 9th, a dog's head was sent to the State Board of Health Laboratories to be examined for rabies. This head was sent from Clanton and was carried to Montgomery by someone who was passing through. The address as written on the box appeared to be A. C. Mims, Clanton Route 2. All efforts to locate anyone by this name have failed.

This head was positive for rabies and this notice is an effort to locate the person who sent the head in. It will be greatly appreciated if this person will get in touch with the County Health Department.—J. D. Kimmey, M. D., County Health Officer.

High Court Halts Processing Taxes

Supreme Court Suspends Payment Until After Final AAA Ruling

Washington, Nov. 25.—A Supreme Court order temporarily enjoining Government collection of AAA processing taxes for eight Louisiana rice millers today augmented difficulties besettig the new deal's farm program.

The action of the justices, who simultaneously agreed to pass upon the constitutionality of an AAA amendmet forbidding injunction to restrain processig tax collections, directly affected a comparatively small sum.

Some legal observers, however, contended the action served to tighten for the present lower court orders impounding from $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 of taxes pending a high court ruling on the AAA's constitutionality. Government attorneys looked for the order to prompt new injunction suits. By the high court's ruling granting the injunction petition of the rice millers, they will continue to pay processing taxes. But instead of going to the Treasury, the taxes will be paid into a court-approved depository for holding until the constitutional question is decided.

CHRISTMAS THINGS FOR UNDERPRIVILEGED CHILDREN

The Clanton Kiwanis Club, under Mr. Johnnie Hollis as chairman of the committee, is waging a campaign for Christmas offerings for the underprivileged children of Chilton county. Mr. Hollis urges all who have old toys that can be repaired and repainted to leave them at J. Mell Martin's place.

It is hoped that a nice collection of such things can be gathered and thus make some little hearts happy that otherwise would probably be deprived of the joy which all children like to have at Christmas times.

LEGION CONFERENCE IN MONTGOMERY ON DEC. 1st

Department Headquarters of The American Legion announces its Annual Post Commanders' and Adjutants Conference to be held in Montgomery on Sunday, December 1st. While this meeting goes under the name of Commanders and Adjutants Conference, every Legionnaire in the state is invited to take part.

A very interesting program has been arranged. As a special drawing card two National Legion officers will speak. These are Dr. W. E. Mrs. Melville Mucklestone, National President of Auxiliary will also be in Montgomery attending the Presidents' and Secretaries' Conference and will address the Legionnaires also.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDED AIR CIRCUS SUNDAY P.M.

Judging from the large crowd that attended the air circus at the Clanton Airport Sunday afternoon, our people are really air minded. It is estimated that there were 3,000 people out there, and at least a thousand cars were parked at the port and as nearby as they could get.

This only goes to show that people are interested in some kind of excitement—something different from what they are accustomed to. It also bears out the idea of those who have been advocating a gathering place for the people of the county. It looks like they are going to make the airport a community center whether it is fixed for it or not.

City Fathers Warn Against Fireworks

"Fire Zone" Limits Are Set Out; Ordinance Will Be Strictly Enforced

City officials wish to give notice that the city law against shooting fire works in the "fire zone" will be rigidly enforced this year. In the past, officials state, this law has not been enforced so strictly, resulting in much shooting of firecrackers and other fireworks with some accidents and many near-accidents.

Notice is given that all violators of the ordinance will be prosecuted, and stiff fines meted out to violators.

Below is given the fire zone limit:

Beginning at the intersection of First Avenue and Sixth Stret, (The post office corner), north to intersection of Fourth Avenue and Sixth Street, (the Christian Church Corner), west to the intersection of Fourth Avenue and Eighth Street. (the Masonic Hall corner), south of junction of Second Avenue and Eighth Street, (at the Wilson Hotel), east to the railroad, south to intersection of First Avenue and the railroad, east along First Avenue to its intersection with Sixth Street. at the post office corner again.

These limits are set out as the fire zone, and the area within them will be patroled closely for violations of the fireworks ordinance. This ordinance provides for fines of from $1 to $100 and costs for each violation.

LET US ALL BE THANKFUL

Count your blessings, name them one by one;
Count your blessings, see what God hath done.

Thanksgiving Day, the anniversary of the date when the Pilgrim Fathers gave thanks to their Creator for food and safety, is being observed abroad the land today. Must not we too, in the midst of happy homes, peaceful surroundings, and an inexhaustible array of friends and friendship, also offer prayers of thanks to our Lord, the source of all good things?

Yea, let us count our blessings, and give the One credit to whom credit belongs. God has blessed we people in Chilton county during the past year, and among the vicissitudes, varied and of sundry degrees, much good has come to us. We will not forget the opportunity to turn our thoughts heavenward and praise our Heavenly Father for all that He has done for us.

HURRAH FOR THE LIBERTY LEAGUE

[AN EDITORIAL]

In the report given out last week of the famous precedent set by the fractional part of the Democratic State committee, only a little over one-third of the members being present, when a matter of considerable importance was taken up and rushed through the committee, there was ONE dissenting vote. David Anderson, of Birmingham, was the "black sheep". But thanks be, there was one who had the courage to stick to what he knew to be the right, even in the face of overwhelming opposition. That lonely one happened to be the head of the Liberty League.

The Union-Banner does not know much about said Liberty League and what it stands for, but the stand taken by its head against this autocratic action by the Democratic State Committee has the right ring to it. The league has at least one good thing about it.

It is a hard matter for The Union-Banner to conceive of the stand that lots of our officials in this day and time take on many matters of vital importance to the interests of our common people. These public officials go into office on the strength of all kinds of campaign promises, pledging themselves to reduce taxes, eliminate useless offices, and every conceivable pledge that will get them votes; and then they take the solemn oath of office swaring to uphold the laws of the State and Nation. But when they get in it is all over with so far as promises, pledges, oathes, etc., are concerned. It is almost enough to make a fellow feel like it is no use. In short, it is simply disgusting; one almost loses confidence in everything.

But then, when we hear that there are still a few faithful ones left, we gain new courage and determine to press onward. The good Lord has promised that so long as a few hold out faithful He will be one amongst them, and that the gates of hell shall not prevail against them. If it were not for our faith in this promise, we would all fall out and give up in despair.

The Union-Banner commends Mr. Anderson for casting his vote against this nefarious action, and Judge Leon McCord, and Mr. C. D. Comstick of Birmingham, for raising their voices in oppostion to the action. Long may their courage and determination last, and may it be augmented by the aid of other true American citizens until autocracy is wept out and the principles of true democracy may rule in this country of the free and land of the brave.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

Sheriff Hardy reports four arrests during the past week. These four are as follows:

One for murder; in jail.

One for abusive, indecent and obsecene language; in jail

Two for violation of the prohibition law; one of these has been released on $300 bond, while the other is being held in jail.

Sheriff Hardy reports a little unusual connection with the murder arrest. Buster Parker is the man held. Sheriff Hardy had been advised that Parker was being held in Autauga county for a misdemeanor. He was given a short prison sentence. Mr. Hardy called prison officials and informed them that Parker was wanted in Chilton County for murder, also, that he had made threats that he would escape if given half a chance. The prison officials offered to turn Parker over to Sheriff Hardy if he would call for him. Parker was brought to Clanton Tuesday and placed in the county Jail, awaiting preliminary trial.

One of the V. P. L. cases carries an interesting story, also. Deputies Nivens and Smith were out looking for a man named Harrison, and were informed that he was at the home of Arthur Bogue. Arriving at the Bogue home, the deputies were forbidden to enter the house. They went in, anyway, telling Mr. Bogue they merely wanted to look around. Harrison was found, and then Bogue began threatening what he would do to them for coming into his house without a search warrant. A further search revealed a quantity of whiskey, so Bogue was arrested, brought to town placed in jail on a liquor charge.

A. E. MIDDLEBROOKS REMAINS AT CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

At the Methodist State Conference, held at Opelika last week, it was ordered that Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks remain in charge of the Clanton Methodist church. Dr. Middlebrooks has been here one year. Rev. D. W. Haskew remains at Andalusia; J. R. Mills, superintendent of the Alabama Orphanage, C. C. Wilkerson, Clay Street, Montgomery; I W. Chalker, Panama City. The 1936 conference will be held at Selma.

Margis Robinson, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Robinson, of Mitchell Dam, is reported to be seriously ill with pnumonia.

THE ABEVILLE HERALD IN CHARGE OF MR. GUY DeSHAZO

R. M. Fuller who, for the past four years, has been owner and publisher of the Abbeville Herald, has sold his business to C. S. Keller and plans to begin working with H. H. Golson of the Wetumpka Herald, who was at one time editor and publisher of the Abbeville Herald.—Publishers Auxiliary.

Mr. Guy H. DeShazo, formerly of Clanton but for the past several years a resident of Panama City, Fla., has been placed in charge of the Herald by the new owner, Mr. C. S. Keller.

Mr. Keller is a former County Farm Agent of Henry County, and is a brother of Hon. Albert Keller, State Superintendent of aducation. Both the Kellers are close friends of W. M. Wyatt, former editor of The Union-Banner.

Many noticeable changes may be noted in the Abbeville Herald since Mr. DeShazo took charge of the shop. He is an old-time printer and publisher, having learned his abc's in The Union-Banner office, and once worked in the government printing office in Washington. Good luck to "The Sweeper," and may his "Cinders" be plentiful.

Tom Taylor Owner Wholesale Business

J. T. Rockett and J. D. Rockett Acquire Ownership Of Dry Goods Firm

One of the most important business deals in Clanton of recent date was consummated the first of this week, in which Tom M. Taylor became sole owner of the old original Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company. The interest of J. T. Rockett and J. D. Rockett was purchased by Mr. Taylor. The Rocketts had been in the Wholesale business for about a year and a half, after having acquired the interest in the company of R. W. Taylor.

In the midst of the transaction, however, the dry goods store of the company, known as Taylor Dry Goods Company, one of the largest department stores of Clanton, was taken completely over by the Rocketts and will be operated by them in the future.

In relinquishing his interest in the dry goods store, Mr. Taylor said: "I have been in the dry goods business for fifteen years. Although completely severing my connection with this store, I leave with the friendliest feelings, and urge my many friends to continue their dry goods trade with the business under the new ownership and management of the Messrs. Rockett."

Tom Taylor became connected with the wholesale grocery business in Clanton thirteen years ago ,going in with Downs Grocery Company. The business has continued to grow to the present wide dimensions, continuing to gain ground even under adverse business and economic conditions, until it has become one of the biggest business concerns in Chilton County.

Democrats Lose 5 States, Says Houck

Mid-Western States Resent Canadian Trade Pact By Wallace

Five powerful Mid-Western states have been definitely lost by the administration because of the New Deal's stubbornness in enacting the Canadian Trade Treaty despite protests of citizens and farmers.

This was the observation Friday of Stanley B. Houck, of Minneapolis, American Bar Association official and nationally known lawyer, here to attend the two-day session of attorneys from eight Southern states.

Speaking from the standpoint of an observer rather than a participant in the controversy, Mr. Houck said the Mid-West section is rapidly swinging away from the New Deal.

"The new Canadian reciprocal trade agreement is unpopular because that it is highly injurious to the agricultural interests," he declared.

"The states of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas and Nebraska were up until a few days ago in the doubtful column as far as the election of 1936 is concerned.

"Now, with this treaty flung directly in their faces, they will vote against the New Deal in '36."

"The New Deal's legislation has resulted in increased business for attorney's, but this is extremely unfortunate for the general public.

"It is indeed regrettable when the citizen has to turn to the lawyer to protect him from legislation when he should be protected by the legislation itself."

Mr. Houck is chairman of the American Bar Association's committee on unauthorized practice.

SINGING SCHOOL AT COTTON MILL

Messrs. Archie DeVaughn and Audie Brown opened up a singing school at the Clanton cotton mill Monday night. The report was that the school opened with bright prospects, and is expected to get better later on. It will run for three weeks.

At this season of the year, naturally we all take retrospective of our activities during the year, and it is well that we take time to do this; it is also well that we remember to give thanks, even if silently, for the degree of prosperity we have enjoyed during the past twelve months.

Like our Pilgrim Fathers did, when our country was in its infancy, we pause to render unto our Creator a prayer of thanksgiving for what we have been blessed with.

This store is indeed proud of its many friends in Chilton County. We have tried hard to serve you in the past in such manner as to merit your continued friendship; we feel that to a degree we have succeeded in this worthy undertaking.

We unhesitatingly ask you to continue letting us be your friends, venturing the assurance that we will strive even harder to merit such friendship in the years that are to come.

Time Lost is Money Lost

It costs money to be sick. You see it directly if your pay envelope is short. You lose out on some important work if you live on a farm or if you are one of the few who are not docked for lost time. You can't afford to show up on the job unless you are feeling fit. The boss wants results—not excuses.

How many times do Gas on Stomach, Headache, Sour Stomach, "That Tired Feeling," That "Morning After" Feeling, Neuralgic, Rheumatic, Sciatic, Muscular or Periodic Pains keep you at home or interfere with your doing a full day's work?

All these troubles are caused or made worse by too much acid in your body. To correct this condition take

EZRA'S MISSION TO JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 7:6-10; 8:21-23, 31, 32.

GOLDEN TEXT—The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek him. Ezra 8:22.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Bringing Gifts for God's House.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ezra's Long Journey.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How God Helps.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Purposeful Prayer and Courageous Action.

I. Who Ezra Was (7:1-10).

1. A priest (vv. 1-5). He was from the line which was to stand between God and the people. The leader of the first company was Zerubbabel, a sort of military governor. The great need now was for a religious leader, for the people had gone far from God, as we see from the noble reformation which Ezra effected.

2. A ready scribe (v. 6). He was a teacher of the law of God.

3. His high ambition (vv. 7-10).

a. He set his heart to seek the law of the Lord (v. 10). He set out definitely with the purpose to know God's Word. No one who purposes in his heart to seek the law of the Lord can fail.

b. He set his heart to obey the Lord (v. 10). He was not only concerned with knowing God's Word but obeying it. God's Word cannot be known in its fullness by the intellect; it must be experienced. An essential qualification for a teacher of the Bible, a preacher, or Sunday school worker, is obedience to God's Word.

c. He set his heart to teach in Israel God's statutes and judgments (v. 10). He not only had a love for God's Word but a desire to implant it in the hearts of others.

II. Ezra's Commission (7:11-26).

Ezra went forth backed by the decree from King Artaxerxes. The king gave him a copy of the decree which authorized him to lead a company back to Jerusalem. This decree empowered him to

1. Collect funds (vv. 15, 16);
2. Levy tribute (vv. 21, 22);
3. Appoint magistrates and judges (v. 25);
4. Execute penalties (v. 26).

So great was the king's confidence in Ezra that he delegated all these powers to him. For this great favor Ezra lifted his heart to God in thanksgiving (vv. 27, 28). He was mainly concerned with the fact that he was to beautify the Lord's house and acknowledged that God had put his purpose into the king's heart.

III. The Company Which Returned With Ezra (Ezra 8:1-20).

This company was comparatively small, only 1,754 males, but including the women, children and servants there were perhaps 6,000 or 7,000 people. Before proceeding on the journey Ezra was careful to find out as to whether any of the Levites, the ministers of God, were with them (v. 15). He knew that the success of their enterprise depended upon the spiritual condition of the people. Temporal blessings and prosperity of the individual and the nation depend upon the people's attitude toward God.

IV. Ezra's Prayer and Fasting (8:21-23).

The first thing that he did was to seek God's guidance. The reason Ezra sought the Lord's help was that as far as possible he desired his mission to be free from human dependence. He did not minimize the dangers attending his journey, but since he had assured the king that the hand of the Lord would be upon all for good who sought him, he was ashamed to ask the king for a military escort to protect them from the marauding Arabs. His desire was to prove the reality of God's help, as God's honor among the heathen was at stake.

V. The Successful Journey (8:24-32).

God heard their prayer. The treasure entrusted to them was great. Perhaps the entire value of money and sacred utensils was nearly five million dollars. For a small caravan to go through a country infested by these robber bands carrying such an amount of money was most perilous, but Ezra knew that God was able and would protect them. Observe

1. The care and honesty (vv. 24-30). The money was weighed unto them at the start and was to be weighed when turned over to the authorities at Jerusalem. The incentive to honest and strict accounting of the trust was that they were holy men and were entrusted with that which belonged to God.

2. Their safe arrival (vv. 31, 32). Some four and one-half months were required to make the journey. God brought them safely to their destination, thus proving that he is faithful to those who put their trust in him.

Perfect Love

Perfect love is distinguished by the character of its enjoyments. It craves the spiritual, the holy and Divine. Its enjoyments are purely religious; they are sought by prayer, reading the Scriptures, pious meditations and acts of Christian duty and usefulness. The enjoyments of a pure heart are sweet, rational and unwasting.

Objections

UNKLE MIKE HANKS WRITES MR. HOPKINS

Hon. Harry Hopkins,
OUT-OF-WORK DEPT.,
Wash., D. C.
Dear Mr. Hopkins:

For heaven sake, Mr. Hopkins, what has gone wrong with your Boon-Doggle Program? All of my and my wife's relatives was took off the Dole like you promised, but they haven't found no work and they are living off of us.

Mr. Hopkins, there are 8 people trying to live in our 3-room flat. This morning when I wanted to shave I didn't have no room to work up a lather, what with my two kids fighting in the bath tub, my brother-in-law, Jake reading the newspaper and my wife's mother banging on the door for us to let her in quick.

The 1st relative which moved in was Jake. I tried to throw him out, I says, "It don't matter none if they did take you off the Dole, because Mr. Hopkins will put you to work."

"Oh no he won't," says Jake, kind of laughing, "because I am a flute player by trade, and the WPA don't have no flute projeck to put me on."

About ½ hour later the bell rung again, it was my wife's mother. "I am moving in," she says, "they took me off the Dole."

It turned out that there wasn't no WPA projeck for her, neither, because she didn't even play a flute. She is nothing but a mother-in-law.

The next 2 times the bell rung it was an aunt on my wife's side and a 5th cousin on my own side, which I hadn't saw in years.

So here we are, Mr. Hopkins, with our house full of helatives and when you & Mr. Roosevelt spent 4,000 million dollars to end the Dole, I didn't never suspect that you was starting something even worse.

Please think up some WPA projecks for my relatives, I am hereby making a list of what they can do:

1 Flute Player named Jake, age 40.

1 mother-in-law, very good at public speaking.

1 wife's aunt, age 53, lost job with FERA when you begun the WPA.

1 cousin, age 37, retired flagpole setter.

1 man, age about 50, which I don't know from Adam, but he just rung the bell and says he is my uncle.—Yourn in trouble, Mike Hanks.

We Are Thankful

As did the Pilgrim Fathers, when our great nation was young, we are thankful, at this season of the year, for all good things that have come our way.

THE LEADER is especially thankful and thoughtful of its FRIENDS in Chilton County. We have been one of you for SIXTEEN YEARS; we have lived with you, shared your happiness as well as your misgivings, and we, today, with all the good people of Chilton County, offer thanks for what good has come to us during the past year. May we long continue to be friends and be able to serve you, is our earnest desire.

5 P.M. is a test of how you FEEL

"How do I feel.... Rotten! why do you ask?"

"Because, you are not yourself!"

IT is all so simple, too! That tired, run-down, exhausted feeling quite often is due to lack of a sufficiency of those precious red-blood-cells. Just build up these oxygen-carrying cells and the whole body takes on new life... food is really turned into energy and strength... you can't help but feel and look better. S.S.S. Tonic restores deficient red-blood-cells... it also improves the appetite and digestion. It has been the nation's standby for over 100 years... and unless your case is exceptional it should help you, too. Insist on S.S.S. Tonic in the blood-red cellophane-wrapped package. The big 20-oz. size is sufficient for two weeks' treatment... it's more economical. © The S.S.S. Co.

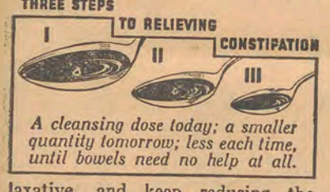
THE DOCTORS ARE RIGHT

Women should take only liquid laxatives

Many believe any laxative they might take only makes constipation worse. And that isn't true.

Do what doctors do to relieve this condition. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.



Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why your laxative should be in liquid form. A liquid dose can be regulated to the drop.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that form no habit even with children. Syrup Pepsin is the nicest tasting, nicest acting laxative you ever tried.

Editor Union-Banner:

Dear Sir:—The paper reached my room Thursday p.m. and was glad to get the paper, of course, but in reading over the paper and seeing so many bad accidents and deaths it causes me to feel sad. Yet I am thankful that every thing is well with me as what it is. I am OK. Taking the baths every day.

I have been out to the ostrich and alligator farm and up Happy Hollow to see the donkeys and the monkeys, the big black bear the long-eared goat. So is guess this is enough for this time. I would be glad to hear from home-folks any time. I guess I will be home not later than December 15th.—Wm. J. Headley.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Is it true that your old college has set aside a smoking room for the students?" This is what the writer inquired of a very charming young lady recently. The college under discussion is a fine old religious school for girls. It is a denominational institution. "Yes, we have a smoking room", the young lady said. "We had to have one. The girls slipped out in the alleys to smoke and if we had not opened a smoking room we would not have had any students'. That is just exactly what is the matter with our modern world. So many of our religious leaders, instead of keeping up the standards, bring the standards down to the level on which the people live. It is un-Christian to lower standards and compromise convictions. Now, if this young lady had said, "We have decided that there is nothing wrong in smoking and if girls want to smoke we think it is alright, so we just decided to have a smoking room", I would have taken issue with her because I do not think girls have any right to poison their nerves with nicotine, but I would have respect for the Board of Trustees who opened the smoking room. We do not have any smoking in the Bob Jones College either by girls or boys. We have twice as many students as this girls' school has and we have been running our college only nine years while this girls' college is one of the oldest institutions in America. We cannot win by lowering standards. We are exhorted not to be conformed to the world, but to be transformed by the renewing of our minds.

Richard III, one of Shakespeare's outstanding characters, was a hunchback. He was antagonistic toward the world because his physical infirmities protested against the liberties which other people who had good bodies enjoyed. The world is filled with moral hunchbacks. Our jealousy of other people is a protest against the things which they enjoy and which we do not have. The Pharisees hated Jesus because He was holy and they were hypocrites. The world loves darkness rather than light because its deeds are evil. The writer attended a democratic convention during which William Jennings Bryan kept the light turned on. Men cursed him under their breath. Bryan would walk into the auditorium, push a button, turn on the light and everybody would see a group of people representing the interests over in one corner pulling off dirty deals. These political crooks naturally hated Bryan. Bryan turned on the light. Men who have wicked plans hate other men who are frank and open and who have no dirty deals to carry through. Yes, the world has many moral hunchbacks.

Find Out

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well - Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains ... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

164 PAYROLL INCREASE IS REPORTED BY VICKS

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 27.—For the five months period ending October 31, employment here at the laboratoraties of Vick Chemical Company—makers of Vicks VapoRub and other aids to better control of colds—reached an all-time peak, and payrolls increased 164 per cent over the corresponding period of 1934.

This record is all the more impressive in view of the fact that Vicks employment showed progressive upward steps throughout the depression. The company gained national recognition in 1932-33 . . . at the lowest point of depression . . . in showing an employment increase of more than 100 per cent over the best normal records of pre-depression years. At the same time came the rather startling announcement that no Vicks salary had ever been cut because of "hard times".

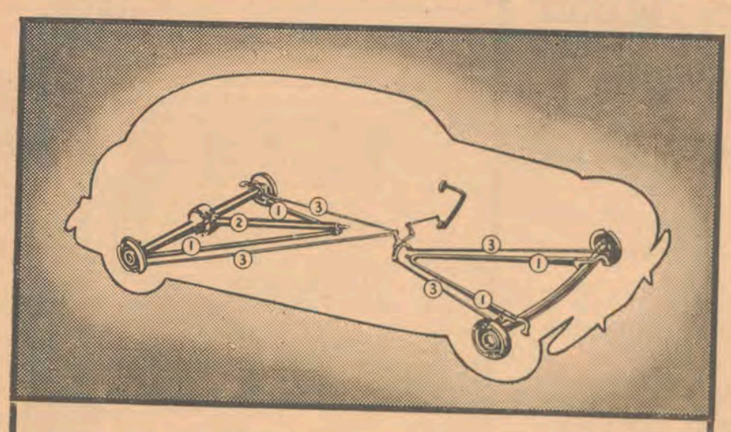
THERE ARE NO SAFER BRAKES MADE

than the Super-Safety Brakes of the 1936 Ford V-8



NO other car in America has the same basic design as the Ford V-8. Because of this design, the Ford could use any type of braking system now in common use. (Diagram at left shows why.)

With the whole field to choose from, Ford stands by mechanically-operated Super-Safety brakes as safest, surest, and most positive for the Ford V-8.

This is the type braking system used on many of America's costliest cars and most racing cars. Because of unique chassis design, Ford can use it to better effect than any other car built today.

All in all, no safer brakes are made than you get with the 1936 Ford V-8. Drive it today—and see for yourself.

FORD PERMANENT WHEELBASE

Radius rods [1] brace the front axle like a pair of giant arms. Radius rods and Torque-tube [2] give triple bracing to the rear axle. This means that the front and rear axles of a Ford car are always held equi-distant—in perfect alignment. On this permanent wheelbase any braking system now in common use could be used. Only with this Ford-type wheelbase, can mechanical, Super-Safety brakes be used to the fullest advantage.

4 INDEPENDENT BRAKE-RODS

Four brake-rods [3] of strong, tempered steel link the pressure of your foot on the pedal with the four big brake-drums on the wheels. They do this positively, surely, under all road conditions. Note especially that no one Ford brake has to depend on the other three. Failure of one—practically impossible—would still leave you three perfectly-operating brakes.

Tear out this chart and check it with the car you are driving now.

Mrs. Martha Little, 74, wife of W. J. Little of Clanton Route 2, died at the home of a brother, near Moriah church, in Coosa county, last Tuesday morning at 5:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Little went to Coosa several days ago to visit her brother. She was taken ill with pneumonia on Friday, November 22nd.

Mrs. Little was born and reared in Coosa county, living there until 1915, when she moved with her husband to Chilton county, settling near Cooper. She has lived here ever since.

As we go to press, funeral arrangements were announced to be at Chestnut Creek church, Cooper, at 11:00 o'clock Wednesday, November 27, with burial in the cemetery there, with Spigener in charge of burial.

Mrs. Little is survived by: her husband, W. J. Little, of Clanton Route 2; two sons—Luther E. Little, county superintendent of education, Clanton, and Eddie Little of Clanton Route 2; two daughters—Mrs. Charlie E. Blalock of Clanton Route 2, and Mrs. Tom Wells of Clanton; several brothers and sisters.

Due to the fact that Mrs. Little died in Coosa county, and all close relatives were over there on Tuesday morning when news of her death was received, very few details could be secured. A complete report will be carried next week, however.

A $250,000 paving project for an eight-mile stretch on the Meridianville Highway to the Tennessee state line is in prospect. The State Highway Department has advertised for bids to be opened on Dec. 4.

Lawrence Lee, legal adviser to Gov. Bibb Graves, has announced that due to the small collections from automobile drivers' licenses, Alabama's new state highway patrol will not be organized until after Dec. 1.

Minimum prices of eight cents a quart for wholesale milk, 10 cents for cash and carry at stores and 11 cents for doorstep delivery have been fixed for the Selma milk shed by the Alabama State Milk Control Board.

Requisition papers for the return of Dean Shade to Marengo County and the return of Kermit Bullock to Mobile County have been mailed to South Carolina and Texas authorities, respectively, by Gov. Bibb Graves.

Fifty-seven farm homes at Holly Pond, Baileyton and along the highway between those communities and Hulaco are being served with electricity following completion by Alabama Power Co. of a 12.2-mile extension of its rural lines in Cullman County.

Sen. Harry Taylor has announced he will ask Gov. Bibb Graves to include in his "call" for a special session next January a bill authorizing the construction of a cement plant, the output to be used in building paved roads in Alabama.

The Alabama Public Service Commission has dispatched an order to all toll bridge and ferry operators directing them to furnish operation and ownership statements before Dec. 16 under provisions of a 1935 legislative act making all toll bridges and ferries public utilities.

R. C. CAMPAIGNS TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Program Inaugurated in Local Chapters to Cut Down Farm and Home Accidents

The American Red Cross has launched a nation wide campaign to eliminate hazards in the home and on the farm that now take an annual toll of nearly 35,000 lives, according to a recent statement by James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations

"Every Red Cross chapter is being asked to play a part in this campaign," Mr Fieser said "Hazards in the various communities will be pointed out The children in our schools through out the country will be given a list of the home hazards and asked to enroll parents or relatives in the fight against them."

Nearly five million men, women, and children were temporarily disabled in the homes of America last year by accidents, officials of the National Safety Council have revealed. Most of the accidents in which persons were killed and injured could have been prevented, according to this safety agency, this fact alone largely motivating the Red Cross drive for accident elimination

Active cooperation of social, civic, educational, veterans', and other groups has been secured. Red Cross inspection forms or home check lists will be distributed to homes where there are no children with the help of these organizations.

Due to inaccessibility and lack of compensation coverage, little or no pioneering has been done in the field of farm safety, the Red Cross states However, more people were accidentally killed in agricultural pursuits last year than in any other occupation, making the need for safety education and farm home inspection apparent.

Other agencies now active in the accident-prevention field point to the fact that, because of its nearly 13,000 chapters and branches, the Red Cross has a unique opportunity to successfully promote a project of this nature.

Home accidents injure many more than do automobile accidents; they kill nearly as many, claiming an average of about 80 lives daily. In terms of dollars and cents, for the practical minded, home accidents cost more than $1,000 per minute.

Accidents of all types are Public Enemy No 4 Only three diseases cause as many deaths each year, heart disease, cancer, and cerebral hemorrhage.

"The home is not the place of safety it is commonly supposed to be," said Mr Fieser in commenting on the new Red Cross service to the community "The Red Cross, as a part of its chartered obligation to prevent death and alleviate suffering, is conducting this humanitarian program to cut down the mounting toll of avoidable personal injury and death in the homes of the country."

The annual Red Cross roll call, running from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, is one of the means of backing such a campaign All citizens of the United States are offered the opportunity to join and assist in the work of the organization.

Red Cross Has Busy Year; Statistics Impressive; Services Varied

Figures gathered at random from the year's report of the American Red Cross reveal the magnitude of the work being carried on by that organization

Red Cross workers assisted 54,305 veterans; 587 Red Cross Public Health nurses paid 921,455 visits to 186,326 patients; 98,441 first aid certificates were issued while 46,693 persons were trained in life saving Volunteer workers produced 3,102,843 surgical dressings, with 80,901 volunteers being on active duty throughout the year.

First Aid Treatment Taught Thousands By Red Cross

More than 187,000 certificates showing completion of first aid courses were issued last year by the Red Cross This shows a gain of 56,000 certificates over the previous year Approximately 64,200 boys in C.C.C camps throughout the country passed first aid tests Since the Red Cross first entered the field of first aid teaching, being one of the first organizations in the world to do so, almost one million persons have been trained in handling emergency treatment.

The annual report of the Red Cross further reveals that more than 327,000 copies of the Red Cross Aid Handbook have been sold at home and abroad.

The Red Cross has assisted 54,305 veterans in clearing their cases through the U. S. Veterans' Bureau this past year.

Last year 3,837,941 persons became members of the Red Cross. The annual roll call takes place each year between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day

Junior Red Cross members increased by 402,000 enrollments during the year which has just passed. Junior members carried on an exchange of correspondence with junior members in 62 other countries having Red Cross Societies.

Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Caswell left early Tuesday morning for Iowa.

It will be an embarrassing moment when the national Democratic convention reaches the point in its deliberations where it will be necessary to draft a platform upon which President Roosevelt is to stand for re-election. The president repudiated the platform which he pledged himself to observe in 1932, and it would be a joke to again attempt to fool the people along the same line. The platform nert year will necessarily have to be a New Deal platform, and we hope the Democrats will be honest enough to make it just that.—Iroquois (S. D.) Chief.

Of course, since the New York Assembly went Republican that has no national significance even if the New Deal was frequently mentioned in the campaign. But there is great significance in the fact that the Democrats elected the supervisor of Hankepank by 37 votes on the issue of municipal ownership.

Webb Miller cables the New York Herald Tribune that "Haile Selassie Gugsa . . . . who may become the puppet emperor of northern Ethiopia, looks like a United States Pullman car porter." Many United States Pullman car porters look like emperors, too. —Charleston News and Courier.

It did look like pretty small and spleenish business for Secretary Ickes to change the name of the Hoover Dam to Boulder Dam. But it must be conceded that he might have done worse. He might not have resisted a temptation to call it Ickes Dam.—Springfield Union.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

One middle western farmer who has a habit of trying to look into the economic future says that while the AAA program of crop curtailment with government checks for the farmers may have been a blessing to many of the indigent farmers at the time, he believes that the country and the farmers themselves would be better off in the long run had more attention been paid to securing markets for what the farmer was able to raise rather than entering into a program which has given the farmer some ready money at the consumer's expense, but which seems to be taking away markets for his produce both at home and abroad.

We have heard a great deal about the efforts of the State Department through reciprocal tariff agreements to "enlarge" the markets of the American farmer. But the New Deal program to date has not only cut down production, but it has contracted markets as well. The best proof is in the figures. The report of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has given us, under general headings, comparative figures for the first nine months of 1935 as compared with the first nine months of 1934. These figures, as they relate to the produce markets of the American farm are not only astonishing, they are disconcerting.

For example, the figures show that in the first three-quarters of 1935 as compared with the same period in 1934 the decline in the value of our export animals and meat products was $17,691,000. So far as quantity is concerned the following declines are shown in the first nine months of this year as compared with the similar period in 1934: meat products, 70,191,000 pounds; lard, 290,620,000 pounds. But agricultural figures show the same kind of shrinkage: wheat, decline 16,573,000 bushels; wheat flour, 596,000 barrels; unmanufactured tobacco, 73,831,000 pounds; raw cotton, 590,412,000 pounds. In value, the export of vegetable food products and preparations declined $7,457,000 and the exports of grain and grain preparations declined in the amount of $11,306,000

Now the decline in value was due to the shrinkage of tonnage and not to the unit value of the produce, because prices are higher this year than they were last. But the loss of export markets is not all of it. The figures show that our farmers are losing the great domestic American market too. For example, the import of meat products increased 41,835,000 pounds in the first nine months of this year compared with last year. Butter imports increased 21,304,000 pounds, and fish 26,650,000 pounds. But the loss of the home market is not entirely due to the displacement of the American by foreign produce. Higher prices for food, due in great part to the processing tax and destruction of crops has brought about a curtailment in domestic consumption which in some instances has amounted to a buyers' strike. Readjustment of prices may alter this situation but it is a known fact that once the people find they can do without an article which they formerly regarded as essential, the less they are inclined to buy it.

Now, what is the reason for this loss of markets? It is, of course, easy to find. The AAA program of regimentation and processing taxes has so increased agricultural costs in the United States, and curtailed supplies, that we cannot compete with alien farmers in alien markets. In addition, we are beginning to suffer severely fram foreign competition in American markets. The other day a news dispatch from Rio Janeiro informed us that Europe was now buying more from Brazil than America was purchasing, for the first time, and it was added that this situation was due to the purchase of Brazilian cotton by British and German buyers. And the Brazilian cotton industry was stimulated by cotton curtailment in America. Just where it will all end nobody seems to know. But anyhow that talk about bigger and better markets for American farmers sounds just a little [illegible] very thin baloney at this writing.

G. O. P. MUST GET "RILED UP"

A correspondent who is undoubtedly a "rugged individualist" has this to say of the recent elections:

"The results of the election may not indicate what is going to happen in November, 1936, but they certainly indicate that when the Republicans show a real fighting spirit they can win.

"For example, out at Kanab, Utah, the Republicans who put on their fighting clothes wrote in the names of their whole list of candidates on the ballot, and won. I note by the newspapers that the Republicans there named a town ticket on October 18, and the next day the Democrats followed suit. Two days later the governor proclaimed Kanab a third class city and the Democrats filed a Peoples' ticket. When it was too late the Republicans found themselves with nothing but a list of candidates for town offices, when there wasn't a town any more. But they didn't lie down. Although it was too late to get it on the official ballot they nominated a city ticket, made a house-to-house canvass, and on election day wrote in the names of their candidates on the ballot. The entire Republican ticket won and they will be in power for four years.

"Up in Rochelle, N. Y., the Republican candidate for mayor died, leaving only Democratic and communist candidates. The court held the Republicans could not use stickers on election day and the election ballots were already printed. The Democrats thought they had a cinch. But the Republicans got a volunteer candidate, wrote his name on the ballot election day, and won a clean-cut victory.

"In Rockland County, N. Y., the Republicans did some real fighting, too. Laurens Hamilton, direct descendant of Alexander Hamilton, the old horse and buggy statesman who believed in balanced budgets and sound fiscal policies, was a candidate for the General Assembly. General Farley, the Democratic National Chairman, 'entered the lists' against him, so the newspapers say, and made a special effort to beat him, making a canvass of the county and sending telegrams to the Democratic precinct committeemen to elect Hamilton's opponent. But the Republicans fought all the harder, and Hamilton won. Anybody who is acquainted with the political skill of Mr. Farley knows it was a real battle, and the Republicans deserve credit for their victory.

"Of course Rockland County, where Hamilton lives, is normally Republican. But so is the United States as a whole, and if the Republicans will fight as hard nationally next year as they did in the three instances I have mentioned there is going to be another kind of New Deal.

"The trouble is that the Republicans have been stunned into submission by the defeats they got in 1932 and 1934 and overawed by that $4,800,000,000 relief fund which the Democrats have. The Democrats have been licked so often in the last 75 years that they are used to it and they always get up and fight just as hard the next time. But the Republicans have been so used to winning that when they lose they can't take it, so if they do get a couple of upsets they get melancholia. Let's have more scrapping next year".

Whether or not the above letter of our "rugged individualist" correspondent is packed full of truth it deserves serious consideration on the part of the Republicans of the United States. If they expect to win next year they ought to tighten their belts and act more like Republicans did in the days of their political prosperity. After all it is to be remembered that political organizations are man-made. They can be outdistanced if the other fellow proves himself a little more speedy.

MORE PIGS

There is good news in store for the expectant pig mothers of 1936. There will be no pig control program by the AAA and no slaying or drowning of innocent baby porkers. The announcement has been made by the Secretary of Agriculture. A 30 per cent greater pig population is anticipated.

Of course, according to the election conducted by the AAA the farmers of the middle west voted 6 to 1 for a contiuance of the corn-hog control program. But so far as pigs are concerned next year, in spite of the election returns, Serretary Wallace's planners have decided to let nature take its course.

The farmers voted for checks for not raising pigs but the consumers in the cities have screamed loudly against the high price of pork. Evidently the complaints of the consumers made more noise than the votes of the farmers. The result is a lifting of porcine birth control for one year at least by the Secretary of Agriculture and announced he will be back with another corn-hog control program in 1937. Mr. Wallace failed to attach any statement that his return might be conditional on the result of the national election next year.

One thing which has been perplexing the experts of the AAA has been the fact that the country has a big corn crop with not enough pigs to eat the corn. So next year there will be a boom in the production of pigs and a curtailment in the production of corn. So perhaps in 1936 we will go into reverrse and have a big pig crop but not enough corn to supply the pigs. This is something that will be up to the weather man as well as to the professors who write the logarithms on Secretary Wallace's official blackboard.

Mr. Wallace is evidently aware of the fact that pork is high. In his statement there is mention of a 'drouth enforced pork shortage'. The slaughter of six million little pigs at the instance of the AAA and the adding of the processing tax to the price of the housewife's pork roast are discreetly passed over in silence. Of course the pig killing program of the AAA had nothing to do with the pork shortage. It was all due to the drouth. The weather was so dry that the mama pigs just wilted and gave up the idea of giving birth to new families.

Bupt here is the catch in the whole thing. If the pig curtailment program of 1934 didn't have anything to do with the scarcity of pork, then how is the lifting of this curtailment provision going to increase the supply now? The two things just don't jibe, and we wauld like to have the AAA explain this problem to us.

We were educated in the "horse and buggy" days and don't seem able to understand this New Deal monkey business. Or should we say piggy business?

Some archeologists claim they have discovered that there were crocodiles around Washington forty million years ago. And one of the scientists is unkind enough to say that if they find any fossilized crocodiles with their mouths open they will know that these are the remains of members of the congress of that period.

It is said that the most primitive people in the world are the pygmies of the Andaman Islands in the Bay of Bengal. They have not yet learned to light a fire. We presume the government does it for them.

MAN IN THE MOON

TOO MUCH RISK

A few state Democratic leaders pulled a faux pas a few days ago at Montgomery, that may be far-reaching, even among the honest Democrats of Alabama. Alabama's delegation to the next Democratic convention is to carry 22 votes instead of 24, as heretofore.

At some kind of private meeting, these few Democratic leaders got together and named four delegates of these 22, to attend the convention. The other 18 votes will be carried by 36 other men who will rate only one-half a vote each.

Heretofore these leaders have been great champions of the idea of letting the Democratic voters of the state name these delegates, and instruct them who to vote for at the convention. The four delegates already named will go "uninstructed", although it is well known that they will be primed to the gills for Roosevelt.

Judge Leon McCord objected to this hand-picking idea. And he had the backbone to get on the floor and tell the high-hats so. He still believes in letting the voters name the delegates, and instruct them who to vote for. And there is the crux of the matter.

On the face of things, it appears that these "hand-pickers" are a little afraid to leave the matter to the people, for fear they MIGHT not pick the right boys, and MIGHT instruct them to vote for some candidate other than "Franky, dear'. It is significant, also, that the four named are "key men" in the Democratic set-up of the state, and the plotters are quite sure they could persuade their brother delegates if the need arose.

These Roosevelt supporters must be getting rather shaky in their boots if they are afraid to leave their own party affairs to their own voters. Is it a risky job to leave the selection of a Democratic candidate for president to Democratic voters? If Mr. Roosevelt's supporters, themselves, feel that shaky over his prospects, may heaven have mercy on him when 1936 rolls around and the millions of Republicans get a whack at him. He'll really have a use for his vast Warm Springs place then—to recuperate again. But it won't be the same trouble this time. It will be "political fossilization".

A SLAP IN THE FACE

Truly the heads of the national Democratic party are a strange lot. For the past several months it has been common knowledge that they were basing their hope of re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt on the midwest, the grain belt. Early this year the eastern states began to show a tendency to turn back Republican. As election after election was held this tendency became stronger. Finally the Democratic big shots gave up all hope in the east, and President Roosevelt made an "unofficial" trip through the west, supposed to be on a vacation trip, but it was quite significant that his special train stopped at practically every pig trail in the "nations bread basket" and the mighty Frank appeared on the platform to "reassure his hearers". What Frank wanted was not so much to reassure his hearers, but that his hearers might reassure him. He wanted to make sure that he was still standing ace-high in the west, for he was pretty sure by this time that he would have to draw heavily from this region if he was to rule the roost after next year's election.

Reports varied regarding the manner in which Mr. Roosevelt was received on that trip. Some said it was a victory march, while others couldn't see it in that light. And now the president has done another thing which imperils his support even in that last stronghold.

According to Big Jim Farley, the president's right hand man, "the mid-west appreciates the gentle rain of government checks that has been falling there". Now, however, the president and his brain trust have signed a trade pact with Canada which may offset that "appreciation". The government has been paying wheat and corn farmers to NOT raise these products, and thus raise prices, and this trade pact will allow Canadian farmers to ship these grains into the United States almost duty free, thus forcing the price down again. What the mid-western farmers are asking is: "If there is to be plenty of grain products on the American market, why not let us raise them? If we must compete with Canadian farmers, in our own front yard, what is the use of us trying to curb production?" The mid-westerners are thinking, and rightly so, that if they cut down production to hold up their price, they should have the benefit of it, instead of sharing it with Canadian farmers, who suffer no restriction of production, yet enjoy the same prices the American producer has sacrificed to obtain. These thoughts COULD have a bearing on that important 1936 election, too, for those people out there vote for what they think will favor them most, regardless of party. It looks like just another one of the serious blunders the Democrats have made—to us.

WILL OF THE PEOPLE

That bunch at Washington put a foot in their mouths every time they open them. The latest one to get in his own way in his complex and round-about manner of doing things is Secretary Wallace, in his pig business.

Before these "economic managers" took hold of things, the hog and corn crop ran about even—there was always enough corn to feed the porkers in the corn-hog belt, and always enough porkers to eat up the corn. After the big shots took hold, to show nature how to manage the birth control of hogs, however, things have been quite different, but in various ways. Their first move resulted in a shortage of corn to feed the hogs. Then the hog production was cut down, and it was found that there was a surplus of corn. The thing just wouldn't work out right, like it had been doing naturally.

Then came the referendum a few days ago, and, inasmuch as there had been some grumbling against the program, Secretary Wallace said he would allow the corn-hog farmers to say whether they wanted to keep the program another year. They said they did, by about 6 to 1.

Meanwhile, with the shortage of hogs, meat prices had gone sky high, and the pork eaters had howled to high heaven. They had been heard all the way to Washington. Of course a continuance of the corn-hog program would run these prices still higher. Secretary Wallace intimated that he might not have a hog control program after all, even if the farmers did want it. Then the farmers began to howl. However, the meat eaters out-howled the meat raisers, and Mr. Wallace made definite announcement that there would be no program on hogs.

Throughout all this time, too, Mr. Wallace has been denying that his destruction of millions of pigs and brood sows had anything to do with the meat shortage, charging that off to the drouth. Now the hog raisers are asking him this question: "If the destruction of hogs had nothug to do with the meat shortage, how is increased production going to help the supply of meat?" So far Mr. Wallace has slid over answering that one, however. The hog raisers want to know of him, also, just what their wishes mean to him, if anything. The more those fellows do, the worse they get into the soup—hot soup. Poor fellows!—Man in the Moon.

LINCOLN WAS A PARTY MAN

Although Abraham Lincoln is often extolled as a man "above party politics", Blaine Brooks Gernon, writing in the current issue of the National Republic, calls attention to the fact that Lincoln was not averse to party activity and took a keen interest in it from the day he entered public life in Illinois. In part, Mr. Gernon says:

"A Lincoln mural in one of the federal courtrooms in Chicago bears this quotation: 'Every man is said to have his peculiar ambition. Whether it be true or not, I can say, for one, that I have no other so great as that of being truly esteemed by my fellowmen, by rendering myself worthy of their esteem'. Taken from his speech of March 9, 1832, addressed to the voters of Sangamon County, Ill., in his race for public office, that of legislator, it probably best expresses all of the longings and ambitions that were to carry 23-year-old Lincoln from a try for humble office in the obscure hamlet of New Salem to the great office of President of the United States—all in the short space of 29 years.

"It is often glibly said that Lincoln was above partisan politics and that he was somehow beyond that which created him and opened for him the doors of public service. As fine as such eulogies may sound, they have little basis of fact. Mr. Lincoln was a practical politician in the best sense of the word and was, usually, a strict party man.

"It is probable that in the great 1828 national election 19-year-old Abe Lincoln, clerking for Bill Jones, grocer of Gentryville, Ind., got his first taste of politics. This little cross roads hamlet nestling in the low foothills of southern Indiana, a few short miles north of the Ohio River, was the scene of many bitter debates on politics and slavery. Here the young clerk could listen with rapt attention while men violently discussed the merits of Andrew Jackson and Henry Clay. Tom Lincoln and his family were Jackson Democrats, but most of the people in Carter township were Clay men, including the boy's employer, Bill Jones, Dave Turnham, the sheriff, and Bill Wood

"There is nothing in the record to indicate that Abe Lincoln differed from his father's choice of political heroes, yet, such a difference is the only explanation of his subsequent choice of Clay and the Whigs. It is probable that reading the life of the Kentuckian he chose to follow the Millboy of the Slashes and to him was to cling for years. In the debates of 1858 with Douglas, looking back over the span of his years, he stated: 'Henry Clay, my beau ideal of a statesman, the man for whom I fought all of my humble life'. On what little things hang the fate of years!

"July, 1831, found young Lincoln in the microscopic hamlet of New Salem, built on a twisted crust of earth on a bend in the Sangamon River, near Springfiald, Ill., where he acted as grocery clerk and mill assistant to Denton Offut. In August he found time to assist Mentor Graham, village schoolmaster, in his manifold duties as clerk of election. And while this probably gave him no recompense or official standing, it marked him in that backwoods community as a man who could read and write, something that was to be of untold value to his political fortunes.

"In the spring of 1832, Lincoln announced his candidacy for the Illinois legislature. The national Republicans were gradually breaking up into the factions of Clay, Webster and Calhoun, soon to form the Whig party. If Lincoln made any political choice at this time he gave no public utterance of it. All of the candidates for public office in Illinois were apparently Democrats, so that his silence can hardly be chargeable to political fear. The state election took place in August, and the national in November, yet the candidate indicated no preference for either Clay or Jackson. And that fall he saw the hero of New Orleans sweep the nation, Illinois, and even Sangamon County.

"If Lincoln had been an opportunist he should have cast his lot with the Democrats, for they were in power—everywhere. Yet, although Jackson won the New Salem precinct 185 to 70, we note that the grocer-candidate recorded his vote for Clay."

On the day after election the newspapers reported that prices on the stock market had gone up from one to five points. In another column it was stated that the betting on Mr. Roosevelt's re-election had gone down from 10 to 1 to 2 to 1. Maybe the two things work together.

THE PAYROLL PARADE

Since the Chicago Daily News has suggested a parade of the Grand Army of Bureaucrats down Pennsylvania avenue, the next logical step would seem to be the selection of a committee with sufficient patience and physical stamina to sit in the reviewing stand.

This assignment, quite obviously, could not be turned over to weaklings, or even to men of ordinary endurance or ordinary temperament. On the contrary, it would have to go to a variety of super-men cast in the mold, let us say, of "Shipwreck" Kelly, who watches the world with philosophical resignation for days on end atop a flag-pole, and greets the specter of fatigue with Spartan-like disdain.

For if the army of job- holders in the executive branch of the federal government passed the reviewing stand at the rate of 250 a minute, a simple calculation in seventh grade arithmetic reveals that it would require more than 51 hours for the entire procession of 770,128 workers to march by. The stout-hearted and sturdy little band of reviewers would have to watch for nearly 14 solid hours while the pay rollers who have been added since March 4, 1933, swung down Pennsylvania avenue. There would be 105,679 marchers alone who live in the District of Columbia, and it would take them slightly more than seven hours to march by the reviewing stand. The more than 34,000 field workers of the newly organized WPA would be able to pass in review in not quite two hours and 15 minutes. The 2,060 employees of the skeletonized NRA, if they hurried, would be able to make it in nine minutes flat. The job-holders who have been placed under civil service under the New Deal, on the other hand, would not constitute a very formidable division; as a matter of fact, they might, in the general confusion, slip by the reviewing stand unnoticed. For the civil service, with Mr. Farley at the patronage helm, has registered virtually no net gain.

It is painfully obvious, we think that the proposal of the Grand Army of Bureaucracy would be a physically exhausting affair. Even if John Taxpayer had sufficient endurance to sit in the reviewing stand and see it through, he would probably vote it a highly lugubrious form of entertainment. This would be particularly the case if he were asked to review in addition, the $1,400,000,000 which represents the annual payroll of the Grand Army. For if these pay roll dollars passed him at the rate of $250 a minute he would still be saluting them, from his flag-draped reviewing box, long after October, 1945.—Minneapolis Tribune.

NO PRISON SONG IN TOPEKA

Topeka, the refined and dignified capital of the good old state of Kansas, is somewhat on the horns of a dilemma. But this ought to provide a real break for the lawbreakers, if any, in that sedate community. Topeka is now without the services of a city jail, according to the Associated Press. The city authorities demolished the old jail to make way for a new one, with all the latest improvements and modern conveniences. The jail was to be built with funds furnished by the WPA. But now, according to the dispatch, Director Oscar J. Palmer, of the District WPA, says there is nothing doing. The WPA activity is not interested in it and according to the director, the hopes for a new jail house through the organization will have to be abandoned also.

Mr. Palmer suggested to the authorities that they apply at Washington for help from the PWA. But this sort of aid would involve a bond issue and the people of Topeka have become tax conscious and have already turned down two bond issues.

So now Topeka is without a city jail and the county bastile is getting the prisoners without having to compete for them.

Some folks whose hindsight is better than their forethought will now probably say that the city authorities shouldn't have torn down the old jail until they got the money for the new one. WPA has fallen down on the job and PWA is too expensive. So Topeka is in the soup so far as a new jail is concerned. Somebody has already called the turn by suggesting that the New Deal campaign slogan next year ought to be "Don't change alphabets in the middle of the soup."

Of course in the old horse and buggy days the cities and towns of the country used to build their own jails without assistance from Uncle Sam. But this idea is hopelessly outmoded, just as are the old jails, which didn't have elevators, shower baths and sun-rooms for prisoners.

It is said that a popularly priced edition of Anthony Adverse has been issued. If this book has a big sale, look for a lumber shortage next year.

THANK YOU, AMERICA,

for more than a Million cars in 1935

This year Chevrolet has two very good reasons for saying, "Thank you, America."

One reason is that people have bought so many Chevrolet cars that production for the year will reach 1,040,000.

And the other reason is that they have placed a record number of orders for new 1936 Chevrolets during the first few weeks they have been on display.

Chevrolet is indeed happy to say, "Thank you, America," and to pledge continued adherence to the manufacturing and service policies which have won and held the friendship of the nation.

Christian Endeavor News

The Christian Endeavor sicety had a very interesting program Sunday evening. Instead of the regular type of program, a Thanksgiving pageant "The Landing of the Pilrims" was given. The young people in pilgrim costume and the singing of Pilgrim hymns was very attractive. The pageant was directed by Miss Elizabeth Glasson. The purpose of the pageant was to picture the coming of the first Pilgrims to America and their first Thanksgiving.

The Christian people of Thorsby met in a mass meeting at the Thorsby Congregational church last Sunday afternoon. This was the second of a number of such meetings, at which the people discuss means of bettering the existing social conditions of the town and surrounding community. The number attending was good, but not so large as at the first meeting, held Sunday, November 17.

After a brief opening discussion, in which the need for organization was pointed out, V. H. Sutlive was elected chairman of the meetings. Some few reports were made and several helpful discussions arose. The need was felt for different committees and such were appointed. We have the needs of the young people, especially, at heart, and are trying to do the greater part of our work for them.

We believe that these meetings are going to do much for Thorsby, and that the influence of this Christian group will be felt in many places.

Another meeting will be held in the Thorsby Baptist church at 2:30 next Sunnay, December 1st.

FROM M. C. HENLEY

Thomasville, Ala., Nov. 23, 1935.
Eidtor Union-Banner:

I have been living in Clarke county for the past two years and have not missed a single copy of the good old Union-Banner. I get the paper on Thursday as same as the folks at home. I can't tell you how much I apreciate it as I keep pretty well up with the happenings around home through its ages. No one can hardly appreciate The Union-Banner and the good roads in Chilton county like he ought to until he gets away from the County.

And speaking of the good roads, I feel that the good road system of Chilton County is a worthy memorial to the administration of Judge Reynolds. I think that the people of Chilton county owe him the credit, or at least largely so, for the same. We can never forget the faithful services that he rendered during his administration in building up the county in its every interest. And I think we ought to show to him that we appreciate this service while he lives and not wait till he is dead to talk about it. I only hope that all of his successors, both Democrats and Republicans, will follow his example and give us the faithful and efficient service that he did.

Well I would like to say to our friends around home that everything is going nicely with us. The good Lord has been gracious to us and supplied our needs bountifully for which we are very thankful. We feel that your prayers in our behalf have been answered and we hope that you will continue to pray for us. We are entering a new conference year and we want to do everything we possibly can for the glory of God and the advancement of His kingdom this year. I hope this will be the sincere desire of every pastor and every church member of every denomination that proclaims the true gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. I trust that we will all have a great year and that great and wonderful things will be accomplished for the Master.

Well I will close, wishing evreybody a great Christmas and a very proserous new year, together with good health and hapiness. Your friend and brother in Christ.—M. C. Henley.

Farmers Lose 64 Million In 1934 AAA Contracts

Gain More Than $600,000,000 On Uncontrolled Commodities Same Year

A smashing indictment of the AAA and a challenge to answer direct charges of fraudulent claims and half truths, was delivered over the N. B. C. hook-up, by National Secretary, E. E. Kennedy, of the Farmers Educational and Co-operative Union. He cited figures of the United States Department of Agriculture to show that American farmers were actually suffering huge losses of net income, on crops and commodities now controlled by the Agricultural Adjustment Administratin. Taking his computations from crops and market officials, Federal Government publications, Mr. Kennedy broadcast the following startling information: 1. Cash income from seven farm crops and commodities controlled by the AAA actually declined a total of $64,673,000, in 1934 as compared to 1933, where no AAA contracts were used. 2nd, total cash income to farmers from crops and commodities in 1934 increased $859,000,000 above 1933. But practically three-fourths of this increase was made on crops not controlled by the AAA. Third, six-sevenths of the farmers engaged in raising of hogs and corn suffered losses in 1934 totalling $99,000,000, as compared to 1933, while but one-seventh of the producers were benefitted.

Fourth, Federal and State jobholders tied to the bureaucratic machinery of the AAA consumed in wages and salaries practically $22,000,000 from processing taxes paid by farmers of the United States. Income gains on non-controlled crops and commdities was far higher.

Floods of bunk propoganda and half truths, published at the expense of the government, and broadcast through the mail under free franking privileges of the bureaucrats, have been sent throughout the nation, giving the impression that crop control, as exercised by the AAA, could be given credit for a large and substantial increase in the income of farmers who signed up these contract

Mr. Kennedy, in his remarkable address, challenged the AAA to deny that such claims were fraudulent, and made the deliberate purpose and intention of deceiving the farmers and the people generally. The effect of these false claims has been to arouse the consuming public in organized opposition to meat prices and the prevailing level of all farm goods. As a matter of fact, Mr. Kennedy shows that farms participating in the crop control schemes of Henry Wallace and Chester Davis, actually received $64,000,000 less in 1934 than they did in the preceding year, on the seven commodities controlled by the AAA.

The imposition and collection of huge processing tax funds deducted from the seling proceeds of all farmers and donated to about one-seventh of the producers, who had executed contracts, swelled the fraudulent totals used by Wallace and Davis so that they could point to gains of $220,000,000 on crops under their control. However, Mr. Kennedy points out that crops and commodities which had refused to submit to AAA domination showed an increase 3 times the sum of the gains on contract crops, totalling practically $650,000,000 increase during 1934 as compared to 1933. Six farmers loses to everyone that gains by the AAA.

Citing the case of the corn and hog producers, Mr. Kennedy showed that six-sevenths of the total number of corn and hog producers suffered a loss of more than $99,000,000 during 1934, relative to their 1933 income. Whereas only one-seventh of the farmers engaged in the business of raising corn and hogs were benefitted by the AAA.

Concluding his address with a challenge to the bureaucrats to make a reply to his charges, Mr. Kennedy urged all listeners to write for actual figures, compiled and made available by government crop and income agencies, which would in themsclves indict and revel the huge fraud being perpetrated upon farmers and agriculture under the guise of crop control. Copies of the remarkable expense of the bureaucratic swindle may be obtained by writing Farmers Union Hearquarters, in the city of Kankakee, Illinois, addressed to Edward E. Kennedy, national secretary. —B. S, Frederick, Jemison, Ala., Secretary and Treasurer F. E. and C. U. of A.

County Farm Agent's Notes

ARBOR DAY PROGRAMS ARE NOW AVAILABLE

Montgomery.—Gov. Bibb Graves has designated Friday, December 6th, for general observance throughout the state as Arbor Day. The text of the Governor's proclamation is as follows:

Whereas the welfare of the people and the progress of civilization are dependant to a great extent upon the existence and proper use and enjoyment of trees and forests; and

Whereas the State of Alabama has been blessed by the Creater with magnificent forest resources which, however, in the past have been much neglected, and which are in serious need of restoration and development; and

Whereas experience and history have shown that the proper care, perpetuation and use of forests and trees can best be achieved by unified action on the part of all citizens;

Therefore, I, Bibb Graves, Governor of the State of Alabama, do designate and set apart the day of Friday, December 6, 1935, as Arbor Day. I recommend to all citizens, associations, partiotic societies and civic organizations, and especially to the schools of the State, the patriotic observance of this occasion by the planting of trees in appropriate places and by such other suitable exercises as may contribute to the further understanding and appreciation of the benefits to be derived from the preservation and culture of trees and forests.

The State Commission of Forestry, according to custom, has published a pamphlet of supgestions for Arbor Day programs for the use of teachers, clubs and other organizations interested in promoting the public welfare. It is very hard to estimate the number of such publications which will be requested by the various groups, and in order to eliminate waste caused by oversupply, or inconvenience on account of too few being printed, it is hoped that all individuals or organizations who expect to use the 1935 booklet will write to the State Forester, 500 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Ala., by November 30, stating the number desired.

GIST GIVES COTTON PRICE INFORMATION

Montgomery, Ala.—Records for the past ten years show that cotton prices average as high or higher during the harvest season as any other season of the year, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician.

"The average price from August to December, inclusive, during the past 10 years was 13.25 cents per pound while the average price from January to July, inclusive, was 12.57 cents per pound," he says.

"It will be seen, therefore, that the farmer who sold his cotton during the harvest season from August to November, inclusive, would have received the highest price obtainable during the 10 years, an average of about $3.40 per bale over the average price from January to July," Gist comments.

COTTON CONSUMPTION HIGHEST SINCE 1929

Auburn, Ala.—World mill consumption of all cotton during the year which ended July 31 this year was the largest since 1928-29, reports the United States Department of Agriculture in its 1936 farm outlook.

Current conditions indicate that though consumption might be materially affected by further war developments, the report says.

Exports of American cotton show a gain of 119,000 running bales in October, 1935, over the same month in 1934 with the outlook that exports should be somewhat greater for this season than last, says the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Exports in October, 1934, were 592,000 bales and in 1935, 711,000 bales.

AGREEMENT EXPECTED TO INCREASE FARM EXPORTS

Auburn, Ala.—Agricultural exports from the United States to Canada will increase in consequence of the recent Canadian trade agreement, predicts the United States Department of Agriculture. "In addition the domestic market for farm products should expand on acocunt of increased domestic payrolls," says the department.

After pointing out that exports to Canada declined from $50,000,000 to $15,000,000 during the past five years, Secretary Wallace expresses the opinion that the new agreement will benefit "the whole of agriculture."

"The United States has always had a greater volume of trade with Canada than with any other country except the United Kinkdom," Mr. Wallace point out. "This extremely profitable mutual relationship, amounting on the average to over a billion dollars a year, was rudely broken by our Tariff Act of 1930 and by the retaliatory Canadian tariff shortly thereafter. It is my opinion that the new trade agreement with Canada is beneficial to all people of the United States, and especially to farmers.

"There are a few farm groups which will fear they are being hurt by the new agreement, but actually in those cases the tariff reductions are moderate and in addition there are quota restrictions of such a nature that imports from Canada cannot affect the American price structure by more than 1 per cent. This small effect, in my judgment, will as a rule be more than offset by the increased payrolls of industries established along the northern border and in the Northeastern States. These increased payrolls will stimulate the demand in the United States for most of the farm products in which there has been a slight reduction in duty. I am thoroughly convinced that the Canadian treaty will prove of benefit to the whole of American agriculture, and that no particular branch of farming will be seriously, if at all, disadvantaged.

CROTALARIA SHOULD BE TURNED DURING WINTER

Auburn, Ala.—To get the greatest good from a crop of crotalaria, farmers should turn the crop in December or early January.

This is advised by Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station, who says that "if plowing is delayed until spring poor results from the crop following the crotalaria are sometimes obtained."

The plants should be cut with a stalk cutter when they are thoroughly dry, he advises. "This makes the heavy growth easily turned under."

In advising farmers to save their crotalaria seed, J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, says that "the seed may be stripped by hand or the plant may be cut and the seed thrashed or flailed out."

STABLE MANURE BEST FERTILIZER

Auburn, Ala.—One of the best fertilizers for farmers to use under cotton, corn, and other crops is stable manure, much of which can be saved on Alabama farms during the winter months if farmers devote a little time to its production.

By supplying animals with bedding of leaves, pine needles, or straw and by keeping halls of barns, sheds and barnlot well covered with litter, leaves or straw, much valuable manure can be produced and saved, reports J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

"If the barnlot is too large to cover with bedding, build a pen of rails or logs and cover the bottom with 12 to 15 inches of litter," he says. "Rake up the droppings from the lot and throw them into the pen until almost one foot deep. Then add another layer of litter. Build up with alternate layers until about 6 feet high."

Rid Yourself of Kidney Poisons

DO you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; backache, headache, dizziness, loss of energy, leg pains, swellings and puffiness under the eyes? Are you tired, nervous—feel all unstrung and don't know what is wrong?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly for functional kidney disorder permits excess waste to stay in the blood, and to poison and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. You can get the genuine, time-tested Doan's at any drug store.

ISABELLA NEWS

Isabella football boys went to Clanton Friday with a strong determination of giving Chilton High boys a hard fight for the "Game of the Season." Isabella made more first downs through the line during the first half, without either side scoring. The second half opened with both teams fighting for a victory. During the first part of the last half Isabella began throwing and completing passes, with Jones throwing to Deason, Fox and Williams. Oden and LeCroy made considerable gains on wide end runs and trick plays. Jones threw a pass to Deason, who ran four yards for the first touchdown. Isabella failed to get the extra point on another pass. Clanton began to fight harder, but they failed to plow the Isabella line for very much gain. As fate would have it, Clanton completed a long pass and was stopped near the goal line. They fought until they got a touchdown, but they failed to move the Isabella line for the extra point.

The Isabella boys are looking forward to whip C. C. H. S. next year. Clanton has yet to see that victory over Coach Porch's team.

The following program was rendered by the Jeffersonian Literary Society: Devotional, Joseph Green; A talk on the Anarctic, Leo Deason; History of the Pilgrims, Ruth Cummings; Reading, James Traywick; Riddles, Frank Deason; Jokes, James Powell; Latest Inventions, Clifton Davenport.

VIVISECTION LEAGUE WRITES REGARDING RABIES PASTEUR

New York City, Nov. 21, 1935

Editor Union-Banner:

In your issue of Nov. 7th, it is said: "A mad dog, starting in Concord community Monday afternoon had quite a spree that afternoon and night. It is said to have bitten a dog belonging to Reese Baker and probably some other dogs in the community.

The following from Dr. William Brady, well-konwn syndicate writer in the "Brooklyn Eagle", January 13, 1935, should be of interest to your readers:

"Pasteur treatment for rabies is not serum. It is inoculation with dried spinal cord of an animal which has died of rabies. This is blind treatment, for nobody knows the cause of rabies in animals, no specific organism has been isolated, no virus proved by Koch's law, and indeed no one knows whether Pasteur treatment confers any protection against rabies.

"In the many instances where this treatment is given to persons who have been bitten by presumably rabid animals, who can say whether the inoculation has anything to do with the fact the great majority of such victims develop no grave effects?

"According to an abstract of the records of the Los Angles County Hospitals, kindly furnished by Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, Los Angles County Health Officer, there were 15 cases of human rabies treated in the hospital in the ten-year period from 1922 to 1932. All terminated in death . . . The Pasteur treatment failed in 100 per cent of cases.

"In an open letter on the subject in a Los Angeles newspaper Dr. Pomeroy asserts that 'Once rabies is acquired by man it is 100 per cent ftal.'

"Frankly I think it is 90 per cent failure of Pasteur treatment against rabies, I'd rather take my chances without it because I'm afraid that inoculation with God knows what it is the cause of not a few of the prolonged paralyses that victims of Pasteur treatment sometimes suffer." —Sue M. Farrell, president.

Miss Gladys Cobb, of Jemison, Alabama, is in the Woodlawn Hospital, Birmingham, Alabama, where she has undergone an operation for appendicitis. Her condition is good and hospital attendauts said she would probably be at home within ten days or two weeks. Mrs. J. E. Cobb, Miss Gladys Cobb's mother, has been with her daughter constantly during her illness.

Liquor Has Helped Increase Accidents

Drinking Driver Is Serious Menace Is Report of Milwaukeean

Evanston, Ill.—Completely, emphatically exploding the latest proposal of the Council for Moderation to establish so-called "moderate" use of alcoholic beverages on a safe and "respectable" basis, have come simultaneous testimony from traffic experts in all parts of the country.

First of all the unevadable and constant menace of the one-or-two-drink "moderate" users of intoxicants was spectacularly proved at the Nationol Safety Congress at Louisville, October 14-18 by unique experiments carried on in the presence of the delegates by Dr. Herman A. Heise of Milwaukee.

Dr. Hesie who has accumulated scientific evidence on this subject and who has already shown that the "had-been drinking" rather than the "drunken" driver is the really serious menace although not yet adequately credited in police statistics, conducted these experiments with a number of volunteers who were tested as to their respective efficiency before and after taking small quantities (2 oz. and 4 oz.) of alcohol, approximately little more than a single drink. The tests included threading needles, operating typewriters, shifting gears and applying brakes, affording concrete contrasts in time reactions, variations in judgement, hand-and-eye coordination, etc.

The National Safety Council report pointed out that perhaps the most significant fact emphasized in these experiments was that "the man or womon who has been drinking, but is not apparently drunk is as serious traffic menace because of the previously unrecognized harmful effects of alcohol."

A detailed tabulation of the tests showed a from 13 per cent to a 56 per cent decrease in efficiency in hand-eye coordination, and showed a from 1 per cent to a 43 per cent decrease in efficiency in typewriter operation, etc. by those who had consumed small but specific amounts of whisky, as compared with the records made by the same individuals before drinking, declared the Safety Council report.

HOOVER DEMANDS RETURN TO IDEALS

Wanderings of "Suicide Road" Should Be Halted, Says Ex-President

San Francisco.—A "realistic return to American ideals" to preserve true "America liberalism," was demanded Wednesday by former President Herbert Hoover in an address prepared for delivery at a Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

"American liberalism is not regimentation," Mr. Hoover declared. "It is not repression. It is never coercion or bureaucrats. . . ."

"Liberty has gone down the suicide road of socialism and fascism in a score of nations," he said.

"The infection of these ideas into America have brought our nation to a dividing of the ways fateful to free men.

"And here is the clash of true American liberalism and its ideals with these imported social philosophies of government.

Characterizing "American liberalism" as "a great faith and a great philosophy" that grew out of the American revolution, Mr. Hoover dehlared it is not the possession of any political party.

"In fear and distress we have been tempted for a time to wander from the true path. We must return to it before it is too late . . . . .

"In a world struggling against the forces of disruption we have a high duty to keep America American. . . . .

"Hitherto we have mostly regarded Americanization as a special treatment we give to foreign born before they file their naturalization papers. The job today has become far bigger than that. There are hosts of natives who need treatment."

MR. J. V. HANNA HERE

The Union-Banner was pleased Friday to have Mr. J. V. Hanna, of Birmingham, visit us. Mr. Hanna, together with his wife, spent Thanksgiving with Dr. and Mrs. C. O. Lawrence in Clanton.

Mrs. Hanna is a niece of Mrs. Lawrence. Mr. Hanna is a mechanic and monotype operator for The Birmingham Age-Herald.

We were indeed glad to have Mr. Hanna call to se us. "Birds of a feather flock together," and printers are no exception; in fact they are probably more inclined to look up their own kind when roaming around than any other class of people. A printer in any printing office is at home. We make a standing invitation to Mr. Hanna to visit us every time he is in Clanton.

GRESHAM LOWERY ON WBRC

The Union-Banner has received the following communication from Gresham Lowery:

"Wish you would announce through The Union-Banner that I am on the air every morning over WBRC from 6:30 to 7:30 on the "Break of Day" program. I have a partner, and we go on as "Luke and Gene". Would be glad for my friends to write in their requests.—Gresham Lowery."

CELEBRATE SIXTY-SIXTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Robinson, of Providence, Beat 16, celebrated their sixty-sixth wedding anniversary on Sunday, November 24th. No unusual activities were had, but the old people enjoyed the day quietly together, only a few of their closest friends calling on them during the day.

NEW BORROWING MAY PUSH DEBT PAST 30 BILLIONS

Washington, Nov. 29.—The Treasury's December borrowing plans—to be announced Monday—today held potentialities for pushing the public debt over $30,000,000,000.

The extent of the rise depended, of course, on how much new borrowing, as distinguished from the refunding of maturing securities, was intended. For the time being the figure was carefully guarded.

However, some who follow the situation contended that, in the light of the Treasury's current cash position, the amount might run to $500,000,000, which would carry the debt to another all time peak of more than $30,000,000,000. It stood today at $29,585,000,000.

Possibly preparing the public mind for the announcement, President Roosevelt, speaking in Atlanta today, said that early in his administration the banking fraternity told him the country "could safely stand a national debt of between $55,000,000,000 and $70,000,000,000."

At the same time he asserted he had no idea of running the debt to any such figure.

Since his administration began, he said, the debt has risen from $21,000,000,000 to $29,500,000,000, the latter figure not taking into consideration a cash balance which he said was nearly $1,500,000,000, and recoverable assets aggregating $4,500,000,000.

Today's Treasury statement, however, showed the working balance at $1,051,000,000, its lowest point in a number of months. This factor furnished the principal basis of redictions that new borrowing might run to $500,000,000.

SECOND CROP APPLES

Mrs. G. L. Griffin of Verbena, Rte. 1, brought to The Union-Banner, four apples which were from the second crop of apples grown on the same tree this year. Two of the apples were almost ripe and the other two were about the size of ordinary hen eygs. They are horse apples.

This is something rather unusual. We have had two exmples of this brought to the Banner office this year. The other one was brought in by Mr. Emmett Powell.

STATE COMMITTEE IS AGAIN CENSURED

Montgomery, Nov. 29.—Criticism of the State Democratic Committee's action in handpicking four delegates to the 1936 national Democratic convention was voiced today by Mrs. A. Y. Malone, of Dothan, national Democratic committeewoman from Alabama.

In a letter of Judge Leon McCord here, national Democratic committeeman, Mrs. Malone, who also is Dothan's postmistress, stated:

"I deplore any move which would deny the people of Alabama the opportunity to express fully and freely their choice of a party leader."

Judge McCord recently criticized the state committee's selection of Sen. Hugo Black and John H. Bankhead, Gov. Bibb Graves and John D. McQueen, state committee chairman, as Alabama's delegates to the 1936 national convention.

Bonus Over F.D.R Is Seen By McNary

Flat Prediction Made While V. F. W. Launches Drive to Overcome Opposition

Washington, Nev. 30.—Senator McNary of Oregon, republican leader, predicted today that at the session of congress beginning in January, a soldier's bonus bill will be enacted despite a president's veto.

McNary, who helped the Senate to sustain last May President Roosevelt's disapproval of the Patman plan to pay the $2,000,000,000 immediately with new currency, told questioners:

"A bonus bill will pass this session over a President's veto, in my opinion."

Non-Inflation Bill Favored

He did not say what kind of a bill, but there have been other forecasts that any non-inflation bill would have the better chance.

As McNary made the statement, the Veterans of Foreign Wars requsted their state and district chairmen to establish contact with other Senators and Representatives to combat what they termed a "crafty campaign" to raise a "smoke screen" in opposition to the bonus.

The V. F. W., said "selfish business interests and individuals in the administration and congress" seek to convey the idea that bonus payment means increased taxation.

"The so-called 'bonus' must not be jockeyed into any such controversal position," the V. F. W. said.

A.&P. Employees To Hold Banquet

Birmingham Unit Won Prize Over All Stores In Southern Group

The Birmingham unit of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company will hold a banquet at the Tutwiler Hotel in Birmingham at an early date. The specific date has not yet been set.

The affair is a celebration by the Birmingham unit of its success in winning the loving cup offered to the unit among the several departments of the company in the South in a recent 12-week contest which ended Saturday night November 30.

The Birmingham unit, with 159 stores, won over all other southern units. The contest was for (1) Greatest sales increase; (2) Least expense rate; (3) Greatest net profit.

I. O. Black is General Superintendent of the Birmingham unit; A. D. Deese, Assistant General Superintendent; under Mr. Deese there are five field supervisors, each having a group of stores to look after. An offer was made, whereby each one of these supervisors could offer a prize of $50 to the store in his district which led in the contest.

Mr. M. S. Cannon is supervisor over the local store, which is one of the 18 stores in this group. Mr. G. C. Armstrong, manager of the locan store, believes that his store has won the prize, although official notification has not been made as to the winner. Mr. Armstrong had the following to say:

"Although official notice has not been given, I am quite sure that the Clanton store has won the $50.00 prize in our district. If we do win the prize,, I intend to see that the boys who are employed here get the money and the honor for winning, for it has been their courteous service and hard work that has made our victory possible. We have all worked hard, advertised to the limit, and given as courteous service as we know how to render. This, together with our close prices and high grade merchandise has put us over the top."

During the 12-week contest, Mr. Armstrong stated that the average weekly increase in sales for his store amounted to $580.00.

Two floors of the Tutwiler Hotel have already been reserved for this event, and all store managers and full time employees of all Atlantic & Pacific stores in the Birmingham unit will be guests at the banquet. Mr. Callahan, General Superintendent of the Southern division of A. & P., will be the principal speaker, and will present the prize loving cup to officials of the Birmingham unit.

THE UNION-BANNER APPRECIATES SUBSCRIPTIONS FROM CLUBS, ETC.

Since The Union-Banner has had its special rate of one year for one dollar, and has allowed a commission to clubs and organizations that worked up subscriptions, quite a number have been turned in through various organizations over the country. The Union-Banner appreciates this business, both as to the organizations and as to the individuals paying the money.

Other organiations wishing to work on the proposition will find it a way to raise some ready money. If one subscription is gotten or if it is one hundred, all will be the same except the amount of compensation. You are urged to get into the game while the price is still one dollar.

Failure of AAA Taxes Reported

U. S. Department Director Says Consumer, Farmer Bear Processing Levy

Washington, Dec. 1.—An assertion was made today by one of the agriculture depiartment's chieftains that the AAA's processing taxes have either been passed to the consumer or taken indirectly from the farmer's pocket.

Dr. A. G. Black, in his annual report as chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics hinted also that he considered some better means of financing the farm adjustment program might be found.

"Studies of the effect of processing taxes have been made," Dr. Black said, "particularly in relation to wheat, cotton and hogs. Briefly the findings are that processors in general have not absorbed the taxes, but that they have been passed on to the consumer or have tended to lower prices to farmers below what these prices would be if some means other than processing were available for financing the program."

At the same time, however, he maintained that "along with benefit payments to farmers and with price increases due to the control of production, the income of wheat, cotton and hog producers "have been raissed."

Coincidentally, a new attack in the AAA came from the American Liberty League. In a statement the League asserted that "existing regimentation of the farmers of the United States constituted a definite challenge to the American form of government."

It contended that the financial difficulties of farmers were "seized upon as a political opportunity and used to force them into signing agreements." The result, it added, was a condition "bordering closely upon peasantry or serfdom."

In addition to contending the AAA is unconstitutional, the League asserted that devices for regulating production "fit into a system wherein individual freedom is subordinated to the whims of the government as in communist Russia, facists Italy and Nazi Germany."

In his annual report Dr. Black praised particularly the marketing agreement provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

H. H. ARMSTRONG CHOSEN AS MEMBER COUNTY BOARD

At a meeting of the County Board of Education last Friday, Mr. H. H. Armstrong, of Beat 14, was chosen as member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. C. Nelson.

Mr Armstrong is an outstanding citizen of his part of the county, being located in the extreme western part of the county. He is a man always interested in the welfare of his county and has always taken an active interest in school work. The Board acted wisely in making this choice, both from a geographical standpoint, and as to the quality of man selected.

The members of the board now are: S. J. M. Webb, W. L. Sanders, J. P. Payne, C. L. Wilkins and H. H. Armstrong.

ROOSEVELT IS GRATEFUL FOR STATE SUPPORT

Montgomery, Nov. 27.—Action of the state Democratic committee in endorsing him for renomination and its choice of four delegates to the Democratic national convention is complimented by President Roosevelt in a letter made public today by Gov. Bibb Graves.

Governor Graves disclosed the President's message in expressing appreciation of the state committee's action in naming him as one of the four delegates to the national convention from the state at large.

Sens. Hugo Black and John H. Bankhead and State committee chairman John D. McQueen of Tuscaloosa also were named delegates to the national convention.

The president's letter soid:

"I need hardly tell you that I am delighted with the committee's choice of delegates to the coming Democratic national convention. Will you please express my appreciation to the committee for the expressions of confidence and support contained in the resolution?"

Governor Graves stated that the committee's resolutions naming him as one of the four delegates to the national convention "meets with my heartiest approval and I accept your commission with the assurance that I shall loyally and with all my strength carry out the wishes so admirably therein expressed."

SALE OF SECURITIES WOULD RUN PUBLIC DEBT TO 30 AND A HALF BILLION DOLLARS

Washington, Dec. 1.—The government requested a loan of $900,000,000 tonight to finance the winter work-relief peak and increase the treasury's store of ready cash.

If the full $900,000,000 in new cash is raised, the nation's public debt will be pushed to a new all-time high of about $30,500,000,000. It stood at $29,641,606,134 on Nov. 27.

A statement by Secretary Morgenthau offered for cash subscription an issue of $450,000,000 in 2¾ per cent 10-year treasury bonds, and an equal amount of 1½ per cent five-year Treasury notes.

In addition holders of $418,000,000 in 2½ per cent Treasury notes maturing Dec. 15 were offered the privilege of either the new bonds or notes.

The Secretary's announcement included the provision, however, that the total of the new issues may be increased in direct proportion to the amount of the maturing notes exchanged.

Thus, if, as would normally be the case 80 per cent of the maturing notes or about $335,000,000, are offered for exchange, the total of the newly issued securities would be increased by a like amount to more than $1,200,000,000. The remainder would be redeemed in cash.

Nearly Two Billion Borrowed

This would bring the total of such borrowings since the present fiscal year began last July 1 to more than $1,700,000,000.

REV. J. ROBERT BEAN HERE

Rev. J. Robert Bean, of Bessemer, is spending a few days with relatives and friends in and near Clanton. He came to the home of his cousin, J. Dudley Collins, last Friday and preached at Friendship church Sunday at 11 o'clock. He will remain in this vicinity all this week and will preach at Maynard's Chapel next Sunday. He will visit among his friends and relatives at Collins Chapel while down here.

Mobile People Want Amendment Passed

Law Will Affect Only That County; Election on December 17

To our Fellow Albamians:

Among he Constitutional Amendments which you will be called upon to vote on in a state-wide election to be held on Tuesday, December 17, 1935, is one which provides for a Constitutional Amendment which only affects Mobile County. This Amendment is being submitted to you at our request, in order that we can get our county on a cash basis and affect the enormous savings of the County which will result from being able to "Pay as you go."

We have carefully studied the proposed Constitutional Amendment which will appear as proposed amendment No. 1 on the official ballot, and each and every member of this Board thinks its passage is of the utmost importance to the future welfare of our county. No county in the state is interested in this Amendment in any manner whatsoever, except Mobile County and we are taking the liberty of addressing this letter to several of the leaders in each of the communities in this state to request that they call this amendment to the attention of their friends and neighbors and try to get out for us on the 17th instant an almost solid vote in favor of this proposed amendment No. 1.

Assuring you of our appreciation of any assistance you may render us in this matter and trusting you will call upon us whenever we can reciprocate your courtesy, we are—Yours very truly, Daniel T. McCall, President; M. B. Herzfield, member; Godfrey W. Alexander, member; W. W. Bolton, member; A. B. Jefferies, member, Board of Revenue and Road Commissioners.

Grand Jury Report Issued Last Week

Fifteen True Bills Returned Against Seventeen Defendants

The State of Alabama, Chilton County—Circuit Court.

To Hon. Arthur Glover, as Judge of said Court:

We, the Grand Jury empanelled for the July term, have completed our investigation of all matters that came before us as Grand Jurors at this session and herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 21 cases and have examined 79 witnesses and are returning herewith 15 true bills against 17 defendants.

We have made an inspection of the almshouse and find that it is being handled in a very efficient manner by those in charge and we wish to take this occasion to commend our officers for the satisfactory manner in which the poor of the County are being cared for.

On our inspection of the county jail we found it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners and find that the prisoners confined therein are being fed and cared for with reasonable comfort. We also found a few of the window panes broken out. We understand that the window panes in the jail are of such character that they cannot be secured locally and that arrangements have already been made to replace these broken panes. We feel this should be attended to as soon as it can conveniently be done.

We have been informed that the Commissioners Court has approved the erection of a new home for the jailer, which is to replace the old and delapidated building that is now used. This Grand Jury wishes to go on record as highly endorsing and approving this expenditure of County funds on the part of the Commissioners Court.

We have examined the fee book of the Probate Judge and find it neatly kept and correct in so far as we were able to ascertain. We have examined the bonds of the various County officials and find that they are ample for the protection of the public, and in our examination of the sheriff's account with the State for feeding prisoners we find that it is being kept in accordance with the law. On our examination of the office of the County Superintendent of Education we find that his books, records and papers are neatly kept and in so far as we are able to ascertain were being kept fully in accordance with the law.

During our investigation we found considerable complaint of people over the county having their cattle stolen and feel that the butchers of the county are not familiar with the law which is found in Volume 2 of the 1923 Alabama Code at page 112 in section 3483, which is as follows:

Butchers' record of animals killed. Every butcher who fails to keep a record of every cow or animal of the cow kind killed, showing the color, earmarks, and brand of cow or animal of the cow kind killed or butchered, and the residence of the person from whom purchased, and when, and also the approximate gross weight at the time purchased and at the time when killed or butchered, or who fails to make the required entries above specified within twenty-four hours after butchering any cow or animal of the cow kind, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than five hundred dollars, and may be sentenced to hard labor for the county for a period of not exceeding twelve months.

Section 3484 provides as follows: Record open to inspection.—All persons shall have a right to inspect at any time the book ordered to be kept by the preceding section.

We feel that this is a wise prostrictly followed by every butcher and we take this opportunity to request that Sheriff J. R. Hardy and his deputies from time to time make investigation to see whether or not the butchers are complying with the above law.

We wish to request the Court to call to the attention of the next Grand Jury that is empanelled in this county this particular provision of our report, in order that they may take the matter up with the Sheriff to see whether or not he and his deputies have complied with our request.

We, having completed our investigation of all matters brough before us, respectfully ask that we be recessed to such time as your honor may see fit and think proper to have us again convene.

This November 26, 1935.—H. T. Williams, Foreman

IN MEMORY OF KING DAVID HAYES

King David Hayes passed to that great and happy home on November 18, 1935. All was done for him that loving hands could do, but it was all in vain and God saw fit to call him home.

He leaves to mourn his going his loving wife, one son and one daughter and two brothers, seven sisters and a host of relatives and friends. Weep not dear wife and children for the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away. He told everybody before going that he was willing to go at any time, that there was nothing between him and God.

A place is vacant in our home that never can be filled. Some day we will meet him in that sinless summerland where we will be with him forever.

The remains were laid to rest in Sardis cemetery, with Spigner in charge.—Written by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Bessie Wright.

Lesson for December 8

NEHEMIAH REBUILDING THE WALL OF JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Nehemiah 4:6-9, 15-21
GOLDEN TEXT—The people had a mind to work. Nehemiah 4:6.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Friends Work Together.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Team-Work.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC — Co-operation in Religious Work.

I. Nehemiah's Mission to Jerusalem (Neh. 2)..

While performing his official duty as cupbearer to the Persian king, Nehemiah learned of the distress of his brethren at Jerusalem. The walls of the city were broken down, its gates burnt, and the remnant of the captives were in great affliction and reproach. This news greatly moved him. He definitely asked God to give the king a favorable attitude toward his project. In answer to his prayer he was granted a leave of absence from the Persian court and credentials from the king. He journed to Jerusalem and made a survey of the city by night without disclosing his purpose to anyone. Having thus obtained first-hand information, he called the representatives of the Jews together and said, "Let us build the walls of Jerusalem."

II. Preparation for the Building (Neh. 3).

The division of labor in this project displayed Nehemiah's administrative ability. A wise distribution of labor makes difficult tasks easy. Observe some outstanding features of his administrative work.

1. He laid stress upon indifference. In administrative tasks it is proper that unfaithfulness should be pointed out. Such action serves as a warning to the unfaithful and encouragement to the faithful.

2. Help rendered by the women (v. 12). It is a fine thing for the women to take hold even in building a wall when there are no men to do it.

3. Stress laid upon earnestness of some (v. 20). Recognition of fidelity will spur one on to faithful performance of his task.

4. Every one built over against his own house (vv. 10, 23, 28). There is no incentive for exertion quite so strong as that which concerns a man's own family.

5. Certain guilds of men undertook certain work (vv. 8, 31, 32). Wise administration sometimes calls for such alignment of efforts. Men of the same class and occupation usually work best together.

III. Hindrances Encountered (4:1 6:14).

1. Scoffing of Sanballat and Tobiah (4:1-6; cf. 2:19, 20). The oppressors of God's servants frequently begin by hurling shafts of ridicule at them.

2. Conspiracy for a sudden attack (4:7-9). When the enemy saw the work was actually succeeding, they changed from ridicule to an attempt to throw the workmen into a panic.

3. Conspiracy with the Jews (4:10-23). They sought, by means of the Jews from the outside, to discourage those on the inside.

4. Greed and oppression of the rich (5:1-13).

The Jews of that day, like the profiteers of our day, took advantage of the poor and oppressed them so that they mortgaged their land and even sold their daughters into slavery.

5. Scheme to take Nehemiah's life (6:1-14). When Sanballat and Tobiah failed in every other way, they craftily sought to get Nehemiah away that they might kill him.

IV. The Wall Completed (6:15-7:4).

So energetically did they pursue their tasks that in fifty-two days the wall was completed. When their enemies saw that in spite of all their schemes the work was actually completed, they were cast down, for they perceived that the work was of God. Upon the completion of the work, Nehemiah set his brother to rule over Jerusalem and gave instructions as to the opening and closing of the gates of the city. May we learn from this:

1. That though God's children are besought by enemies they should not fear.

2. When beset by enemies we should pray (4:9).

a. They set a watch (4:9).

b. Men were permittted to be with their families (4:13) and would thus fight better.

c. Half worked and half watched, all armed for battle.

d. They worked with sword in one hand (4:17).

e. They slept in their clothes, ready for attack (4:23). Genuine faith is always accompanied with precaution ary means.

Looking Heavenward

Mystical more than magical, is that communion of soul with soul, both looking heavenward; here, properly, soul first speaks with soul; for only in looking heavenward, take it in what sense you may, not in looking earthward, does what we call union mutual love, society begin to be possible.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

God bless the fallen man. I do not care which way he goes to ruin, I will do all I can to help him. I never saw an old drunkard in the ditch but what I wanted to get down in the mud and get him out. I hate sin, but I love sinners. There is no sin any man has committed that every other man could not have committed under those certain circumstances if it were not for the restraining power of the grace of God.

"If thine enemy hunger, feed him. If he thirst, give him drink." That is a high Christian standard. After all, that is the best thing we can do for an enemy. Nothing will conquer enemies as quickly as to return good for our enemies. It is awfully hard for a man to be mean to his fellow man when his fellow man is constantly kind to him. We are not to be good to our enemies simply because we want to win them to us for selfish reasons. That is like being honest because honesty is the best policy. The man who is honest simply because honesty is the best policy, or because it pays to be honest, is not merely honest but selfish, and selfishness is sin.

We are not gentlemen and ladies because we live in palaces and enjoy the luxuries of life. Some of the most refined people it has ever been my privilege to know lived in cabins. Some one has said, "If a man is a Christian, he will always be a gentleman." The reason is a Christian is innately refined. Real love is at the base of all genuine courtesy. Selfishness cannot produce genuine hospitality, nor can it be genuinely courteous. The things that we do for people because we want them to do something for us in return have in them the sound of brass. Love gives, even though it knows it will receive nothing in return for its gift. If we were unselfish, if we were sincerely loved, we would all be kind and courteous and genuinely friendly. We might not know how to hold knives and forks at the table, and we might be ill at ease in some social circles, but we would be gentlemen and ladies at heart. It is true that "the world is dying for a little bit of love."

"In addition," they say, "another 125,000,000 acres are partly ruined through the washing away of the top soil and still another 100,000,000 acres are on the way."

How to Keep Colds UNDER better CONTROL

Catching Cold?..
Vicks Va-tro-nol helps Prevent many Colds

At the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze, use Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. It stimulates Nature's own functions—in the nose—to help prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in their early stages. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps avoid many colds.

Caught a Cold?..
Vicks VapoRub helps End a Cold Sooner

If a cold has developed, rub Vicks VapoRub on throat and chest at bedtime. VapoRub acts direct—two ways at once: (1) By stimulation through the skin like a poultice or plaster; (2) By inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to inflamed air-passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps break congestion.

Follow Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds

THE DOCTORS ARE RIGHT

Women should take only liquid laxatives

Many believe any laxative they might take only makes constipation worse. And that isn't true.

Do what doctors do to relieve this condition. They use a liquid laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why your laxative should be in liquid form. A liquid dose can be regulated to the drop.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that form no habit even with children. Syrup Pepsin is the nicest tasting, nicest acting laxative you ever tried.

1,000 ACRES ARE ADDED TO GULF STATES PARK

Rep. A. B. McPhaul, of Baldwin county, said that deals had been completed within the last month adding 1,000 acres to the area of Gulf State Park on the Baldwin peninsula along the Gulf of Mexico.

The additional acreage brings the park's size to 6,000 acres, through which a 350-foot parkway is being constructed to Fort Morgan at the entrance of Mobile Bay.

Funds for the parkway and general development were made available through the works progress administration, which is using labor from the transient camp located at Fort Morgan.

WEST CHILTON

Editor Union-Banner:

We have read with interest the recent articles by Mr. Sanders and Mr. Frederick in the Banner, the best local paper we ever read. After many years of experience and observation, the Banner is decidedly the best of all. "The Man in the Moon" is unsurpassed in timely and up-to-the-minute interest.

Great efforts are being put forth to make our farmers see how they are increasing in wealth, that the depression is over and we are on "easy street". Every paper is loaded with a great array of statistics calling attention to the farmers' wealth, just as if we did not realize our worth.

All this burden of agricultural statistics is nauseating to the man who knows the depression is still on and we are no richer than we were a year ago. Instead of all those statistics, let the common masses tell the story, and that will be hard times, dire need, high prices for what you buy, cotton pegged at 10 cents—there we are.

That means rigid economy, retrenchment, actually going without what is needed, to say nothing of luxuries. But such is the New Deal, and we are not surprised. The history of administrations back in the 90's, and during the World War corroborates our statement. Hear "The Fellowship Forum":

"Can America be saved? Little does the public seem to realize the gravity of our national peril. Whether the republic shall survive or perish turns on the ability of Franklin D. Roosevelt to inflict himself on us another four years. Contempt for the Constitution must now be veiled. But it would boldly assert itself then. Open violation of the law defined by the Supreme Court now would be fatal at the ballot box. Never before did executive usurpation require judicial restraint so constant and vigorous. The pending election will decide whether the republic shall survive or perish. Let all good citizens gird for the momentous occasion."

No, the depression is not over, and will not be until the buying power is restored to the masses. We are living under an artificial program — a painted bubble, ready to burst if you touch it.

Our liberty is slipping away from us day by day. By working loyally and unitedly we may yet preserve our American freedom. Just think. In 1854 the Republican party was organized, and there was a cause for that organization; there is a cause now for its perpetuation. It has made America great. It has made our county great. And we have reached that position without destroying crops and hogs. Who ever heard of such a thing before?

When such men as Sen. Schall, the late Huey Long, Sen. Reed, Gov. Talmadge, and others are seeing danger, let us all take notice and cling to our American liberty. Our remedy is in union at the ballot box.—A Republican.

County Farm Agent's Notes

RURAL RETAIL SALES HIGHER THAN YEAR AGO

Auburn. — That the national farm program is helping farmers is indicated by the fact that rural retail sales for the nation show a 20 per cent gain for the first 9 months of of 1935 compared with the same period last year. The increase was largest in the South where the increase was 26 per cent.

GOOD PORK DEPENDS ON QUALITY OF HOGS

Auburn, Ala.—With the coming of "hog killing weather," J. C. Grimes, head of the animal husbandry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, offers farmers a number of points for improving their meat.

Hogs of medium condition and weighing from 200 to 250 pounds produce the most satisfactory meat for curing on the farm, he says. "Hogs from 6 to 9 months of age are usually best for butchering."

Meat from boars has a strong, unpleasant odor and flavor, he advises. "Before butchering they should be castrated, put on a full feed until entirely healed and then fed at least 30 days longer."

Over-fat, heavy hogs will not produce high class cured pork. Smooth, evenly-fleshed hogs will produce a finer quality of meat and will cut up with less waste than rough, coarse, wrinkled and flabby individuals, he says.

For full information on curing pork farmers should ask their county agent or write the Agricultural Experiment Station at Auburn, asking specific questions.

FARM AND MERCHANTS BANKRUPTCIES LOWER

Auburn, Ala.—Farm bankruptcies declined 20 per cent during the past fiscal year compared with the previour year, reports the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. This was a greater relative decline than for any other occupational group in the country, except merchants.

ALABAMA OYSTER COMMISSION HOPES TO START WORK

Montgomery, Ala. Dec. 3.—The Alabama Osyter Commission hopes to start the $110,000 Works Progress Administration oyster rehabilitation project in Mobile and Baldwin county waters not later than January 1st.

Plans for the project are virtually complete, a survey of the waters has been conducted by Dr. Paul Golstoff, U. S. Bureau of Fisheries expert, and the funds for defraying the cost of the work were guaranteed by WPA officials at a meeting of the commission here November 13.

As the project now stands the Federal Government will supply $92,365 for the purchase and planting of oysters and shells and the commission will contribute approximately $18,000 in funds and equipment. The project calls for the planting of 100,000 barrels of seed oysters and 150,000 barrels of shells and the commission is negotiating now for the latter.

Dr. Golstoff arrived in Mobile from Washington Nov. 15 to make a two-day tour of the oyster beds in Mobile and Perdido Bays. He was invited to make the survey by Commissioner I. T. Quinn, who is chairman of the commission, to determine the best areas in which to initiate the development program.

The fisheries expert is quite well acquainted with the Alabama waters as he made a minute study of the domage done to this State's oyster bottoms by the 1929 freshet, later publishing the data he gathered. The seed oyster planting is expected to start sometime this month, with the shells to be planted in March, April and May.

OVER $6,000,000 SENT STATE COTTON GROWERS

Auburn, Ala.—Over $6,000,000 have been paid to Alabama cotton producers this year in benefit payment checks, reports Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service, in pointing out that checks continue to pour into the pockets of farmers who have not already received their payments.

Statistics show that 179,347 first rental checks amount of $3,552 658.65 have been distributed to farmers in 67 counties of the state and that 126,-302 second rental checks totaling $2,-501,181.66 have been sent to growers in 59 counties.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

J. A. HEADLEY WRITES ON PROSPERITY

Editor, Chilton County News:

I want to say a few words to the good old citizens of Chilton County.

As we go about our business at home, rejoicing over the difference in the prosperity of our home life today and the prosperity that we had under Mr Hoover's admnistration, it makes me feel glad and rojoice in our hearts so much to know that we have a government that has the right kind of Christian love for the people in the United States as a whole, especially for laboring people in the world The poor farmer ought to keep a fresh mind at all times and try not to forget that we as poor people, are having the privilege of living under the only man that is living in the United States with brains and love for the people in the United States as our great President

We ought to be proud that we have got a president that no other nation can compete with and all European nations are looking at him with that respect.

Our great senators from all states are looking at him with that respect and let us poor farmers look at him with that respect and let's always remember him and work to keep him as President until old age disqualifies him and then let's see to it that he has the right kind of a nurse and treatment until he passes away, and then see to it that he has a monument that is impossible for all the wealth of the nation to compete with

To the subject again: People, we have people who under this administration that have got to shove a few of their nickels out as never before in all the history of the world to help the little fellow to live and it is taking their eye teeth out by the roots, and they are organizing everything that they can find in all the United States that is weak enough to listen at them to overthrow our government so they can keep their few nickels and let us root hog or die poor. Don't let them deceive you. If you want to know who some of them are, it hurts me to let you know who they are, for they are progressive Democrats, also my right-hand brother Republicans, such as the great man of Minneapolis, Mr. Stanley B Houck, also our lovely E. E. Kennedy head of the Union. It might gripe pretty bad for me to name the third but he is the Editor of the Union-Banner, and they are not all. There are lots of other people. When we vote for the government to turn us loose to root hog or die poor, you can begin to get ready, for the time won't be long.

The way times are now, if you think you can live better without help thru the Government, you are thinking thru a hole in the top of your hat. Boys let's line up against any candidate that is against the New Deal in any respect. Of course we have got to keep our thoughts to ourselves, because some of these New Deal critics are liable to put a hicky on our heads if we talk too much before them, but to show you that the New Deal critics are looking for the best interest of the state, county, also themselves, they are on our county agent, trying to stomp him out of existence. So boys let's keep up with that bunch and when they ask us voters to give them an office let's give them the one that they are looking for and at the proper time that they are looking for it.

It is a strange thing that some people can't be satisfied with a good living and want to kick everybody and knock them in the head because they can't get the government to give them enough over to buy them a big car and gas to run it. I am one that voted for Mr. Hoover and I am one among the half of the world that Mr. Hoover and his administration starved practically to death and while in that starving condition I proceeded to help put in office our great President, Franklin D Administration, and now they, through their love for their country and their people, have proceeded to help me in a prosperity way as I have never before been helped and they have stuck my love for them forever.

People, we have some people scattered over the world who would not have a fortune but just a few minutes If you were to give it to them they would give it for a rusty Ford car and then starve to death. Well, then what is the use of us folks voting starvation on all the whole world just for the sake of that kind of a few. Not me!

FOUR ARRESTED AT CCC CAMP

City and county officials were called to the CCC camp last Sunday to quiet a disturbance at that place. Four of the boys at the camp had been imbibing too freely of the well known "sweet spirits of cats a-fightin'" and went on a rampage. Camp officials requested that they be placed in the city jail and held for them until Monday. Reports were that the boys were to be sent home on Monday morning. They had lately been transferred to the local camp from a camp in Mississippi.

These will now be trained until the time for the contest on February 22.

On Thanksgiving Day the dormitory folks, with a few guests, had their Thanksgiving dinner in the dining hall, which was decorated with leaves and the tables were arranged in the form of a T. On the tables were leaves and artificial turkeys that had been made by the girls. Between courses, Lorene Stokes told about the first Thanksgiving, and Mary Christ gave reasons for being thankful. After the last course Robert Weems also gave reasons for being thankful. Lessie Rascoe recited a Thanksgiving poem by Grace Crowell, and Miss Fairbank told a Thanksgiving story. Singing of the alma mater concluded the program.

A little after 2:00 o'clock the dormitory students and teachers rode out in wagons to the county poor farm, taking some gifts for the people of the farm. Rev. Lawrence Stanley gave a short talk, and prayer. Then several hymns were sung. On the way back from the poor farm all stapped at the home of Rev. E. W. Butler and had supper by a bonfire. About 7:00 o'clock the students and teachers returned to the dining hall.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. Sam Littleton on December 1, and took away the spirit of his aunt, Mrs. Cynthia Littleton, 65 years of age.

To know her was to love her, for she always wore a smile for everyone. It seems sad to give her up, but God always knows best. She leaves a vacant place that no one can ever fill.

We all loved her dearly, but our loss is heaven's gain. We long to live so as to meet her in a better world some day.

She is survived by two sisters and a host of other relatives and friends.

Burial was at Macedonia, with Rev. J. T. Daniel officiating, and Martin in charge of burial arrangements.—Lettie Littleton.

We will meet back at Vermont tonight (Thursday), December 5th, with Mr. Smith and Miss Heflin of Isabella. We appreciate very much the opportunity of having these speakers meet with us. We should realize the fact that they are only holding these meetings for our benefit, and are trying to help us to solve our everyday problems. Each discussion is simple and is made so plain that we can't help but be benefitted. We won't regret our little time we spend and effort we put forth to attend. We will go home with better ideas and plans which we can use during the coming year.

The P.-T. A. will also meet tonight (Thursday). This is an important meeting to the community and especially the parents of the boys and girls who attend this school. Let's show the teachers that we are interested in our boys and girls, and in helping in every way to make this one of the best years in school. Following a short meeting with the P.-T. A., our meeting mentioned above will follow. Both meetings on one night will not be so bad as going twice as the building will be warm and comfortable.

Secretary Wallace is quoted as saying that there would have been a greater shortage of pork products if the government hadn't pulled off that 6,000,000 pig slaughter campaign in the summer of 1933. Here is a good hunch for him. Why doesn't the government go itself one better, and kill and burn all the pigs in 1935 so we will have more pork to eat in 1936? And this is certainly one on Joseph, who saved up corn for seven years. If he had only plowed it under instead of saving it there wouldn't have been any famine at all.

We are told that recovery is moving forward according to the New Deal plan. How clever those Brain Trusters are. They had Congress pass an illegal NRA law, then had the Supreme Court declare it unconstitutional so that business would become encouraged and start to picking itself up again!

It becomes increasingly noteworthy how many who once were convinced that two could live as cheaply as one are now convinced that even one can't do it.—Paducah (Ky.) Sun-Democrat.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

It is a safe prediction that one of the pictures to be painted by most of the New Dealers in the campaign next year is one that will portray surface conditions in the United States in 1936 as compared with those which were apparent in the early months of 1933. The voter will be asked early and often whether or not he considers himself "better off now than he was when the New Deal commenced." The logic will be based, of course, on the presumption that any improvement of conditions there may be is due entirely to the New Deal program, and that, had any other party won, things would have steadily grown worse. The answer to the arument of course can be found in an examination of present conditions in Great Britian and most of the countries of Europe, where it can readily be learned that as great or even greater improvement has been made economically than in our own country, and this wfthout the expenditure of billions of dollars to "pr'me the pump" and take care of the unemployed.

Many practical politicians among the New Dealers believe that their comparison of conditions with those of the closing days of the Hoover administration will be very effective because the average voter will not take the trouble to contrast our course with that of other countries and will not bother about a thirty-five billion dollar debt and an unbalanced budget. But there are things to be taken into consideration other than the tremendous spending of federal money. There is the question of how it is spent, and in this respect there are many vulnerable spots in the political armor of the New Deal.

One of the new and popular words in our political lexicon is "boondoggling," which has come to stand for the wasting of the taxpayers' money on trifling and unnecessary projects to keep certain folks "employed." We are bound to hear more and more about boondoggling in the coming months and the New Dealers will be subjected to an increasingly severe barrage on the subject of how the public money has been spent. For example, the National Republican Congressional Committee in Washington recently issued a pamphlet under the caption "Roosevelt the Waster". The pamphlet is in reality a text book on boondoggling. It seems to cover the subject from alpha to omega and it discloses some curious ways in which the public money has been spent. The author of the pamphlet has taken the trouble to survey the field carefully although he intimates that it has been barely possible to more than scratch the surface of boondoggling activity.

For example, he declares: "Hundreds upon hundreds of millions of dollars have been frittered away. People still go hungry and seek jobs which the New Deal has not made available. The rights of every sub-division from state down to the smallest hamlet have been infringed upon in the wild orgy of spending. In but few instances have the expenditures of the New Deal been warranted in comparison with the few jobs made available."

Among the boondoggling activities sponsored by the federal government at the expense of the pblic, according to the pamphlet, are tap dancing, eurythmic dancing, making dolls, counting chickens, leaf raking and producing circuses. Just a few of the money allocations of the government cited by the booklet are: $1,300 to pay literary advisers in the Stockton public library to help readers get the right kind of books; $46,690 to build two islands in an Ohio lake; $4,252 to provide a roof for the heads of the horses in the California state fair grounds; $1,341 to construct a warhole on a fox farm at Everett, Mass.; $8,868 to exterminate rats at Cleveland, Ohio; $744 to build a giant shuffle board and a big checkerboard at Ashland, Ohio; $2,712 to take a tree census at Harrisburg, Penn.; $800 to study Russian rainfall; $81,611 to build a road from Skull Valley to Yava, Arizona. The two towns have a combined population, it is said of 155 souls.

The pamphlet, which may seem sensational to those who have not heard boondoggling discussed, indicates that the amount of money spent by the New Dealers will not be the only burning issue in 1936. There is going to be some discussion of how the money was expended.

A JACK-OF-ALL-TRADES
Master of Only One

We used to have a GOVERNMENT at Washington.

What we have now is a UNIVERSAL DEPARTMENT STORE.

The real estate department, doing business under the trade name of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, has begun foreclosure proceedings against 2,105 residential properties.

As an instance of the brisk business Uncle Sam is doing in the real estate field, foreclosures are increasing at a rapid rate.

Chairman John H. Fahey, of the HOLC, must rub his hands with glee at the prospect of 5,000 foreclosures before January 1. What a business!

"Satellite cities," with Uncle Sam as chief realtor and mayor, are mushrooming all through the districts adjacent to Washington.

Another growing business is paying off claims of those injured in relief work.

There are $28,000,000 in such claims now on file.

These new matters, together with farming, banking, fixing wages in private industries and buying up of newspapers, keeps Uncle Sam very busy.

He is now a Jack-of-All-Trades—not to say a jackass of all trades—and master of only one—FARLEYIZING THE CIVIL SERVICE.—Atlanta Georgian.

HELPING ALIEN WORKERS

Well, it was a bit of a shock to learn that German steel was being imported for use on the $42,500,000 Triborough Bridge which is being built with government funds to make jobs for American workers. There seems to have been some buck-passing as to who is responsible for this order for foreign material, but there is no question about the protests which have arisen over the idea. We are told that it won't happen again.

William Green, in a written protest to Secretary Ickes, is reported to have said:

"Inasmuch as Congress appropriates funds for public works projects in order to relieve unemployment and alleviate widespread distress in the United States, it is difficult for labor to understand how said funds could be used for the purpose of buying material manufactured in Germany. Such action seems contradictory to the aims and purposes of the public relief measure.

"Public works relief funds spent for the purchase of material manufactured in Germany would serve to create employment for German workers, while American working men who are thoroughly qualified and are seeking to produce the same material, are idle".

Mr. Green by these arguments shows himself hopelessly provincial, which is just another way of saying he is hopelessly pro-American. Didn't he ever hear of Secretary of State Hull and his economic philosophy? If he has read it and believed it, he must know that the very best thing which could happen for American workmen would be to buy material from Europe which would give jobs to European workmen. Then because we buy of them, the nice European workmen will buy from us, everything will be happy and there won't be any war or depression again.

The plan has already been tried with success. Just now we are buying millions of dollars worth of farm produce grown by alien agriculturists. And not only can it be said that our farmers are idle, they are actually paid by the government for being idle. So it must be all right or the Brain Trust would not have it that way.

If Mr. Green is old fashioned enough to believe that we can have prosperity in America by purchasing the material produced by our own workmen when we have a splendid chance to buy European goods which will keep alien workmen busy, then he just does not know the latest theories on trade pacts and foreign concessions.

But even if he doesn't know about it he will learn a lot more on the subject in the near future. Our State Department is pretty busy with these pacts which will make America properous through buying its goods abroad. Canada has been "put over" with many others in the offing. Of course the nations which promised to pay their war debts and didn't may fail to buy what they promised to buy, after they get the concessions they want. But why worry about a little thing like that? We are living in a new age, and Mr. Green, like some of the rest of us, is a little slow in getting adjusted to it.

WE ARE HARD TO STOP

As for the President's acts, it is impossible to forget that next month sees a return of the old NRA bugaboo. Once more business men are being forced to leave their jobs to foregather in Washington and debate and wrangle and receive brickbats or bouquets from the White House as they agree or disagree with the orders from on high. In short the breathing spell is over.

Nothing could be plainer than that business wants no revival of NRA in any form. Here was a ghost which everyone hoped had been laid for all time by the Supreme Court decision in the Schechter case. Yet, presumably because the New Deal cannot admit error, the old wrangling, the old wastes of time and money, the old threats of legislation and regimentation must be renewed.

We hope that the business men who assemble in Washington—supported by those who do not—will kick Major Berry's conference into the Potomac. There will be a few handpicked from the faithful, who will be ready to take what is handed them and like it. But the overwhelming sentiment of the country should make itself heard loudly and forcefully.

Recovery will go forward because Americans are hard to stop. For that matter, no one took the promise of a breathing spell very seriously. But what a pity that the great forces of the country cannot be released from political interference to speed the nation back to prosperity, with an end of unemployment and a return of the only real abundance the world has ever seen. — New York Herald-Tribune.

We can't imagine how those pioneer farmers of a hundred years ago cleared the forests, drained the swamps, and laid out those lovely farms without the aid and advice of the Department of Agriculture.

MAN IN THE MOON

HOOVER AND THE DEMOCRATS

Already the Democrats are taking a hand in helping to pick a Republican presidential candidate for us. And the boys are honest enough to admit that they hope the Republicans will pick Hoover, because they admit he will be the easiest for them to beat. Now, that's news for the national Democratic enthusiasts to be that honest—it just isn't like them. I think this must be some kind of a dare they are trying to toss at us. But we are not so dumb as to accept that dare. We did that once—and once is enough.

Now, don't misunderstand. I am not one of those who think of "old Hoover" as some kind of dreadful ogre, although I will admit that there are numbers of Republicans who have the same idea of him that the Democrats profess to have. The Democrats, themselves, know better than anyone else just what a proposition Hoover had to deal with. He had a balky Democratic congress to thwart his every move. A balky mule is a super problem, but a bunch of balky Democrats can put their animal demi-god to shame at his best game.

Besides having that balky congress, the Democrats set up an elaborate press agent system to "smear Hoover", with news items, booklets, magazine articles — insinuations, misinterpretations, false charges, propaganda of all kinds, and even bald-faced lies. The extent of the success of their plan and system is a matter of record—results from the election of 1932 explain it in full.

I will admit that Hoover had his faults, but who is there who doesn't have them? Another man might have done a better job under the same circumstances, and then again he might have done worse. Mr. Hoover is by nature a man fitted for specific duties, but never an official or supervisor. He has proved times over that he can make a grand success of a big job of any certain nature, but he has not the personality and the iron will to command the respect and wholehearted support of his subordinates. Another man might have had these qualities and used them for good.

In the campaign of 1932, Mr. Hoover was forced to wage his campaign almost singlehanded. None of the fiery orators of the national Republican organization took the campaign stump with him. I have read that he is a congenial man, yet one who is hard to get next to, and so gains friends slowly; he is honest, but too easily swayed; he is shrewd, but never a natural politician; he is a brainy man, but not a practical planner. He never could get his congress to work with him on anything. These were a few of the things which made a failure of his administration.

This statement that his administration was a failure may draw some criticism from my brother Republicans, but it is the truth, in one sense at least—that he failed to command the respect and cooperation of his people, a thing that any man must have if he is to achieve success. When the general idea got around (aided and abetted by the "smear Hoover" campaign) that Mr. Hoover was to blame for the depression and all the hard times, his sun began to sink. No one seemed to consider the fact that the depression was world-wide. Every man seemed to think that of all unfortunate people his case was the worst of the lot. No consideration was shown Mr. Hoover for what attempts he had made to set things right, and that his balky Democratic congress had blocked every one of these attempts. His name became a synonym for starvation and hard times on the spur of the moment.

These natural shortcomings of Mr. Hoover were taken into consideration by the Democrats and used to the greatest advantage. And the attack was well planned, to come to its highest point just at election time. And so Mr. Hoover was beaten—not the Republican party. Many voters remained Republican at heart, but they saw in Mr. Hoover the cause of all their woes—a rank misconception, yet one which was widespread enough to bring about the biggest political landslide in the nation's history.

Therefore, it is no wonder the Democrats want Mr. Hoover to run again. They are pretty sure the same thing that beat him before would beat him again. Frankly, I believe that Mr. Roosevelt would beat him in 1936, but I believe Hoover would make a better race, by far, than he did in 1932. The New Deal has left a bitter taste with many people which is even worse than "old Hoover". But the Demmies can rest assured that Mr. Hoover will not be the candidate. Republicans know as well as they the stigma that is on Mr. Hoover, and although he may have a hand in picking our candidate, he will never even try for the place for himself.

Nearly any candidate the Republicans may name, other than Mr. Hoover, is given an extra good chance of beating Roosevelt, considered by many the weakest man the Democrats can put up. Scan this list, Mr. Democrat, and see which you like best, for it is a pretty fair bet that one of them will be the next president. It has been said that the Republicans have nobody big enough for the job. Let's take a look at Borah, Landon, Vandenburg, Knox, Dickinson, Teddy Roosevelt, Jr., Hamilton Fish, Jr., and a dozen or more others. These are big men—men who have done things and done them well. They are men of big calibre, with experience from which to draw in making their decisions. It will not be their desire to draw around them a crowd of theorists to plan laws and study up schemes. All of them are of the old time school which still has faith in allowing the representatives of the people have their part in the nation's government.

And you put this down in your pipe and smoke it, too—there will be money behind the next Republican campaign. I know that Mr. Roosevelt has a slush fund of almost five billion dollars which is being saved over for the campaign, but taxpayers are on to that racket, too, and already there is widespread discontent that their tax money shall be used for political purposes. That five billion will lose many voters for Mr. Roosevelt, because it is tax money—blood money. That is another thing that beat Mr. Hoover, too. He did not stand ace-high with the money interests, and, although they did not do much fighting against him, neither did they lend him so much aid. He was left to paddle his own canoe, so to speak.

But any one of the outstanding Republicans who might be chosen will have the unstinted support of big business. Mr. Roosevelt is a big cause of this, too. He has killed his golden egg goose. He has piled on tax after tax, in every conceivable guise, has curbed and plundered business ruthlessly, and they are of a mind to pay him back in his own kind—ruthlessness.

Many smart Democrats think Mr. Roosevelt is not, by any means, the strongest man the Democrats might name, but it is a pretty sure bet that he will carry the banner in 1936. It isn't going to be a push-over for him however. There will be some pretty stiff opposition to him by conservative Democrats at the convention. If a few old-line Democrats like Byrd, Tydings and others have their way Mr. Roosevelt will have to do some tall promising before he gets their support again, especially in the convention, and possibly in the general election.

And speaking of failures, Hoover never saw the day he could show as blank a page as Roosevelt. There is not one major act of Mr. Roosevelt's which carries the quality of good common sense. All of them have been open to widespread criticism, even within the Democratic ranks. Experiments and more experiments have been the order of his day. And our good old national guardian angel, the Supreme Court, has already declared several of his acts void, and bids fair to kill the rest of them before it is through.

When Mr. Roosevelt took office he did not draw in the most sensible brains of his party and confer with them. No, indeed! Instead, he called them together just long enough to tell them to turn over to him all their powers. In the words of the sea captain, he told his Democratic congress he "wanted nothing from them but silence, and damned little of that". There was no request for advice, but a demand that they keep "hands off". Then he called in his "brain trust", a bunch of theoretical cranks with not a practical idea among the lot of them—and nearly every one of them an avowed communist. Mr. Roosevelt tried to run the government of the United States along the system used to handle a college, with its many professors, petty rules and regulations, and stern schoolmaster-like supervision of the people. It hasn't "taken" so well, if we are any judge.

All Americans are not school children, nor do we like being governed by schoolmasters and collegiate methods. Campus methods do not work on farms, and cheer leaders don't seem so fine at running factories. We are free men, and we don't like the idea of being told what we "can" or "can't" do with our possessions. Americans have come up to respect only one supreme law—RIGHT— and all the NRA's, control laws, red flags, communistic tendencies and fuss boxes Mr. Roosevelt and his red raiders can muster will ever bend that proud American spirit that knows how sweet is freedom, and which has the sense to discern the right, and the fearlessness and stamina to fight for it.

Americans will never bow the knee to a monarch. The past three years have been the nearest to a monarchy and autocracy that America has ever experienced since the Revolutionary War, and it will be many moons before you see that much again, we believe.

We sincerely hope that Mr. Roosevelt is not stopped in convention—we want to attend to that little job.—Man in the Moon.

SMARTER POLITICIANS

In the days of the Boston Tea Party the Colonists revolted against "Taxation without Representation" and the politicians didn't get away with it.

Today, we taxpayers have representation—in many cases cast our individual ballot.

But how much smarter the politician has become. We are often led to the polls, blinded by fancy theories, to blandly cast a vote to tax somebody else, some special class. And when the tithes are gathered, they come out of our own pockets.

Such are all special or class taxes. Tax the landlord, tax the peanut vendor, tax the chain store—the tax is paid by the tenant, the peanut muncher, the housewife.

Don't vote class taxes blindly.

FOR YOUR POCKETBOOK

As everyone knows, there is often a great difference between the price a farmer gets for the food products he sells, and the price the ultimate consumer must pay.

A long list of charges is responsible for that difference. It costs money to transport food, to process and pack it, to preserve it, to carry on the vast machinery that operates between producer and consumer, and finally, to sell it at retail.

Many of those costs are unavoidable and necessary. Some are not. And the great problem of food distribution is to eliminate those which are not, while at the same time effecting any possible reductions in the essential costs.

THAT CANADIAN TREATY

The principal topic of discussion among the economists and political leaders among United States during the past several days has been the trade treaty recently entered into by our country and Canada. The completion of the treaty came with such startling unexpectedness to most people, and the terms were so little discussed in advance by the press of the nation, that most of the people have not yet come to a full realization of what the treaty means. Perhaps they will not get this realization until the treaty goes into effect and has a chance to show what it can do.

Briefly, concessions by the United States include the reduction in duties for fixed quotas of cattle, dairy cows, cream, certified seed potatoes, lumber and certain grades of timber, reduction of duties on hay, horses, live poultry, Cheddar cheese, turnips, apples, maple sugar and fish.

In return Canada agrees to reduce duties on agricultural products, fruits, machinery, automobiles and parts, electrical apparatus, iron and steel mill products, cotton fabrics, lubricating oils, and so on.

In short, what has happened importantly is that Canada agrees to reduce the duties on certain classes of our manufactured goods and we have in turn reduced duties on some agricultural products.

The political importance of this trade pact remains to be seen, and it will probably take several months to measure its effect. Those whose memory goes back to the days of President Taft will recall that this genial statesman had his chances for re-election for President ruined by a reciprocity treaty with Canada.

There can be little doubt htat the present treaty will have political repercussions too. Already there are echoes of complaint from farm leaders, while the American manufacturers themselves, who are supposed to benefit by the treaty, are divided in their opinions concerning it. When the knowledge and effects of the treaty become general certain of our agricultural sections are very apt to become more of a political battleground than Mr. Hull and some of his lieutenants now suspect.

In the meantime it might be well to pause for a moment to consider how far off the original track our tariff treaty makers have traveled since they set out to "build up" our foreign trade. Then they told us that their prime object was to secure wider foreign markets for the American farmer. Now the first really important treaty to be consummated is the one between Canada and the United States. This treaty seems to put the original aims of our diplomats in reverse gear. Instead of tending to produce wider foreign markets for our American farmer it throws open the domestic market to Canadian producers of farm goods. If anyone is to be benefitted at all it will be some of our own manufacturers, and that is still an open question.

Just what the farmers of the United States will think about this remains to be seen. And what the Supreme Court will think about Mr. Hull's taking over the constitutional duties of Congress in writing tariffs and concluding treaties, is another question, too.

FARM POLICY FACTS

Permit me to pass on to your many readers some interesting but very disconcerting facts contained in a letter from a friend of mine. As to their trustworthiness I may say he is the author of many books, on archeology, ancient astronomy, ancient mathematics, and a work on government, economics and finance. He says, among other things:

"Kansas received checks for $52,000,000 the last fiscal year for not raising wheat, and is now importing wheat from Canada, paying a tariff on it; 300,000 sows killed, which, when farrowed, equals 3,000,000 pigs, and in addition 3,000,000 pigs killed, a total of 6,000,000; 16,000,000 head of cattle killed, 80 per cent of which were burned and buried. Restrictions of wheat production, 16,000,000 acres. The same percentage applies to oats, barley, rice and tobacco. Restriction of cotton production, 18,000,000 acres, and of corn production 10,000,000 acres. During the past year the United States is importing more corn, wheat, hogs than ever before in the history of the nation. Cattle and beef are being imported from Mexico and Argentina, also corn at the rate of 1,000,000 bushels a day. During the month of November, 1934, 30,000,000 pounds of cottonseed oil were imported, and the rate of importations has not diminished. The South has lost more than 40 per cent of its export trade, never to be regained, inasmuch as Japan, India, Egypt, Equitorial Africa, Argentina, Peru, and Mexico have increased their cotton production three to four fold. The same thing applies to tobacco in Equatorial Africa.

"Who of normal mind believes that abundance is produced by scarcity? Hundreds of millions of dollars are being wasted in the purchase of sub-marginal and swamp lands as a refuge for wild fowls and other impractical purposes. The evil to be deplored is the process tax. Meat, corn and wheat products are 200 to 300 per cent higher, yet the farmers are paid not to produce these foods".

This is a most extraordinary and alarming condition of affairs for potentially the most productive and self-contained nation on earth. —Letter by Alexander Sidney Lanier, in the Washington (D. C.) Star.

Teachers in Brooklyn are being accused of a move to gain control of a public school. In the old days there used to be a move with that purpose, too, consisting of a forceful raising and lowering of the hand which held a ruler or length of rubber hose.—Worcester Evening Gazette.

1936 COTTON PROGRAM

December 3, 1935.

The United States Department of Agriculture has announced the general outline of a 1936 cotton program. The high points in the program are as follows:

1. Base period.—Indications are that the base upon which the contract will be made will be the years 1933, '34 and '35. 1933 will be the actual acres planted. 1934 and '35 will be the actual acres planted plus the acres rented to the government under the 1934-'35 acreage reduction contract. The yield per acre will be the actual production on acres planted to cotton during the base period.

2. The contract will be for four years—1936, 37, 38, 39. The producer may terminate his contract at the end of any crop year provided he notifies the officials before November 15 of said year.

3. A producer may rent to the government 30 to 45 per cent of the established base.

4. The producer will be paid five cents per pound on the average yields per acre for the acres taken out of production. This rent will all be made in one payment when proof of compliance has been certified.

5. This payment will be divided as follows:

(a) 37½ per cent for the land.

(b) 12½ per cent for the workstock and equipment.

(c) 50 per cent will ge divided between the landlord and tenant on the basis of the division of the crop.

The contract for 1936 has been simplified in many ways. The base years to be used in making up this contract are such that the producer will be able to provide the actual facts of production, and thereby get a more equitable allotment. Chilton County has produced good crops each year for the three years that are to be used as a base with the exception of small areas where weather conditions were unfavorable. There are provisions in the Administrative Rulings for making adjustments where weather conditions were such that a full crop was not produced.

The forms for making the contracts are not available at this time. When they arrive at my office, I will notify all producers.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

BULLET IMBEDDED IN WOOD

Bob Connell, of Route 5, sent to The Union-Banner Tuesday a small piece of lightwood in which was embedded a lead bullet. Apparently the bullet had been in the pine tree for a number of years, as no sign of where it entered was noticable. It was near the center of the tree.

The piece of lightwood is on display at The Union-Banner.

AAA ANNOUNCES COTTON POLICY FOR FOUR YEARS

Base Acreage Is Cut One Million Below That of 1935

Washington, Dec. 3.—The AAA's long-time control of the farm was emphasized today by publication of a new, four year cotton program. It aims at production of 11,000,000 to 12,000,000 bales in 1936.

The AAA now has in rapid succession, launched four year control prograams for wheat, tobacco, rye and cotton. A two year contract has been prepared for corn-hog producers.

The cotton contract provides for a reduction in "base" acreage from 45,500,000 to 44,500,000 acres.

Contract signers will reduce acreage 30 to 45 per cent for 1936, compared to 25 to 35 per cent for 1935 and 35 to 45 per cent for 1934.

One benefit payment will be made at the rate of five cents a pound, (approximately $8.60 an acre). Three payments were provided in the 1935 contract on two bases, totaling 4¾ cents a pound.

Due to a change in our equipment, we probably held you too long last Saturday, but we will be in shape to get your test out much faster next Saturday. Our tester is a licensed man and can test your cream accurately.

We invite your continued patronage, and will endeavor to have our building as comfortable as possible, in order that you may wait in comfort for your test.

W. L. Sanders Got Reply From Senator Bankhead About Cotton

I wish to say to the farmers who attended the mass meeting at Clanton on October 23rd and adopted the resolutions, that they were sent to Sen. John H. Bankhead, and we at last have a reply from him, in which he expresses his attitude toward the resolutions and the triple A.

I am asking the editor to publish this letter in order that every farmer may see how our Senator stands on the question. Read it carefully and you can see that he doesn't know, and probably doesn't care, about the condition under which we labor.

Following is the letter:

Jasper, Ala., Nov. 19, 1935

Mr. W. L. Sanders, Clanton, Ala.

Dear Mr. Sanders:

I have your letter enclosing a copy of the resolutions adopted at a mass meeting held by farmers of Chilton county on October 23rd.

I fully agree with the resolution that the five year base period now in use is unfair and unjust and should be abandoned. I made a speech at Hayneville on the 14th on the allotment basis. You will find a report of it in the Montgomery Advertiser of the 15th. I hope you will read it. I think that all thoughtful men will recognize that if there is not a tax on excess production it will be impossible to control the size of the crop. The real problem to settle is the basis allotment. If we encourage profits from excess production, the whole program will fall of its own weight.

In 1934 four bales was the average for all cotton producers. Two million four hundred-thousand cotton producers applied for exemptions. The crop was 9,600,000. This year the average will be 4½ bales. The so-called big farms are made up of little farms, each tenant having a little farm, and each tenant must be provided for as other producers are. The tax is not intended as an income tax; it is the enforcement provision of a production control program. Unless the farmers, generally speaking, are willing to co-operate with the reduction program and try to carry it out in the spirit that it is intended, for their benefit, of course production control must be released and we will go back to 18,000,000 bale crops.

I entirely disagree with your contention that the reduction program is harmful to foreign trade. Our forein trade has been blocked by tariff walls, differences in currencies, trade argeements between nations and the quota system so widely used in foreign countries.

You failed to distinguish between exports and consumption abroad. When cotton was very cheap the foreign countries, and a year ago they had more than a three million bale carry-over of American cotton in forein countries, and a year ago they had more than two million bales. They have been consuming their cheap cotton. That cotton is now exhausted and they are buying in the regular way and our exports will be largely increased.

Regardles of political affiliations, all of us who are interested in the welfare of the farmers should examine the facts as best as we can and then act as we see fit for the best interest of our cotton producers.—Sincerely yours, J. H. Bankhead.

The above letter shows that Mr. Bankhead is not familiar with the injustice imposed by the triple A. He admits in the letter that the allotment based on the five year period is unjust and should be abandoned. But at the same time he is offering a plan, which appeared through the public press, not unlike the first, and which will not eliminate the discrimination carried in the first plan.

In referring to the four bale average of all farmers in 1934, he failed to realize or admit, that when two farmers had an allotment of eight bales, that is in many cases, one of the farmers had six bales and the other only two, and that where three farmers had an allotment of twelve in many cases, one would have eight bales, another three bales, and the third would have only one bale. The average of four bales for each farmer doesn't mean that each farmer was allowed to market four bales tax free, but which statement shows that in order for some to have a large allotment, others must be cut to almost nothing. This injustice all grew out of the present allotment plan and will continue to exist if the plan is adopted that Mr. Bankhead is now offering.

If you will get the paper that carried Mr. Bankhead's plan and read it closely you will see that the same discrimination is in it as in the first. Mr. Bankhead refers to the big farms as being made up of small farms, and said that these tenants must be taken care of. I can't see how the Senator can honestly make a statement of this kind when he has had the figures placed before his eyes, showing that one 250 acre farm, with nine tennants, had an allotment of (7,000) seven thousand pounds, and that one 40 acre farm with one tennant had an allotment of (6,000) six thousand pounds. Does this look like taking sare of all alike?

The survey that I sent to Mr. Bankhead also showed that one landlord owned 104 acres of land with four families to keep up and had an allotment of 2,300 pounds of lint cotton while the tennant mentioned above, on a 40 acre farm had an allotment of 6,000 pounds. Mr. Bankhead's statement about the discrimination among the different sized farms shows one of two things—that he is ignorant of what is going on or that he doesn't care.

"The tax is not intended as an income tax." says Mr. Bankhead. Of course he knows that this tax is directly on the farmer's income, and could not afford to say that it was not, so he just got around it by saying that it was not so intended. We all know that this tax was the enforcement provision of the AAA act, but that didn't keep it from being a tax directly upon the farmer's income.

"Unless the farmers, generally speaking, are willing to co-operate with the reduction program, and try to carry it out in the same spirit that it is intended, for their benefit, of course production control must be released and we will go back to 18,000,000 bale crops." says Mr. Bankhead. I would like for Mr. Bankhead to mention some of those "eighteen million bale crops." I recall only one such crop, and if the reduction control were released, it will take some time for the farmers to get back to a normal crop financially, much less an eighteen million crop.

Mr. Bankhead said that unless the farmers were willing to co-operate to carry out the program in the spirit in which it was intended, that so and so would happen. The farmers have co-operated for the last two years, and the spirit in which it has been administered has been so damnable that so and so has already happened to the extent that many are not going to sign up for next year.

Our Senator disagrees with us that our reduction program has hampered our foreign trade. He should take into consideration the millions of bales of cotton consumed in foreign countries, raised in India, South America and Brazil, which was caused from price pegging in this country. He should also compare the imports of today with those prior to the enactment of the AAA. I hope Mr. Bankhead will see before it is too late, that the little farmers have been brought to a subsistent level, and that the program, unless drastically changed, will cause thousands of farmers to lose their homes.

Let us all think twice before we act once.—Yours for a square deal, W. L. Sanders.

SURVEYING ABOUT CLANTON AIRPORT

Some government surveyors are at work this week making surveys of the property which is proposed to be purchased for addition to the Clanton airport.

It is not known just yet what can be done about procuring the land which government officials have agreed to develop. It is hoped that some arrangement can be made whereby this land can be bought and used for the extension of the airport.

In order to anything like keep pace with the times, the airport property should be developed; Clanton needs it; and the opportunity is swiftly passing when this federal aid will be available.

Our officials with the proper authority should get busy and get the airport development on foot. Some day we hope Dr. Gragg's dream of a fine community center may be realized out there for the people of Clanton and Chilton County.

OAK GROVE

Quite a few people of this community have been ill, but most of them are better now.

Miss Gladys Cobb is still quite sick in a Birmingham hospital.

We had a large crowd at Sunday school and preaching Sunday. Our pastor, Bro. Green, delivered a fine sermon.

Our singing last Sunday was a success. It was opened by a prayer by Bro. John Hayes of Jemison. We were glad to have so many people from different places with us. We had large crowds from Pleasant Hill, Jemison and Clanton, and a fine quartet from Calera. The quartet rendered several good numbers. We were glad to have Mr. D. L. Langston with us. Prof. A. H. Glasscock was with us and gave several new songs; he brought his books and helped us very much. Bro. Haddock from the Calera Baptist church was with us also.

Everyone is invited to come and be with us any time. — Willie Frank Northcutt.

CHAHA STATE PARK HAS BEAUTIFUL LAKE

Montgomery.—The completion of a beautiful lake in Cheaha State Park has added an exquisite feature to the numerous attroctions of that area. Lakes in the mountain regions of Alabama usually are conspicious by their absence. However, in Cheha State Park was found a natural basin fed by alpine streams which with a small amount of engineering work has been made to enclose a body of beautiful crystal clear water of several acres in extent.

The lake is a scenic gem in itself, but is strikingly supplemented by the reflections of the mountain range in the background. The cliffs and ramparts of Cheaha Mountain are seen on the surface of the water almost as clearly as by direct view. Bathing facilities will be provided with the advent of warm weather in the spring.

The lake is at the foot of the mountain near the Western boundary of the park. It is reached almost conveniently from the vicinity of Munford although the mountain road built by the Civilian Conservation Corps from near Oxford over the summit of Cheaha passes the lake after descending the western side of the mountain.

Against Sales Tax

Birmingham, Ala.—Declaring that the press report this week to the effect that there will be no extra session of the legislature is another tricky move on the part of the administration to disconcert the vast forces now marshalling against a sales tax, anti-sales tax forces through their chairman, Irby C. Hall, announced today that the county organization program mobolizing consumers into the Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama would continue until such time as the Governor comes out and openly states that there wil be no extra session and reaffirms to the people his intention of keeping faith with them by opposing a sales tax.

Mr. Hall, in a message of organization workers and consumers in general follows: "The state is being so thoroughly regimented and there is such manifest general opposition to the levy of a consumer sales tax that its propponents are becoming panicky and are resorting to all sorts of devious strategy and skullduggery.

"If by any means the Consumers Anti-sales Tax Association of Alabama could be duped into accepting some such wild rumor and disband their organization, the pro-sales taxers would laugh up their sleeves.

"Until such a time as the Governor comes out and openly states that there will be no extra session of the Legislature, or until he reaffirms to the people his intention of keeping faith with them by opposing a sales tax, just so long is the invincible anti-sales tax army of Alabama going to keep on mobolizing and be in continued readiness to fight.

"This cunningly devised 'no extra session' is nothing now. Such has been attempted many times before by the same old crowd. The consuming public is not going to fall into the trap set for them. Their eyes are wide open. The rumor is regarded as the most collosal hoax of the present Administration."

Vote On Paving Next Tuesday

Commissioners Court Call For Vote On Question of Much Interest

In another place in this week's Union-Banner is a resolution, preceded by a lengthy preamble, from Judge J. Lee Smith and the Commissioners Court of Chilton County setting out the plans for a referendum election to be held next Tuesday, December 17th, on whether on not Chilton county shall participate with the State and federal governments in the three-way hard-surfacing project of the State highway between Clanton and Plantersville.

In the preamble the Court points out that there are approximately twenty miles to be surfaced at an approximate cost of $150,000, of which Chilton county will be required to pay not exceeding $42,000. It is estimated by the State Highway Department that Chilton county's part will be approximately $40,000. The plan provides that Chilton county shall pay one cent per month for each gallon of gasoline allotted to it in the State gasoline tax, which will total approximately $2,000 per month. This will take the county about 20 months, nearly two years to pay the bill.

The preamble also points out the fact that the Selma-Clanton road is a State road, maintained by the State of Alabama without expense to Chilton county. Also it is noted that there is "sentiment in Chilton county both in favor of and opposing the county using its funds as aforesaid, ... and the Probate Judge and the Commissioners Court are desirous of knowing the sentiment of the qualified voters upon the question".

It is with this in view that the Court has concluded to have prepared ballots for the purpose to be used in the election of next Tuesday, December 17th, in the various voting places in the county. Provision is made that the votes be counted by the Commissioners Court on the 18th day of December, 1935, and declare the result of the election.

Opposed By Cox and Thomas

Representative C. B. Cox and Senator Earle Thomas have voiced their opposition to the action of the Commissioners in calling the election, as will be gathered from a lengthy letter from them which we are also publishing in this issue of The Union-Banner. They charge that the county officials have failed to live up to an agreement reached with them regarding the paving matter some months ago.

LOOMING FOR CONGRESS

It is generally conceded that Pete B. Jarman, former Secretary of State, will be the next Congressman from the Sixth District. Reports have reached the Capitol that William B. Oliver, the incumbent, of Tuscaloosa, may not run for re-election because of illness. In the last election Oliver defeated Jarman by a narrow margin. He won only 957 more votes than Jarman out of 7,550 in his own county. Jarman is said to have been quietly campaigning ever since the last election and his friends have plastered the district with "Jarman for Congress" signs.

Anti-Sales Tax Fight Is Waged

County Chairman Warns People About State's Sales Tax Plans

Birmingham, Ala.—Voting to strengthen their organization and extend its activities, members of the executive committee of the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama Wednesday announced postponement of the extra session of the Legislature would have no effect on their campaign against imposition of a sales tax in this state.

Irby C. Hall, Collinsville, said determination to carry on the fight with new vigor was reached at an executive meeting Tuesday afternoon when special organization committees and field workers to assist county organizations were authorized. J. F. McGraw of Shelby, and T. L. Clay of Jefferson were named chairman and vice-chairman of the finance committee.

The cunningly devised extra session report, Hall said, "does not fool anybody. We know the extra session is coming and we here and now warn opponents of the sales tax not to be lulled into a false sense of security. We must be prepared and we will be prepared when the call comes, whether it's a month or a year from today."
—Tom Taylor, County Chairman, Chilton Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association.

REV. JOE GIBSON TO PREACH AT COURTHOUSE SUNDAY P.M.

Announcement is made that Rev. Joe Gibson, son of the Late Rev. F. A. Gibson, will preach at the courthouse in Clanton next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Gibson is a precaher in the Methodist-Episcopal church.

The public is cordially invited to hear Rev. Gibson.

CLANTON IS GROWING

The City of Clanton is growing fast, and plans should be made to take care of this growth in the future. One of the main things that should be looked after is the water supply of Clanton. That this supply is not adequate, and that the machinery used in this connection is not adequate for the city, even now, was evidenced a few days ago when one of the pumps broke down.

The wells which supply the city are inadequate, too. Indications now are that the near future will bring about a necessity for more wells, or some kind of extension to existing bodies of water from which to draw, inasmuch as city mains are being extended, besides the natural growth in water demand.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones and the City Counci would like for he people of Clanton to be thinking about all this business. It is the duty of the city officials to look ahead and take care of the future requirements, while citizens of the city generally never think of such matters.

Before long the city authorities may find it necessary to spend quite a bit of money on the water supply, as well as other departments of city government, and they would like for people to consider these things now, so that they may educate themselves to the needs of the city, and be able to give intelligent consideration to such projects when the need arises.

In this connection, Mayor Jones has the following to say:

"It is true the supply of water in the city wells is less now than it was a few months ago, due, in part, to the dry weather, and other causes which we do not understand. It is also true that the demand for water has increased.

"The failure of one of the pumps a few days ago revealed more clearly that we have not at this time a surplus of water. Considering the increase in demand for water, and the anticipation of extending our water mains to the new territory presents the question and problem of supplying our growing city with more sufficient water supply squarely up to the city officials and to the people of Clanton.

"The question is: 'Will more and deeper wells furnish the required amount, or must we go to the nearest creek, or to the river, to secure the necessary amount of water to take care of future requirements.?"

"The inconvenience to the people on account of insufficient water a few days ago, due especially at that time to the failure of a pump, has served a good purpose. When the city officials are endeavoring to improve present conditions and adequate water supply, they will have he cooperation of he people."

We believe Mayor Jones and his staff of councilmen are among the best that Clanton has ever had, and we wish to commend them upon their foresight of the city's needs, as well as a sensible and economical managemetn of the city's affairs.

Supreme Court Hits New Deal

High Court Outlaws Great Part of New Deal HOLC Set-Up

Washington.—A section of the home owners loan act of 1933 authorizing federal incorporation of building and loan associations, despite a state's wishes, was invalidated Monday by the Supreme Court.

In a unanimous decision handed down while a crowded courtroom awaited all-important arguments on the AAA, the highest court struck another blow at the New Deal.

In some quarters the ruling was viewed as a possible gudiepost to the extent of federal power over state affairs. It was the first opinion this term on a New Deal law.

THE PAVING ELECTION TUESDAY, DECEMBER 17

[AN EDITORIAL]

On Tuesday, December 17th, the people of Chilton county will be permitted to express their wishes as to whether or not Chilton county should co-operate with the State and federal governments in hard-surfacing the State-owned highway between Clanton and Plantersville. There has been and is quite a bit of discussion on both sides of the question. If Chilton county enters the agreement, "A sum not exceeding $42,000 shall be deducted from Chilton county's portion of the gasoline funds," at the rate of one cent per gallon to pay the county's part in the project.

In the first place The Union-Banner wishes to commend Judge Smith and the Commissioners court for calling for a referendum on the question. It is a matter that ought to be carried out as per the wishes of a majority of the voters of the county. Although provision is made that one-third of the county's gasoline tax be used to pay its part, and that be taken out every month, yet the question is nothing more nor less than "Shall Chilton county appropriate $42,000 out of the county's funds to help surface the State's road running through the county?" That is what it will mean.

The Union-Banner does not propose to be competent of advising the voters of Chilton county how they should vote in this election, but we do urge everybody to think about the matter seriously during the few days that remain between now and next Tuesday, and then go to the various voting places and vote for what you think is the best interest of the county. Let us not leave the matter to the other fellow. You may be sorry after it is too late.

However, there are a few salient facts that should be remembered. The first is that the road is owned by the State of Alabama, and that it is now being maintained by the State and will continue to be maintained by the State, at no cost to Chilton county. Another is, the State of Alabama is already getting three cents of every six cents that is being collected on each gallon of gasoline sold in the State; and too, the federal government is appropriating untold millions to road-building and other projects over the country.

If the State and federal governments feel able to lavish the required funds for the job then there would be little room for objection, but $42,000 coming out of Chilton county looks bigger than $42,000,000 would look coming from some other source. Let us think it over seriously between now and next Tuesday.

CIRCUIT COURT IN SESSION AT COURTHOUSE THIS WEEK

The regular jury fall term of the circuit court of Chilton county is in session at the courthouse in Clanton this week. No cases of importance are on the docket until Thursday, when some cases will come up which will likely create quite a bit of interest.

HOLIDAY LIGHTING PROJECT BEING PLANNED

Plans are being perfected to dress Clanton up in the holiday spirit for Christmas again this year. This has been done for the past two years, but those in charge of the work this year expect to "make Clanton look like a real Christmas tree."

In charge of this work is the Kiwanis Club, with J. Mell Martin in charge of the actual work of dressing the city.

A canvass of the city has been made, with merchants contributing toward the expense of the project.

The main business section of the city will be festooned in red and blue lights, in various plans and layouts. At each end of the city a giant sign in red and green lights will be erected. Last year the words "Merry Christmas" were so displayed.

When the work is finished, Clanton will take on the appearance of full Christmas dress.

Mr. Martin states that anyone wishing to contribute to the fund for this cause may leave their money with him.

WORK BEGUN ON NEW SCHOOLS

The citizens of Collins Chapel and Isabella communities had cause to rejoice last Monday. On that day actual work was begun on the new school buildings at these places, to replace the old buildings which were destroyed by fire some months ago.

Mr. A. H. Stockmar, P. W. A. Resident Engineer-Inspector, has arrived and started the work going. Supt. Little stated that preliminary work began Monday, and that actual construction work will be under way before the end of the week.

These buildings will be built with funds allowed by the P. W. A. The Collins Chapel building will cost $19,263.00, for building and equipment, including a recessed heating unit.

The Isabella school will cost $34,999.69, building and equipment, including a steam heating system.

Both schools will be wired. An Alabama Power Company line already runs to the site of the Isabella school, and Power Company engineers are making surveys preparatory to construction of a line to the Collins Chapel site.

Supt. Little stated that he expects the buildings to be finished in approximately three months, allowing their use somewhere around March 1st.

MRS. MARGARET MITCHELL DIED

Mrs. Margaret Mitchell, age 74, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. D. Scott, about 4 miles south of Clanton, last Sunday night.

Funeral services were held at Chestnut Creek on Tuesday morning at 11:00 o'clock. Burial was in the cemetery at that place, with Spigener in charge.

Mrs. Mitchell is survived by one brother, W. J. Little, of Clanton, Rte. 2; two sisters—Mrs. Rebecca Castleberry, of Marbury; and Mrs. Arch Jacks, of Arcadia, La.; three sons—Jim Mitchell, Clanton Rte. 2; Jesse Mitchell, Clanton, Rte. 2; Sam Mitchell, Clanton, Rte. 5; one daughter—Mrs. A. D. Scott, Clanton, Rte. 2. Her husband died several years ago.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE REPORT IS IMPORTANT

According to Supt. Luther Little, school atendance is more important than ever in Chilton County. Next year's quota of school teachers will be made up according to this year's student attendance reports.

In other words, the more nearly Chilton County's schools come to having every child in school every day, the better chance the schools will have of getting an adequate number of teachers for next year.

Supt. Little cited one case of last year. The attendance figures for the school for the year was 42, which entitled that school to only one teacher for this term. If that school had reported a figure of 44, which could have been done very easily by a little more regular attenhance on the part of a few students, two teachers could have been allotted there.

Mr. Little therefore stresses the importance of regular attendance of all pupils. This is especially important due to a ruling on the recent school bill. This bill provided for putting the school on a par with other state departments, but due to the ruling, the educational department is in worse shape, financially, than ever before, being classed as a non-essential, when really it is one of the most important, only public health rating above it.

Mr. Jack Hayes and Mr. Horace Vinson were in Montevallo last Saturday.

LOCAL CCC CAMP ORGANIZES BASKET BALL TEAM

The local CCC camp has organized a basket ball team with some twenty ambitious lads reporting for the first practice, according to the educational advisor, Mr. T. H. Walker, who is coaching the team. They will play their first game at the local camp Friday night. They will play a double header with the CCC boys from Weogufka camp. They will play team A and team B, beginning at 7:00 o'clock. The public is invited to see this game which will be free. The prospects for a good team seems to be very encouraging, ,and anyone wishing to play games with them should see or write Mr. T. H. Walker. They wil be glad to schedule games with any independent or high school team.

The local authorities of the camp announce that they are in need of shrubbery for the camp grounds and if anyone has any kind of shrubbery to take up and give away, the camp will be glad to send for it. Just call 132.

The camp was very glad to receive a large oil painted picture from Mrs. Clara Mullins last week, given in the name of the Pilot Club. The camp authorities wish to express thanks for these gifts. It adds much to the appearance of the reading room, which is now second to none in this district.

The dining hall at the camp has just received some new curtains and the same has added much to its appearance. The camp is very grateful to the sewing clubs for making them. This work was supervised by the Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Ruth Pardue.

The camp is very glad to welcome the new officers that have come to take the place of Captain Martin and Lt. Strickland. Lt. H. M. Brock has assumed command, with Lt. Pettigrew assisting him as Jr. officer. Lt. Brock comes to us from the CCC camp of Hartsellle, Ala. He had the record of having the best camp in his sub-district while serving there. We hope that he will accomplish the same at this camp.

SCHOOLS CLOSE DECEMBER 20

Supt. Luther Litle anounces that all schools in Chilton County will close on Friday, December 20, and reopen on Monday, December 30. This gives uniform closing and opening dates for all schools, removing all chances for confusion.

Famed Fliers Visit Clanton

Al Key of Meridian, Miss., Visited Local Airport Thursday, Dec. 5

This city had the distinguished honor of Thurday of entertaining three guests distinguished in air circles. Mr. Al Key, of Meridian, Miss., and Captain John Donalson, State Director of Aviation, of Montgomery, were here and looked over the Clanton airport property.

An unexpected and very welcomed guest was Miss Helen McGlosky, of Pennsylvania, who holds the world record for speed among lady pilots of light aircraft.

These interesting personages were served at a luncheon at a local cafe by Dr. V. J. Gragg, the principal item of food being pheasant furnished by Dr. Gragg from his pheasant farm. A number of Clanton people interested in aviation and the city's progress enjoyed the luncheon with the honored guests.

VISITING DAY AT HIGH SCHOOL POSTPONED SOME FUTURE TIME

Prof. L. C. Warr, principal of Chilton County High School, announces that the visiting day at the high school, which was to have been next Friday, has been postponed to some future date, to be announced later.

The Alabama Day program, however, will be held Friday morning at 10:15, just as has been arranged, and all patrons of the schools and others are invited to attend the program.

CCC TRUCKS IN TWO ACCIDENTS

A CCC car left the highway Sunday evening about two miles south of Clanton. No details of the wreck could be obtained other than that only minor bruises were suffered by some of the boys.

Reports were that a number of the CCC boys had been to Montgomery, in charge of a petty officer of the Clanton camp. The officer was driving the car when it left the road. When officers arrived at the scene they found the driver and another of the boys scuffling over possession of the steering wheel.

On Monday afternoon another CCC truck struck and severely injured a horse belonging to H. Monroe Baker, of Clanton Route 2.

Mr. Baker and John Payton were leading the horse home, when they met the truck load of CCC boys about two miles east of Clanton on the Higgins Ferry Road. The boys were returning from the day's work. Mr. Baker stated that he was near the edge of the right side of the road; that the boys were yelling, which scared the horse, causing it to swing around so that a post on the truck body struck the horse, cutting a gash in the horse's hip about nine inches long and five inches deep.

An official here to investigate the wreck Sunday, looked into this matter also.

Plan Drawn To Replace A.A.A.

Senator McNary Drafts Farm Bill Pending Court Action

Washington, Dec. 6.—Senator McNary, of Oregon, republican leader in the senate, announced today that he would introduce on the opening day of Congress, a three-point farm relief bill as a basis for a "natural" transition from the AAA to a long-time program."

Seeks to Control Surpluses

Unlike the AAA which sets crop limits for farmers involved in control programs and gives them cash for taking land out of production, the McNary bill seeks indirectly to control surpluses by the optional application of either the equalization fee, export debenture or domestic allotment plans.

McNary realizes this is nothing new, but he feels "there is a lot of good in the old bill yet."

It is the same roposal he put forward in 1932. The plan, supporters say, aims to segregate the surplus for export, assist in making the tariff effective on crops, control surpluses by penalizing over-production and stimulate co-operative marketing.

Would Assess Fee

Under the equalization fee plan, the government would take charge of surpluses, which would be sold abroad at the best figures obtainable. The idea would be to raise domestic prices of the crops by removing surpluses.

Farmers would be assessed a fee to make up for losses and charges incured in sales abroad.

The government would aim to discourage any over-production by an automatic step-up in the fee.

The export debenture involves a federal appropriation or bounty. Exporters of surpluses would receive treasury certificates amounting to one half of the tariff on the similar importend product. Other debenture rates would be established for commodities on the free list, such as raw cotton.

Under the domestic allotment plan, all holders of farm products would be licensed. It seeks to force domestic prices up by requiring handlers to purchase that portion of a crop necessary for a price not less than the average cost of production for the year. Violators would lose their licenses.

SHOWALTER SINGING SCHOOL AT MONTGOMERY IN JANUARY

Announcement is made of a normal music school at Montgomery, beginning January 6th and closing February 15. The faculty in the school will consist of W. Lee Higgins, W. M. Devaughn and Eugene H. Whitt.

Anyone interested in this school should get in touch with one of these gentlemen as early as possible.

The faculty must be among the best. Higgins and Whitt are names familiar to the sacred music world; and W. M. Devaughn is a teacher of broad experience and splendid reputation. These three will more than likely make things move when they get strung out in this Montgomery school.

Man Killed In Wreck Sunday

Three Injured In Auto Smash Near Verbena Last Sunday

Edward Keith Johnson, 19, who held an important position with the Johnson Tire and Supply Company at Montgomery, was killed instantly Sunday morning when the car in which he and three other persons were riding was crowded off the highway two and one-half miles south of Verbena.

The driver of the car, Jack Frisby, also employed by the tire firm, received severe head injuries and Hubert Hammell, Verbena filling station operator, and a young woman were bruised slightly.

The party was en route to Lake Mitchell, eight miles from Verbena, to join a hunting party when, in attempting to pass another machine on a curve, their car was crowded into a guard rail. It overturned, pinning Johnson beneath the wreckage, and throwing the others clear. The other machine did not stop.

The three injured persons were taken to the Central Alabama Hospital, at Clanton, by a Martin and Sons ambulance. Dr. V. J. Gragg reported that Frisby had received severe injuries to the skull. The girl and Hammell were dismissed after they had received first aid.

Later Frisby was take in an ambulance to Hubbard's hospital in Montgomery.

Johnson was a son of the late Kay Johnson, prominent tire dealer at Montgomery for a number of years. He attended the Barnes school and the University of Alabama. While at the University he was chosen a member of the Phi Delta Theta and Chi Sigma Chi fraternities. More recently he was employed in an official capacity at the Johnson Tire and Supply Company.

W. M. DEVAUGHN QUARTET HAVING SUCCESSFUL CONCERTS

The Devaughn Quartet, consisting of W. M. Devaughn, his two sons and two daughters — Archie, Floy, Lena Mae and Annie Laurie, has had gratifying success with the appearances they have made in concerts during recent weeks. They first started in their home community, putting on a program at Thomas Junior High School. Their numbers were so well enjoyed there that they went to Rockford and put on one the next night. Since then they have appeared at two or three other places, and were well received at every appearance.

W. M. Devaughn has always said that he could see no reason why Chilton County could not produce a quartet to compare with those which came here from other places; and he has about proved his contention.

SPLIT POLE TOWERS EXCEL ROUND TIMBERS

Montgomery.—In providing observation points for forestral agents and patrolmen landowners in South Alabama have experimented with various types of wooden towers. In some cases round poles were used for the main elements o fconstruction, while in other instances the chief member of the towers were composed of timbers quartered from a single large tree.

It has been found, according to the Alabama Commission of Forestry, that the round poles from which only the bark had been removed were more subject to decay than the split pieces obtained by quartering large trees such as the long leaf pine and cypress. It appears from the investigations made that the round timbers with a complete circumference of sapwood do not season sufficiently rapidly to prevent the entrance of the fungi that cause decay. Timbers split from larger tree stems,however, have a less proportion of sapwood in their circumferences and dry out much more rapidly.

HENRY M. EDMONDS TO PREACH AT JEMISON

Dr. Henry M. Edmonds, pastor of Independent Presbyterian church of Birmingham, will preach at the Presbyterian church at Jemison this coming Friday night, December 13, at 7:30 p.m. Dr. Edmonds is a prominent speaker and a worthwhile message will be brought. Everyone is cordially invited to be present.—R. B. Johnson.

If Christians under our systems of government must build their own colleges in order to teach the doctrines of Christianity, the atheists, infidels, and communists should be compelled to build their own institutions, and secure their own student body if they wish to teach their own theories. The writer has a degree of respect for any man who believes what he believes, and stands for his convictions. No man at heart is honest who draws a salary from an institution and while he draws his salary teaches theories of doctrines contrary to what the institution stands for. A Unitarian preacher in a Unitarian pulpit who tells the world that he does not believe in the virgin birth and deity of Jesus Christ is a gentleman of the hightest type in comparison with a Unitarian in a Trinitarian pulpit who, by subtle influences, raises questions in the minds of the people about the virgin birth and deity of our Lord.

Evolution is not truth. Someone has said, "It is a million guesses strung together." Darwin did not say it was so. Darwin said he was guessing. Huxley did not prove it. It never has been proved. It never will be proved. The evolutionary hypothesis is untrue. God made man in His own image. Man fell into sin. In his natural state he is a fallen creature who, left to himself is hopelessly and irretrievably lost. He is a hunger for God, but in himself he is unable to reach up and get hold of the infinite. The infinite must reach down and get hold of him. Sinners are never saved because of an inherent, holy tendency. They are always saved by divine grace. In our flesh there dwells no good thing. When we are saved we have salvation imparted to us. We are still a dual being and we carry until the end of the journey, the treasure of salvation in an earthen vessel.

CARD OF THANKS

MEMORY OF MR. DAVE NICHOLS

On Dec. 6th, the death angel called and took Mr. Nichols's spirit to its resting place, where he will know no heart aches nor the pains of death any more. He is through with his sufferings here on earth.

He leaves to mourn his loss six sons and one daughter: Willie Nichols of Plantersville, Clyde Nichols of Uniontown, Oscar Nichols of Ashville, Jessie Nichols of Greensboro, Glenn Nichols of Meridian, Miss., Mrs. Nettie Jones of Clanton. Weep not dear children, but live for the Lord and meet your father in glory land.

His body was laid to rest by the side of his wife's body in Stanton cemetery on December 7th at 1:00 o'clock with Jud Brislin Bros. in charge.—A Friend.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to most heartily thank everyone who were so kind to us at the time of the death of our husband and father. We feel that no greater expression of sympathy and good will could have been shown than was shown us at that time. We shall ever retain in our hearts and minds a kind feeling toward each of you and ask heaven's blessings upon you.—Mrs. Sam P. Collins, Mrs. Guyula Collins Murrah, Earl Collins.

To the Readers of The Union-Banner:

Dear Friends:

It is with regret that we write this letter, informing the people of Chilton County that apparently the opportunity to secure the paving of the Clanton-Selma Highway has been lost, but we feel that you have a right to know the truth about this situation. This opportunity has been lost through the lack of cooperation on the part of your county officials. Repeatedly, they have chosen to assume an attitude far from friendly to the aims and ideals of the programs sponsored by State and National governments.

Informotion has reached us that Gaston B. Scott, chairman of State Highway Commission, has notified Judge J. Lee Smith that the State Highway Department will withdraw its offer to Chilton county regarding the proposed paving of this road, linking the county seats of Chilton and Dallas, unless accepted by Commissioners at once. Our county officials hove shown they are determined not to cooperate in this matter.

Despite the fact that they agreed and assured us of their willingness and intention to participate in this project, they have constantly attempted to mislead the people regarding this work. Several months ago, while the Legislature was in session, County Attorney, Omar L. Reynolds, called me (Charlie Cox) in Montgomery and informed me that he, Judge Smith, and members of the Commissioners Court wished to come to Montgomery and hold a conference regarding some local legislation which we were seeking to have passed.

It was agreed in this conference that the local bills (one providing for the employment of a county road supervisor and the second providing for the allocation of one and one-half cents of the county gasoline tax to the State for the purpose of paving of this road) would be withdrawn and the Commissioners Court would cooperate in the furtherance of this project. The members of the court agreed to participate to the extent of one-third of the gas tax due the county until such time as the State of Alabama had received one-third the amount of the cost of the paving of this rood through Chilton County. Estimates at that time placed the cost at approximately $42,000, but later the Federal Government proposed to participate to the extent of 42 per cent, thus Chilton County's share was reduced to $39,300.

From this moment on, it has been the sole aim of Judge Smith and members of his court to camoflage this issue. They have repeatedly made the assertion that "Charlie Cox and Earle Thomas have taken all our money" and we can't do this, or we can't do that. The majority of the people in Chilton County must know this money which we sought to have transferred to this road project comes out of the road and bridge fund and can not possibly be used for any other purpose. So, in no way could this program have interferred with or prevented support of other programs other than road work.

Three years ago, when President Roosevelt launched his gigantic relief program, it was for the one purpose of relieving the unemployment situation that had become a catastrophe to this nation. But it was soon seen that it was next to impossible for the Federal Government to direct a program of such proportions. President Roosevelt then asked the States to lend a hand, and our Governor, Bibb Graves, assured him that Alabama would do her part. Governor Graves in turn sought the cooperation of Alabama's 67 counties, but it seems Chilton County's officials had grown accustomed to the idea of outstretched hands and a slogan of "gimme" that they could not visualize such a thing as putting their own shoulders to the wheel.

Under the WPA Alabama was slated to be the recipient of $80,000,000 of Federal funds to be expended on worthy public improvements. Appearing before the Commissionres Court we made the statement that there was no reason why Chilton County should not receive at least $1,000,000 of this amount. But there was a reason—and that reason was, negligence and lack of cooperation on the part of our local officials.

In losing this project, Chilton County will have lost the $108,000 which would have been spent by the State and National governments. Much of this amount would have gone to our local people for labor and truck hire. To illustrate the friendly spirit exhibited by the State Highway Department, we wish to recall to your minds that when the question arose as to which of the two routes through Maplesville would be chosen, highway officials agreed to pave both routes.

What puzzles us is that the roads of Chilton County were built and maintaned until the past two years on a two-cent gasoline tax, and in that time 52 steel bridges were built. All of this was done before the addition of the third cent tax on gasoline two years ago. If roads were built on two cent tax, is there any good reason why they can not be maintained on a similar amount? It seems to us that at least one-third of the money should be spent for the building of permanent roads.

We, neither of us have any personal reason for wanting the Clanton-Selma Highway paved, other than we believe the people of this county have a right to expect their officials to spend some of the tax money wisely.

Another smoke screen that is being employed is the argument that a durable road could not be built for $6,000 per mile. We are assured by highway officials that the road would be the same as the four miles already built, and that it was further guaranteed that should the road prove inefficient, Chilton County would be absolved of all responsibility. With the paving of this road and the completion of the highway from Centerville to Maplesville, much of the traffic enroute to Montgomery and points south would naturally have flowed through Clanton and Chilton County. No business man need be told what this would mean.

The loss has been great to Chilton County and the antagonism shown toward this and other Public Works Programs has not been in keeping with the band wagon support of the New Deal during the last campaign.

The situation is regrettable, but we feel that our people have the right to know the facts.

Very truly,
C. B. COX,
EARLE THOMAS.

NEW 1936 CORN-HOG PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Auburn, Ala.—The 1936-'37 corn-hog adjustment contract has been approved and contract aplications will be offered to Alabama farmers in January, Dr. L. N. Duncan, state extension director, has been notified by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The two-year contract, effective as of December 1, 1935, requires that the signer produce for market in 1936 at least 50 per cent of his market hog base and not more than 100 per cent of his base if he is to receive the maximum hog adjustment payment. The cooperative producer also must plant to corn at least 25 per cent of his corn base next year but not more than a percentage which is within the permitted optional range of 70 to 90 per cent of his corn base.

For complying with the hog adjustment provisions of the 1836-'37 contract, the participating producer will receive his entire hog payment as soon as possible after compliance has been checked after the close of each year. The 1936 rate will be at $1.25 per head for each hog in the base, less the pro rata share of the local administrative expenses. Deduction will be made at the rate of $2.50 per head if the producer fails to raise 50 per cent of his base hog numbers and $5.00 per head if he raises more than his assigned base number.

Corn adjustment payments in 1936 will be made in two installments, about August 1 and December 31, at the rate of 35 cents a bushel multiplied by the appraised yield and the number of adjusted acres. Deductions will be made for local administrative expenses as heretofore.

Wade H. Harris of Plantersville is in Clanton this week attending Circuit Court.

EVERGREENS NEED WATER BEFORE FREEZING WEATHER

Auburn, Ala.,—All evergreens will will stand the cold weather of the winter months much better if they are given a good watering before the ground freezes, advises Homer S. Fisher, extension landscape specialist, of Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Mulching the plants either with well-rotted manure, decaying leaves, or peat moss is an added precaution. The mulch helps to keep the water in the soil longer and keeps it from freezing as soon as the surrounding soil freezes.

Mr. Fisher says that proper care of ornamental evergreens pays, since they are the most expensive type of plant materials, and the most conspicious and useful, particularly in winter.

BREED SOWS NOW FOR SPRING PIGS

Auburn, Ala.—Sows should be bred to purebred boars in December for March litters, says F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist. Plan to have each sow that farrows next spring to produce a ton of pork in six months, he advises. This cannot be done unless you have larger litters of well- bred hogs.

SIAMESE TWIN EGGS

Mr. P. O. Jones of Clanton, Route 1, brought in to The Union-Banner office a freak in the way of eggs. It was a Siamese Twin soft-shell egg, or at least that was the most appropriate name we could figure for it. The two eggs, almost normal size, were joined together with a small tube.

MARINES TO ENLIST TWENTY MEN AT MACON, GA., OFFICE

Macon, Ga., Dec 20.—Twenty applicants will be enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps in December at the District Recruiting Office, Macon municipal auditorium, it was announced today by the officer in charge. The applicants will be selected from among those between 18 and 25 years of age applying from the states of Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Each applicant will be required to present evidence of high school training, consent of parents or guardian if under the age of 21 years, and letters of character recommendation from prominent citizens of their respective communities.

The applicants whose completed applications are not received in time to effect their enlistment in December, will be placed on the waiting list for enlistment in January, when a larger quota of enlistments is expected.

Full information and application forms will be furnished to interested persons by the Macon headquarters.

LARGER CONSUMPTION OF COTTON EXPECTED

Larger world consumption of American cotton in the 1935-'36 season than last season is now indicated, according to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Lower prices of American cotton this year in relation to foreign growths, improvement in business activity, together with prospects for further improvement, and replenishing of depleted stocks of American cotton abroad, are some of the factors that point toward larger consumption.

HIGHLIGHTS OF 1936 COTTON PLAN GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.—Adjustment ranging from 30 to 45 per cent will be permitted in the 1936 AAA cotton program and producers will be paid 5 cents per pound on the average production of the acres taken out of production under the neww AAA cotton contracts, according' to information received by L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service.

Contracts, which will be offered to farmers early in 1936, cover the four-year period of 1936 through 1939, but allow a producer to terminate the contract at the end of any year.

The division of the 1936 payments will be made as follows: 37½ per cent to the party furnishing the land; 12½ per cent to the party or parties furnishing the work stock and equipment, and 50 per cent divided between the interested parties in proportion that such parties share in the cotton or proceeds from such cotton.

Each cotton producer will be expected to plant cotton on at least 50 per cent of this permitted cotton acreage.

Contract signers will not be allowed to increase their acreage for sale o peanuts, tobacco or rice grown on the farm above their acreage to such crops in 1934 or 1935, whichever is the larger.

Acres taken out of cotton production may be used for about the same purposes as were permitted in 1934 and 1935. However, the food, feed, and soil building crops put on the adjusted acres are to be additional to the acreage normally devoted to such crops on the farm.

Land owners and operators will not be permitted to reduce the number of tenants or croppers on their farms or to replace them with wage laborers.

A THROUGH OF "IGNENTS DROPS" FROM "DR." SCOTT OF JEMISON

Mister Editor:

Here I come with another supply of my famous "Ignents Drops." The dose I sent out a few weeks ago was all right I guess; I have heard no complaint. So, here I go:

We farmers of this great country of ours who feed and clothe the world, sure do like to be hoodoed and robbed of what we make. We have listened to the white-collared fellows until they have just about got us down to where we can't make a living. Yet we will go along and sign up for them to have our birthright for just a little morsel. As it stands today we have but a few free privileges and at this time no freedom. We have to ask the government bosses, "What are you going to let us plant this year and how many acres to cotton?" They go ahead and tell us and we obey them. When we get ready to go to picking our cotton then we have to find out how much they are going to allow us to sell free of taxes. Some of us they will allow 150 pounis, some 1 bale, and some 8 and 10 bales and on up.

Good people, I have never seen such a mess as they have got us into. Who ever thought we would be taxed for everything we poor farmers raise? They tax our cotton, tax our corn, tax our potatoes, tax our tobacco, tax our hogs, tax our sorghum and syrup. If the sales tax passes it will get everything down to a spool of thread with a double tax. Who ever head of such things before?

Some few people praise the adjustment act and the Bankhead law, but I want to say it is only those who are at the pie counter with white collars on. That Bankhead law is the greatest robbing machine that has ever been hatched out. We do not need such men as him in Washington; neither do we need the brain trust. And I am hoping such men as they are will be left at home next year.

Dear farmers, we should think well next time we have a chance to vote. You can see what we are getting into, and if we send the same men back for another four years we can't expect times to get better, but worse. We well know what Cleveland's and Wilson's second terms brought us. Cleveland put us into the worst panic we have ever had. Wilson put us into the worst war we have ever had, and stripped our country of all its wealth; took the lives of many and the health of more of those who were able to return home. Our good America hasn't ever gotten over the condition we were left in. It will never be any better as long as we send such men as Roosevelt and Bankhead to Washington to make laws for us. We need men in office who feel like they are our servants and not our bosses and dictators.

Well, I have an old book here that reads like this: "When the wicked rule, the people mourn." I don't know just how wicked Roosevelt is, but we do know that he has led astray most of our old law makers at Washington. They have failed, as I see it, to live up to the oath of office they have taken, and have forgotten the people back home. We have all fallen short of the blessings we expected from the New Deal. I am told that wilful waste makes woeful wants, and I partly believe it. I am going on 72 years of age, and I haven't in all of my life seen so much waste as is being carried on now by this administration.

All of you good people know this is the truth, and why should we try to deny it. We are in a great mess, end everybody seems as if they were lost as to knowing what to do. The farmers and all industries—the railroads, the mine owners and all industries—they can't know just what kind of a mess the law makers will bring in when they meet again at Washington. They are just as wavery as the wind that blows, and who can tell which way it will be blowing next January? Nothing they do these days favors the old timey ways; but they are robbing the poor little farmers and putting it into pockets of the rich. But that old book I mentioned above says something like this. "Go to now ye rich men, weep and mourn for your misery has come upon you, for you have held back from them who have mowed down your fields."

So I wonder who it is who is "trying to enter in at the strait gate." It must be the poor farmer and little merchant and all laboring men. They are sure having to strive hard these days to keep soul and body together. And those in "The broad road that leads to destruction" must be those who have forgotten that we have a Constitution and are leading that New Deal. As I see it, we sure are being led to destruction, and if the Supreme Court does not stop some of it we, the poor farmers, will soon be gone, paying taxes on everything we raise, and our country dictators telling us just what we must do and what we can't do. I never in my life have seen so many bosses riding around.

So I will stop here and ask God to help the people to vote right next year, I will close, the same old doctor,—J. N. Scott.

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

F.E.&C.U. Of A. Official Gives Views On A.A.A.

Events of the past few months must strike the mind of every intelligent farmer with terrifying force. What is going to happen in America this winter? You hear that question on all sides, from farmers, from business men, laborers and from the helpless victims of unemployment and distress.

Already the farmers see vast armies of discontent, staging food riots, food strikes and food boycotts in the large cities. Are these movements directed at the farmers? No. Do they hit and hurt the farmers? Yes.

One plain and undeniable fact stands out as the primary cause of this vast movement of discontent, with its consequent threat of disaster. That is the terrible fact that bread and meat have been destroyed in the presence of hungry American citizens to create an artificial scarcity. That bread and meat have been heavily taxed to pay the salaries of hundreds of thousands of government job-holders under Henry A. Wallace. Ask any man you meet on the streets, "Why are pork chops so high in price?" The immediate answer is: "Wallace destroyed half of America's pork supply and socked a big tax on what was left." The universal conclusion of the city dweller is that the prevailing price of pork represents only an artificial freak to which it was driven by unheard of political and economic schemes. Therefore, the public mind is readily attracted to schemes for boycotts, strikes and other forms of violent resistance to the level of meat prices.

Now what applies to meat, applies also to bread and other farm commodities which supply the income of our farmers. When Henry A. Wallace first proposed his insane schemes of food destruction and processing taxes, the farmers educational and cooperative Union of America begged and pleaded against such terrible course of action. Whatever the temporary benefit might be, the Farmers Union said the inevitable reaction would be ten thousand times more disastrus and harmful.

John A. Simpson, president, and Edward E. Kennedy, national secretary of the Farmers Union, together with leaders and numbers from all sections of the country, fought with might and main to stop the vast armies of bureaucrats from bringing this cursed blight upon the nation and upon the heads of our farm people. But the pay-rollers would not be denied. Thousands upon thousands of pig-killers, food destroyers and field measures went on the payroll. Wallace was hailed the world around as the champion of food destruction. America rushed down the road as a nation destroying food while its people went hungry. Three years later we began to count the cost. Vast and uncontrolled armies of bureaucrats stalk the land, rid'ng upon the back of every farmer in this nation. More than one billion dollars deducted from the farmers proceeds through processing taxes. Millions of consumers organized to boycott and strike against farm prices and more millions swelling the ranks of discontent day by day.

The top-heavy machinery of bureaucracy stalled in the mires of its own making. Unable to go ahead, afraid and unwilling to go backward. Flood of foreign foods displacing the products of American farm in every market of this nation. Exports dribble down to the zero or vanishing point and barriers created against their renewal for many years to come. Worst of all we find that the corruption which began at the top of the farm admisintration was carried down through the entire structure of the bureaucracy.

Leaders were bribed with soft government jobs. Those who could not be bought or bribed were viciously attacked and their organizations felt the full force of vast subterranean powers of the Federal Government. Thousands of farmer cooperatives were compelled to fall in line behind the rotten program of the AAA and those who would not do so were driven to the utmost limits by savage attacks of the well-paid bureaucrats.

All these things actually happened. Henry Wallace took the insane and ridiculous course of destroying food in preference to the farmers union program of cost of production. There is not one sane American citizen anywhere in the nation who would have been opposed to farmers receiving loss of production for their products. In the depths of price depression, caused by man-made, artificial manipulations the Federal Government had the power to enact and to enforce a cost of production level of prices, which would have been ten thousand times more effective than food destruction and which would win the immediate and whole-hearted support of every fair minded citizen in the nation. No great mass bureaucracy need have been created. No processing taxes whatever, imposed. No food destruction in the presence of starvation. America would have solved her farm problems within a few short months, serving and benefitting every farmer and every worker in this great nation through such a constructive measures enacted to meet a grave emergency.

The Farmsrs Union pleaded in vain. Organized bureaucracy and organized debauchery won the day. Political spoilsters won another victory at the expense of American agriculture and to the everlasting shame and peril of this great nation. Now the farmers union has made and will continue to make a positive and militant fight for major and basic agricultural policies. These policies are based on the principle of cost of production for the farmers. No amount of weasel words will confuse this fundamental issue, whether it comes from the cunning friend or the slick tongue of the international bankers crowd from the stable m'nd or the warped intellect of Washington bureaucrats, or whether it comes from the sub-servant hireling whose chief claim to a payroll are their willingness to play the role of Judas to a cause of agriculture for a consideration.

During the last two administrations this army of hirelings has become very numerous.

The Farmers Union, through the many turbulent years has never lost sight of its principles and it has never weakened in its determination to convert its principles into policies.

The farmer's right to receive cost of production for his products is as eternal as the rights of the people laid down in the Declaration of Independence. There will be no permanent solution for the problems that are the result of the policies that have produced misery and poverty, privation and want until the Congress of the United States adopts the principles of cost of production for agriculture as the foundation for its policy toward agriculture. The Frazier-Lemke refinancing bill is an agency that will assist in the attainment of cost of production for the American farmers. The new farm moratorium act is to hold us in the position we now occupy. The payment of the soldiers adjusted compensation certificates is to assist and make possible attaining that objective of cost of production.

It is of the same purpose that we favor the remonetization of silver. The bank of the United States through which Congress will exercise its constitutional power to coin money and regulate the value therof is the instrumentality through which we may make permanent the cost of production policy for the farmers of America. Our program of taxation on incomes in the higher brackets a higher tax and limitation on inheritances and gifts is to put purchasing power and income in circulation among the people and to keep it in circulation. If purchasing power and income are put into circulation and kept in circulation the products of the farm and products of labor will be distributed among the consumers. The farmers union is a militant champion of these principles. We have opposed with equal militancy opposition as contrary policies. We are neither extremists or middle of the roaders. The farmers union has lived through several panics. It has lived through the period of so-called war prosperity. It has lived through the periods where both major political parties were at the peak of their strength and influence. It is now living in a day when major political parties command less of the public esteem or confidence of any time in their history.. The farmers union is non-partisan, so it is not by way of comparison, but it is accurate to say that the farmers union holds a position of respect and influence that is enjoyed by no other so-called farm organization. This is true and has been true for years, because the farmers union has a program and this program is as sound as it is just. The farmers union will keep up this militant fight for justice. The farmers union is like the human heart, it must keep on beating. It must beat to keep these principles alive. The life-giving blood is the union membership that believes in its principles. The stronger the membership the stronger the heartbeat. Yours for the farmers and laborers.—B. S. Frederick, Sec.-Treas., F. E. and C. U. of A., Jemison, Alabama.

Mr. (Slack) Arthur Littlejohn left last week for Miami, Fla., where he has accepted a position in a hotel there.

We will be in Jemison at Langston Drug Co., Thursday, Dec. 19, and at Maplesville Drug Co., Maplesville, Ala., on Friday, December 20, 1935.

THORSBY SECTION

(Mrs. S. E. Norton, Manager)

The Ladies Guild Bazaar, which was held at the city hall last Saturday, was quite a success. About sixty dollars was taken. This is to help pay for enlargement of campus cottage. The ladies will still have to raise thirty dollars more to pay for this improvement. If members of the guild who did not contribute articles for the sale would like to contribute something on this amount, or any other friend of the Institute would like to contribute, our treasurer, Mrs. E. W. Butler, or our president, Mrs. Anna Phalin, would very gladly receive it. There are still a few articles left from the sale which can be seen at the home of Mrs. S. E. Norton.

The following letter was written by Conway Thornburgh, one of our Thorsby boys, attending Southern Union College at Wadley, Alabama. The Jack mentioned in the letter is also one of our Thorsby boys.

BURNING OF GIRLS DORMITORY OF SOUTHERN UNION COLLEGE

Wadley, Ala., Dec. 6.—On Tuesday morning, November 26, at 5 a.m., occupants of the girls dormitory had been aroused by dense smoke filling rooms and corridors. Fifteen minutes after the alarm sounded, it was impossible to enter the northeast wing. And two hours later, the building was a skeleton—eyeless window sockets and bare brick bones. The only signs of life fere wisps of blue smoke—the glutted fire god sticking out his tongues at 'em. The death notice of this building will read "Cause Unknown." It is one of those unsatisfactory, unsolved mystery stories.

"Be Prepared"

Tuesday morning about 5:30 Duerr awakened me and said that the girls dormitory was on fire. Grabbing my overcoat, I hurried out. It seemed to us that nothing was burning but a small shed and several thought that the fire could be put out. Then we found that all the girls and teachers had come out, with the exception of Miss Van Cleave and Mrs. Thornburgh, my mother. By this time smoke was pouring out all the windows and doors, but we couldn't see much fire. Helen Albert came out with Miss Van Cleave, who had lost her glasses and couldn't find her way. We later found that Helen had left her clothes at the head of the stairs in order to help Miss Van Cleave. One of the men tried to go into the hall and reached the stairs, but was turned back by the smoke, then Mr. Ensminger went in on all fours in an attempt to get upstairs to get my mother. He got half way up the stairs and had to turn back, calling to me that we couldn't make it without some wet cloths on our noses. We rushed down for some water, still not realizing how fast the place was burning. Someone went for a ladder, and we were going to get Mrs. Thornburgh from the third floor balcony. Then First Class Scout, Jack Higgins, a freshman, came out the front door with my mother. No one had seen him go into the building, and when he came out he had the same unperturbed air he always has. It seems mother had gotten as far as the top of the stairs by feeling her way along the wall and then, because the smoke was so dense and she had lost her glasses, she was afraid to come down. Jack ran up to the landing and opened the window so he could get some air, then led her down to the window and carried her out. Had it not been for Jacks quick thinking in opening the window he might not have been able to get her out because the smoke was coming up the stairs well and pushing all the air out. Jack lived up to his Scout motto of "Be Prepared" under all circumstances, and he deserves the greatest recognition we can give him.

Miss Billy Jean Young of Columbiana spent Saturday with the Reinhardts.

Mrs. Bill Blood left Friday for Miami, Florida, Where Mr. and Mrs. Blood expect to live.

Miss Polly Collins spent the week end in Birmingham.

Mrs. Akins Collins and Mrs. Leonard Hayes spent Friday in Birmingham.

Miss Linnie Belle Reinhardt spent the week end in Montevallo.

Mrs. Harry Waters and children spent Saturday with Mrs. E. R. Piper.

Mr. Dewey Collins, who is working in Prattville, spent the week end at home.

Miss Marian Fairbank has received a card from Earle Pate, who recently joined the navy at Norfolk, Virginia. He says he likes his work and that he sees Guy Higgins, another Thorsby boy, often. He is sending a magazine to the library for a Christmas present. Those who wish to read it may check it out.

Mr. Wilbur Robinson of Sylacauga spent the week end with Mr. J. S. Robinson.

UNDERSTAND TOO WELL

Secretary Wallace plaintively complains that the critics of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration do not understand it. It has accomplished what it set out to do, he says, that is, raised the prices of farm products and given the farmer substantial relief.

That is true. His critics point out that he has taxed all the rest of the people for the benefit if the farmer. He has destroyed our export trade in foodstuffs. Worse than that, it is the other way about, for now we are importing wheat, corn, meat, cattle and butter. No Secretary of Agriculture can point with pride to a policy which has resulted in such a drastic reduction of production that now we do not grow enough to feed ourselves. We are the greatest growers of raw cotton and makers of manufactured cotton in the world, yet we are actually importing cotton goods.

There is no difference of opinion in regard to the necessity of helping the farmer. But you do not have to burn the house down to roast your pork. Mr. Wallace in accusing his critics of not understanding his policies is wholly wrong. His critics understand them too well.—Cincinnatti Enquirer.

You can have two eggs for breakfast instead of one by doubling the price of eggs argues the Pathfinder magazine. You can, however, have canned corn beef from South America instead of pork chops by doubling the price of pork.—Exchange.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

The much discussed tariff-reciprocity treaty between the United States and the Dominion of Canada is now an accomplished fact. Already a few of the interests in the United States affected by the terms of the treaty, are beginning to feel uncomfortable over the results. Mist of the people, however, have as yet failed to become worked up about it, principally for the reason that they knew so little about it in advance, and have learned so little since its terms were published; and for the further reason, that its effects will not be generally felt until the treaty has been in operation for some little time.

Perhaps the greatest complaint so far has come from the lumber interests of the northwest, where there have been published protests by men like former United States Senator Dill and Senator McNary, the Republican Senate floor leader, who is evidently not happy about it either and, according to press, has spent some little time in conference with Secretary of State Hull over the lumber provisions of the treaty, which are said to spell good times for the lumber interests and lumber workers of Canada and not such good times for similar interests in the United States. It is reported also that other American industries are not happy over the treaty, including the fisheries in the northwest and northeast, the dairying and other so-called agricultural interests. Perhaps more may be heard about this later.

Perhaps the most significant point of it all is that we do not make tariffs like we used to. In the earlier days, tariffs were written by Congress after the various interests were given full and public hearings on committees. It was the general intent of the protectionists to draw tariff schedules which would equalize the cost of production at home and abroad. That doctrine is now outmoded. Cost of production at home and abroad is now little considered. Making tariffs under the new dispensation is a sort of a diplomatic poker game for world markets. And if Uncle Sam is not a better diplomatic poker player now than he has been in the past it is not difficult to guess who is going to grab off all the blue chips.

In this diplomatic game Congress is now a fifth wheel to the tariff wagon. It has signed away its rights to tariff making, and treaty making so far as the tariff is concerned, to the State Department. Congress has nothing to say about the rates, and the treaty is drawn up without the advice and consent of the Senate. Whether or not the Supreme Court will regard this new sort of tariff making as constitutional remains to be seen. But just now it is very much in vogue.

And just as Congress is outmoded in tariff making so is tariff publicity outmoded. It is lamentable to have to state that the public, and the industries interested, knew not at all what the treaty contained. or what its rates were, until the treaty had been signed and published. This is quite a change from the old style of doing things when the lumberman, the dairyman, and the cattle raiser, to say nothing of the manufacturer, had a chance to tell Congress just what he thought about the tariff schedules proposed, and what they might do to him. Of course we are new under the new dispensation, dealing with the New Deal, but we have certainly travelled a long way from our old fashioned ideas on tariff making and from the ideals of that Democratic President, Woodrow Wilson, that treaties shold be "open covenants, openly arrived at." Even Ray Moley, writing in "Today," felt called upon to say editorially: "The futive character of the negotiations for reciprocal treaties by the United States (of est example) does not fit well with the liberal protestations of of an administration which the Canadian negotiations are the latdevoted to the masses of the people." No doubt these sentiments are being echoed in the breasts of many thousands who are not so kindly disposed to the administration politically, as is Professor Moley. But at any rate the Canadian treaty will be a great deal more in the public eye a few months hence.

OUR FOREIGN MARKETS

Says the Burlington Free Press:

"There's a screw loose somewhere in this old world. While the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has been working night and day to reduce the agricultural production of basic crops in the United States, Germany has been experiencing food shortages and the Reich is starting a campaign to increase farm production. While they have been butchering hogs by the millions and the government has been paying farmers for the hogs they didn't raise, Germany is levying heavy fines on dealers who slaughtered cattle or hogs of less than prescribed weights, and butter is sold under police supervision. This is too small a world to have some people in serious need of food while others are destroying it. The whole thing is a challenge to our intellegence and common sense."

All of which is of course true. Nor is it to be forgotten that other nations are planning to stimulate the production of crops while the United States is cutting down Mussolini, according to the newspapers, has released from active service 100,000 soldiers who are to go back to the farm and produce the foodstuffs which Italy may not be able to import if the League of nations makes good on its sanctions.

Nor is it to be forgotten that Brazil, which has always depended on coffee for its prosperity, and has shipped the greatest part of that coffee to the Uniter States, is now increasing its production of cotton to the point where cotton will soon be its second crop and a very important one. And the chief reason Brazil, and other nations too, are speeding up on cotton is that in the United States the farmers are actually being discouraged in its production.

The curtailment of agricultural produuction at home can only stimulate such prodction abroad, because as Uncle Sam cuts his crops his costs become higher and higher and he is less and less able to compete in the world market. Other nations realize this and that is whey we are having increased competition abroad.

But the destruction of crops in 1933 and the curtailment of acreage in 1934 and 1935 have had this effect on the American as well as the foreign markets. There has been an actual shortage of certain commodities and we have had millions of dollars worth of food coming to America from foreign shores.

It was the announced purpose of Secretary Hull and his tariff-treaty bargainers, when they set out on this diplomatic expedition, to increase the foreign market of the farmers. But the foreign market prospect has been curtailed rather than increased by the action of the Department of Agriculture. Yet Mr. Hull and his aides evidently expect to do something to the American market, too. The treaty recently concluded with Canada, when carried out, will mean a great increase in our importation of cream, butter, hay, cattle and other agricultural products.

end up by losing a greater part of the foreign market for farm produce, because of the unwise policies pursued, we may actually end up by losing o greater part of the foreign market and a big slice of the domestic market as well.

PLOWING MEN OUT OF JOBS

"I hope industry in future reduction programs will not find it necessary to plow millions of workers out of their jobs. People are more important than pigs." This is a quotation from a recent radio address by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Men are more important than pigs. Mr. Wallace is right about this. So are their jobs important. But Mr. Wallace should have thought more about this when he put on his 6,000,000 pig slaughtering program. For that program certainly did plow a lot of folks out of jobs.

Stock yards in Chicago and other important centers had the smallest receipts of porkers this summer and fall they have had in many a decade. Hundreds of employees were discharged as a result because there was nothing for them to do, and the men who lost jobs were in the offices of the commission firms as well as in the stockyards proper.

But this certainly isn't all. The railroads didn't need so many cars to haul the hogs to market and this meant fewer jobs for railroad men, fewer demands for cars, fewer jobs all along the line. And considerably less labor was needed on the farms because there were so few pigs to care for—another shrinkage of jobs.

With fewer hogs we will need less corn and there is going to be a reduction in the corn crop next year. This means more idle and and more idle hands because not so many busy ones will be needed to tend the corn crop.

In the meantime foreign produce is being poured into the United States and the money which should go to American farmers is going abroad. And the housewife is paying the penalty in higher prices at the grocery and meat market.

Yes, it is to be hoped that industry will not be compelled to plow a lot of workers out of their jobs. Men's jobs are important. Mr. Wallace and his ace Brain Trusters should have thought of this sooner.

YOU HELP FOOT THE BILL

The chances are that you have heard a great deal about the so-called electric rate yardstick created by the Tennessee Valley Authority. You have heard that it has put into effect rates that are somewhat lower than those of private plants in the same area—and that the happy householder is getting more power for fewer dollars.

What you probably haven't heard is that the TVA rate structure is made possible by governmental subsidization and by tax freedom—which means that all the people, in all parts of the county, have directly or indirectly helped to foot the bill. The fact of the matter is that once the tax item is considered, TVA rates are higher than those of comparable private systems.

This at least is the opinion of James P. Warburg, banker and economist, who recently said: "If you deduct the subsidy of taxpayer's money from the Tennessee Valley Authority rates, the 'yardstick rates' are higher than those charged by the privately-owned companies serving the same territory. Even with the advantage of the subsidies for which the taxpayers foot the bill, the TVA rates are but slightly lower than those of the private companies.

"What has happened in the Tennessee Valley doubtless will happen in all government projects. Taxpayers always will have to foot the bill for such examples of pure socialism."

In conclusion, it might also be well to remember that no one knows just how high that bill will ultimately become. Advocates of the TVA put its cost at around $50,000,000—Mr. Warburg says that it is obvious that its cost during the next five years will run to $300,000,000, and eventually to $1,000,000,000. The political electrical "paradise" is expensive indeed to the taxpayers.

MAN IN THE MOON

GOVERNMENT IN REVERSE

The bulk of this article is intended for Democrats and for those Republicans who saw fit to vote for Roosevelt in 1932. Of course, any voter has an inalienable right to vote as he sees fit, and I would be the last to take that right from him. But, in this article, I shall attempt to prove that the Roosevelt administration is not a true Democratic administration, that it is not run upon age-old sane and sound principles, that it is not even being conducted according to the 1932 platform, for which so many Democrats and Roosevelt Republicans were in favor, but it is being carried out in an exactly reverse manner to that set out in the campaign pledge.

Further, I shall ask these voters to answer a question for themselves, which, when brought to mind, will impress upon them the degree in which their confidence in Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal has been betrayed.

First, the New Deal is not even Democratic in its operation. It was set up as a Democratic platform, and in it were embodied several worthwhile goals which, if they had been reached, would have made for good government. But aside from failure to reach these goals, the majority of these high-minded projects have not been even attempted. Inasmuch as this is true, we can only believe that those promises were purely for campaign purposes only.

Democratic government is that which calls in able minds for advice—minds with experience and a history of deeds accomplished. There is a general supposition, too, that these sources of advice shall be whole-souled Americans, with implicit faith in American ideals and principles, looking first toward the welfare of America and her people.

The advisors President Roosevelt drew about him were not the good solid, sensible members of his own party. No one expected him to consider placing Republicans in advisory capacities, but we at least expected him to try to pick the best from his own political house. This he did not do. Instead, he promptly discarded those whom the people had named for that express purpose, the Congress, and gathered in their place a group of men from college class rooms, untrained in practical work, and with no history of practical deeds accomplished. In this one stroke he discarded one of the cardinal principles of Democratic government. In addition, he betrayed the confidence of the people of his own party, taking in as advisors men from another party, another political and economic belief, men whose party standard works toward the destruction of all governments such as ours. Is it reasonable to believe that these men, the "brain trust," would give their best, even if properly trained for their work, toward the furtherance of a principle of government which they had vowed to disrupt if possible? Do you believe that we have come so near the millenium that men will give their all to aid that which they have sworn to destroy?

The members of the "brain trust" are everyone an avowed communist or socialist, by their own admission. The rules and regulations of those parties call for the destruction of governments such as ours, by fair means or foul, in any manner or method that may be found accessible. The president's advisors have everyone subscribed to this set of rules and regulations. They are radicals, admittedly so, and, inasmuch as they are members of a party that would tear our government to pieces, and have sworn to do all in their power to further their cause, is it not reasonable to believe that they will use their key positions as presidential advisors to tear the government to pieces, instead of helping that which is hateful to them?

We believe this proves our contention that the government is not even being run along honest and true Democratic principles. We believe that if the president had wanted to make his an honest Democratic administration he would have selected his advisors from the ranks of his Democrats. Of all members of the advisory body THERE IS NOT ONE DEMOCRAT AMONG THEM! If the president is running the government along lines of their advice (and he has admitted numbers of times that he is) is it not more reasonable to believe that we are being carefully nurtured and tended toward a communistic or socialistic form of government rather htan one carrying out Democratic principles? Think over this matter, and weigh it according to your own good judgement, and see what kind of an answer you get from your own mind.

Second, the 1932 platform called for a number of things which have not even been attempted. We think there are two reasons for this; one is that they were near-impossibilities, known to be such when they were being used to gather votes in the campaign; the other is that these did not fit in with the "brain trust" plans. These were American in spirit, and Americanism is something that is absolutely foreign to the manner of thinking of the "brain trusters."

The 1932 platform called for a sound money policy—in answer to that we have been given the 60-cent dollar. It called for a balanced budget—our nation is billions deeper in debt than at any time in our history. It promised to take government out of business—by the NRA the government placed an iron hand on every business from the least to the largest, regulating hours, wages, and prices. It promised to enlarge our foreign market—we have lost 60 per cent of our foreign market under the guidance of the "tender brain trust." On down the line can be named instances where the present administration has absolutely violated and repudiated its solemn vows to the American people. On this we submit that the Democratic voters have been savagely betrayed, that the administration is not a Democratic one, but is carried on absolutely under the guidance of communists and according to their ideas of government. The 1932 platform has been rarely if ever touched upon.

Third, let's answer a few questions for ourselves. Would you have voted for Roosevelt if you had known that he would conducted things along lines he has done? Would you have voted for him if you had known that he would call in all the gold in the land and give you paper instead; and that paper worth only 60 cents in the dollar? Would you have voted for him, Mr. merchant, if you had known that he would reach down to your business and try to tell you how you should conduct it? Would you have voted for him if you had known that he would curb production, while at the same time hundreds of thousands are starving and going poorly clad? Would you have voted for him if you had known that he would be a welcher, and try to toss scorn at the Supreme Court, the highest tribunal in the land, and recognized all over the world as the greatest judicial institution on the globe, just because they carried out their oaths to give their decisions according to the supreme law of the land, and threw into the discard some of his pet plans in which he, himself, had violated the Constitution, which he had sworn to defend during his tenure of office? Would you have voted for him if you had known these things? Would you, honestly?

No one can be blamed for making a mistake, but one of a kind like that which was made in 1932 is enough. In years to come, American people will come to look back on the years from 1932 to 1936 with shaking heads, bewailing that period when America was not her true self, but was proceeding along artificial and man-made methods.

President Roosevelt has said that our system of government belongs to the horse-and-buggy days. It was good enough to bring him to manhood; it was good enough to protect him, and provide an education for him when he could not care for himself. The laws were good enough to insure him safety as he grew up. This old system was good enough to elect him to the highest office within the ability of the American people to offer, and yet, no sooner was he in that position than this old system became out-moded, an object of scorn and derision by him who swore to defend its laws and institutions forever.

We call upon every sane and thinking man be he Democrat or Republican, to think along these lines. You are Americans, and to you is delivered the responsibility of keeping this tyrant in office, or throwing such un-American tactics into the discard. Use that ballot while you have the chance, for another four years under the "brain trust" bids fair to deprive you of that privilege.

We may belong to the days of "the horse and buggy," but there is at least the horse—we are not just plain "buggy."—Man in the Moon.

"SOLEMN COVENANTS"

At this time when there is a grand drive—and propaganda is being fired at us from all sides—to get us into the European situation and help the European politicians carry out "solemn covenants" in the interest of "world peace," a few remarks that were uttered the other day by a prominent French statesman about another "solemn" promise we got not long ago will not be out of place.

Speaking of the agreement of the allied nations to pay their debts to the United States—after these debts had been generously reduced—Senator Henry Berenger, president of the Senate Foreign Affairs Commission in France, is quoted by the United Press as stating:

"The debts all fell into catalepsy more profound than death, and the miracle that would resuscitate them is not in sight.

"Humanity has continued to live without these obligations, and nothing can prevail on the forces of the future, which desire to be freed from the chains of the past.

"What is the good of insisting on payments that nobody wants to make? What is the use of scribbling new nonsense about the agreement?

"There certainly will be experts to elaborate a new plan and diplomats to write their texts. But where will you find the people to pay them?"

Here is a good example of how European statesmen regard solemn and honorable obligations after they find that it is not in their interests to make good these obligations. It is not a question of inability to pay. Italy, who pleaded poverty when its war payments became due, is spending hundreds of millions in an effort to overcome Ethopia and grab off for itself some more land and loot. Great Britian, who has pleaded poverty, although it has balanced its budget, is planning to build the most powerful aerial fleet in the world and to spend millions on its navy which is already the most powerful in the world. And we are solemnly told that the debtor nations do not pay us because they cannot pay.

The diplomatic hypocrisy in Europe has been spread on so thickly it can be seen 3,000 miles across the Atlantic, and our American statesmen who by intent of folly entangle us in another European mess ought to be buried politically ten feet below the bottom of the bottomless pit.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE POLL

No matter how representative of the people of the United States you may think them to be little question that the Chambers of Commerce disapprove of a great many of the New Deal policies.

The United States Chamber some time ago made a poll of political organizations on a number of pertinent questions. The first question asked whether there should be an extension of federal jurisdiction into matters of state or local concern, and in reply the result was, Yes, 45; No, 1,765.

The second question asked whether there should be federal spending without relation to revenues, and the replies were, Yes, 22; No, 1,845. A third question asked whether there should be federal competition with private enterprise for regulatory or other purposes and the reply was overwhelmingly against the proposition.. That the Chambers know how to say "Yes" as well as "No" is indicated by the poll on a fourth question. It was asked whether "all grants of authority by Congress to the Executive Department of the federal government be within clearly defined limits." The poll showed, Yes, 1,813; No, 58.

The results of this poll indicate that the business men affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce oppose federal interference with local matters, are against an unbalanced budget and oppose government in private business. On the other hand, they favor the idea that congressional grants to the Executive Department be kept within clearly defined limits. The replies are especially significant because of the fact that the sentiment seemed so nearly unanimous.

THE PROBLEM OF MINING

No industry has a greater interest in general economic problems than mining.

Taxation, for example, is vastly important to the mines, which have been the victimes of unfair special taxes off and on for many years.

So is regulation—even in the boom days, mining was olmost lethargic in several important mining states because of iron-handed, unfriendly regulatory laws.

So are such matters as tariffs, money policies, currency standards. Every one of them has an effect, direct and indirect, on the mining industry.

One thing that hinders mining today is fear of more taxes, more inequitable laws, more experiments, more unnecessary labor difficulties. It looks now as if mining had a chance to come back—but fair treatment is necessary if it is to travel far.

We understand the next alphabet bureaucracy to be established is the BBB—the Boondoggling Benefit Bonanza.

FOR A JACKSON DAY BANQUET

It won't be long now until it is time for political banquets. These usually come soon after the first of the year and there will probably be more than ever in 1936 because it happens to be a presidential campaign year.

Among Democrats it has long been the custom to honor two heroes of their party at these banquets—Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson. Of late years Jackson anniversary dinners have been very popular.

It is to be expected next year that the old-fashioned Democrats who have always stood upon the principles of two men, who were by no means in sympathy with Brain Trust theories know them today—will be aided in the holding of these feasts by the New Dealers who are now perching under the banners of Democracy.

In some instances it is to be expected that, because of their great prominence, these New Dealers will take the lead in these Jacksonian festivities.

For their assistance, and in order to be helpful we desire to call attention to the following paragraph of President Andrew Jackson in his message to Congress on December 6, 1836:

"There is no such provision as would authorize Congress to collect together the property of the country, under the name of revenue, for the purpose of dividing it equally among the states or the people. Indeed it is not probable that such an idea ever occurred to the states when they adopted the Constitution. But however this may be, the only safe rule for us in interpreting the powers granted to the federal government is to regard the absence of express authority to touch a subject so important and delicate as this, as equivalent to a prohibition."

Andrew Jackson may be a patron saint of the Democracy butq he evidently was not a New Dealer as we know New Dealers today. This paragraph of Old Hickory would look good on the programs of a Jackson Day banquet anywhere, and would prove the sound good sense of this hturdy patriot, even if he did happen to be a rugged individualist.

AN UN-AMERICAN OATH

To war against war is one thing. But refusal to bear arms in defense of one's home and country is distinctly another.

Almost unanimously in America today is the desire of our people for peace and their determination to keep this nation free from the ravages of war.

But this will to peace, this hatred of war, call for no such abject renunciation of patriotism and honor as is embraced in the so-called Oxford oath, or that adaption of it that pledges its subscribers to refuse to support the government of the United States "in any war it may undertake."

This oath, now being promoted among the spineless, smart-alec fringe of our college student bodies, does not differentiate between wars of aggression and wars of defense.

This oath, had our forefathers clung to such timorous principles, would have left America still a Crown colony of Great Britian, its people subject to foreign dominion. It would have bared our country of secession and divided it into two or perhaps eventually a number of small nations, potentially not unlike Europe, with its heterogeneous group of armed camps.

The spectacle of ane thousand Temple University students rising in endorsement of this un-American oath, without even hearing it read, is not calculated to hearten the more thoughtful friends of peace.

Nor can those who knew him be other than saddened when they consider how Temple's founder, the great-souled Russel H. Conwell, would have contemplated such a proceeding—Conwell, who as a stripling officer fought gallantly to preserve the Union, before he enlisted as a preacher, in the army of God.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

You can buy a bushel of rather good apples for 50 cents and a bushel of potatoes for just a little more. Yet folks cry about hard times. For what is a bushel of apples or a peck of 'taters when the children are sobbing and crying to go to the picture show.—Fairbury, Kansas, Journal.

One of our neighbors has a high-powered radio guaranteed to get broadcasting stations all over the world. And we believe it, because when he demonstrated it the other night it all sounded just like a fight between the Italians and the Ethopians.

Hary Hopkins criticizes Governor Alf Landon and it all seems to have started over Kansas' balanced budget. Well, if anything would make Harry sore it would be a balanced budget.

Since the Democratic platform of 1932 disappeared so mysteriously after the New Deal came in it is said that the old line members of the party next year are going to insist that the platform be made out of asbestos.

There is an old saying that a young man cannot succeed in his old home town. That saying is true. A young man cannot succeed in his old home town if he will not work.—Atchison Globe.

The man out West who traded his wife for a cow should have waited until Secretary Hull got his Canadian treaty through. He might now be able to get a better bargain.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

Lesson for December 15

EZRA TEACHING THE LAW OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Ezra 7:10; Nehemiah 8:1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against thee. Psalm 119:11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Giving Thanks for God's Book.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Giving Thanks for God's Book.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Studying the Bible Together.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Bible in National Life.

This lesson is a fine illustration of the rightful place of God's Word in the life of a nation. The only cure for national ills is a return to God and obedience to his Word.

I The Teacher's Spiritual Condition (Ezra 7:10).

He prepared his heart to seek the law of the Lord, to do it, and to teach Israel the statutes and judgments.

II. The Word of God Read (Neh. 8:1-3).

1. The eager assembly (v. 1). The people gathered together and requested Ezra to bring the book of the law. God had touched their hearts, creating within them a yearning for his Word.

2. A representative assembly (v. 2). God's Word should be taught to all classes—men, women, and children. The Spirit of God can speak through his Word to the whole family sitting in the same pew.

3. An appreciative assembly (v. 3). So eager were they to know God's Word that they did not get tired, although the lesson lasted for five or six hours. When people realize that God is speaking through his Word they will give attention.

III. The People's Attitude Toward God's Word (vv. 4-6).

1. Due reverence shown (vv. 4, 5). When Ezra opened the law all the people stood up out of respect for God's Word.

2. They joined heartily in prayer (v. 6). As Ezra led them in prayer they united in saying, "Amen, Amen," bowing their faces to the ground

IV. God's Word Being Interpreted (vv. 7, 8).

The attitude of the people toward God's Word largely depends upon the minister. Proper dignity and solemnity should be manifested by the minister when reading the Holy Scriptures.

1. He stood up where the people could see him (v. 5).

2. He read distinctly (v. 8). The manner in which many read the Scriptures is greatly to their discredit.

3. He caused the people to understand (v. 8). The supreme business of the minister and teacher is to make the Word of God so plain that old and young can understand. The explanation should be clear and definite.

V. The Effect of Applying God's Word to the Life of the People (vv. 9-18).

1. Conviction of sin (v. 9). The divine method of convicting men of their sin is to have God's Word applied by the Holy Spirit. The Word of God is quick and powerful (Heb. 4:12).

2. Weeping turned into joy (vv. 10-12). When sins have been perceived and confessed there is forgiveness. Continued mourning will not atone for past sins. Furthermore, it dishonors a pardoning God and even unfits the one for present tasks. Joy has a salutary effect upon one's entire being. "The joy of the Lord is your strength."

3. Blessings were shared with others (vv. 10-12). True joy manifests itself in giving to others. Pure religion goes out to minister to the poor (James 1:27). Godliness is not content with having a good time alone.

4. The people obeyed. From the reading of the Scriptures they found that the feast of the tabernacles had long been neglected. They kept this sacred feast in a way that had not been since the days of Joshua.

5. They separated themselves from the ungodly (13:1-3). As soon as they had heard the Word of God they separated themselves from the mixed multitude.

6. The house of worship was cleared and order restored (13:4-14). No nation or people can be strong which neglects the worship of the true God.

7. The Sabbath was restored (13:15-22). Israel had long violated the Sabbath. To ignore the essential law of the Sabbath is national suicide. Unnumbered evils followed in the wake of the desecration of God's holy day.

8. God's law of marriage restored (13:23-31). Some of those who had intermarried with the heathen were brought face to face with their sin. They separated themselves from their ungodly companions. God's favor cannot be enjoyed by those who live in disobedience to his Word.

THE DOCTORS ARE RIGHT

Women should take only liquid laxatives

Many believe any laxative they might take only makes constipation worse. And that isn't true.

Do what doctors do to relieve this condition. They use a liquid

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

laxative, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why your laxative should be in liquid form. A liquid dose can be regulated to the drop.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that form no habit even with children. Syrup Pepsin is the nicest tasting, nicest acting laxative you ever tried.

FORD V-8 MOTOR APPROVED BY U. S. FOR AIRCRAFT USE

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—The Ford V-8 engine converted for aviation by the Arrow Aircraft & Motors Corp., this city has been issued approved type certificate No. 151 by the U. S. bureau of air commerce. This climaxes two years of intensive research and experimentation by the Nebraska company, and marks the beginning of an era in the manufacture of small airplanes.

The aviation indunstry has been striving for many years to develop a small plane with low initial, operating and maintenance costs, but giving standard performance. Excessive initial cost of aviation power plants and the prohibitive maintenance aspect have heretofore defeated this aim.

First To Get O. K.

Aircraft manufacturers have looked to the automobile engine also for many years as the logical means of providing economical power for small planes, along with giving the airplane maker the benefits of mass production and extensive service facilities on that most essential unit of the airplane—the power plant. The Arrow converted Ford V-8 motor is the first such power plant developing 80 or more horsepower (so as to insure standard performance of the plane), to receive the Federal A. T. C., however.

The advantages to be obtained in using a motor so easily available and handily serviced as the V-8 in an airplane are obvious. Heretofore the power plant in the average small plane has constituted more than 60 per cent of the total cost. In the Arrow Ford V-8, it accounts for less than 20 per cent of the total.

The V-8 engine as converted for aviation by the Arrow company differs from the standard automobile power plant in only a few simple but vital phases. Reduction gears have replaced the fly-wheel so as to turn the propeler at a cruising speed of 1,500 revolutions per minute. This gives the plane a cruising speed of approximately 100 miles per hour with the motor turning over at the rate of a ground speed of about 60 miles per hour in the automobile.

Weight Reduced

The radiator is redesigned to coacur with the streamline cowling of the ship, and one large pump replaces the two regulation pumps. To reduce weight, an aluminum crankcase and smaller generator are used. Incidentally, the oil lines are all cast within the cylinder block, thus doing away with one of aviation's most troublesome and dangerous problems—the broken oil line.

As an indication of how this new aviation power plant will affect the fields of private flying and student instruction, valves which cost from $3 to $5 for the average small plane motor will cost the Arrow Ford V-8 owner only 25 cents, and so on down the line. In place of a $55 magneto an $8 battery is used. In fact, a new motor may be obtained for $47 plus replacement of any conversion parts that may be the worse for wear.

In 250 hours of testing, the V-8 converted motor consumed six gallons of gasoline per hour at full throttle, and one pint of oil for every five hours. Standard type automobile gasoline and oil are used.

On a basis of 1,000 hours of flight (approximately 100,000 air miles), and including insurance coverage, fuel and oil, maintenance and repair, and full depreciation on the airplane, the operating cost of the Arrow Ford V-8 is only $1.62 per passenger air hour or about one cent per passenger air mile. This compares with approximately $6 per air hour for the most economically operated plane using the conventional aviation power plant.

Top Speed Is 110

The Arrow Ford V-8 is a two-place low-wing monoplane of the companion cockpit type. Its top speed is tentatively announced as 110 miles per hour.

Equipment includes the standard required aviation instruments, hand starter, navigation lights, dual brakes affording individual wheel control, wing flaps, and tail wheel.

The gasoline tank holds 20 gallons, and there is a small auxiliary tank. It carrier two gallons of oil.

Overall length is 21 feet and four inches, wing span 32 feet, and height from tip of propeller to the ground is eight feet and 10 inches.

The price i sin the $1.500 field, with a promise of reduction as quantity production permits.

Commissioners Court Calls For Referendum

Whereas, Chilton county has an opportunity to share in what is known as a three-way project for hard surfacing the Maplesville Highway, from a point three miles west of the city of Clenton and joining the present hard surface paving, to the Dallas county line, a distance of approximately 20 miles, said road to cost approximately $15,000, of which Chilton County would be required to pay not exceeding $42,000, and is being presently estimated by the State Highway Commission of Alabama, that Chilton county's portion would be approximately $40,000.000, and

Whereas, it is proposed by the State Highway Commission that Chilton county pay its part of the paving of said road by agreeing with the State Highway Commission that one cent of the gasoline tax which is now paid to Chilton county and being approximately $2,000.00 per month be deducted from the county's part of this fund until the entire sum noe exceeding $42,000 is paid as the county's part, and

Whereas, said road proposed o be built shall be of a bituminous surface commonly known as tar or black top surface, and whereas said road is now a State owned road and the State at the present time maintains said road without expense to the county and in event that said road is hard surfaced as above set forth the State will continue to maintain said road, and

Whereas, the question of hard surfacing said road has been before the Commissioners Court for some time and there being sentiment in Chilton County in favor of and opposing the county using its funds, as aforesaid, for the paving of said road and the members of the Commissioners Court of Chilton county, Alabama, and the Probate Judge are desirous of knowing the sentiment of the qualified voters of Chilton county, upon this question, and

Whereas, there will be an election held in Chilton county on December 17, 1935, and without any added expense to the tax-payers, the question of whether or not Chilton county shall enter into said project for the paving of said road, as aforesaid, is deemed by the Commissioners Court and the Judge of Probate a proper one to be submitted to the qualified voters of Chilton county along with said election on December 17, 1935.

Be is therefore resolved, that the Probate Judge and Chairman of this Court, shall have prepared a sufficient number of ballots for this election in substantially the folowing form:

Referendum Ballot on Hard Surfacing Maplesville Highway

"Shall Chilton county enter into an agreement with the State Highway Commission of Alabama, whereby a sum not exceeding $42,000.00 shall be deducted from Chilton county's portion of the gasoline funds, said sum to be deducted in the amount of 1c per gallon each month for the purpose of paying Chilton County's part toward paving or hard surfacing with bituminous surface twenty miles of the Clanton-Plantersville State-owned road, from a point four miles west of Clanton to the Dallas county line," and that the Judge of Probate also furnish the regular election officials who have been appointed to hold the special election December 17, with all necessary and sufficient supplies for the purpose of holding this referendum vote and also be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be furnished both the Chilton County News and The Union-Banner in order that the people might understand the issue before them, and it is further requested by the Court that the regular election officers cooperate with the Court in the conduct of this referendum vote and that each qualified voter be given one of these ballots and as soon as the ballot is voted that the same be deposited in a box or receptacle to be provided by the Probate Judge, and the same to be returned by the returning officer to the Judge of Probate, there to be held by him until the meeting of this court on the 18th day of December, 1935, at which time the court of County Commissioners will count, canvass and declare the result of this referendum election.

J. LEE SMITH, Judge of Probate.

Mobile People Want Amendment Passed

Law Will Affect Only That County; Election on December 17

To our Fellow Albamians:

Among he Constitutional Amendments which you will be called upon to vote on in a state-wide election to be held on Tuesday, December 17, 1935, is one which provides for a Constitutional Amendment which only affects Mobile County. This Amendment is being submitted to you at our request, in order that we can get our county on a cash basis and affect the enormous savings of the County which will result from being able to "Pay as you go."

We have carefully studied the proposed Constitutional Amendment which will appear as proposed amendment No. 1 on the official ballot, and each and every member of this Board thinks its passage is of the utmost importance to the future welfare of our county. No county in the state is interested in this Amendment in any manner whatsoever, except Mobile County and we are taking the liberty of addressing this letter to several of the leaders in each of the communities in this state to request that they call this amendment to the attention of their friends and neighbors and try to get out for us on the 17th instant an almost solid vote in favor of this proposed amendment No. 1.

Assuring you of our appreciation of any assistance you may render us in this matter and trusting you will call upon us whenever we can reciprocate your courtesy, we are—Yours very truly, Daniel T. McCall, President; M. B. Herzfield, member; Godfrey W. Alexander, member; W. W. Bolton, member; A. B. Jefferies, member, Board of Revenue and Road Commissioners.

Window Inspection Contest This Week

Merchants Sponsoring Unique Method Of Attracting Attention To Window

Much attention is being directed this week to the ten cash prizes, donated by Clanton merchants and business people, which will be distributed to the winners in the Window Inspection contest sponsored by the Union-Banner. On another page in the paper this week appear the rules of the contest and the prizes to be awarded.

This contest marks the beginning of a "Buy at Home" movement, which is being sponsord by the business people of Clanton, calculated to stimulate the buying of merchandise at home instead of going somewhere else to buy the things that could be bought in Clanton to just as good advantage and at prices that will compare favorably with that bought in other cities. Many thousands of dollars are being spent away from here every year, which, if kept at home, would make Clanton a bigger and better town in which to live.

MARTIN-RASBERRY

A recent marriage of much interest to numbers of people in this community was that of Mr. Charles W. Rasberry to Miss Ruth Martin, which occurred on Friday night, December 13, at Verbena.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Martin of Clanton, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Rasberry of Mulberry community.

The young couple will make their home for the present with Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Willis of north Clanton, the groom's grandparents.

DEWEY MADDOX IS BACK WITH CLANTON LAUNDRY

Beginning last Monday morning Mr. Dewey Maddox took charge of the delivery route of Clanton Laundry.

Mr. Maddox is an experienced laundry man, having worked for the laundry here for several years some time ago, and has been in Montgomery in the same kind of work for the past four years. Mr. Maddox says: "It seems fine to be back home, and will seem still better as soon as I get my hand back into the work."

Mr. J. C. Jones, who has been carrying the laundry route, has accepted a position wth the American Bakeries.

QUAIL BANQUET

A quail banquet was enjoyed by several Clanton men and distinguished out-of-town visitors on Monday night, December 9th, at Nell's Eat Shoppe.

There had been provided for this unique affair, 21 partridges, and the following named gentlemen sat in and enjoyed three of the birds each:

Lewey Eubanks, Solicitor Grover C. Walker, Sherrif, J. R. Hardy, Stanley "Dutch" Nivens, Billy Barger, all of Clanton; Judge Glover and State Solicitor Winston Huddleston of Wetumpka.

Reports were that the affair was quite an enjoyable one, as voiced by "Dutch" Nivens:

"Boy, we had three whole birds each, six legs and three breasts on every plate. We had plenty of time to eat them, and it was a feast fit for a king."

THOMAS M. PYRON DIED MONDAY

Thomas M. Pyron, age 80, died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Horace Fulton, at Bessemer. Mr. Pyron had been in bad health for a number of years. He was born January 29, 1855, and would soon have been 81 years old, next month.

"Uncle Tom," as he was affectionately known by hundreds of Clanton people, lived here for many years. For a number of years he conducted a feed and livery business, before the days of the automobile. He was a congenial man, always, and made hundreds of friends. He was for some time chief of police for the Town of Clanton. He was a member of the Clanton Baptist church.

The funeral was held on Tuesday, with Rev. S. J. Ezell officiating. Burial was in the Clanton cemetery.

Mr. Pyron is survived by two sons —Luther and Albert, of Selma; two daughters—Miss Martha Pyron, who lived with him at Bessemer, and Mrs. Horace Fulton of Bessemer; two sisters, one of whom is Mrs. J. W. Jones, wife of the Baptist minister at Thorsby.

MRS. MARY ALICE HART

Mrs. Mary Alice Hart, age 75, died at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, at her home in Clanton. She had been ill for only three days with pneumonia.

Mrs. Hart was born in England, but came to the United States when a young girl. She has lived here for a number of years.

The funeral was held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m., at the home of her son, Eric Hart, in Clanton, with Rev. S. J. Ezell and Rev. A. E. Middlebrooks officiating. Burial was in the Clanton cemetery, with Spigener in charge.

Mrs. Hart is survived by two sons —Eric, of Clanton, and J. Hart, of Columbus, Miss.; two daughters—Miss Fannie E. Hart of Mobile, and Miss Emily May Hart of New Orleans; and eight grand children.

$1,068,344,963 IS GIVEN FOR RELIEF

Washington.—Leaders of the relief drive announced Saturday that to date Comp. Gen. J. R. McCarl has released $1,068,344,963 of the $4,000,000,000 jobs fund for expenditure by state officials of the Works Progress Administration.

McCarl is the arbiter of government spending. His approval is necessary before any of the $4,000,000,000 is released. Besides giving the "go ahead" sign on the $1,068,344,963, which is to be expended by states, he also has approved funds for some nation-wide projects under the $4,000,000,000 program, including $40,000,000 for the National Youth Administration.

State W. P. A. administrators will have latitude in choosing projects to prosecute with the $1,038,344,963. McCarl has approved projects totalling four times that figure, so the administrators may have leeway in adjusting WPA work to employment opportunities created by other agencies.

STATE BOARD ASKS $25,000 FOR ORPHANS

Among the many imortant matters taken up at the Montgomery meeting of the Executive Board of the Alabama Baptist State Convention in Montgomery this week was a Resolution passed urging the pastors and superintendents of Alabama to raise the sum of $25,000.00 as a Christmas contribution to the Orphan's Home. It is supported exclusively by free will contributions and officials are expecting their hopes of $25,000 to be realized this Christmas.

APPEAL FOR HELP FOR ORPHANS HOME AT TROY

According to promise, I will give a few facts and figures learned in regard to the Orphan's Home, while attending the State Convention as a delegate appointed by the Chilton County Asscciation to represent that body.

As we know, the Orphan's Home is located at Troy, Alabama, and that next Sunday, December 22 is set apart for the Christmas cash offering for our children.

Let me urge that all churches interested take this offering and forward same to J. O. Colley, Superintendent of the Home.

The following might be of interest to those who have, and expect to contribute. It requires 735 biscuits, 11 pounds of butter, 3½ gallons of syrup, 17 gallons of milk, and when they have cornflakes, it takes 16 boxes for breakfast.

An analysis of the Home showed a populaton of 174 children on October 1. These children have come from 40 counties in Alabama, from Mobile Bay to the Tennessee Valley, and from the Tombigbee to the Chatahoochee Rivers. They represent 81 families. Most of the children come to the Home accompanied by brothers and sisters. At present there are only 29 children without another member of their family in the Home. Thirteen of these have brothers and sisters who have gone out from the Home to take their place in the world. We have received 41 children during the year, and dismissed 34. We had five graduates from High school last spring.

All children have a thorough physical examination before they are admitted to the Home in order that infectious or contagious diseases may not be brought into the Home. When there has been tuberculosis in the family, an x-ray is required to prove that the child is free of the disease. This is a protection to the child and to the other children in the Home.

Cleveland Set As Place For National Convention

Republicans Will Meet On June 9th To Choose Candidate

Washington, Dec. 16.—A bid for support by anti-Roosevelt Democrats was issued tonight by the Republican national committee, featuring a lively session at which the party's 1936 convention was set for June 9 at Cleveland.

After spirited debate, the national committee also voted for reduced delegations from most states at the June convention. Under the action taken only 997 delegates will go to Cleveland in contrast to the 1,154 who had seats at the Chicago conclave in 1932.

The choosing of the convention city occupied most of the morning. Advocates of Cleveland obviously made an impression when they produced a certified check for $150,000 to help pay the expenses of the meeting.

Winding up the meeting Republicans invited "the millions of constitutional Jeffersonian Democrats" to help them in ousting the Roosevelt administration.

The maneuver was reminiscent of the Roosevelt appeals to Republicans in 1932 and to the consistent efforts of New Dealers to minimize strict party allegiance and strike out for broader objectives.

More recent developments have been the New Deals sponsorship of the Republican senator from Nebraska, George W. Norris, and the wooing of the so-called "progressive" bloc of Republicans in Congress.

The one-day session of the Republican National Committee brought out the theme time and time again. It also struck some key notes for the convention next year and indicated the principal attacks upon the New Deal will be on the charges of waste, incompetence and invasion of State's rights.

J. N. Dennis Urges Registration And Payment Of Poll Taxes

Clanton, Ala., Dec. 16, 1935.

To all young men and women who have become twenty-one years old but who have not registered and met other requirements making you eligible to vote and have a part in your government, let me appeal to you to qualify at your earliest possible opportunity.

We are faced with as great, if not the greatest, issues that ever confronted our forefathers in the founding and developing our country, establishing our rights and freedom and liberties; and in order to maintain said rights we need the help of all honest, true and unselfish citizens, to guarantee the safety of our freedom, our rights and the life of our country.

Some of the things that call for the best thought and help that we have ever been called upon to solve are: Economy in government, making it possible for a greater number of our people to get employment that they may be self supporting, putting a stop to the ever-increasing burden of taxation, graft, waste and debts that do not produce. An aroused public as to political honesty as against graft, racketeering, buying and selling votes directly and indirectly, the illegal use of money and false propaganda in order to defeat the will of our people without any effort on the part of those in power to see that our election laws are enforced and violators punished.

If we prize the benefits guaranteed in our country, our boasted freedom and liberty, it behooves every citizen to qualify for the purpose of making their influence count at the ballot box. If we continue to sleep at the switch and leave it to the politicians and other selfish interests to run our government, we will not have any liberty, freedom or rights to boast of long.

Register, pay your own poll tax, be in a position to vote, then vote your own convictions; and it is yet possible to correct many wrongs and strengthen our rights and government in the interest of its control by its citizens.

Away with the idea that all is fair in politics. Let's stand for honesty and fairness, or we are not worthy of freedom and self government.

County Votes Over Two to One In Favor Of Selma Road Paving

Early reports given out Wednesday morning in regard to the paving referendum held last Tuesday were tha the voters of the county had voted from 2 to 1 to 3 to 1 in favor of it.

At the time The Union-Banner went to press the official count had not been made, but Judge J. Lee Smith stated that from the several reports he had received from election managers over the county, he was sure the project carried by a big majority.

Judge Smith pointed out one curious thing about the voting. Some of the beats farthest from the section of the county through which the new road will pass gave the heaviest majorities in favor of it. Some of them went as high as 8 to 1 in favor, although quite distant from the road territory. Only a very few beats gave an adverse decision on it.

Official count was to be made some time Wednesday, and the vote, by beats, will be given in next week's paper.

No official returns could be obtained in regard to the voting in the county on the proposed Constitutional amendments, although it was generally believed that all of them had carried.

J. MONROE RAMSEY COMMITED SUICIDE

J. Monroe Ramsey, age about 55, committed suicide by placing a load from a shotgun into his forehead, Thursday afternoon, December 5th. He was at his home near Selma. Mr. Ramsey, estranged from his wife, was well known around Maplesville and the southwestern part of this county, where he had been connected with the lumber business.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

The office of the sheriff reports 11 arrests made since our last report was printed. Of these, division was as follows:

Two for public drunkenness; released by Justice Court of Beat 2, upon payment of fine and costs.

One for disposing of mortgaged property; bond $500.

One for wilful and malicious legal prosecution; in jail.

One for reckless driving; bond $300.

Two for assault with intent to murder; one of these is still in jail, while the other has been released on $500 bond.

Two for violation of prohibition law; these were taken into custody to begin serving sentence imposed in former court.

Two for rape; one has been released on bond, and the other is in jail.

THE YELLOW FRONT'S FERRIS WHEEL DISPLAY

Much is being said this year about window displays, and there are some of the best in Clanton that we have ever seen. The Christmas spirit is very much in evidence everywhere one looks. The idea is brought out in various and unique ways in different windows.

But so far as uniqueness, at least, is concerned the Yellow Front Store's window ranks among the most outstanding. Mr. W. C. Blacketter, the manager of that store, has built him a miniature ferris wheel that actually runs, and he has dolls seated in the seats going around and around. The little seats are made of strawberry cups. What else the arrangement is made of we will not attempt to say, but it is well worth your looking at.

If you want to see some beautiful sights, take a walk up and down the main streets of Clanton some night before Christmas. You will really get an eye full in most any window you look.

STATE SCHOOLS MENACED ANEW BY BUDGET CUT

Comptroller Charles W. Lee's announcement that 1935 legislative appropriations would have to be trimmed $4,700,000 to conform with estimated revenue Tuesday left educational and health faces with an uncertain future as state functions.

Comptroller Lee's budget for 1935-36 showed that state appropriations of $12,468,772 would have to be reduced $4,732,955 to meet estimated general fund revenue of $7,735,816, with the "trimming" to fall with a heavy hand on education, health and other functions listed as "non-essential."

The comptroller's budget report late Monday brought no comment on special legislative session prospects from Governor Bibb Graves but Dr. J. A. Kellar, state superintendent of education, said that "it means the schools cannot run more than five and a half months."

Schools Get $967,562

Lee's budget and proration figures, based on a supreme court decision outlining the essential functions of government, showed that the public schools would receive $967,562 from the general fund instead of the $3,660,516 general fund appropriation made by the 1935 legislature.

The state health department's $197,100 appropriation for the central office here will not be affected by the proration but its appropriation of $202,900 to aid county health units will be reduced to $53,626.

UNION-BANNER WILL COME OUT EARLY NEXT WEEK

In order to give the "force" a chance to take Christmas next Wednesday, and so that the merchants and business men will have another "last call" for Christmas trade in the way of advertising, The Union-Banner will come to you on Christmas Eve next week, which is Tuesday.

This is going to require quite a bit of pull and push, and we urge our friends help us out in the undertaking. All correspondence and copy for advertising must be in Saturday and Monday morning.

We urge you not to fail us. Write your letters in just as early as possible, because it is really going to be a "squeeze" with us at the best.

DR. GRAGG WRITES TO FRIENDS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a few lines to say to my friends at home that I am feeling better already. The weather is not so much like summer, as usual here but I have improved very much and hope to be back almost by the time this is in print.

There is much evidence of the hurricane here, however, you don't hear the Florida folks say much about it. They seem to want to forget it, which is best, I suppose.

I attended the air races and saw some good flying. There were more than 800 ships attending the meet. There were some ships and many people from foreign countries. Several records were broken, enough to bring "Air Supremacy" back from France, who had taken it away from the U.S.

One of the most noticable things is the big airships in Florida. Large fields, several hundred acres, well lighted, and with adequate hangars at every town of any size. More than a dozen such fields are here in Miami. You meet aviation trucks on the road like our highway trucks at home.

I sincerely hope that, when I return, I will find that final arrangements have been consummated by our County authorities, whereby our county can have a worthwhile field. Some of our people need the work and can certainly use the money given by Uncle Sam, and the people will find the field needed for transportation, amusement, relaxation and a place to spend the time in getting together in useful and interesting entertainment. Let's forge ahead, and not fall behind.

As before stated, I feel better and expect to be back, hard at work, in a few days.

Best wishes to all.—V. J. Gragg.

FUNERAL HELD FOR W. P. ALDRIDGE AT MARBURY

Funeral services for W. P. Aldridge of Marbury, who died at a Montgomery hospital last Wednesday, were held from the home of R. L. Aldridge, of Mt. Creek, Friday at 10:30 a.m., with the Rev. J. M. Hamric officiating. Burial was in the Marbury cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

Mr. Alridge is survived by his widow; four daughters, Mrs. Marcelet Spencer, Misses Frances, Evelyn and Sue Aldridge; one son, James Aldridge, all of LaGrange, Ga.; mother, Mrs. Robert Aldridge, Marbury; three brothers, Thomas J. Aldridge, Clanton, Robert, Jr., Marbury, and John P. Aldridge, of Verbena; five sisters, Mrs. M. J. Connell, Mt. Creek, Mrs. B. gomery, H. Howell, Mrs. J. L. Wilson, both of Birmingham, Mrs. Henry Cooper, of Montgomery, and Mrs. Lily Ellis, of Marbury.

During a pause in the sermon the deacon leaned over and whispered to the minister: "Remember, you were going to say something about the high cost of living."

"I haven't forgotten it," replied the minister. "I'll speak of it after the collection has been taken up."

Judge—Have you ever appeared as a witness in this suit before, madam?

Witness—No, your honor, I think the last time I wore a brown afternoon gown. How do you like this new one?

Farmers Union Meeting At Court House Friday

County-Wide Gathering Called At Clanton Courthouse December 20th

The Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America, in a convention at Thorsby last Saturday, called for a farmers meeting at the courthouse next Friday, December 20, at 10:00 o'clock a.m. E. H. Everson, national president of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America will speak to the farmers of Chilton County on the above date.

President Everson is from St. Charles, South Dakota, but is well known in Washington, D. C., for his able fight he has made in behalf of the farmers. The State Secretary will also be present on this date.

Every farmer in Chilton County should make a sacrifice to attend this meeting.

The convention asked that both the county papers carry this announcement. The Farmers Union thanks The Union-Banner for the space they have given to the farmers' cause, but feel that The Chilton County News hasn't given us quite justice. We, as members of the F. E. and C. U. of A., and subscribers to both papers hope to have the cooperation of both papers.

Remember the date, next Friday, December 20th, at 10:00 o'clock a.m. Everybody come.—J. L. Williams, sec.

ALL GROCERY STORES CLOSE CHRISTMAS DAY

TRADE CHIEFS OPEN BATTLE ON NEW DEAL

Business Leaders To Seek Defeat Of Congressmen Who Aid Roosevelt

A campaign of industry to displace Southern Congresmen who continue to support Roosevelt New Deal policies was threatened at Birmingham Monday at the third annual convention of the Southern States Industrial Council.

"Southern industry will try to convince Southern Congressmen of the error of supporting the New Deal," declared Charles C. Gilbert, Nashville secretary of the organization. "If we canot show them the error of their way, we will seek to displace them."

Approximately 200 delegates, representing 14 Southern states were in attendance.

Distributing a pamphlet showing the vote of each Southern Congressman on various measures in the past session, Secretary Gilbert contended that many of them would have voted against the New Deal, except they were afraid of Administration pressure.

"The socialistic tendencies of the Administration," he said, "will cause many to show changed views at the coming session. It is a great compliment to Southern industry that it has been able to survive the ordeal of the New Deal.

"About 60,000 Southern workers have been called back to jobs since the so-called breathing spell was authorized. This number will be further increased if the 'breathing spell does not turn out to be just a mere gesture.'

"Unless problems of employers and employees are left to them to settle between themselves, the situation will be greatly aggravated."

Mr. Gilbert declared that there is much "unreasonable, unjust, un-American legislation now pending in Congress and supported by President Roosevelt, which must be militantly fought by Southern industry."

Mr. Gilbert distributed a pamphlet by David Lawrence, Republican journalist, attacking the New Deal as coercive.

He appealed to Southern agriculture to join industry in fighting the major New Deal policies, and asked particularly for financial aid for the campaign.

VOTERS FAVOR 6 STATE PROPOSALS

Scattered Returns Reveal Substantial Lead For The Entire Amendment List

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 17. — A steadily mounting majority in favor of ratification on scattered returns from 307 out of 2,186 ballot boxes in Alabama indicated tonight that the few voters who went to the polls in today's general election favored the proposals.

The narrowest margin on any one proposal was for Number 4 under which county officers in Tuscaloosa and Calhoun Counties would be placed on salaries and the fee system abolished. Totals showed 4,451 for ratification and 2,631 against.

None of the amendments could be declared safe, but on the trend from the 25 counties represented in the returns, it appeared that unless there was a radical reversal in the other counties unreported none would be defeated. A vote of less than 75,000 was indicated.

The only statewide proposal submitted was No. 2 under which withdrawable funds and repurchasable stock of building and loan associations would be exempt from the franchise tax.

This amendment under which Mobile County would be authorized to issue $1,600,000 in refinancing bonds to retire its floating debt, the largest majority had been rolled up. The vote for ratification was 4,919, to 1,641 against.

There was 4,489 votes for ratification to 2,007 against on the amendment to authorize the City of Attalla to levy a one per cent ad valorem tax for retiring school bonds and other municipal purposes. This amendment however carries a proviso that a majority of the voters of that county must vote for the tax in order for it to become effective.

The two Lawrence County amendments also rolled along with growing majorities. The first, to authorize the county to issue $130,000 in bonds to build a courthouse, had 4,600 votes for and only 1,720 against. The second authorizing certain school districts to levy a three mill tax for schools had a majority of 4,460 for to 1,745 against. This amendment polled heavy affirmatives in Lawrence county, as did the courthouse measure.

SINGING AT POPLAR SPRINGS NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Though the weather was cold Sunday and Sunday night we had good services. The B. Y. P. U. especially, was good. It seems we are growing all the time. There is nothing to hinder in God's services if the spirit is there.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our preaching days. Don't forget any of the services. Saturday services at 11 o'clock. Sunday school at 10 o'clock Sunday and preaching at 11 o'clock and singing at 2 o'clock. All singers as well as listeners are invited. A great singing is expected. Come and bring your books.

The fifth Sunday at 11 o'clock Rev. Maurice Hodgens, a young preacher, will preach at this place. Then following B. Y. P. U., Rev. W. E. Robinson from Friendship will preach. Don't forget the date and show them a large crowd at both services.

She: "Don't you love driving on a moonlight night like this?"

He: "Yeah, but let's wait until we get out of town."

PLEASANT HILL

As it has been some time since we have furnished The Union-Banner with any news from our community, we are yet happy to say that our church work is still moving along fine. We had a mighty good attendance for our week end services, and I don't believe I have ever heard any messages from the Bible so true as the ones our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson delivered to the church of Pleasant Hill on Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Nevertheless, we noticed that several were absent and we missed you. We want to urge you to be with us next Sunday. What a fine thing it would be if every member would stop and think that what ever is being caried on at our church is part our's. Beware The Cough

From a common cold

That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

SHOWALTER SINGING SCHOOL AT MONTGOMERY IN JANUARY

Announcement is made of a normal music school at Montgomery, beginning January 6th and closing February 15. The faculty in the school will consist of W. Lee Higgins, W. M. Devaughn and Eugene H. Whitt.

Anyone interested in this school should get in touch with one of these gentlemen as early as possible.

The faculty must be among the best. Higgins and Whitt are names familiar to the sacred music world; and W. M. Devaughn is a teacher of broad experience and splendid reputation. These three will more than likely make things move when they get strung out in this Montgomery school.

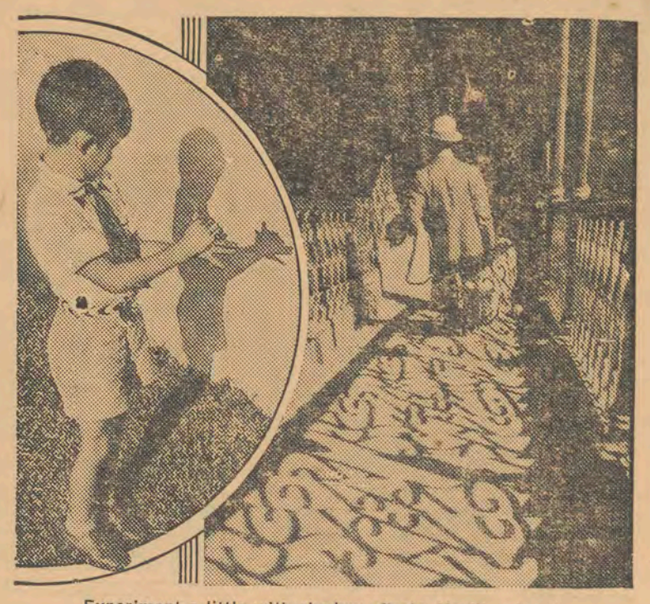
The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SHADOW SHOOTING



Experiment a little with shadow effects. You'll enjoy it.

DID you ever snap shadow pictures? If you haven't you have missed a lot of fun and failed to get some grotesque but fascinating pictures to add interest to your snapshot collection.

Shadow pictures are easy to make too. The main requisite is a good, strong sun in the late afternoon or early morning. Late afternoon, perhaps fifteen or twenty minutes before the sun starts gradually to disappear below the horizon, is preferable, for your light is usually stronger at this time and casts deeper and sharper shadows.

The two pictures above are only a couple of examples of the many unusual pictures to be taken with the aid of a strong sun. The picture to the right was the result of an alert amateur's "nose for pictures". As he started down the steps of the elevated train platform—with his always ready camera—says he, "Here is a picture", so hurriedly set the diaphragm at f.11 and shutter speed at 1/25 of a second and—snap—he had a fine shadow picture. As the man at the bottom of the steps was walking away from the camera a shutter speed of 1/25 of a second was fast enough to stop action and still give the proper exposure.

Obviously the picture to the left was posed but it shows further possibilities for taking unusual shadow pictures. An ideal place for taking shadow pictures is on light colored ground; the cement sidewalk, the street or better yet—on beaches where the light sand accentuates the dark body and outline of the shadow.

You can also get unusual shadow pictures by standing so that your shadow is cast on the side of a building or a house.

Here's one thing to remember. If you take pictures with the shadow cast on a light colored surface the exposure should not be as long as that used in taking pictures with the shadows cast on a dark background. In other words you make your exposure for shadow pictures but little longer than you would for an ordinary snapshot with the same lighting conditions.

Experiment a little for shadow effects. It's not too late to snap the shadows of your friends playing "leap frog" on the beach or just in the act of throwing or catching a beach ball, or various other stunts too numerous to mention.

It's all in fun and it's a safe bet that you will get some unusual pictures and can at least prove to your friends that they are only "shadows of themselves". Try it.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

DURBIN-PATTILLO

Marked by beautiful simplicity was the wedding of Miss Myrtle Durbin of Clanton, daughter of Mrs. Ola Edwards and the late O. C. Durbin, and William Higgins Pattillo of Billingsley, Alabama.

The ceremony which was solemnized at the home the bride's mother, was only attended by close relatives. The Rev. A. S. Bentley of Plantersville read the impressive vows before an improvised altar of greenery arranged before the fireplace in the living room. The effectiveness of the greenery was further enchanced by soft candle light glowing from white tapers in white candlelabra.

The bride was strikingly lovely in a Lelong model suit, fashioned of Normandy blue, with accessories of grey. Her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Marvin L. Waren of Birmingham was her sister's only attendant. She was pretty in grey moss crepe with a corsage of Lady Hillingsworth roses.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple motored to points of interest in North Carolina.

Mrs. Pattillo was formerly a popular student at Jacksonville State Normal. In 1934 she had the honor of being elected the most beautiful coed. Mr. Pattillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Will Pattillo of Billingsley, attended Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn where he was popular in student activities.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Pattillo will be at home in Billingsley where the groom will be engaged in business with his father, a prominent merchant and planter in that section of the state.

Veterans Plan Bonus Meeting

A "bonus rally" at which all Montgomery veterans of the World War and the general public are invited to attend will be held Thursday night at the court house under the auspices of the Smith-Wynn post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, it was announced Tuesday.

Judge Leon McCord, long a national leader in veteran's affairs, and Richard T. Rives, young attorney, will be the principal speakers and will voice the demands of the Montgomery veterans in their drive for the cash payment of the bonus.

Rally Nation-Wide

At the same time veterans all over the country will stage similar meetings, according to John B. Joyner, chairman of the Montgomery bonus drive.

Plans for the campaign in Montgomery are now being completed, Joyner said. The Montgomery veterans plan to bombard officials in Washington with letters, telegrams, and telephone messages, urging them to fight for the bonus payment in the Capital City.

Veterans from all over the State are invited to attend the meeting on Thursday night, marking the opening of the drive in Alabama.

The Montgomery committe has opened a headquarters here at 12½ South Perry Street, and soon speakers will be offered to the various civic and luncheon clubs. These speakers will urge the public support of the campaign to force payment of the bonus, it was announced.

Thorsby Institute News

Dr. Kimmey, county health officer of Chilton county, gave an interesting chapel talk on Wednesday morning, Dec. 11. He gave a sketch of the origin of the plague, a dreaded disease that has visited many countries. The talk was especially interesting to the Bible students who have recently been studying about the early existence of this plague.

On Thursday morning, December 12, in chapel, an interesting "Alabama Day" program was presented by Miss Mattingly and members of her history class. The state song was sung, and a pledge to the state was read in unison.

The annual Christmas program was presented on Saturday evening at 7:30 under the direction of Miss Foss. It was a pageant entitled "Star Gleams." The meaning of Christmas was brought out in a very impressive manner. It was one of the most beautiful Christmas programs that has been given at the Institute.

On Monday afternoon, December 16, a vote was taken by the student body for the "Good Citizenship" girl, whose name will be sent to the county superintendent, where names are drawn and sent to the state. Here the name of the girl to represent the State of Alabama is drawn and the winner will go to Washington for a week of sightseeing at the capitol with contestants from other states, some time in April. The trip is sponsored by the D. A. R. organization. Miss Mary Louise Reinhardt was selected as the "Good Citizenship" girl to represent Thorsby Institute.

The faculty members were recently surprised with a large box of chocolates sent them by Mary Louise Bates, a former graduate.

School will close at 1:35 on Thursday, Dec., 19, and opens again at 8:30 on January 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Abercrombie were visitors of Rev. E. W. Butler Sunday.

Mrs. Algie Alexander of Montgomery, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. W. Jones, has returned to her home.

THELMA TODD, SCREEN ACTRESS, DIES MYSTERIOUSLY

Los Angeles, Dec. 17.—Coroner Frank Nance said Tuesday he would call an inquest into the death of Thelma Todd "because there are so many mysterious and unusual circumstances in the background of this case."

The coroner made known his decision after Dr. A. F. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, completed an autopsy and announced the cause of death as "monoxide poisoning."

The blond actress' heart, he said, was "organically normal," discounting a theory of heart attack.

Dr. Wagner said the brain examination showed "alcohol thirteen per cent," indicating, he said, that Miss Todd had only a few drinks.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

THIS is "National Cheese Week" and no food more deserves to be celebrated than cheese for it gives you more real food for your money than almost anything else you can buy.

Last week's reduction on pork did not last and other meats are again rising. The price of butter continues its upward course but egg prices seem to have reached their peak.

Hurricanes in the extreme southeast of our country and freezes in the far northwest have affected our two largest fruit crops. As a result we shall have fewer citrus fruits and fewer apples this season though there are still plenty to meet all needs at reasonable prices.

Here are three menus planned to suit graded budgets.

GETTING READY TO PATROL HIGHWAYS

Alabama's "Gentlemen Highway Patrol" composed of seventy-four enthusiastic members started on an intensive training school with the opening of a three day lecture course by Special Agent W. A. Smith of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Washington, D. C. Instructions were in the form of lectures delivered at intervals during the three day period. Mr. Smith explained in detail the "Set Up" of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and how the Federal Bureau could aid the patrol. The bureau plans for the maximum of efficiency in law enforcement through the cooperation of the local, state and federal authorities.

Following the instructions of Special Agent Smith who was sent from Washington by J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation the American Red Cross had its representatives from Washington to give a complete first aid course for a period of three days. The members of the Highway Patrol were told what to do and what not to do in case of accident before medical aid could be secured. Human anatomy, blood circulation, and treatment of broken bones were discussed in detail.

The patrol members were given an examination on all matters covered in the three day lecture course by J. O. Speed of Birmingham, Special Field Representative of the Red Cross.

Judge Walter B. Jones and Solicitor W. T. Seibles addressed the school the latter part of the week on co-operation between the Judge, Solicitor and the Patrol and then took up the matter of "evidence" and testimony.

Also practical instructions were given in motorcycle operation and the mechanics of the machine.

It is the opinion of the Governor that these men will be thoroughly trained before they go on the highways of the State of Alabama and at present 25 members of the Patrol have been assigned to the Automobile Department of the State Tax Commission. These men will check the names of the persons to whom the tags were issued against the driver's licenses and those who are found not to have secured their driver's license will be called on by members of the Patrol.

Chief Walter K. McAdory feels that the Patrol has gotten off to an excellent start and is very optimistic over the saving of human lives through these "Guardians of Public Safety on the Public Highways."

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

--- Buy in Clanton --- Do Your Christmas Shopping At Home ---

The prosperity and general well-being of a community is largely reflected in the kind of merchants and business people there are in that community, and only to the extent that those business concerns are prosperous and progressive, will that community prosper and progress.

The success of the community depends, then, upon the patronage their local business concerns get from the people. So it follows necessarily, Mr. John Citizen, that you have the final say whether you will live in a good town that is prosperous and growing, or one that is slowly withering and dying like a blighted plant. If you take your citizenship seriously and have the best interests or your community at heart, if you realize that you are a stockholder in an enterprise that will pay dividends to borrower and lender both, you will have a good town.

If you spend your money where you make it, patronize your local merchants, you will cash in on those dividends by making your town and your merchants more prosperous, they will be able to give more employment to your son or daughter, they will buy more of your farm products and pay a better price for them, they will have bigger stores, buy more goods, spend more money in other ways, pay more taxes, and this in turn will increase the value of your property, tend to reduce your taxes, increase bank clearings, bring in more industries and other business enterprises, and make your town a better place in which to live.

If you spend your money with mail order houses or go to other cities to buy what you can buy at home at just as good prices and in many instances cheaper, just as good quality, stop and think for a moment. Is it good business? Will it pay in the long run?

When you fill out a mail order blank or go to some other city to buy, you are not only hurting your local business man, your neighbor and friend, but you are hurting yourself for you are taking money elsewhere and not a penny of it can ever benefit your community. You are lessening just that much the chance of your boy or girl or yourself getting employment at home, lessening your chance of selling your farm products, lessening the amount of money in circulation in your town, making your property less valuable, and contributing just that much to unemployment, poor business and a dead town. Can you afford it?

We used to wonder why one of our neighbors didn't seem to mind t a bit when his wife bawled him out for getting home late to supper. And then we learned that he used to be a professional baseball umpire.

"IN THE BAG?"

The St. Louis Post Dispatch has scooped the country, if we are not mistaken, in digging another item of interest out of the President's address to the conference of mayors held in Washington last week. It reads:

"We haven't had a (tax) revision and I think the time is coming—not this coming session of Congress, because we hope that it will be a very short session—but by the following year, when all of us can get together and work out a better system of taxation."

The date, it will be observed, for taking up the subject is not 1936, but 1937. This, our contemporary says, shows that Mr. Roosevelt has no doubt as to who will occupy the White House at that time. Such confidence should reassure those New Dealers who show signs of jitters because of the poll of the Literary Digest, and are already marshaling data to prove that it cannot be relied upon. —Baltimore Sun.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

We seemingly have traveled a long way from the sentiment of the old days when the speakers of both great political parties "pointed with pride" to to the fact that this was not a class-conscious country. They referred to European nations with their parties of workers and peasants and aristocrats. In America, it was their boast, membership of both of the great political parties cut down through every layer of society. In the Republican party were manufacturers, doctors, bankers, lawyers, farmers and workers, while the same could be said of the Democratic party. So long as this was true, as long as each party contained a cross-section of our social and economic life, it was claimed, we would not be in danger of European system which pits class against class and leads eventually to revolution.

Yet such does not seem entirely the case today. An address delivered recently in California by Prof. Rex Tugwell, one of the ace Brain Trusters and New Dealers in the country, would seem to have received comparatively little publicity in the light of the significance of its statements. This significance was not entirely lost however and there has been some comment upon the address delivered before a political gathering in Southern California. For example: Senator L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, made some mention of it in a speech delivered before the Chamber of Commerce of New York recently, and a quotation or two from this "old fashioned" statesman will be sufficient to bring home the significance of a part of the Professor's address.

Prof. Tugwell declared, quoting from Senator Dickinson's address: "the nation is witnessing the death struggle of the industrial autocracy and the birth of democratic discipline. * * * These historic changes are never pleasant * * * we have, however, the duty of avoiding violence as the process goes on * * * while we are establishing a farmer-worker alliance which will carry all before it * * * our best strategy is to surge forward with the workers and farmers."

We have heard some about farmers and workers parties in this country but these have generally been regarded as somewhat in sympathy with the radicals who seek to subvert our government and set up something which has a similarity to Soviet Russia. One may well wonder whether Prof. Tugwell has in mind a gathering in of the old farmer-worker movement and refashioning the Democratic party to lead it, or whether he has something entirely new in mind. One might also wonder just how completely he has the farmers and workers of America back of him in this regimented idea of a new economic order. Our farmers in the past have been notedly conservative as a whole, because they seem to have absorbed the idea that a redistribution of the wealth of the so-called capitalist in town might easily be followed by a redistribution of acreage in the farm districts.

Senator Dickinson evidently does not believe that Prof. Tugwell has succeeded in selling his ideas on social and economic reform entirely to our rural population as he says:

"I am from a farm state. I believe I know better than Rexford Tugwell how the farmers of this country really think and feel. And I say to you now that these men and women on the farms reject this proposed alliance which brazenly seeks to subvert the existing social order. They have been through privation and acute distress, but they cannot be brought to surrender their faith in our present institutions through subsidy under what is advertised openly to be a class-operated, near-communistic scheme. They may feel that they have been the victims of serious economic maladjustments, but they still believe that these problems can be worked out within the framework of the Constitution. And, despite all that you may hear from Mr. Tugwell and others to the contrary, they still believe that more can be accomplished for the future through their own self-reliance than by dependence upon government doles or the omniscience of commissars operating a so-called "planned economy" from Washington!"

Anyhow it would be interesting to know from Prof. Tugwell how far he plans to go and just what he plans to do in the construction of a new farmer-worker order and just who is to be included with the beneficiaries.

COMMUNISM — OLD AND NEW

Communism is not a new doctrine. It goes back at least as far as the ancient King Minos of Crete and King Lycurgus, of Sparta, and Plato held to many of its doctrines, according to Dr. R. J. C. Dorsey, of the Washington College of Law, writing in the current issue of the National Republic under the caption "Old and New Communism." In part, Dr. Dorsey says:

"Today radical doctrines assail us on all sides. Most of their theories find their prototypes in ancient histories and are modern adaptations of archaic exploded ideas. The most vicious and virulent principles are combined and called 'communism'. Present-day radicals have taken something from all those aged 'isms' and foisted it upon the American people as a new order.

"Approximately three thousand years ago, Lycurgus, the ruler of a small city state in ancient Greece called Sparta, become inoculated with the venom of certain principles, only later to be adopted by the communists, through contact with a king of Crete called 'Minos'. History does not relate how Minos became possessed of them. Herodotus, Aristotle, Zenophon, Thucydides, Plato and Plutarch tell us of Lycurgus and his institutions. Lycurgus evolved a military state that was totally lacking in those refinements that we identify with an advanced civilization. Sparta produced no men like Pericles, Phidias, Socrates, Solon or Sophocles. Spartan institutions have added nothing to civilization. On the contrary they have contributed much that now threatens our civilization with destruction. Plato in his republic incorporated some of the institutions of Lycurgus, while Aristotle criticized both Lycurgus and Plato and held that their ideas were unreasonable.

Communists, in their endeavor to find a more remote pristine basis for their community of property theory direct our attention to the period when family ownership prevailed. In some parts of the world a form of family ownership still prevails. However, such customs and practices never owed their existence to communistic incentives in the accepted sense. Family ownership, originated when the races were nomadic was retained by them for a long time after they had fixed habitations. The male head of the family was considered the nominal owner of the property and through him the other members of the family had a vested right of enjoyment. The family solidity was primarily due to the necessity for protection, though community of ancester worship and the sacred fire were also contributing factors. Such a family was a political unit and its property rights were recognized by other families or units. The individuals in each family were united by blood, marriage or adoption. Family ownership prevailed in the early phases of Hamitic, Semitic, Mongolian and Aryan divisions of the human race. As civilization advanced the individual found that he no longer needed the strength of the family for his protection for the state undertook that duty. Mindful of this new security the individual quickly accumulated property which he held distinct from any family property and the law recognized his right to acquire, retain and dispose of it. The law protected the individual in this right and granted remedies for its infringement. Today communism does not comtemplate any ties of blood, marriage, or adoption to hold it together. There is no similarity between the ancient family and modern communistic settlement as to motive, for their present aim is gain. The modern communist advocates the complete abolition of individual property rights and in lieu would substitute a so-called community or state ownership under the direction of a dictator."

In reply to critics, Speaker Byrns holds that the recent administration statement on the budget simply means "that there has been a greater degree of business recovery than the President or possibly anyone else expected when he delivered his budget message to the Congress last January." But can the Speaker really mean to imply that neither the Brain Trust nor anybody else about Washington could for see how much the New Deal was going to accomplish?—Kansas City Times.

THE DOLE IS ENDED

Harry Hopkins, the Federal Relief Administrator, apparently brought direct relief to a close on December 1. It was announced that no more specific grants for relief would be alloted to the states and the federal aid in the future would be along the line of federal works programs. The spending record for two years was a litte more than three billion dollars, not including the well-known CWA.

At the same time we seem to have come to the end of "direct" relief, we are cheerfully informed that the peak of spending is over and that it won't be long now until we can talk about balancing the budget. This ought to bring comfort to the hearts of a great many Americans who have been viewing our mounting national debt with considerable alarm.

To those who remember, however, the promises which were made in the campaign of 1932 about reducing expenditures and balancing budgets, there will be a note of familiarity about the recent pledges. Sometimes things don't turn out as expected, and it is not to be forgotten that there are still more people on public relief than ever before in the history of the country.

As a matter of fact there is no asurance that the real end of the dole is near at hand or that we are on the way to balancing the budget in the near future. It is much better to face the facts than indulge in pleasant dreams about a future that is not among the probabilities.

It is not to be forgotten that Congress will soon be with us again and that next year is a campaign year. Anybody who expects any real expenditure curtailing or any real cessation of relief in one form or another during campaign year is an optimist greater than we ever remember having seen back in the horse and buggy days. Already we are hearing rumors to the effect that the abandonment means great hardship in "a dozen different states" and it is quite likely that another dozen or so can be added to those requiring aid and assistance when the politicians get busy.

In the meantime Uncle Sam's borrowing has reached a new peak. Another issue of $900,000,000 worth of government bonds has grown to thirty and a half billion dollars. Some sizeable sum, that.

It begins to look as though we are not only mortgaging our own future but that of our children and our children's children who will have to pay for our own extravagance and lack of foresight, which began with our entrance into world politics, and which was aided and abetted by the general speculation which preceded the crash of 1929.

In the meantime it is good to know that more than 3,000,000 people are busy on "useful works" to not include counting the shade trees and training flea circuses in various parts of the country.

These days newspaper readers have their choice between photographs of Ethiopian warriors and football players, the latter appearing much the more formidable.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

THE PAVING SQUABBLE

Without being critical, yet I believe that people, and especially officials, of Chilton County can find more different curious things to scrap over than any place I can think of right now. The latest moot question is the road paving project. Think of it. Of all things to scrap over — a chance to pave a road.

I do not intend to criticize either side on the question, but that there is even a hint of dissension is a sure sign that there is some kind of childish influence present among our officials. I may be poking my head into a noose to say this, but it is the truth, any way.

Some time ago, Mr. Charlie Cox, Chilton's representative, and Mr. Earle Thomas, our senator, were sponsors of a bill relative to the management of Chilton's road system. I think it is an undisputed fact that on many occasions large amounts of Chilton's road money has been wasted. Whether Mr. Cox's bill would have remedied this, I do not know. That bill called for, among other things, a country road supervisor, who would have general charge of our road repair and construction system. Mr. Cox believes such an arrangement would have made for economy in the road department, and maybe it would. On the other hand, it is possible and highly probable that the waste that has been present under the old system was some kind of leak, unintended, and was hard to stop. Maybe there would have been some such objection to Mr. Cox's plan, if it had gone into effect.

The other big question connected with this squabble is over the project of paving the Maplesville highway to the county line. That proposition called for the setting aside of a portion of Chilton's part of the gas tax with which to pay Chilton's share of this work.

I have an idea this should be done. The people of Chilton Counuty will never know the difference. There would be no increase in the amount of tax collected, and I do not believe the amount held back from our share of the gas taxes would seriously effect our road repair program. And after all, it is high time some steps were taken to try to construct some permanent roads in the county. Each year there are spent thousands of dollars on our makeshift roads for repairs. If county officials would institute a program of building at least five miles of permanent roads each year in the county, in the long run our road system would be wonderfully improved at no extra cost to the taxpayers. Once those roads are built, the upkeep is negligible. Before many years our repair bill would be lowered materially. That's my idea of a road-building program, and I believe it is sound and practical. This present project would be a step in this direction.

Another angle to the prseent squabble is this: Our county officials made a "trade", so to speak, with Mr. Cox and Mr. Thomas, agreeing that if the bill was stopped, the county officials would allow such a part of the county's share of the gas tax to go in as Chilton's share in the construction of the proposed new road. However, if I am informed correctly, once the bill was killed, the officials "reneged" on Mr. Cox and Mr. Thomas, and decided to hold a referendum and let the people vote on it. If they did not intend to keep this agreement, they should never have made it. The business of letting the people speak on the subject is not objectionable, yet it must be remembered that the voters elected our officials to transact the county's business, and this latest development looks very much like the old army game—passing the buck. If the officials are not big enough to take the responsibility of doing the work which they asked to be allowed to do, then it is high time they gave the job over to someone who will accept such responsibility.

The people elected both the county officials and the legislators. They expect them to study out the best plans for the county's interest—that is their job. If the people must go to the trouble of voting on every question of expenditures that comes up, we have no use for the officials elected to those positions. Again, if the officials broke their agreement with the legislators, that is bad business. It has been hinted that the county officials were afraid to let the deal go through, for fear of what it might do to their political fortunes. If that be the case, I believe the voters would respect their positions much more if they did not watch the political barometer so much.

These officials should remember, too, that Mr. Cox will have another whack at them, and might remember their breach of faith, if there was one. On the other hand, Messrs. Cox and Thomas should remember that they, themselves, must come before the voters again to answer for the manner in which they have conducted the county's affairs. Why not get together for the good of Chilton County, rather than squabble?

THE DIGEST POLL

When vital questions of national interest arise, such as presidental elections, the prohibition question, and the like, The Literary Digest usually makes a poll of the nation upon such questions. And, strange as it seems, they always get an answer from their poll upon which one can depend, regarding the question at hand.

They took a poll in 1932 on the presidential election, and their total count showed less than one per cent variation from the official count all over the nation. In 1932, the count showed that 57.32 per cent of the popular vote went to Roosevelt. In 1934 another poll was taken, with ballots being sent to the same addresses as in 1932, testing the popularity of the New Deal measures, and this poll showed that they were more popular than in 1932, this percentage running well over 60.

Now the Digest is conducting another poll, asking this question: "Do you NOW approve the acts and policies of the New Deal to date?". It has been running for four weeks. There will be sent out 10,000,000 ballots, a great part of which have already been sent, and 642,711 of these ballots, from 26 states, have been returned. To date, these ballots divide as follows: 274,830, or 42.76 per cent, are for the New Deal; 367,881, or 57.24 per cent are against it. Out of 26 states represented, only seven favor the New Deal at this stage of the poll.

Out of all these 26, there are represented only two eastern states, Massachusetts and Connecticut, while there are 12 of the so-called mid-western states entered, and these states are said to be the ones which hold the balance of power in electing presidents. Naturally, the southern states are supporting the New Deal, and eastern states register strongly against it,, but the fact that these "balance of power" states are showing a distinct trend against it is enough to cause the Democratic heads to sprout a few gray hairs.

I have lots of fun with some of my Democratic friends about this poll. They had the laugh on me in 1932 and 1934, when the results from these olls were printed, showing Roosevelt ahead. They reminded me time after time how close the Digest polls have always come to being exactly right. Now I get a snicker or two out of them, and the chance to remind them about past polls. They take it good-natured though. And do I plaster it on them. It's a great game, this politics, if you don't weaken.—Man in the Moon.

THE POTATO LAW

We have now come into the era of regimented potatoes. December 1 was the date and it won't be long now until we will be buying and eating stamped spuds. Not taxed potatoes, perhaps, because only those are to be taxed which are raised beyond the limit set by Papa Wallace. Those which are raised within the quota will bear tax-exemption stamps. These will be the size of ordinary postage stamps, gray in color and printed in weight denominations of from two to fifty pounds, to be used in accordance with the size of the potato container. The stamps for potatoes on which taxes are paid because the tubers are raised outside the quota will be about the size of special delivery stamps. So you ought to know, by the size of the stamp, whether you are buying regimented or "horse and buggy" potatoes. The word "buggy" is used advisedly and with no reference tc insects.

In order that your memory may be refreshed as to the new potato law which is designed to raise the price of the tubers as well as to fix the number which a potato grower may raise, the following is quoted from a recent speech by Representative Wadsworth, of New York, a statesman who "knows his potatoes, as well as his onion, and who says of the potato legislation:

"That remarkable statute which provides in effect that no farmer in the United States may raise and sell more than five bushels of potatoes per year without the permission of the government; that if he sells more than the amount alotted to him without paying the prohibitive tax, he may be fined and upon the second offense, sent to jail: that the person who purchases illegal potatoes may also be fined and sent to jail; and, finally, that the person who has knowledge of an illicit sale and purchase and fails to act as the government's 'snooper' in reporting the violation may also be punished."

Of course there is much history behind the potato control act. There are folks who are unkind enough to blame the AAA for the over production of potatoes. They charge that when the Southern farmers cut down their cotton production the AAA experts advised them to raise potatoes on the idle land. Thus in the end potato regimentation was made necessary. Where regimentation will strike next time it is impossible until we learn what the AAA experts advise the potato farmers to raise on the land made idle by potato curtailment.

It begins to look like agricultural regimentation is just one blamed thing after another. But there is relief in sight. When Cordell Hull gets a few more reciprocal tariff treaties in effect admitting alien farm products—as was the case in the Canadian "bargain," the American farmers won't have to worry about what to do with the idle acres. They can just let 'em grow up in ragweed and jimpson.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

A great deal of debate is still going on concerning the possibility of a new constitutional amendment to give Congress and the Executive powers which the Supreme Court, in the NRA and similar cases, has decided they do not now possess.

A short time ago Walter Lippman, the well-known publicist, challenged an editor who has often written in favor of the amendment, to put it into words—that it, to prepare the text of such an amendment in the clear and legal form in which it must be submitted to the people. It was Mr. Lippman's expressed belief that no one could do it—and his belief was partially proved when the editor replied that the job was beyond him.

The actual preparation of such an amendment would seem a task almost beyond human power. How could we further centralize and augment powers of the Federal government—and at the same time preserve the rights of states, which are at present guaranteed by the Constitution? How could we give to the government at Washington absolute and dictatorial powers over commercial and industrial life—which is what the sponsors of the amendment want—and at the same time keep operative the existing Constitutional guarantees that protect the lawful activities of individual initiative and enterprise? How could we give into the hands of politicians sweeping authority over our basic social and economic institutions—and at the same time make sure that such fundamental principles of democratic government as freedom of press, speech and action were not infringed?

The Constitution has existed for more than 150 years. It has made possible our growth from a handful of relatively unimportant colonies to the greatest industrial power in the modern world. It has preserved, in the face of a hundred onslaughts, the human rights and liberties for which men have fought since the dawn of time—liberties which have been entirely destroyed in other nations. It has given us the highest standard of living for the masses, in the world. Perhaps those who would emasculate and change this document are less wise, less foresighted, less in tune with the forces that make for the freedom and progress, than were those great men who wrote it.

FACTS ABOUT THE SALES TAX

For years the people of Alabama, along with thinking, forthright citizens of many other states, have watched with increasing alarm the dangerous tendency to wanton waste and extravagance on the part of their elected public officials. From one end of the land to the other the citizenship, oppressed by circumstances beyond their control have become daily more insistent that honest, sincere and painstaking effort be made to administer public affairs in a sane, logical and business-like method.

The public is determined to be done with wanton waste and has continued and will continue to insist on honesty in public office and sincerety of purpose on the part of the men who administer local, state and national affairs.

The question of taxation with its ever increasing burdens—burdens that are deliberately conceived, engineered and imposed for the benefit of the professional politician, his kinsmen and his friends—has become a matter of the utmost public import in comparatively a few years.

Here in Alabama the same issue is at stake. New and staggering public payrolls—waste in administration of public affairs—corruption and even graft—greed on the part of the selected few, and an inherent desire to perpetuate in office. These are the motivating forces behind the insistent cry for money, and more money, regardless of where that money comes from.

What the administration will do to meet its deficits is a matter for the administration to decide. What the Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama has suggested, and will continue to insist upon, is strict fulfillment of campaign pledges—economy in administration of public affairs.

The Consumers Anti-Sales Tax Association of Alabama has set its course on a clear charted sea. It has just begun to fight The organization is growing and extending into every hamlet in the state, and we stand prepared to answer "ready" when the challenge comes, whether that challenge be a day, a week or a year in the distance.

DOUBLING UP

It was estimated last week that approximately $150,000 had been paid double by reason of the combination of relief and WPA.

WPA workers are allowed on relief rolls 21 days during which time they have received both relief and have received or will receive WPA pay. In emergency, that doubling up can be extended from week to week on request of WPA for food allotments only.

The federal government has thrown all direct relief back onto the state and communities.

The lack of preparation, system and efficiency that created a condition whereby some $150,000 was paid double in Fayette County alone is significant.

That represents more than twice as much as was collected in taxes for the Fayette County poor board for the entire year of 1934, when collections were 57 per cent of the levy. That $150,000 is approximately $20,000 greater than the total levy by the poor board for all purposes in 1934.

In other words, it represents substantially more than the total income possible under the one and a helf mill tax levy for poor purposes in Fayette County. It is indicative of what local communities are facing.—Uniontown, Pa., Herald.

"Every time we order a piece of cherry pie we bite down on at least one cherry stone. Can't something be done about this?" writes one of our correspondents. It suggests an idea for the WPA. Why not have a corps of boondogglers visit the restaurants and probe the seeds out of the cherry pies?

Interviewed in Wisconsin as to his running again for governor of California, Upton Sinclair said: "No it's too dangerous. In times like these one might get elected." A witticism in which is summed up the whole philosophy of irresponsible radicalism! — Lowell Courier-Citizen.

President Roosevelt is quoted as saying that a banker told him it would be all right if Uncle Sam borrowed a lot more money than thirty billions. But it is a good bet that the President wasn't asking the banker for any loan.

The best proof of the greatness of the United States, says the Grand Rapids Press-Herald, is that it has survived the doctor. Is that so? Well, it still remains to be seen how it will pay off a thirty or thirty-five billion dollar doctor bill.

Girls are often advised to marry a man who has saved his money but generally a man who is smart enough to save his money is smart enough not to get caught.

Well, Norman Thomas ought to be satisfied even if he can't be selected President of the United States. Somebody really put his platform over for him, anyhow.

THE WINTER FIRE SEASON WILL SOON BE AT HAND

Montgomery,—It seems somewhat paradoxical that more extensive forest fires should occur during the wettest months of the year, but this is the actual fact as borne out by the statistics of the State Commission of Forestry. Town and city residents indulge in more travel about the country during the late spring, summer and early fall than during the late fall, winter and early spring. As a result, their observations of fires are more common during the warmer and drier periods than during other seasons of the year. What is transpiring during the so-called rainy months however, is not so readily apparent, except to the people living in the woods and on the farm.

There are a great many factors that enter into the probability of forest fire damage. Among these are atmospheric dryness, number of people in the woods and the condition of the ground vegetation. In the Gulf region of the United States the winter rains are often of the nature of sudden downpours which run off very quickly, followed almost immediately by drying winds and other conditions amounting to a brief and intense drought. Meanwhile, frosts have killed the grass and herbage and there is very little moisture in the dead plants. Further, during the winter season nearly all rural and woods workers are in the habit of building warming fires which frequently are left unextinguished. These circumstances combined together add enormously to the fire hazard, with the result that in most years there is a greater acreage burned over during the wetter and colder portions of the year than in the drier and warmer periods.

Lesson for December 22

MALACHI FORETELLS A NEW DAY

LESSON TEXT—Malachi 3:1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT—Behold, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me. Malachi 3:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Best Promise Comes True.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How God Kept His Best Promise.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Bringing in a Better Day.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Preparing the Way of the Lord

(The lesson committee has provided as an alternative a Christmas lesson, using the text Matthew 2:1-12).

The subject of today's lesson is broader than the printed text. In order effectively to teach this lesson, the entire Book of Malachi should be surveyed. The prophet pointed out the sins of the corrupt priesthood, mixed marriages, and failure to pay tithes, with the portrayal of the coming judgment and glorious new day with Christ reigning in his glorious kingdom.

I. The Base Ingratitude of Israel (1:1-5).

God approached them with the tender affirmation, "I have loved thee." It was the burden of the prophet to declare this fact unto them (v. 1). So worldly were the people that they failed to discern God's good hand upon them. Israel's attitude toward God is shown in the skeptical question "Wherein hast thou loved us?" (v. 2) Malachi answers this question by showing God's choice of Jacob and his passing by of Esau, his destruction of Edom and his saving of Israel.

II. God's Severe Indictment (1:6-2:17; 3:7-15).

1. Against the priests (1:6-2:9) They were guilty of

a. Profanity (1:6). Their profanity consisted in despising the name of God. To fail to honor God is to be profane. To use his name in any unreal way is to be thus guilty.

b. Sacrilege (1:7,8). Their sacrilegious act was in offering polluted bread and blemished sacrifices.

c. Greed (1:10). They were not willing even to open the doors of God's house without pay. Service to God should be out of a heart of love for him.

d. Weariness (1:12,13). Because of the absence of love, the routine of priestly duties became irksome.

e. Not teaching the law to the people (2:1-9). Those set apart to teach God's law to the people have a great responsibility and God will most assuredly demand an accounting.

2. Against the people (2:10-17; 3:7-15).

a. For ungodly marriages (2:11, 12) God's purpose in the prohibition of mixed marriages was that he might raise up a holy seed (v. 15). Marriage with the heathen would frustrate this purpose. Marriage of the believer with the unbeliever today brings confusion into the fold of God and turns aside his purpose.

b. Divorce (2:13-16). Divorce in Israel was the source of great sorrow. Even the tears of the wronged women covered the altar (v. 13). The offerings of the man who had thus treated his wife would be an abomination to God.

c. Public wrongs (3:5, 6).

(1) Sorcery or magical arts. This includes the practice of occult sciences, such as spiritism, necromancy, fortune telling.

(2). Adultery. This is a sin of wider extent than the direct parties concerned. It is a canker which gnaws in the very heart of society. Unfaithfulness to the marriage relation should be regarded as a public sin. Such sinners should be ostracized from society.

(3) False swearing.

(4) Oppression of the hireling, the widow, and the fatherless.

(5) Turning aside the stranger from his rights.

d. Withholding tithes from God (3:7-12). Failure to pay tithes is robbery of God. His claim upon Israel was a tenth, plus free will offerings. Our responsibility is to give as God prospers us (I Cor. 16:1).

e. Blasphemy (3:13-15). They openly spake against God, saying that it was profitless and vain to serve him

III. The Awful Judgment Which Shall Befall the Nation (3:1-5; 4:1-6)

1. By whom executed (v. 1). It is to be done by the Lord. All judgment hath been committed unto the Son of God (John 5:22, 30; cf. Acts 17:30, 31).

2. The time of (3:2-4:1). It will be at the second coming of Christ. John the Baptist was the forerunner of his first coming. Elijah will be the forerunner of his second coming.

3. The result (3:3, 4, 16-18; 4:1, 2). For the righteous it will be a day of healing and salvation; for the wicked it will be a day of burning and destruction.

ACCURATE ATTICUS

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please publish the following letter that was given to the Montgomery Advertiser last week but was refused publication? As you see, it is in regard to the two articles Mr. Atticus Mullin wrote concerning the profits from liquor in Virginia.
Editor the Advertiser:

Atticus Mullin the accurate! The great news reporter for the Advertiser. But Mr. Editor, don't kid him so shamefully in your editorial. The boys on the streets evidently gave him enough of the horse laugh. He admitted in his second article that he had made a mistake in reporting Virginia's profit from liquor. Anybody is liable to err at times. Accurate Atticus made a mistake in his figures of only 9 million dollars—just a slight error. He said that he had not referred to his files, so you must not be too hard on him.

In his article Friday Mr. Mullins, in correcting his Thursday article and telling us not to believe it, made another mistake. He should have added a P. S. saying: "Don't believe anything I write on the liquor question." But I presume that such a statement was not necessary. His facile pen and slippery tongue called to us last February, from Virginia to vote repeal and follow the Old Dominion State that had found the Promised Land. But the vote showed that nobody believed anything he wrote.

I was living in Virginia at the time and after legal liquor was voted in, I did not see or hear of the wonderful things our Accurate Atticus wrote about to the home folks. Put of course, I did not examine the tiles. If I had I might have seen and heard money rolling into the treasury at the rate of 13 million dollars a year.

My, my, that is some money! Over a million dollars per month net profit. But if the Virginians are as thirsty as Accurate Attcus, and have his consuming capacity, we can see how Virginia has been saved from the poorhouse.

Mr. Editor, how your reporter does love the schools of Alabama! It almost breaks his heart to think of the schools having to close, while liquor flows so freely and tax free. If we would tax liquor now the schools could run on "all six" right up to July 4th, and then we would have a hard job getting them to stop. However, there is a mere possibility of your great news gatherer being mistaken in his estimate. He might have to write next summer: "I see now that I was in error in what I wrote last winter. I should have said the tax from liquor might keep the schools open for four weeks. I failed to examine my files."

His files failed also to reveal an associated press dispatch from Richmond, Virginia, reported in the Birmingham News-Age Herald yesterday (Sunday). Read on page 12 about a college president saying he had first-hand report of one state college president, who, while making a speech, gave distinct evidence of being under the influence of liquor. He said that from another institution there came reports of other professors coming to classrooms under the influence of liquor. From another institution there came reports of professors getting so drunk at the president's reception that they were not able to drive their automobiles safely.

But such trifling results of liquor as these do not matter, so long as anything like 13 million dollars dangle before us. Our schools would prosper and the schools of journalism could turn out accurate reporters who would be able to fill the first column of the front page one day with a glowing article, and the second column of the front page the next day with a groaning article saying: "Don't believe what I wrote yesterday. Play like I didn't write it. Perhaps with all the money that would flow to the schools, one of them might be glad to confer on Mr. Mullin the honorary degree of D. U. D. (Dispenser of Unusual Dope).

But I am making this article too long. If I have made any mistakes, will you please have Accurate Atticus to correct them? That will save me the trouble of having to write another article to-morrow. I am in bed with the flu and haven't had a chance to examine my files.—A. E. Middlebrooks.

TVA REJECTED BY FOUR CITIES

West Tennessee Officials Oppose 20-Year Contract

UNION CITY, Tenn., Dec. 4 (AP)—Officials of three West Tennessee municipalities meeting here last night declared themselves strongly opposed to accepting a standard TVA contract to supply electrical power over a 20-year period.

The three cities represented were Union City, Trenton and Dyersburg, each of which owns and operates its own electrical power plant. Approval of the contract by the trio is necessary for the TVA to complete a power loop of West Tennessee towns.

Robert Adams, city attorney of Trenton, said that under the proposed contract "TVA has both ends of the rope and the middle besides."

The greater part of the objections revolved about the 20-year clause.

Mayor W. M. Miles, of Union City, expressed disapproval of a long-term contract.

"If we could buy the power from TVA and sell it as we wish," he said, "it would be a different proposition. We, in Union City, wish to maintain our autonomy and sell power without government meddling. I never did like the idea of a man selling me something, and then telling me how I should use it."

Mayor L. D. Hammer, of Dyersburg, said "there is absolutely nothing in the contract that leaves anything whatsoever to the municipality.

"We are left no voice in the matter. None of us are opposing or upholding the TVA, but we are trying to do what is best for the people of West Tennessee, generally."

OBSTACLE FACES NEW TVA HOOKUP

Tennessee Towns Refuse To Abandon Plants

UNION CITY, Tenn.—(AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority's proposed electric power hook-up of West Tennessee towns faced a barrier Wednesday that apparently threatened its completion.

The snag that has the TVA program for expansion blocked at least temporarily is the refusal of three towns to abandon municipally-owned power plants for the TVA system of distribution.

Union City, Dyersburg and Trenton stood firmly opposed to entering into a 20-year contract whereby they buy electricity from the TVA for resale to inhabitants. A fourth municipality, Covington, also is withdrawing its approval.

Acceptance by these four cities is needed by the TVA to complete a "loop" of towns.

Mayor W. M. Miles, of Union City, who has vigorously opposed a TVA contract, said at a meeting of city officials of Dyersburg, Trenton and Union City that his city wishes to "sell power without government meddling."

Mayor L. D. Hamner, of Dyersburg, expressed the same thought, saying the contract left "absolutely nothing whatsoever to the municipality."

Officials of each of the towns said if they accepted the TVA standard contract they would be forced to increase taxes from 85 cents to $1.50 to cover revenues now obtained from the municipality-owned plants.

Interesting Facts About Ala. Schools

Something that I feel should appeal to the interest in general of the people of Chilton County and Alabama as well, most of us have read or either heard quoted the verse of Scripture which reads thus: "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." So in this connection I give these figures.

There are 85 Denominational colleges and schools in Alabama as follows:

Methodist, White	5
Methodist, Negro	4
Baptist, White	2
Baptist, Negro	4
Catholic, White	25
Catholic, Negro	1
Congregational, White	1
Congregational, Negro	4
Presbyterian, Negro	4
Lutheran, Negro	31
Adventist, Negro	2
A. M. E. Zion, Negro	1

Two of these schools are found in Chilton County, one at Thorsby, which is a white Congregational school. The other is a Lutheran Negro school and is found at Maplesville.

Now, I wish to say that I am glad, and very glad indeed, for any and all people, old and young, to have a religion which will make more Christ-like men and women, boys and girls, and wish to say to you to go forward. I have no criticism to offer whatsoever, and now, since being a Baptist myself and for the reason only is that I read in my Bible that Jesus was baptized by John in Jordan. It also reads: "Repent, believe and be baptized and thou shalt be saved." It reads further: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature, and he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Again it reads: "Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and lo I am with thee even unto the end of the world."

Purely unselfish, and without the smallest degree of prejudice, I wish to appeal to all Baptists in the strongest terms possible to wake up if we are for Christ. Let's, as the children of Isreal did under Nehemiah, work with one hand and hold our weapon with which to fight in the other. That weapon is the Bible, the word of God. If we do this we will win for God as did the children of Isreal. Again I say, let's wake up. I am praying God's richest blessings on all, and that God will bring us all in closer touch with Him, that we may better know His will, and be able to follow Him closer.—S. J. M. Webb.

UNCLE MIKE HANKS WRITES THE 'DEAR GOVT'

Hon. NRA, c-o Dead Letter Dept.
Wash. D. C.
Dear NRA:

I am making a survey of our U. S. business, on acct. I haven't nothing else to do, and the thing I was wondering about, can I get a job with the NRA?

I seen in the paper that ever since the Supreme Court says you was illegal, you have went on keeping about 3,000 NRA experts on the job. They get a fine salary, but they don't have nothing to do.

Well, not doing nothing is my specialty, and I would just as leaf draw Govt wages for that as for really doing something. So does that make me a Govt Expert?

Pleaze let me know by Return Mail, and I will go on with my Survey in the meanwhile.

The way I do it, I catch a man on the streets & ask him how business is. "How is business?" I ask him, and every one I have found so far kind of frowns at me & says, "business is bum."

But this morning I seen a man that had an idea. He was a kind of Elderly Gentleman in a Palm Beech suit, he was wareing one of those Ethiopian Sun Helmets, and sort of stroling along with a Swagger-stick that had a brush on the end of it.

I tapped him on the shoulder & I says, "Well, my friend, how's business?"

He looked kind of sad, he says, "business is few and far between," he told me. "What this here nation needs is a return to the Horse & Buggy days of our grandfather, and more Horses than buggys or grandfathers."

So maybe you can use that there Report for the NRA, and I will be ready to go to work the minnit you answer me back.

Just any NRA job will do, but I would specially like the one my next door neghbor told me about. He pointed out the leading NRA man in our town, and he says to me. "That there man is a parasite."

Well, I don't know what a parasite is, or how much he gets for being that branch of the NRA. But it sounds like a good job for a man with my kind of a head, and a parasite is what I would most like to be.—Yourn hopeful, Mike Hanks.

The foundation of our new building is being worked upon. We are looking forward to occupying it before many weeks.

The Senior I class has been debating this week. The subject Monday was: Resolved: "That Freedom of Discussion should be Permitted in Class Room." Affirmative: Evelyn Lecroy and Mary Joe Smith. Negative: Sara Nell Cobern and Mitchlean Scott. The affirmatives won.

The second debate was Resolved: "That Students should be Classed According to their Ability." The debate was a tie.

MAN STILL RANKS AS "FOREST ENEMY NO. 1"

Man still ranks as "Forest Enemy No. 1. More than half the fires in national forests this year, reports the Forest Service, were caused by man. The number of these fires—as winter rains and snows ended dangerous fire weather conditions in all but a few sections of the country—was 5,777, as compared to 5,282 last year, and to an annual average of 4,691 over the 1931-34 period.

These fires were started by brush burners by residents on land newly acquired by the Forest Service—many of whom still believe that an annual "burning-over" is good for the woods—and by campers, hunters, recreationists, and tourists who have made greater use of national forest facilities this year than ever before. On a purely mathematical basis this increases the number of "man-caused" fires.

"The only solution", says the Forest Service, "is education on the danger of fire. The responsibility falls not only on the Forest Service but upon every individual in the United States."

NEW CORN-HOG PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Details of the two-year adjustment progam for 1936 and 1937 to be offered by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to corn and hog farmers have been announced. The new contract, effective as of December 1, 1935, requires that the signer produce in 1936 at least 50 per cent and not more than 100 per cent of his market hog base if he is to receive the maximum hog adjustment payment. The maximum rate of benefit payments for 1936 will be $1.25 per hog in the market base. Deductions from the maximum will be made from payments to contract signers who produce less than 50 per cent of their market base number, or more than 100 per cent of that number. The cooperating producer must plant at least 25 per cent of his corn base next year but not more than a percentage that is within the permitted optional range of 70 to 90 per cent of his base. Corn payments in 1936 will be in two installments, payable about August 1 and about December 31. The rate will be 35 cents per bushel, times the appraised value, times the adjusted corn acreage. The 1937 rate per bushel is to be not less than 30 cents and is to be announced by November 30, 1936. Hog payments will be made, in one installment, as soon as possible after final compliance check at close of each year. The 1937 maximum rate will not be less than the 1936 maximum. Provision is made in the contract for division of payments between landlords and tenants. Planting of self-improving or erosion preventing crops on the adjusted corn acres in addition to the area normally devoted to these purposed on the farm, is required.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"We cannot say smugly that we have three hundred years of schooling in America and today have the most universal system in the world, that we have a million young people in colleges, and let it go at that." I am quoting from an address given by Dr. Lewis, president of the Lafayette College, at a gathering at Albany, N. Y. Dr. Lewis says further, "the use of correct English in this country has become so rare as to attract surprised attention. Manners are poor. The courtesies of an early day are classified as Victorian and therefore discarded. It is considered smart to appear uncouth. Lawlessness is on the increase. Political indifference has increased as the years pass. Spiritual ideals have become less evident." The writer agrees with Dr. Lewis that our educational system does not educate. Most of the students who are graduated from high school and go off to college have very little educational ffoundation. There are some good things about our modern theories of education, but if I must choose between the old system and the modern system, give me the old system. The men who made America were not reared under the modern theories of education. We have overdone the elective system. When I was in college I was told to take Latin and mathematics and other subjects whether I liked them or not. They said the things that were hard for us were the things we needed to study. The old system built up the weak places in our mental and soul life. The modern system which says, "take what you like" builds up the strong points in our mental make-up and neglects the places where we are weak. That is the reason so many artists go to the devil. They are developed on one side of their make-up and the other side hasn't enough pulling power to keep them in the middle of the road. The old system was better balanced than the new system and therefore produced better balanced characters.

America needs a revival of oldtime, ordinary, everyday, common honesty. The lack of reward for property has grown out of a lack of respect for the authority of the Bible. "Thou shalt not steal" in one of the ten commandments. God recognized the right to own property. "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his ox, nor his ass." A man has a right to own an ox and an ass, and no man has the right to steal what his neighbor owns. The wave of crookedness and dishonesty which is sweeping this country is a result of the breaking down of respect for the oldtime standards. The normal code was fixed by Almighty God. It has alweys been wrong to steal, to covet, to kill, to commit adultery. The principles of right and wrong hold. No nation and no individual can trample upon the eternal principles of right without suffering the conquences. "The wages of sin is death." What men sow, they have to reap. Rome, Greece, and all other ancient civilizations thought they were mighty enough to trample on the principles of right and win, but instead of trampling on these principles of right and wrong, justice trampled upon these nations. Back to God. Back to the Bible. Back to the eternal principles. That is the need of the hour.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

U. S. GOVERNMENT IS FURNISHING TREE SEEDLINGS

The United States Government is furnishing Chilton County several thousand tree seedlings and Kudzu crowns to be planted on sub-marginal lands—that is land too poor to uroduce cultivated crops profitably or too steep to be cultivated.

These trees will be placed and planted by the boys from the CCC camp. They will be furnished and planted without cost to the farmers of Chilton County.

There are many farms in this county that do not have trees enough to furnish wood. I would like to see every farmer who has none, or an insufficient amount of woods to furnish wood, to have a few of these trees.

Trees that make good fence posts are scarce. The old fat pine trees for making posts are about all gone. There should be trees growing on each farm to supply fence posts. Black locust makes the best wood posts known.

The Loblolly and Slash Pine are of quick growth and produce a good quality of lumber. They grow faster and produce a better grade of lumber than the native short leaf pine.

Those interested should see or write the county agent at once. 150,000 pines have arrived already.

There will be a few Green Ash, Chinguapin, Red Mulbery and persimmons to give out.

SMALL CORN-HOG FARMER ELIGIBLE

Auburn, Ala.—F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist in charge of the AAA corn-hog production in Alabama, has received information from headquarters in Washington stating that a farmer with a corn base of 10 acres or more, or a market hog base of six hogs or more, is eligible to receive a corn or hog adjustment under the corn-hog contract.

A contract signer with a corn base less than the required 10 acres, however, may receive a hog payment if he has a market hog base of 6 or more hogs, AAA officials point out. Likewise a man with a market hog base of less than 6 hogs may be eligible for a corn adjustment payment.

If a contract signer's corn base is less than 10 acres, and he wishes to receive a hog payment, he must agree not to increase his corn acreage above his base. For example, if his base is between 10 and 15 acres, he may either make an adjustment and receive payment, or obtain an exemption from adjustment, and agree not to increase his corn acres above his base. This will enable a producer with a small corn base who needs all corn produced on his base acreage to participate in the program by making all the necessary adjustments in his hog production.

A signer with a market hog base of less than 6 hogs, may make an adjustment in corn acreage and receive a corn payment if he agrees not to produce hogs in excess of his market base. And if his base is between 6 and 15 hogs, he may either make an adjustment and receive a hog payment, or not produce hogs in excess of his base and receive a hog payment.

ACTS TWO WAYS AT ONCE

SALES EXEMPTION IS RAISED FOR POTATOES

Any potato grower whose average annual sales of potatoes during the years 1932-35 were 50 bushels or less will receive a tax free allotment of potatoes equal to such annual sales under regulations for administration of the potato act which were announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. In order to obtain tax-free allotments, each grower will file an application under which he will establish his past sales. County officers will anounce the time for filing applications. If a grower's past sales during the base period, 1932-35, were 50 bushels of potatoes annually, he will receive tax exemption stamps for the potato allotment year which began December 1, 1935, equal to 50 bushels of potatoes. If his average sales were 30 bushels, he will receive tax exemption stamps equal to 30 bushels. Farms which produce five bushels of potatoes or less annually were specifically exempted under the provision of the potato act from any tax. The increase in the exemption was possible, however, under subsection (2) of section 204 of the act.

SOIL SAVING FURROWS ARE LIKE LINES OF FIRE HOSE

Like long lines of fire hose at a third alarm fire, or miniature front-line trenches, contour furrows are beginning to stretch across hillside pastures in soil conservation projects of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Typical of the specialized machinery being developed to conserve the nation's soil resources is the ingenious device in use on the Mankato, Kansas project. A U-knife slices a strip of soil some four inches deep and about 16 inches wide. Curved rods place the uniform strips, grass side up, on the down-hill side of the furrow. An attached roller, slightly concave so as to give more pressure at the edges, packs the strip firmly into place. The machine is pulled by truck, team or tactor.

Within a year or two, grass covers the bottom and sides of the furrow, so that there is no loss of pasturage. Water that once ran away now soaks into the soil or creeps slowly along the serpentine furrows.

Contour furrows conserve moisture help to develop more permanent pasture, keep seed from washing away, and promote a greater variety of vegetation.

STATE FARMERS WIN TWO NATIONAL CUPS

Auburn, Ala.—Organized farmers of Alabama and Hale Counties this year won two national loving cups at the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

One cup was awarded organized farmers throughout Alabama for showing the greatest increase in farm bureau membership of any state in the country, and the other was presented to Hale County farmers for showing the biggest farm bureau membership increase of any county in the United States.

Recently, more than 15,000 leading farmers of Alabama have become farm bureau members, reports J. L. Edwards, president of the state farm bureau, who said that present indications point to a 30,000 membership by the first of 1936. Over 1, 200 Hale county farmers recently became members of the Hale County Bureau.

4-H BOYS AND GIRLS OFFERED CREDIT TO KEEP DAD'S RECORDS

Auburn, Ala.—To encourage more farm bookkeeping in Alabama, agricultural leaders here have decided to give 4-H club boys and girls credit for keeping AAA record books for their fathers in 1936.

In reporting this project for boys and girls, T. A. Sims, 4-H club leader, emphasizes the importance of record keeping by stating that "farmers who do not keep records are unable to tell just where they stand. They may think they are making a profit, when actually, they are losing money."

IRISH POTATO GROWERS NOTIFIED OF POTATO ACT

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama producers or Irish potatoes for sale should get in touch with their county agent immediately so the agent may take the proper steps to obtain tax exemption stamps for each potato grower in the state, advises W. H. Robertson, state potato agent for Alabama.

"It is absolutely necessary that you determine, within the next week, if there are any potatoes raised for sale in your county," writes Mr. Robertson to each county agent in the state. The 1935 potato act passed by congress, provided that a tax of 75 cents per hundred pounds be collected on all potatoes sold, except such poundage as may be allotted to the farmer and for which stamps are issued."

STATE FARMERS ASKING FOR NEW COTTON BASE

Auburn, Ala.—Reports from all over Alabama indicate that the farmers of the state are practically unanimous in their desire that a new base period be used for making allotments to individual cotton producers under the 1936 AAA cotton program, say members of the state allotment board here.

The growers desire that the year 1933-1934-1935 be used instead of the old period 1928-32. Over 100 producers, representing every county in the state, met in Montgomery recently and asked for the new base. Since that time the allotment board members have received a number of letters endorsing the new period.

If the allotments are made on the past three years, the producer's reduction for 1936 will not be made from the reduced acreage of 1933-35, but will be based on the acres in cotton before the plow-up program in 1933 and the actual acres planted to cotton plus the acres rented to the Secretary of Agriculture in 1934 and 1935.

Game and Fish News

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 24.—The State Conservation Department reports that hunting accidents have claimed but four lives in Alabama this season, the lowest number recorded at the halfway mark of the hunting season in the last three years.

A. O. Parker, 30, of Virginia Mines in Jefferson county, was killed early in November when he accidentally struck his gun against a tree while hunting squirrels near Yolande.

A short time after, Roscoe Scott, 40, of Climax, was accidentally shot and killed by a member of hunting party of six during a rabbit hunt in Choctaw county.

Another Choctaw countian, James Oscar Thacker, 14, was hunting with several companions when they stopped to carve their names on a tree. One of the group accidentally struck a gun the charge killing young Thacker instantly.

Edward Smith of Center Star, a negro youth, attempted to cross a ditch while hunting. He slipped and his gun went off, the blast striking him in the side.

Outside the realm of hunting accidents caused by firearms, was the freakish accident that cost the life of A. H. Steel, 66, of Bryant. Steel was hunting with his brother when he was struck by a work car on a railroad track near his home.

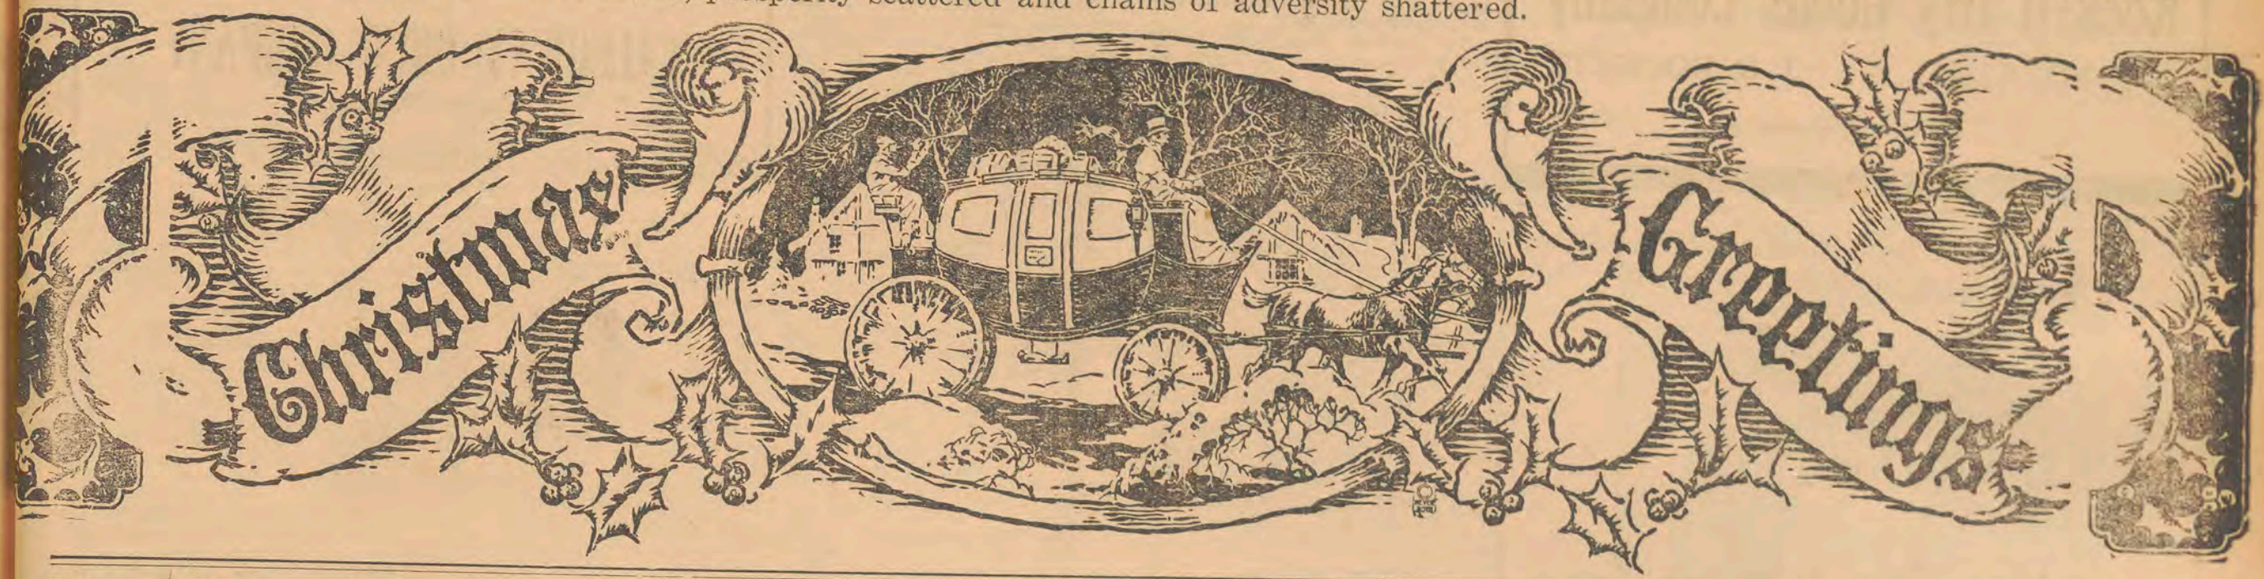
VOLUME 43.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1935 NUMBER 36

IT WAS nearly two thousand years ago, when Augustus Caesar ruled most of the world and Herod, the king, ruled over Judea. There were hundreds of petty kingdoms under the hands of stern and merciless rulers. Men were burdened under loads of taxation and there was much grumbling. There were even rumors of wars. But in the small city of Bethlehem, just outside the principal city of Jerusalem, there was born a different sort of King. Of meek and lowly birth, He was to become the friend of the downtrodden, the teacher of the learned doctors, and the Saviour of the world. Jesus was born.

It is in commemoration of this event that we celebrate Christmas.--- the greatest single event the world has ever known, that which means something intimate to the lives of all people of all lands --- the lowly as well as those surrounded with dignity. Everybody has a part in celebrating Christmas. And at this season The Union-Banner joins with the rest in extending its greetings of the season to all friends and acquaintances. The simplest and yet most complete way we can express it is to say: "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all our friends everywhere." May joy abound, peace be found; prosperity scattered and chains of adversity shattered.



Farmers' Income In Alabama Lessened

Crop Survey Shows Return $13,000,000 Less Than Value For 1934

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama farmers Saturday looked back on a year that lowered their cash income from crops more than $13,000,000 under the 1934 mark dispite production gains in cotton, peanuts, soy beans and sugar cane.

The 1935 crop report of F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician, Saturday showed that the cash value of crops this year was $78,000,000, as compared with $91,000,000 last year, both figures excluding benefit payments from the government.

These benefit payments in 1934 were $10;785,000, but have not been determined for 1935.

Gist's report stated that Alabama's income from the sale of livestock must slightly more than double 1934's mark of $12,240,000 if the total cash income of the farmer for 1935 is to reach last year's figure.

The total value of all crops in Alabama for 1935 was placed at $156,000,000, as compared with $169,000,000 in 1934, while the value of the state's 19 major crops showed an 8 per cent drop under last year's mark.

"In the case of cotton value," he said, "it is significant that 110,000 bales produced this year in excess of last year is valued at $1,200,000 less. . . . The same thing is true of certain other crops.

"While the aggregate value of the crops . . . averaged $19 per acre last year, they dropped down this year to slightly more than $17. The average value of the crops. . . per farm last year was approximately $529, which this year has fallen to $490."

The figures in the above quotation from Gist referred to the 19 major crops, with the total value of these crops and their 1934 comparison set forth in the following table:

Crop	1834 Value	1935 Value
Corn	$37,880,000	$31,330,000

COTTON REPORT

The tabuation of the card reports shows telegraph summary to be correct. There were 12,974 bales of cotton, counting round as half bales, ginned in Chilton County, from the crop of 1935 prior to December 13, 1935, as compared with 11,945 bales ginned to December 13, 1934.

CHILTON COUNTY TEACHERS RECEIVE $15,000 XMAS. MONEY

Over Million Paid Out In Checks Over State To Teachers For Holidays

The State Department of Education Thursday of last week had mailed out checks totaling $1,275,388 to county and city school boards throughout Alabama, most of which went as "Christmas Pay" for teachers. Chilton county received $15,061.60, of which $466.50 was poll taxes. Nearly half of the remainder came from the minimum program fund, and the rest from the public school fund.

The money was released by Comptroller Charles Lee, who said the amount brought the total disbursements since October 1 to $2,400,000—a record in State history. Dr. J. A. Keller, State superintendent of education kept his force working overtime the last of the week, in order to get the checks out to the teachers in time for their Christmas shopping.

Judge Reynolds Extends Wishes

Editor Union-Banner, Clanton, Ala.

Christmas brings to us three important considerations, charity, thankfulness and hope. The spirit of giving, of tolerance and friendliness. We are thankful for our old friends kept, and for new friends we have made, and we should be thankful for the opportunity to serve. With the New Year comes renewed hope. We should all set resolutions to do better next year than we have done in the past and to try to make the world better for having lived.

The people of Chilton County deserve many compliments for what they have done during the past few years of depression. There are many things that I could mention, but space and time will not permit. Our county has gone forward in many evidences of progress, and prosperity serves to demonstrate that there is no better anywhere.

Wishing the people a good old-fashioned Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.—Respectfully, L. H. Reynolds.

PRATTVILLE WILL HAVE CENTENNIAL

Residents To Honor Man Who Made Plans For Model Manufacturing City

Prattville, Ala.—Residents of this historic Black Belt town, steeped in the traditions of the Old South, and the industrialism of the new, Saturday were making plans to pay tribute to its Yankee founder—Daniel Pratt, of New Hampshire, who 100 years ago came here and built a village.

The Alabama Legislature has appropriated $5,000 for a Prattville centennial celebration and a bill is pending before Congress which is asking for an additional $10,000 to be used for the celebration.

Pratt, who was a youth, wandered over the country, working here and there, and known in his early days as a "vagrant," Dec. 18, 1835, purchased from Joseph May a parcel of land for $20,000. The land now is Prattville.

He first came to Alabama in 1832 and settled at Elmore's Mill near Wetumpka. He lived for a while in Montgomery's mill as a cotton ginner.

HAYES CHEVROLET COMPANY TO HAVE LARGER QUARTERS

Keeping step with the rapid growth of Clanton, and Hayes Chevrolet Company is now opening up in new and larger quarters. The Hayes firm is one of the youngest in its field and among the new firms in the city, yet it is one of the most progressive, and its growth has been phenominal.

Under the new building arrangement, the show room will be more than doubled. When finished, this show room will be approximately 33 x 50 feet. It will be completely refinished throughout, and will be one of the most attractive in the city.

Just back of the show rooms, the blue prints place the parts department, which open into the salesmen convention room, and to the office of J. W. (Dick) Hayes. Joining these departments, will be space for servicing new automobiles, and room to take care of car repairs for the trade. Back of this will be a space set aside for re-conditioning used cars. In the near future a paint shop will be built as an addition to the present building.

Back to the sales room, which will come in for the most of the change. This space will now house only one office, the sales office, and all other offices for clerical work will be taken care of in the regular office space set aside for this purpose.

Nell's Eat Shoppe In New Quarters

Nell's Eat Shoppe, which formerly occupied a part of the Hayes buildins together with the Hayes Chevrolet Company, has been moved across the street to the new quarters in another building, under the same roof with the Exchange Hotel.

This new place has been gone over and renovated throughout, and is quite beautiful. There is ample room to care for patrons, with the usual counter, as well as several nice tables and a number of booths.

Modern refrigeration has been installed throughout. In the rear the place is equipped with ample facilities for preparation of meals for the most exacting taste, in charge of capable cooks, and, under the personal supervision of Mrs. Nell Simms, and Mr. DeWitt Easterling, a restaurant man of much experience.

Finally, the place is spick and span from floor to roof, and from front door to rear. The new eat shop is fast becoming one of the most popular in the city.

Miss Della Latham and little Mary Ann Bentley arrived during the week end from Springville, Tenn. Miss Latham has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bentley in Springville for several weeks.

Dr. J. E. Edgar spent the week end in Tuscaloosa with Mr. and Mrs. "Shorty" Leon Mullins. Mrs. Edgar has been in Tuscaloosa for the past few days, due to the fact that her brother, Leon, is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Broadhead and son, Hal, will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes, and Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Broadhead, during Christmas.

Miss Laura Lamar and Miss Lorena Guy, teachers in the Chilton County High School, are spending the Christmas holidays in Montgomery with their home folks.

Trades Unit Hits Cotton Act & AAA

Council Also On Record As Opposing Stories About "Racketeering"

Newspaper articles dealing with "racketeering in Birmingham, administration of the AAA and the Bankhead cotton act, and the activiteis of County Agent, J. L. Liles Saturday were the objects of a spirited attack by the Birmingham Trades Council.

The Council's actions in the matter of a resolution chargnig "the stated of a resolution charging "the stater purpose of the articles being presented to the press and appearing in the daily newspapers of this city is to lower the rate of liability insurance in this district and for which purpose of these stated articles is to accomplish individual gain and benefit on the part of certain insurance companies."

Continuing, the resolution calls upon all prospective jurors to render unbiased verdicts, and take notice of an apparent conspiracy "to break down the merits and safety of our judicial department of government."

Administration of the AAA, the Bankhead cotton act and Agent Liles were attacked in a report of a special committee of the council in reply to a request from Jefferson County Farmers Educational and Co-operative Union that the council go on record as opposing the two acts, and to oust Mr. Liles from office.

After a thorough investigation, the committee's report says. "We find the AAA in the same category as the late NRA; that the unsympathetic interpretation and administration thereof, had defeated the declared purpose of Congress."

The report charges that instead of the farmers getting the benefits of the processing taxes, they are being forced to pay the taxes themselves.

The report criticizes the manner of selection of committeemen under the Bankhead act, and charges such committeemen have not been practical and competent farmers.

Declining to concur in the Union's request that Agent Liles be ousted from office, the committee's report charges Mr. Liles has "apparently overstepped his duties," and that much of his time is being spent in organizing or trying to organize the Farm Bureau.

"It is the opinion of your committee," the report says, "that if County Agent Liles will confine his activities to assisting the farmers as a whole to improve their soil and lower the cost of production, the situation will automatically take care of itself."—Birmingham News.

TVA'S FUTURE HANGS ON ONE JUDGE'S VOTE

Owen J. Roberts Expected To Cast Deciding Ballot In Supreme Court

Washington, Dec. 20.—The fate of Tennessee Valley Authority appeared today to rest upon Justice Owen J. Roberts of the U. S. Supreme Court, so closely does the court seem to be divided on the New Deal's greatest undertaking.

From the numerous questions asked from the bench and attitudes assumed by the justices during the first day of arguments in Ashwander vs. TVA, the division between the liberal and conservative members wes decidedly pronounced.

Such a situation gives Roberts, the unpredictable, the balance of power to bring about a five-to-four decision for or against TVA.

This assumes that the complaint of the preferred stockholders of the Alabama Power Co. against the contract for sale of transmission lines to TVA will be decided upon its merits. If the court should decide that it lacked jurisdiction (which means whether preferred stockholders suffered irreparable damage), then it probably would be a unanimous decision and might be handed down Monday.

STATE MAY VOTE ON F. D. R. SUPPORT

Demo Committee Chairman Favors Public Opinion On Delegation

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—A plan to allow voters in the May primary to decide whether Alabama's delegation to the Democratic Convention will be instructed for Roosevelt, or will go uninstructed, will be favored by John D. McQueen, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, when the committee meets at Montgomery next month.

Announcing he planned to call the meeting between Jan. 1 and Jan. 10, McQueen said that although he approved the plan to place the matter of [illegible] committee and not as its the state's delegation before the voters, he was speaking only as a mem-chairman.

Federal Grant Is Made To Airport

Work is expected to start on the Clanton airport somewhere around January 1st. A telegram from Senator Hugo L. Black to Judge J. Lee Smith and the Commissioners Court advised them that a federal grant in the amount of $29,057 had been allotted to the airport project.

A proposition had been made to the commissioners, whereby the court would allot $2,240 to the project. This amount to be insured by a group of Clanton citizens, to be refunded to the county treasury at the end of five years, if the court at that time is not satisfied.

It could not be learned just what is to be done at the airport in the way of erection of buildings. The amount given by the county is allotted for the purchase of land for the project, while the federal grant is for further grading, buildings, and other parts of the airport program.

Borah Indicates His Intention Of Running

Senator Okehs Proposal To Elect Delegation Favorable To Him

Washington, Dec. 19.—A statement by Senator Borah, of Idaho, considered by some to be tantamount to an announcement that he would seek the Republican presidential nomination was given to newspaper men Thursday night in response to inquiries.

Two Wisconsin Republicans, after a series of conferences with the Idahoan, first announced that he had endorsed a proposal to elect a Borah-for-president delegation from that state to the 1936 Republican convention.

Borah Approves Statement

Asked about this, Borah replied: "I told them that whatever they did along that line I would stand in with them."

THE VOICE FROM THE SKY

Christmas shoppers in Clanton received quite a surprise last Saturday afternoon, in the form of a novel advertising stunt put on by the Wofford Oil Co.

A plane soared over city, then, with motor muffled, the pilot "spoke his piece", advertising the several Wofford products, Woco Pep motor fuel, Tiolene motor oils, Pure batteries and other accessories, and Yale tires and tubes.

The main part of the time was given over to advertising "super-solvenized Woco Pep motor fuel", stressing its carbon preventive qualities. This is a comparatively new product of the Wofford Company, and the company makes high claims for its effectiveness in removing carbon and preventing further carbon formation.

It was an excellent advertising job, this "voice from the sky", and attracted much attention and comment from people who heard it.

Miss Lola Traywick is spending the Christmas holidays with friends and relatives at Wetumpka, Ala.

BLIND SENATOR BADLY HURT IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Thomas D. Schall, blind senator from Minnesota, was struck by an automobile on a heavily traveled highway near here Thursday night and injured critically.

Schall, a Republican, is one of Capitol Hill's bitterest critics of President Roosevelt's administration.

The accident occurred at Cottage City, Md., a few miles north of this city. Schall, hurried to a Washington hospital, was reported to have suffered a fractured skull, compound fracture of the left leg and lacerations.

Police arrested a man they said was L. G. Humphries, of Hyattsville, driver of the car, charging him with reckless driving. He later was released on his personal bond.

Police said witnesses told them that Schall, riding to his home, Wynecrest, with friends, had stepped out of the car and was hit as he crossed the road to his house.

Almost two hours after the accident, Schall was reported still unconscious.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

SIMPLE METHOD GIVEN FOR THROWING BULLS

Auburn, Ala.—When a bull or ox has to be thrown off his heet he should be thrown so that the animal nor the thrower receives injuries.

A simple method for doing this is recommended by Dr. I. S. McAdory, acting state veterinarian. It is known as the Reauff's method and is described as follows:

Use a rope about 30 feet in length, at one end of which is a loop that is passed over the horns. Then pass the rope between the horns and make a turn around the neck just in front of the shoulder; pass the rope over withers, where it makes another turn around the chest; and then run along the back until it makes a third turn around the flanks. The free end of the rope is then carried back on either the right or the left side of the hind quarter, the side depending upon the side of the animal desired up. One assistant controls the head of the animal, while two others pull the rope backward steadily and without jerking so as to compress the body. In a few seconds the animal will lie down quietly.

The front legs should be tied with a rope and pulled forward, and the rear limbs tied and pulled backward.

PEACH TREES REQUIRE SPRAY DURING WINTER

Auburn, Ala.—To produce good peaches next year farmers should spray their trees during winter months for the control of scale insects and peach leaf curl.

Before spraying, the orchard should be pruned, taking out all dead trees, dead branches, and cankered areas, advises Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station. This will result in a considerable saving of spray material.

"Oil emulsion spray should be used throughout the state for the control of scale when the infestation is severe," he says. "In north Alabama where peach tree curl is common, and in cases of light infestations of scale, commercial lime-sulphur often will be found satisfactory for control of both."

For preparing the winter spray materials the farmer should use 2¼ gallons of oil emulsion or 6¼ gallons of commercial lime-sulphur for each 50 gallons of water.

"Oil spray should be applied after the leaves have fallen in the fall and before the buds have begun to swell in the spring. Lime-sulphur for the control of peach tree leaf curl should be applied during the same period," advises Dean Funchess. "This disease cannot be controlled if this material is applied after the buds have begun to swell."

NINE WAYS TO INCREASE POULTRY PROFITS GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers can increase their winter poultry profits, advises John E. Ivey, extension poultryman, in offering the following suggestions:

1. Keep a good laying mash before hens continuously.
2. Confine birds to house until noon every day.
3. When it is very, very cold or rainy confine birds all day.
4. Feed moist, crumbly mash every day. When weather is cold use hot water or hot milk to dampen it.
5. See that the house and birds are free from mites and lice.
6. If at all posible use artificial lights to stimulate feed consumption.
7. Watch the body weight of the hens. It must be maintained or birds will show nect molt.
8. Feed 1 pound epsom salts to each 100 hens a month. Give it in wet mash—not in the drinking water.
9. On cold or rainy nights use curtains (feed sacks) to close open wire front. Use pole or pipe at bottom and fasten securely so they will not blow back and forth and thus scare the chickens.

LEADING VARIETIES OF CORN IS GIVEN

Auburn, Ala.—Leading varieties of corn for the different sections of Alabama have been announced by the Experiment Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Corn variety tests were conducted on substations and experimental fields of the different sections of Alabama, by H. T. Tisdale, plant breeder at Auburn, in cooperation with J. T. Williamson, Auburn, J. P. Wilson, Headland, Fred Stewart, Belle Mina, and R. C. Christopher, Crossville.

The report names the leading varities for North, Central and South Alabama in bushels of corn per acre as they showed up in the tests.

For North Alabama the five leading varities were Neal's Paymaster, 36.9; Douthit (Douthit), 36.5; Mosby (Graham), 36.3; Brooks' Prolific, 36.1; Locker's Yellow, 35.7.

For Central Alabama the five leading varieties were Brooks' Prolific, 33.7; Mosby (Graham), 33.6; Deuthit (Douthit), 33.3; Whatley (Hudson), 33.1; Indian Chief (Kiker), 32.9.

For South Alabama the five leading varieties were Douthit (Douthit), 36.4; Hastings, 36.3; Whatley (Whatley Bros.) 36.1; Douthit (Marrett), 34.6; Whatley (Hudson), 34.4.

The Alabama Experiment Station has no seed corn for sale, says Mr. Tisdale.

THE PASSING OF REV. P. G. CARTER

The readers of this paper will be grieved to know that Rev. P. G. Carter recently died at the Hubbard Hospital in Montgomery. He had served well as pastor in this state at Clanton, where he was instrumental in building a great church house and also a hospital. He served at Oxford for a number of years and was at the time of his death pastor of the church at Hayneville. He was a faithful, good man and will be greatly missed among us. Many will join the editor in extending sympathy to his immediate family who are left to mourn his loss.—Alabama Baptist.

In the death of P. G. Carter The Union-Banner keenly feels the loss of a genuine friend and a gentleman Christian in every respect. Among his peculiarities, he was withal a good man, a devout Baptist, and a true servant of the great cause to which he dedicated his life.

There are two lasting monuments in Clanton to the Rev. P. G. Carter; they are the Clanton Baptist church building and the Central Alabama Hospital. He played such an important part in bringing these two fine accomplishments to Clanton that without the efforts he so unselfishly put forth, very likely we would not have them today.

Indeed Clanton owes a debt of gratitude to this good man, now deceased.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Bishop Sam R. Hay of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, is quoted by the Associated Press as having said recently at the North Alabama Methodist Annual Conference at Huntsville, Alabama, that it would better to get rid of denominational coleges if they cannot do more than state schools. This has been the position of the writer for a number of years. There is no reason in the world why Methodists, Baptists, Presbyterians, Disciples, Episcopalians and other church people should pour out their money in the name of Christianity to build educational institutions unless they are spiritual institutions. The writer's work has taken him into many parts of the world and he has been brought into contact with a great many young people. He has seen more young people whose faith was shattered in religious institutions than have ever been shattered by state institutions. When we send our children to state schools, we can tell them to look out for their own religion. We can urge them to read their Bibles, say their prayers, go to church, and do their Christian duty. We can explain to them that under our form of government we have separation of church and state. When we send our children to our church schools they expect to find real religion. If they don't find it they usually come home with a shattered faith.

The writer believes in Christian education with emphasis on the Christian. It is more important for young people to learn how to live than it is for them to learn how to make a living. The most important thing in education is for a young person to get the proper philosophy of life. Church schools (most of which are struggling for an existance) cannot compete with great state institutions in equipment, buildings, laboratories etc., but Christian schools can teach Christianity as state institutions under our system of government connot do. The time is passed when you can appeal to young people to go to school just because it is a church school. I am founder and president of the Bob Jones College at Cleveland, Tennessee. We have very good equipment and high educational standards, but we are running a Christian college. We tell the world that our business first is to make Christians out of young people. We are teaching them science, English, history, foreign languages, and all the other subjects given in colleges of liberal arts. We tell young people that they can get these things in almost all other schools but we are a Christian college. We require Bible study. We believe in conversion. We believe in old-time religion. Our students come from all parts of the United States and from foreign countries. Our problem is not how to get students. Our problem is to provide enough room for them who wish to come. I am loyal to the churches of this nation. The Bob Jones College is a living example of the fact that the real, old-time-religion still works in a religious school. It also demonstrates the fact that there are still many thousands of people in the United States who want their children in real Christian colleges. What our church schools need is a revival of old-time-religion. A Christian college has no right to employ unconverted teachers and to lower standards of discipline and morals as many of them are doing. The founders of early universities and coleges of America as a rule were Christian men. Christianity has produced our education. We have no right to turn our schools over to the devil.

DEATH OF MRS. T. J. LITTLEJOHN

On December 9, 1935, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Littlejohn and took away our mother and grandmother to that home beyond the river where no sorrows nor pain can enter there. Grandmother was 82 years, 7 months and 9 days old when Good saw fit to carry her home. She was sick for nine months, but bore her pains patiently to the end. She was prepared to meet God in peace. It was so sad, so sad, to give her up, but not so sad as those that have no hope.

The funeral was conducted by Rev. Edwin Lovelady of Lawley. Burial was in Tabernacle cemetery following day at 3 o'clock. Pallbearers were Mr. Gordon Green, Mr. Clemon Smith, Edmond Littlejohn, Alvin Gentry, and Jack Thomas. She leaves to mourn her loss 5 children, 23 grandchidren and 10 great grandchildren.

The children that are living are Charlie Edmond Littlejohn of Lawley, Cliff Littlejohn of New York, Mrs. J. D. Hoedsomebeck of Jemison ,Miss Sophie Reeves of Centreville, Miss Victora Craig of Lawley.

Mrs. T. J. Littlejohn was married 63 years. Her husband died two years ago. She was a faithful member of the Baptist church over 60 years and a devout Christian.

A great array of flowers bore the esteem in which she was held. The funeral was conducted by many of her sorrowing friends. She is gone but not forgotten.—Written by one who loved her, a neice, Mrs. Sadie Watson.

PERMANENT C. C. C. IS UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Montgomery.—The prospects of a permanent Emergency Conservation Work manned by the Civilian Conservation Corps present certain problems for solution by the various States, points out the Alabama State Commission of Forestry. While work of this character performed on Federal lands is, of course, solely a concern of the Federal government, the inclusion of State and private lands in the program requires the States and the individual landowners to assume definite responsibilities.

When the Emergency Conservation Work first was started in the spring of 1933, it was anticipated that, in the event it should prove successful, it might become finally resolved into a permanent public activity. The Forestry Departments of States with large revenues were able to adopt and add to their organizations with view to providing the necesary planning, supervision, inspection and maintenance of the projects undertaken. However, the less wealthy states, in some instances, have felt constrained, in spite of the fact that these projects are practically one-hundred per cent grants, to restrict and even curtail their facilties for accepting and applying the employment and construction benefits offered by the Federal government. Hesitancy in these connections is regarded as false economy by efficiency engineers and by economists. Nevertheless such conditions obtain in a few of the states.

Policies, plans and procedures as to the operation of a permanent Emergency Conservation Work are at the present time being formulted in Washington and it is anticipated that comparatively early in the session Congress will take definite action. Meanwhile, many of the states in the regular or special sessions of their legislatures may have opportunities to quality for this form of Federal aid.

PUBLIC OPINION AND THE BANKS

By F. N. SHEPHERD
Executive Manager
American Bankers Association

F. N. SHEPHERD

WHILE banking today appears in a wholly distorted light in the eyes of some, the more reasoning elements in our population undoubtedly have a less jaundiced view than would appear from certain irresponsible orators, often posing as spokesmen for that indefinite quantity called "the mass" of our people.

Anti-social acts on the part of some bankers formerly have been the subject of spectacular exposures, but I can say without reservation that they were in no way typical of the acts and attitudes of the vast majority of their fellow bankers. The public mind was shocked into the belief that these untypical instances were far more representative than they really were, and this belief has been encouraged by political and demagogic elements.

The Bankers Today

The bankers who are in charge of our banks today represent men who withstood the temptations and avoided the economic pitfalls of the great boom. If they had not they would not be there, or their banks would not have been able to survive the rack and ruin of the economic hurricane, by which even many banks and bankers, whose conduct was above reproach, have been destroyed. The other types of bankers, those that fell below the high standards of professional ethics and business prudence that characterized those that remain, have passed out of the picture. But they have left for those that remain a difficult heritage of suspicion and ill will.

How irrational this is, when we reflect that not more than three or four per cent of our entire population suffered personal loss because of what any banker did or neglected to do, whereas literally millions of bank depositors did not lose a single cent as a result of banking difficulties and really owe a vote of confidence and thanks to their own bankers who were true to the highest conceptions of their stewardship and brought their institutions and their customers safely through the greatest business disaster the world has ever seen. It has been a peculiar feature of the psychological distortion of the times that many who owe nothing but gratitude to their bankers joined in blaming the banker far out of proportion with any rational consideration of the facts.

EXAMINATIONS FOR TRUST INSTITUTIONS

New Move by Federal Banking Authorities Welcomed by Banks and Trust Companies, Says Bankers' Organization

FEDERAL examination of trust departments is the latest development in banking supervision and trust companies and banks operating trust departments are welcoming this development because it fills a long-felt want, it is stated by the Trust Division of the American Bankers Association.

Despite the growing importance of American trust business in recent years examining officials have never given to trust departments the attention paid to commercial banking departments, this authority points out. Now the Federal Reserve System, in conjunction with the Comptroller of the Currency, has undertaken to bring the examination of trust departments up to the level of commercial bank examinations, it says.

Experts in trust work are being employed by the various Federal Reserve Banks. These experts will head the special staffs of trust examiners in the twelve Federal Reserve Districts. Special staffs are already at work in some of the Reserve Districts, including Boston, Atlanta, Richmond and Chicago. The Federal Reserve will examine the trust departments of state-chartered members of the Reserve System.

Uniform Supervision

Meanwhile, the Comptroller of the Currency has built up over the past two years a staff of special examiners for the trust departments of national banks. All national banks are members of the Federal Reserve System. Since nearly all state-chartered trust institutions are members of the Reserve System the new plan will bring about what amounts to Federal examination for the trust business.

State examining authorities probably will follow Federal supervisory policies to a considerable extent. Hence, coordination of the procedure of the national banking system and the Federal Reserve System is expected to result in a uniform system of examinations for trust departments in all banks. This in turn should produce considerable standardization in the operation of trust departments, the division declares.

MISS CARTER AND MR. GARRETT MARRIED AT TRINITY CHURCH

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Louise Carter and Frank Barnes Garrett took place last evening at 8:00 o'clock, at a ceremony of beauty and impressive dignity, at Trinity Presbyterian church, Montgomery, in the presence of a large and representative assemblage. The traditional bridal decorations gave lovely settings for the ceremony.

Ushers were James Campbell, of New Orleans, formerly of Montgomery: Russell Carter, Roy Nolen, Gun Henderson.

Miss Odessa Carter was her sister's maid of honor, and wore a lovely gown of maize chiffon, built over taffeta in two tones.

Miss Frances McMillan and Miss Katherine Nelson were bridesmaids and wore gowns of coral-colored chiffon.

Miss Carter's flowers were a long bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Nelson and Miss McMillan each carried Souvenir roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Thomas Rogers Carter.

At Christmas Time...

ALL ROADS LEAD TO HOME

Go home for the holidays if you can. The clasp of a welcoming hand, the sound of a friendly voice, are gifts of happiness that nobody should forego.

Time or distance, however, may prevent your visiting a few close friends and relatives whom you would so much like to see. Then all you have to do, as many folks have learned, is to let "long distance" bring you and your friends together for a voice-to-voice visit.

It doesn't matter whether you call on Christmas day or not, you will both get a real thrill from your telephone visit any time during the holiday season.

The pleasure you will experience from your visits by telephone is not expensive. For example, by using Station-to-Station service after 7 P. M., you can talk 150 miles for about 50 cents, and other distances for similarly low cost.

Your "long distance" operator will be pleased to inform you about rates to any point, and help make your holidays pleasant by giving quick connections to the friends you want to greet.

CLANTON CC CAMP WORKING FOR MODEL CAMP HONORS

Lieutenant H. M. Brock, Commanding Officer, Mr. Jim H. Wood, project superintendent and Mr. T. H. Walker, educational advisor, are all working hand in hand to make Company 3481 the model camp and the most outstanding of District "D". To date wonderful achievements have been with his able assistant Lt. Richard made toward this goal. Lt. Brock, A. Griffin has started with general renovation of the entire camp — the walks, driveways and the general appearance show considerable improvement since their arrival. The officers have added rugs, paint and curtains to their quarters and now have one of the most attractive and inviting living rooms to be found in a camp anywhere.

Mr. Wood, with his techincal and non-technical staff composed of C. S. Hurd, M. E. Pruett, H. T. Stanley, W. R. Tamplin, W. Ellis, R. T. Jones, C. D. Rhea, C. E. Hagler and J. R. Brown, are displaying an equal amount of enthusiasm in making a number of changes that will add to the beauty of the camp as well as the efficiency. Their quarters are now going through a general overhauling and wil be second to none. Among other things they are installing rugs, curtains, floor lamps and other things that will add to the appearance.

The educational department, with its staff showing an interest that is commendable to any camp. They are on the job day and night and their achievements are easily detected. The reading room installed under the supervision of this department is the show place of the camp and has received an unlimited amount of favorable comments. This department supplied the mess hall, reception hall and other buildings with curtains that have added to the attractiveness of them. A Christmas tree has also been placed at the entrance which makes the Christmas spirit prevail among the members of the company.

In the way of health our camp has had the honor of being at the top in the District, this being due to our very efficient medical officer, Lt. W. C. Golden. Lt. Golden is in close contact with the men at all times, thereby being able to detect any minor ailments and use the necessary precautions to prevent further complications.

In the field the crews are showing very rapid progress considering the actual number of days worked and lack of experience in the art of soil erosion. In seventeen days of actual field work approximately 7,000 feet of ditch has been dug; 1,000 square yards of dirt has been handled in gully treatment and 100 permanent dams have been built with cement and brick. The men have collected 500 bushels of pine cones. We will receive within a very short time approximately 700,000 plants, consisting of pines, black locust and kudzu. The plants will be distributed among the farmers of Chilton county and will be planted by the men of the camp without cost to the farmer. Wonderful cooperation is being given us by the County Agent, Mr. J. W. Fant, who has, with the help of the boys, just mailed 2,000 letters through the county explaining the planting program.

LABOR DISPUTES ACT RULED VOID BY U. S. JUDGE

Decision Declares Congress Exceeded Legal Right To 'Regulate Commerce'

Kansas City, Dec. 21.—The Wagner labor disputes act, New Deal measure giving employees the right to organize an dbargain lollectively without company interference, was held unconstitutional tonight by Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis.

The opinion was the first Federal court ruling on the legality of the law enacted by the last Congress.

Judge Otis granted the Majestic Flour Mills of Aurora, Mo., a temporary injunction against a national labor relations board complaint which cited it for alleged refusal to bargain a wage and hour agreement with a union of its employes.

Whole Act Unconstitutional

Declaring that Congress had exceeded its right "to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states. . . ." the judge said, "the conclusion is that the whole act is unconstitutional."

At times caustic in his criticism of the act which President Roosevelt described as an "important step toward the achievement of just and peaceful labor relations in industry," Judge Otis said it treated the individual as a "recently emancipated slave."

The act gives the employes the right to organize unions to carry on wage and hour negotiations. It prohibits employers from interferring with the formation of such unions and created the labor relations board to mediate disputes growing out of contracts between labor and employers.

In asking the injunction the mill pleaded the citation of the labor board laid it and its officers open to punishment by a $5,000 fine, imprisonment for one year, or both.

The ruling was made as the United States Supreme Court considered cases testing constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley Act, AAA and the Bankhead cotton production control law, all important new deal measures.

Judge Otis said the heart of the Wagner act was contained in a single sentence of section 10: "The (labor relations) board is empowered, as hereinafter provided, to prevent any person from engaging in unfair practice (listed in section 8) affecting commerce."

Amendment Necessary

Referring to a resolution to amend the constitution now pending in the cingressional committee on the judiciary, Judge Otis said the proposed amendment will give congress power to "regulate commerce, business, industry, finance, banking, insurance, manufacturers, transportation, agriculture and the production of natural resources."

When the amendment is enacted, he said, "the statute. . . . . if then reenacted, certainly will be constitutional. But not until then."

"Then also what remains of the sovreignty of the states will cease to be and the 'citizen' will have become a 'subject.'"

On and after January 2, 1936, exchange charges will be in effect on all foreign checks presented to either bank in Clanton for cash or for deposit. By foreign check is meant any check drawn on any bank other than either of the banks in Clanton. This charge will be one-eighth of one per cent or $1.25 per thousand dollars with a minimum charge of ten cents per check regardless of amount.

This action is necessary in order to meet the requirements of Regulation Q, Section 1, Paragraph F of the Federal Reserve Act which prohibits the payment of interest by banks on accounts other than Savings Accounts and Time Deposits. This exchange cost has always existed but has been absorbed by the banks heretofore. Central collecting agencies now cannot absorb this cost nor can the bank handling the check, as the absorption of this cost is construed as an indirect payment of interest.

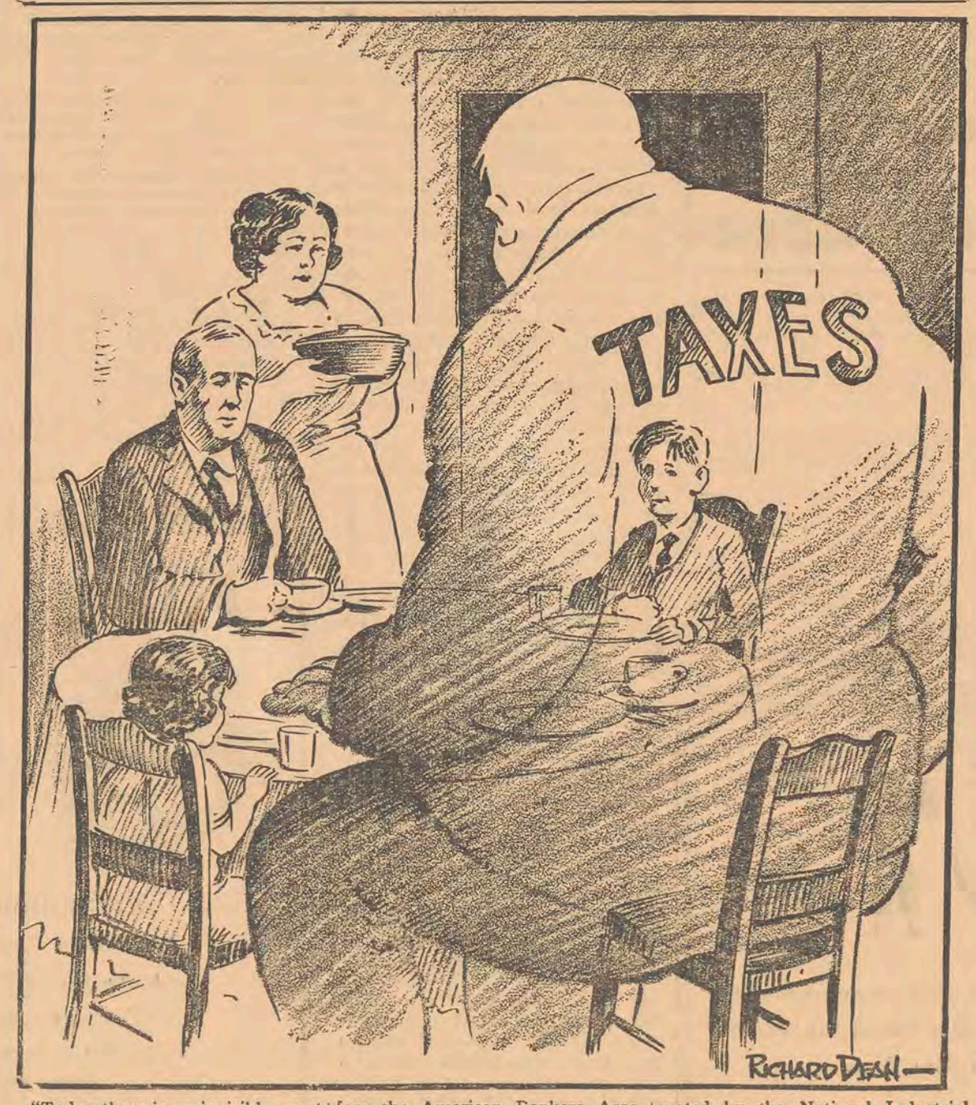
THE INVISIBLE GUEST



"Today there is an invisible guest who sits at the table of every family in this country. He is the invisible tax eater that collects the hidden taxes. When the housewife purchases three pork chops, the butcher weighs them out but only wraps up two. The third he gives to this invisible guest."

The foregoing paragraph is taken from a recent speech delivered before the American Bankers Association, meeting in New Orleans, by Lewis H. Brown, president of the Johns-Manville Corp. large manufacturers of building materials. Other excerpts from his speech, pointing need for reducing taxes, are:

"In 1934 the national income was approximately 48 billions of dollars and the total cost of all government —local, state and national—is estimated by the National Industrial Conference Board as being 15½ billions of dollars. Today the total cost of government is equal to one-third of the national income.

"Some people think that all we need is a new mayor, or a new governor, or a new Congress. But what we really need is an aroused public opinion demanding that the cost of government must be reduced."

Good Will Toward Men

As the holiday season brings a reminder of distant friends, we again pause in our daily labors to renew our bonds with those nearby. To our friends and neighbors we wish all of the joys and comforts that are contained in the magic of the words — "Good will toward all mankind."

OFFICIALS FEAR RELIEF ROLL RISE

Washington, Dec. 19.—A fear that the number of people on relief may begin to increase again after declining steadily for months was hinted in official quarters today.

This, it was said, added to the complexity of the budget problem, which President Roosevelt is discussing with relief administrators and other department heads.

Working on the budget for next year, the administration indicates it is seeking to retard the rate of rise of the public debt, which reached an all-time high of $30,555,791,967 yesterday.

Predictions that states and communities may demand a continuation of the federal "dole" were heard last night after Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, reported on relief conditions in large cities.

The number of families and single persons drawing relief in such cities declined 9.4 per cent in November as compared with October, he said. But he added that "in many cities the depletion of individual resources, aggrevated by the growing winter need, adversely affected the relief situation."

SARTOR BUILDING IS BEING RENOVATED

Extensive repairs are being made on the old buildng on the corner of Seventh Street and Second Avenue, commonly known as the Sartor building. In fact, the new structure will be a practically new building, as nothing is being saved from the old one except portions of the walls, and the foor, and it is reported that a new top flooring will be put in.

A new rront is being put in, new steel girders replace the old wood ones, new steel reinforcements are to be placed throughout the building. In short, this new building is expected to compare favorably with others in the city.

We are informed that when finished the new building will be occuped by the Watts Hat Shoppe. This firm is a thoroughly modern one, and has shown considerable growth since its beginning a short time ago. The new building will have ample modern show window appointments, built especially to fit the requirements of the Watts Hat Shoppe. It is expected to be one of the most beautiful buildings in the city when finished, and the store a show place for ladies apparel.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

Whenever things go wrong with the people of the United States—and the same thing is of course, true of the citizens of other countries—we at once get an outcry from a lot of folks who say that our governmental machinery is wrong and that what we need is a new engine or at least some new cogwheels. The present situation in America is no exception. Before the latter part of 1929 we were about the chestiest people on earth. We talked about the high destiny of America and thought that poverty was soon to be abolished, so far as the United States is concerned.

Then came the change. The stock market crash was followed by idleness, by hunger and by other suffering. Immediately prophets arose among us to tell us that things would never be right again until our whole system of government was changed. The law of the "tooth and the jungle" was over. Individualism would have to give way to regimentation. There would be no more planning by private business. From now on it must be done by the government. To act otherwise would be to invite certain disaster.

Now the fact is that we have in this country today the same cities and towns, the same fertile farms, the same mines and the same forests that we had in 1929. There are just as many people here, too—perhaps a few more. But there has been a change. It has been in the hearts and souls of the people, not in the material resources of the country, in the characters of the citizens, not in the Constitution of the United States. Our fundamental law is the same as it was back in the easy days of Calvin Coolidge.

In 150 years—the shortest time known to history—our forefathers builded the mightiest nation the world has ever known. They did it under a Constitution which some folks tell us ought to be relegated to the "Horse and Buggy" days. Then why can't the process of development go on? It can, if our people will show the same initiative, the same enterprise and the same resourcefulness that was displayed by our empire-building ancestors. Let us remember that the founders of the American nation had plenty of intestinal fortitude. They were not afraid to cross mountains and plain, to work, to pray and to fight if need be, in defense of their "rugged individualism," and for a home for themselves and their children. When they cut across the country in covered wagons they were not equipped with government money. There were not tap-dancers to be paid by Uncle Sam to teach them the terpischorean art, no federally controlled circuses or band concerts for entertainment. Uncle Sam had neither the money nor the disposition to provide a living for those who would have come to headquarters for it. It was necessary for every man to go out after a living, and most of them did.

All of this may sound a trifle heartless. It is not intended to sound so. The United States is the most charitable nation on earth. We have always taken care of our destitute people and we intend always to do so. Nobody starved to death for lack of assistance, even before the era of the New Deal, and none will starve, we all hope, in the future. But at the same time it is to be remembered that no government, especially a free government, is any greater than the people who go to make it up. If we show the right sort of courage and enterprise we will find that our constitutional system is all right. But if we falter by the wayside and wait for a paternal federalism to take care of us—then the finest constitution which could be devised by the brain of a university professor could make us neither happy nor successful.

CONSTITUTIONAL TINKERING

We hear a great deal about proposed change to the American Constitution, but to most of us it is more or less of an academic issue, and we surmise that little if anything will be done about it. Yet it may surprise some of us to realize that sixty-five resolutions to change our Constitution have been introduced in Congress during the past few months. In an interesting article "Constitution Tinkering," in which he comments on this fact, Captain John B. Trevor, president of the American Coalition, says in part in the current issue of the National Republic.

"The open season for Constituton tinkering seems to be at hand. Not since the days of Civil War reconstruction has there been so much effort to revise or amend the fundamental law embodied in the Constitution of the United States.

"What little public sentimnet there is for amending the Constitution was given a political impetus recently by the expressions of disappointment on the part of certain persons high in the 'New Deal,' following the action of the Supreme Court of the United States nullifying the National Recovery Act. Even the President of the United States, following his historic decision, gave vent to his vexation and disappointment by asserting that the Court's action had taken us back to the "horse and buggy days" of American government. Almost immediately there were proposals from various so-called reformers that our fundamental law be changed; that Congress or the administration at Washington be given the right through constitutional changes to set aside state rights and the constitutional balance of government and to regulate al of the business and industry of the country, in the state, and the county and the village, telling Mr. Citizen how long he might work and for what wage, regulating the price at which the merchant might buy and sell; in short, acting as a sort of paternal mentor to American citizens who had builded a great nation through individual initiative and enterprise. * * *

"The danger of Constitution tinkering is not over. Mr. Average Citizen will perhaps be astonished to know that in both houses of Congress during the recent session no less than sixty-five resolutions were introduced looking toward the amending of the Constitution of the United States! When the fact is taken into consideration that during our 148 years of existence as a constitutional government, only twenty-two amendments to the Constitution have been adopted, and that ten of these have been regarded almost as an integral part of the great American document, because of their early approval, we may get some idea of what was in the minds of our representatives and senators during the past several months.

"Of course, a few of the proposed amendments are not in themselves fundamental. Some of them might have a very good chance of adoption in a period when there was not so much feeling against and discussion of Constitution tinkering. Other proposed amendments, however, are by no means innocent of changing the fundamental principle of American government. Some of them provide for the abrogating of the states' rights and seem to anticipate the setting up at Washington of a complete bureaucracy which would regulate the entire life and activities of our people everywhere. Others would destroy our balanced system of government by curbing the powers of the Supreme Court, taking away from the American people their right to appeal against legalized oppression, and giving them over to the mercy of any misguided party whimh might be in power politically. Still others would make such things easier by facilitating the amending of the Constitution itself; some would seek to redistribute wealth," and others to "outlaw war," and at the same time render us incapable of defending ourselves against a foreign foe or a domestic revolution."

HIGH COST OF GOVERNMENT

We hear a greal deal frequently about the high cost of government. But the phrase has become so commonplace that few people actually realize just what the tremendous cost of our government is. There are even a few apologists who compare our situation with that of Great Britain and point to the fact that income tax rates are higher over there than here. They neglect to take into account the fact that in the United States our federal incomes taxes are only a beginning and that we have state, county and municipal taxes in a degree that are unheard of in Great Brtain. Not only are these taxes burdensome to our people—the local taxes fall much heavier, directly, on the small man than do the federal taxes, although, in the end, of course, the consumer pays most of them anyhow.

A vivid illustration of the high cost of government was given, however, in a recent address by Harper Sibley, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, when he said:

"It would take 31 cents of every such dollar that was spent in the United States last year to equal the cost of government.

"It would take 31 cents of every such dolar to equal the cost of the federal government.

"The annual costs of government are equal to two-thirds of all the wages and salaries received last year by all our citizens other than government employees.

"All of the interest and all of the dividends received by individuals would run the government less than four months."

Here are some figures worth cogitating.

Sixty-eight cents out of every retail dollar to pay the cost of government, national, state and local, in the United States! And yet there are some people who think so feebly that they propose to saddle the cost of government "onto the rich." The absurdity of such a proposition is manifest when we consider the terrific cost of government. It requires the money not only of the rich but of the wage earner to pay for keeping our various governments going. Anyone who will think over the problem carefully for a moment can easily come to realize that there are not enough rich, not even enough well-to-do in the United States to pay for the kind of expensive government we are now living under.

The trouble seems to be that in spite of all that is said and printed about the dangers of high taxation, the government bill seems to be mounting each year. Some people seem to be obsessed with the idea that there is some magic way to get rid of mounting public debts. But this is not true. Every dollar borowed must be repaid, either with good money sweated in taxes from the pay envelopes of those who work or by the quicker process of inflation which will ruin everybody but the commodity gamblers and will be especially disastrous to the little fellow who labors for his living. There is no way to beat public debts, and there is only one way to reduce taxes. That is to reduce expenditures by careful and painstaking economy and real budget balancing.

Six thousand people in Spain have been made ill by poisoned bread. This stuff must be as bad as bride's biscuits.

MAN IN THE MOON

THE SALES TAX

Before long the people of Alabama will have a chance to vote on a very important item—the sales tax—if Mr. Graves keeps his word. During his campaign for Governor, Mr. Graves promised the people that if ever there was a sales tax law written on the statute books of Alabama during his administration, the people would vote for it to be put there.

Advocates of the sales tax have been worklong and earnestly of late to try to put their pet plan into law, and the way things look now, it will not be long before Alabamians will be called upon to voice their wishes on the subject.

In view of this, there are a few things I would like to say to the voters of our section. A person who has never come into contact with the sales tax, and who hears that the tax will be a mere two per cent on purchases over a certain amount, may think little of it, but a bit of explanation might be welcome. So, here's what I know of it:

As is the case with most taxes, this is just another tax, to add to the burdens of the already overburdened taxpayers. But listen to this. Now you pay taxes only on property you own. With a sales tax law on the books, you will pay a tax on everything you buy, from a toothpick to an automobile, and you will pay it when you make the purchase, too. Let that bit of news sink in, completely, and you will come to realize what a sales tax means, or, at least, as well as you can until you start paying the taxes.

Think of making five purchases of from 15 cents to 25 cents each on one of your little trips down town—a magazine, a pound of meat, two loaves of broad, a half-dozen oranges, and a pair of socks—and you have paid tax in the sum of a dime. A dime is very little money, but multiply it by every day in the year, add it to other sales taxes you might pay during the year on larger purchases—clothes, tires, gasoline, etc., and you can readily see that the man of very moderate income and expenditures will pay a huge sum within a year. And that is a tax you do not have to pay now—add it to the taxes you pay now, and then see what kind of a tax hole you are in.

I have had occasion to observe the workings of the sales tax under several different plans. Some states only charge two per cent on charges over a certain amount, generally 15 cents—some start from scratch, however, and you pay a tax on everything from an all-day sucker on up. Do you remember the war tax we had on certain articles during the late war, and for a short while after its close? If so, you have had a taste of what a sales tax is like, but only a taste. Think of paying that extra two pennies on EVERY dollar you spend.

If there could be shown any sensible reason why such a tax should be levied, I would be the last to kick at it. If Alabama needed that extra money to cary on the state government, I am sure Alabamians would gladly pay it. But such is not the case.

Alabama is certainly no bigger than it has been. Our roads show no sign of any extra work being done on them—in fact the most of the state's part of road building and maintenance is done with prison labor. Our schools are certainly not getting it, for they are threatened with having to close in the near future from lack of funds. And, at the same time, it's a dead cinch the taxes that have been collected are as much as they have been heretofore. There was a time when Alabama's taxes were sufficient to carry on our state government. After considering the above, there is but one conclusion we can arrive at—someone around Goat Hill is lining his pockets with the long green!

The present legislature has already voted two million dollars additional yearly taxes, and collected over three million dollars in excess of the amount the Miller administration took in. And yet they clamor for more. For what? Our state admnistration seemingly never thinks of economy, of cutting expenses here and there to stay within their income. Oh no, just another tax—it doesn't exactly matter what kind, just so it will bring in the cash. Personally, I think the people of Alabama are already being gypped in the price they pay for government. Why not economize some, instead of paying off so many political debts with soft jobs, paid for out of the tax money—blood money—of Alabama's taxpayers?

There is something else to think about, too. Why not profit by the experience of others? New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Georgia have already repealed their sales tax laws. The people of Tennessee recently brought pressure to bear on their state legislature, after watching the sales tax workings in their neighbor state, Georgia, and it was overwhelmingly defeated. The same thing happened in Texas after Texans had observed its effect in their sister state, New Mexico. Kentucky recently elected almost a whole slate of officers pledged to kill all sales tax measures attempted. And the governor of Misissippi has asked his legislature to repeal their sales tax law. If you saw a man in pain from being stung by a hornet, you wouldn't want to be stung, too, just to see if it really did hurt that bad, would you?

Another thing, this tax climbs just like other taxes. When the gas tax was first levied, it was for only one cent per gallon. Gradualy it climbed upward, until today Alabamians pay one of the highest gas tax levies of any state in the union. The same thing will happen with the sales tax, if it is given a chance—first two per cent, then three, and then more, bit by bit, with now and then a special county or city sales tax thrown in for good measure. And you will pay it—don't forget that. It's not a tax to be pushed off on someone else—you pay on what you eat, what you wear, what you sleep on, what you sit on, what you walk on or ride in. If you live, you pay it—if you dies, somebody else pays it for you on the box and trappings you are put away in.

You've heard the term: "As sure as death and taxes", but you have never yet experienced one as sure as this one. So, don't take for granted that you'll get along somehow if it is passed. For your own good, and the good of all Alabamians except a few greedy suckers in the state "government", fight the sales tax. Alabama doesn't need it! Those money-grabbing politicians around Montgomery are the only ones who can be found who want it. If you are not yet convinced that it is something you don't want or need, just look about you a bit, and ask a few questions, and I believe you'll vote NO on the sales tax.

PUBLIC OPINION

"What do Americans want most in government"? That is a question which national party heads have been wondering over for some time. It has been answered, in a measure, by a poll taken recently by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

BORAH ENTERS THE FRAY

No more wholesome thing could have happened for the Republican party, we believe, than Senator Borah's aggressive entry into the presidential race.

A few days ago it looked as if, through default of the liberal element, the Grand Old Party was to remain in the grasp of the old guard. It looked as if some of the leading candidates now in the field would kill each other off in a repetition of the Wood-Lowden deadlock of 1920 and land the arty in another "smoke-filled hotel room" where the bosses would handpick a Tweedledum or a Tweedledee to head the ticket.

But the entry of the eloquent Idaho progressive changes the picture. If he takes earnestly to the hustings and Borah delegates are placed on the tickets in those states which have presidential primaries, the issues between liberalism and reaction in party policies should be effectively dramatized and rank and file Republican voters may be able to make their wishes heard and heeded at the Cleveland convention.

We hope Senator Borah goes into every state which holds a preferential primary, and we believe his chances of winning are good in all that he enters. Yet we know the cards are stacked against him.

Moreover, this year the old guard bosses will have plenty of money to spend. Big business interests which desire a subservient national administration know it is impossible to block the renomination of President Roosevelt by the Democrats. So they are expected to loosen their purse strings to the Republicans in return for promises of a reactionary platform, a reactionary candidate, and a return to the dog-eat-dog economics upon which they built the false prosperity of the twenties and left a sacked people to fend for themselves in the early thirties.

That political coup Senator Borah has undertaken to thwart, believing a campaign based on a return to the old order would bring a disastrous defeat to the Repub lican party, whose leadership he has long criticized but whose banner he has never deserted.

A majority of rank and file Republicans, we believe, join us in wishing Senator Borah Godspeed. He has his faults. But no other Republican is so well equipped to succeed in the mission he is undertaking. None other so competely enjoys the trust of the common man. None other has experience and talent. None other his long record of honesty and humanity.—Birmingham Post.

IMPORTING CATTLE

In the light of the recently completed reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada, which promises to be a big campaign issue next year, it is of interest to note that cattle imports to the United States mounted sharply during October, the latest month for which figures are available. It is to be remembered that cattle are one of the farm products which are to be admitted under lower rates from Canada in the new treaty.

According to a report of the United States Department of Commerce, imports of cattle over the Canadian and Mexican borders during October totaled 32,246 head, the largest number since June. It is to be noted also that the cattle imported in October a year ago numbered only 1,287.

In the first ten months of this year the United States imported 312,257 head of cattle, mostly from the Dominion of Canada and Mexico. This contrasts with a total number of 58,740 for the first ten months of 1934.

A great many of the cattle brought in, it is said, are feeders who are taking the place of the supply depleted last year by the AAA program, which was aided by the drought. Last year we slaughtered the cattle because there wasn't enough pasture in the West. This year there is plenty of corn and plenty of pasture, but the number of feeders is decidedly shy.

Of course, when the new Canadian treaty goes into effect we needn't worry much about a cattle shortage any more. If the AAA decides we have too many cattle and they should be slaughtered, and then it turns out we haven't enough cattle of our own, it will be comparatively easy to import 'em from Canada under the new arrangements. Not only will we be importing livestock, but we shall be getting in dairy products, too. This will make it unnecessary for the farmers of the United States to produce as much butter and cheese as formerly. Then they can pay more attention to tap dancing, animal training and other phases of the more abundant life. There is nothing like a wise paternal government to figure these things out for us.

In Williamson County, Illinois, it is announced that only Democrats and New Dealers will be placed in charge of the $810,000 WPA road building program. Then why not get the money from Democratic and New Deal taxpayers?

In New York state over 1,900,000 passenger automobiles were registered for use during the first ten months this year. What we would like to know is, how many of 'em burned gasoline bought with federal relief money?

The question: "What is the most vital issue before the American public today?" was asked of millions of people. The three first in order named, were: (1) Employment; (2) Governmental expenditures; (3) Neutrality. There were numbers of other items brought to attention, but a vast majority wanted "more jobs, a cessation of government waste, and strict preservation of a neutral status in world affairs."

Possibly the best way to show more accurately how people feel about these three paramount issues might be to express three represntative notes, sent in by voters in the poll. These read: "Give 90,000,000 people a chance to live, or stop reproducing them"; "Get Uncle Sam out of his Santa Claus constume"; "Stay on this side of the big ponds, and get ready to whip any nation which tries to bring war to us."

It might be interesting to some to check these three big issues against the political platforms of the two big parties in 1936. The Democratic platform places unemployment first, while the Republicans place it second on the list. Economy in government expenditures is placed third on the Democratic list, while Republicans put it in the No. 1 position. Democrats place neutrality second, while Republicans place it fifth, placing Constitutional preservation and reduced taxes, as well as economy and unemployment, above it.

It is quite interesting to note a few items in the two platforms, and the degree of importance in which they are rated. For instance—Democrats place "less control of business" 19th, while Republicans put it 8th. Democrats put "liquor control" 20th, and Republicans put in 10th. Democrats put the soldier's bonus 17th, while Republicans put it 20th. Democrats place Constitutional measures 16th, while Republicans think it 3rd in importance. This 1936 political scrap bids fair to be a hot one.—Man in the Moon.

A DECISION ON STATES' RIGHTS

It is one of the charactertistics of a laterday reformer that he wants to take away many of the rights and privileges of state governments and turn them over to the federal government at Washington. It is this political tendency among the so-called "old fashioned" political students that the alleged "reformers" are really seeking to reform us into autocracy.

It is one of the characteristics of a latter-the doctrine of states rights seemed to be especially the property of the Democratic party. But that is no longer true. We now find as earnest and eager states rights men bearing the Republican label and, by contrast, there are unfortunately a great many alleged reformers still wearing the Democratic label who are for complete federal control, rather than the right of states.

Be that as it may, it is good to know that the Supreme Court still recognizes the important function of states rights in our American government. In a decision handed down a few days ago the Court held unanimously that home building and loan organizations, operating under a state charter, may not convert themselves into federal corporations on vote of 51 per cent of the stockholders, over protest of the state.

The case came up to the Supreme Court from Wisconsin, where three building and state loan corporations wanted to become federal corporations over the objection of the state. The Court held that this could not be done.

While the Home Owners Loan Corporation of Washington has come out with a statement that the decision will not seriously affect its policies because 37 states have already passed laws enabling state home and savings corporations to convert to federal corporations, and that of 1,005 Federal organizations only about three would be affected, the decision is important because it seems to be a blow to the New Deal theory of converting state functions into federal operations. The decision seems to bear the possibility of some wide applications, in spite of the fact that it is narrow in its effects. It is evident that the states still have some rights and that the Supreme Court recognizes the fact.

The decision was written by Justice Cardozo, who mentioned the necessity of preventing federal encroachments on the powers of the states.

It is now known to be illegal for the federal government to absorb a local institution set up for saving the people's money unless a majority of the stockholders and the state, under which a charter was granted, agree to such absorption. It is good indeed, to have this fact brought home to us. It indicates that there may be still other states' rights to be preserved.

In 1917 we fought the war to end wars and now we see Japan in China. Italy in Ethiopia and the rest of the boys all ready to go. In 1917 we fought to make the world safe for democracy and now we have Stalin and Mussolini and Hitler, to say nothing of a half dozen successful imitators.

It is said that the Department of Agriculture has developed some odorless cabbages. Wouldn't it be a good thing if we could also perfect an odorless congressional investigation.

That fellow you see riding in a sleigh on Christmas morning may not be Santa Claus after all. It may only be the Canadian milk and butter man saying "cheerio" to the American dairy farmers.

Of course, if John Bull gets into a war with Italy we will expect King George to issue a famous call to arms, something like this: "England expects every American to do his duty."

Lesson for December 29

REVIEW: SIGNIFICANCE OF THE EXILE AND THE RESTORATION

GOLDEN TEXT—The mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him, and his righteousness unto children's children. Psalm 103:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How God Restored His People.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How God Restored His People.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Learning From Great Men.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Providence in History.

The method of review must be determined by the teacher. The grade of the class, the aptitude of the scholars, and the genius of the teacher are features to be considered. For senior and adult classes, the following suggestions are made.

I. Study the Lessons of the Quarter as Illustrating the Philosophy of History in God's Dealings With His People in Their Captivity and Restoration.

Assignment of topics should be made at least one week in advance. Only adult classes could be expected to use this method. The following subjects might be assigned:

Why God permitted Israel to go into exile.

What cure the exile effected for Israel.

What changed views of life resulted from the exile.

The bearing of the exile upon prophecy.

The relationship of divine chastening to divine love.

II. Character Study.

Assign the outstanding heroes of the quarter's lessons to members of the class to have them report. This assignment should be made at least one week in advance. Some of the outstanding characters for consideration are Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Daniel, Nehemiah, Ezra, Zerubbabel, and Malachi.

III. Summary of Contents.

This is a method readily usable at all times, and it can be adapted to most of the grades. The following suggestions are made for the carrying out of this method:

Lesson 1. The prophecy of Isaiah is the grand center of the Old Testament. It pictures the Servant of Jehovah, with great wisdom, gloriously executing the divine purpose of redemption, at the cost of great suffering.

Lesson 2. Before he was born, Jeremiah was ordained by God as a prophet to the nations. He so really took to heart the doom which awaited his people that he wept sorely.

Lesson 3. Jeremiah stood in the gate of the temple in order that the multitudes might hear him. He told the people that God required them to amend their ways, solemnly warning them of impending judgments.

Lesson 4. While Belshazzar and his lords were engaged in drunken revelry, the mysterious hand recorded the divine judgment. There is a coming day of judgment.

Lesson 5. Because of Judah's apostasy, God permitted the Babylonians to destroy Jerusalem and take the Jews into captivity.

Lesson 6. Ezekiel sets forth personal responsibility. On his part, it was to hear God's word and to sound forth the warning. The people's responsibility was to hear and obey.

Lesson 7. Though Israel went into captivity as a chastisement, in due time the Lord restored them. In due time God will make good his covenant agreement with the Jews.

Lesson 8. God used these prophets to stir up the people to build God's house.

Lesson 9. Ezra was commissioned to lead the people to forsake their sins and return to God.

Lesson 10. On hearing of the distress of his brethren in Jerusalem, Nehemiah took the matter to the Lord in prayer. The Lord gave him favor with the king, permitting him to go back to build tne walls of Jerusalem, bearing credentials of authority from the king.

Lesson 11. The method used in bringing the people back to God was the reading of the Word of God to them. Because the Word was made plain to the people, they repented of their sins.

Lesson 12. Malachi, as an aid to Nehemiah in effecting reforms, pointed out the sins of the people. He set forth a day of judgment when righteous retribution would be meted out to the wicked, and rewards given to the faithful.

We have now concluded our months of study in the Old Testament and will with the new year enter upon a study of the Gospel of Luke.

At 8 o'clock last Wednesday evening, December 18th, there was a very pretty wedding of great interest to the people of Thorsby. This was the marriage of Juanita Each and Grady Tapscott. The Misses Ruth Primm and Ruth Higgins were bridesmaids and Richard Petersen and Wendell Hayes, groomsmen. Mrs. Rascoe Maddox and Mrs. V. H. Stulive sang, "I Love You Truly." Miss Kathleen Foss sang. Rid Yourself of Kidney Poisons

DO you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination, backache, headache, dizziness, loss of energy, leg pains, swellings and puffiness under the eyes? Are you tired, nervous—feel all unstrung and don't know what is wrong?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly for functional kidney disorder permits excess waste to stay in the blood, and to poison and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. You can get the genuine, time-tested Doan's at any drug store.

Among the many imortant matters taken up at the Montgomery meeting of the Executive Board of the Alabama Baptist State Convention in Montgomery this week was a Resolution passed urging the pastors and superintendents of Alabama to raise the sum of $25,000.00 as a Christmas contribution to the Orphan's Home. It is supported exclusively by free will contributions and officials are expecting their hopes of $25,000 to be realized this Christmas.

WINNERS IN WINDOW CONTEST TO BE ANNOUNCED NEXT WEEK

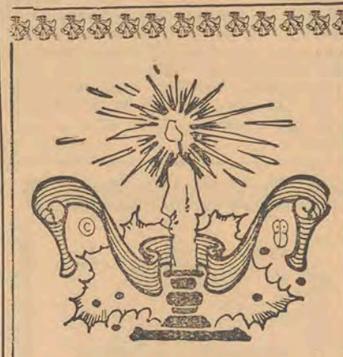
On account of being severely pressed for time, we have been unable to get to the letters sent in about the window display contest contained in last week's Union-Banner. We will get the judges together and declare the winners between now and time for next week's paper.

In the meantime, however, the Union-Banner wishes to thank the merchants of Clanton who participated in the affair. There has been the most beautiful display in the windows of the stores in Clanton that has ever been exhibited in the city. And during the three days of the contest, there was considerable window shopping, up one street and down the other and all around the city. And the shoppers certainly got an eyeful at every stop. And, too, we are grateful to those who took the time from the busy Christmas season to write about what they saw and found in the windows. Watch for the announcement of the winners in next week's paper.



We GREET you this Christmas Day in the same spirit as of other years. We have enjoyed your friendship and sincerely hope you can say the same for us. It is with these in view that we extend Greetings for Christmas and Wishes for a Happy 1936.

Announcement is made of a normal music school at Montgomery, beginning January 6th and closing February 15. The faculty in the school will consist of W. Lee Higgins, W. M. Devaughn and Eugene H. Whitt.

Anyone interested in this school should get in touch with one of these gentlemen as early as possible.

The faculty must be among the best. Higgins and Whitt are names familiar to the sacred music world; and W. M. Devaughn is a teacher of broad experience and splendid reputation. These three will more than likely make things move when they get strung out in this Montgomery school.

ABOUT "UNCLE JOHN" HAYS OF JEMISON

One of the "grand old men" of Chilton County is J. W. Hayes, of Jemison. However, "Uncle John" might not like that "grand old man" business, for he contends that he is not old, but is 75 years "young".

Mr. Hays is 75 years old, and has been married 57 years. His wife was Miss Celia Collins, a daughter of J. W. Collins, who lived at Lomax.

This couple have 14 children—eight boys and six girls; 12 of these children are living, the two who are dead being Mrs. Cora Mims, wife of Parnell Mims, and Mrs. Melvina Benson, wife of Monroe Benson.

There are 59 grandchildren, and 19 great grandchildren.

Last spring, on Mr. Hays' 75th birthday, a general celebration was held, with most of all these children, grandchildren and great grandchildren present. Pictures were made of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, of all members of their immediate family present, and another of all members of the whole family present. Mr. Hays prizes these pictures very highly.

OBITUARIES — IN MEMORY

It becomes necessary for us again to call attention to the fact that we make a charge of one cent per word for all obituaries over 150 words published in The Union-Banner. So, if you want an obituary, or in memory article, published about a departed friend or relative, it must be confined to not over 150 words, or else money order for the remainder should be included if sent by mail, as outlined above.

If obituaries are sent in containing over 150 words and no money accompanies same, it will be either omitted entirely or, if possible, condensed to come within the requirement, and published.

You're The Loser

WHEN you allow Headache, Neuralgia, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic or Periodic Pains to keep you from work or pleasure.

You can't go places and do things when you are suffering—and the work or good times won't wait for you.

Why allow Pain to rob you of Health, Friends, Happiness, Money?

DR. MILES ANTI-PAIN PILLS have been used for the relief of pain for more than forty years. They taste good, act quickly, do not upset the stomach, nor cause constipation, leave no dull, depressed feeling.

Thousands have used them for twenty, thirty, forty years, and still find that nothing else relieves pain so promptly and effectively.

Why don't you try them? Once you know how pleasant they are to take, how quickly and effectively they relieve, you won't want to go back to disagreeable, slow acting medicines.

You too may find quick relief. Why wait forty minutes for relief when Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills will relieve you in ten to twenty minutes?

As a household remedy I have never found anything that equalled Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. Mrs. Silas D. Keller, Penfield, Pa.

I never found anything that was so good to stop pain as Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. I have told many about them and I find they are all using them. Mrs. Martha Lacy, Davenport, Iowa

I have been using Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for years. I keep them on hand all the time. I can certainly recommend them for pain. Miss Audra Seybold, 2417 W. 2nd St., Dayton, Ohio

Your Anti-Pain Pills have been a wonderful help to me. I have used them for three years and always keep them on hand. Mrs. E. Pierce, Lapwai, Idaho

I have used quite a lot of Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. They are fine pills to stop pain. Mrs. J. L. Kester, Shickshinny, Pa.
